PRESIDENT BOWS TO DEMANDS FOR FAIR LABOR LAW

Retreat Is Forced by Protests.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The necessity of making changes in the national labor relations act was admitted today by President Roosevelt.

William Green.

This news came from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, who had a long conversation with the President this morning at Roosevelt's summer home.

The President never before has conceded that the labor act has worked unsatisfactorily.

Green Presents Complaints.

Green said he came to see the President to present the complaints of the A. F. of L. against the labor board's administration of the act. The labor board is headed by J. Warren Madden. It has been widely criticized as being under the domination of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

"I told the President of specific cases which I felt had been handled by the board in a manner clearly in conflict with the letter and spirit of the law," said Green.

"We thoroughly discussed the advisability of changing the law, and while no definite changes were decided upon we were in accord on the necessity of making some changes in the act."

Seeks to Limit Power.

Green said the changes either would diminish the power of the board or define its authority in a clearer manner. At present there is too much discretionary power vested in the board, he declared.

Green said he also discussed with the President the question of reappointing Donald Wakefield Smith, a member of the board whose term expires Aug. 27. He asked Mr. Roosevelt to replace Smith with a more judicial-minded member, he said.

Green attacked Smith as a C. I. O. partisan early this month at a Massachusetts Federation of Labor meeting. If Smith is reappointed, Green probably will fight the nomination to the senate floor.

Roosevelt in Quandary.

President Roosevelt is reported to be in a quandary concerning the reappointment. If he should appoint some one else Lewis and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will be angered.

Green said one of the specific cases he mentioned to the President concerned the Ambridge Products company of Ambridge, Pa.

"On complaint of the C. I. O." he said, "the board intervened and set aside a contract between the A. F. of L. electrical workers and the company. The contract was perfectly satisfactory to both sides. The case was taken into court and the contract held to be valid.

"The board disregarded the court decision and ordered an election. This was won by the A. F. of L. and the contract finally was allowed to stand. The point is that we had to go through all this unnecessary work because of the board's attitude."

Labor Study Discussed.

Green and the President also talked about the study made by a commission sent to Great Britain and Sweden to survey labor conditions. The commission's report is being drafted.

The President told Green that he talked yesterday to Miss Marion Dickerman, a member of the commission. She expressed amazement at the friendly relations between employer and worker in the two countries, contrasting so vividly with the state of warfare between business and labor in this country under the Roosevelt administration.

Green left here for Atlantic City, where the A. F. of L. executive council will begin a ten day meeting Monday. Revision of the Wagner act will be recommended at this meeting.

NIGHT IS FILLED WITH THRILLS AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

> "And the night shall be filled with music,
> And the cares, that infest the day,
> Shall fold their tents, like the Arabs,
> And as silently steal away."
> —Longfellow.

One of the greatest throngs in the history of the Chicagoland Music Festival jammed Soldiers' field from end to end last night for the ninth and probably the most remarkable of these magnificent spectacles.

The night was filled with music for 85,000 breathless spectators. It was filled with color—and music and thrills. The greatest thrill came when these thousands of hero worshipers stood cheering wildly in greeting to a smiling young Irishman named Douglas Corrigan, the famous wrong way aviator who a few weeks ago won the acclaim of the world.

Another Great Thrill.

But another thrill, almost as great, came before the start of the great show, sponsored annually by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. It was when the sun broke through scowling clouds and brought the announcement that the festival, which had almost been called off, would be held as scheduled.

It was the traditional good weather luck of the festival. A sudden squall that started at about 4:30 p. m. had drenched the city nearly two hours. Soldiers' field was a scene of sodden gloom. Then the sun appeared and with it hundreds of workmen who began drying seats and benches and draining the arena.

As in 1935, when much the same thing happened, the show started almost on time.

Stirring, Colorful Events.

Swiftly then for more than three hours stirring and colorful events followed one another. The throng roared. It wept. It laughed.

One of the great moments of the night was the appearance of Alec Templeton, the famous blind pianist of Great Britain, who stirred the multitude to one of its longest ovations. His appealing style, his inimitable musical humor and his genius placed him high among the great stars who have appeared at the festival.

There was dramatic pageantry last night, great music—and new musical stars were made. And finally, in a breath taking burst of fireworks, the show was over.

Field Damp as Show Starts.

When the fanfare was sounded at 7:50 p. m. by the festival orchestra the vanguard of the great show started down a field that was still damp. From the north end of the field came the skirling of bagpipes and heavy booming of drums. Led by the Detroit Chrysler bagpipers and the Elgin Hawaiian band, eight Chicagoland drum and bugle corps circled the field. Their strident music awakened the echoes and put the throng in a festive mood.

Then came the first massed spectacle of the night. From seven entrances marched 31 bands, 29 of which competed in the festival contests. As they moved onto the field the ones of their number which had won prizes in the contests were announced.

Home Town Folks Applaud.

There was plenty of applause from the throng, indicating that this year—as always—the home town people had come to Chicago to see them in their triumphs. Quickly the musicians gathered on the vast green center field and swung into the "Chicagoland Festival" march.

They filled the northern quarter of the arena. Above their heads reared the golden bells of tubas. From this massed band of 1,500 pieces there arose a deep toned melody that lost none of its thrilling quality because of great size. The mammoth stone horseshoe seemed to vibrate.

And stretching completely around the field were the scores of baton twirlers — winners and losers — who had entered the contests. As the silver wands were hurled high into

Mr. and Mrs. Max Korshak of 506 Roscoe street started yesterday to rear a whole new family. They have two married daughters, two married sons, and six grandchildren. But yesterday two boys and two girls came from Germany to the Korshak home in a free land.

The entire Korshak family was at the La Salle street station yesterday to greet the newcomers. With the kinfolk by marriage there was twenty-two in the party. But not until they saw a twenty-third member of the group did the four pinched faces from Germany light.

A fellow townsman it was who rushed up, crying "wie geht's?" She was Ruth Neumann, a pretty brunette who came to Chicago a year ago to live with her uncle, Joseph Berkman, 6429 South Claremont street.

She Finds Four Friends.

The two boys, Lothar Neuberger, 14 years old, and his brother, Joachim, 15, pumped her hand solemnly. The girls, Erica, a pretty child of 10 with big eyes, and Berti, 12, clung to her as they met their new family.

As Mr. Korshak, who is an attorney and a master in chancery for the Circuit court explained last night, it was Miss Neumann who started it. When she left Sennfeld, a town near Stuttgart, Germany, she gave a solemn promise to the Neuberger girls to help them reach America. Her aunt told Mrs. Korshak, with whom she is associated in charitable work, of the family's plight. The children, she said, were the last youngsters of their race left in the town.

Hope to See Parents Again.

When the Korshaks went to Europe a few months ago they went to Sennfeld to see the girls. While they were visiting in their home, the boys walked in. The parents were overjoyed when they suggested bringing the boys to Chicago, too. An aunt, Frau Selma Talheimer, suggested that she come to help manage them. So she was included.

The girls and Lothar were speechless last night. They left it to Joachim to do the talking.

"There is no home anywhere for the Jewish in Germany," he said slowly in careful English. "We can never go back. We hope to see our parents again, but only if they can come here."

BOY, 17, KEEPS TOWN ON EDGE BY ANTICS IN BROTHER'S PLANE

Troy, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Eugene Netzley drew up for the department of commerce today a report explaining how his brother, Truman, 17 years old, kept the 300 citizens of nearby Laura on edge for an hour and a half yesterday with an all-of-a-sudden plane flight.

Truman, who never had a flight lesson, got Eugene's second hand monoplane out of the Netzley barn and warmed it up. He told playmates he just "wanted to taxi around the pasture."

The next thing they knew Truman was in the air wondering how to get down. He dropped a note which read:

"Don't worry, mom; I'll land it."

Finally he made a perfect landing in another pasture. His family was too happy to have him back alive to think about discipline—immediately.

47 Pounds of Coppers Used to Pay Hospital Bill

Niles, Mich., Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—Kenneth Griffee and his wife saved their pennies to pay for the birth of their child which arrived four days ago. So Griffee, who carried ice for a living, carried the 6,910 coppers to Pawating hospital to pay the bill. They weighed forty-seven pounds, and it took the doctor and hospital manager more than an hour to count out their share.

Bear Steps In and Upsets the Sale of a Motorcycle

Alpena, Mich., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Ray Wilde, a motorcycle salesman, took Jerry Stonge, 20 years old, out for a demonstration of a motorcycle. As they sped along a 250 pound bear jumped in front of them. The motorcycle hit the bear and tossed him and the two riders into the air. The bear was stunned. "I don't care about a motorcycle any more," Stonge said.

Lorys, Lorikeets and Lith Jays (Birds to You) at Zoo

Birds of several species hitherto unknown in the central west have been placed on display at the Chicago zoölogical park in Brookfield. They include Ceram lorys from the islands north of New Guinea, dusky lorys from the Salwatty islands, and scaly breasted lorikeets and blue tail lorys from Australian regions. The zoo also has a pair of rare lith jays.

Pope and Duce End War Over Catholic Action

ROME, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini and Pope Pius XI. have again smoothed over differences between the Catholic church and the Fascist party.

A new accord was reached Thursday and announced today by the Fascist party. It called a halt to the renewed controversy between the church and the party over activities of Catholic Action, a lay society.

Both clerical and lay sides privately expressed hopes that this limited agreement also would have a pacifying effect on another point of difference—the new Fascist race policy.

The agreement was reached by Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist party, and Marchese Lamberto Vignoli, head of the Catholic Action in Italy, following negotiations between Mussolini and the pontiff.

Reaffirms Previous Accord.

The accord reaffirms the working agreement reached after a similar but more extensive conflict in 1931. This written understanding defined the scope of Catholic Action, which the present pope created and which he has called "the apple of my eye."

Principal points were that no one averse to the Fascist régime could be a Catholic Action leader, that the organization would abstain from all political activity, and that the banner of the association would be the Italian national flag.

The new understanding was designed to halt charges made over the last six months in Fascist publications and denials from the Catholic side that Catholic Action members were not confining themselves strictly to religious matters.

Oust Jews from Journalism.

Informed Fascist quarters said today a campaign had been begun to oust Jews and Jewish interests from Italian journalism. Two big newspapers possessing Jewish capital were said to have changed hands within the past few days.

Fascists said a complete "purge" of newspapers probably would follow as part of the party's new race policy, one slogan of which is "No Jews as public servants and one Jew per thousand Italians in national life."

The newspapers reported to have changed hands were Il Giornale D'Italia, of which Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist spokesman, is editor, and Il Piccolo, published in Trieste.

Father and Son Perish; Rescue Craft Explodes

A sudden windsquall swept down Lake Michigan yesterday afternoon, capsized numerous small boats and caused the death by drowning of five persons. It was estimated that at least forty others were rescued from the waves between Waukegan and Chicago. Coast guards in the city and along the north shore towed in seventeen boats.

Two of the dead were residents of Highland Park. They were George W. Gaidzik, 200 Belle avenue, and his son, Michael, 15 years old. Gaidzik, who was about 54, was a noted swimmer in his youth. Friends said he was a member of an Olympic diving team about 1912. He was formerly in the bond business in Chicago.

Find Boy Tangled in Rigging.

The father and son sailed out of the Highland Park harbor in an 18 foot sloop in the early afternoon. Nothing more was seen of the boat until nearly sundown, when it was found overturned four miles from shore. The body of the boy, a sophomore in the Highland Park High school, was tangled in the rigging. Unavailing efforts were made to revive him. The elder Gaidzik's body was not recovered.

Others drowned were Paul Eckardt, 46 years old, 2444 North Austin avenue; Michael Ringhofer, 40, of 1358½ Estes avenue, and Max Kaufman, 45, of 1362 Estes avenue. Eckardt was unemployed, Ringhofer was an upholsterer, and Kaufman was a decorator.

Survivor Saves His Fish.

All were fishing in a boat a mile off Touhy avenue. With them was Henry Koller, 4543 Malden avenue. The craft, a sixteen foot rowboat with an outboard motor, was swamped by the storm. It turned over and all occupants were hurled into the lake. Koller clung to a rope at the bow until help arrived. The others perished.

The survivor, who was still carrying a string of fish when he reached shore, told of his harrowing experience.

"Our motor stopped about the time the wind came up," he said. "Eckardt was rowing and I was bailing. A big wave turned us over. It was lucky I caught the rope. I couldn't swim. The others were swept away from the stern by a swell. If they had hung on a few minutes longer they would have been saved."

Wind Exceeds 30 Miles an Hour.

It was estimated that the wind reached a velocity of more than thirty miles an hour. The three bodies were being sought last night.

Two life guards, Sam Leone and Andrew Helland, were among those who saw the plight of the four men and went out to help. Just be-

EX-COMMUNIST TELLS PLOT TO SEIZE U. S. RULE

Democrats Called First Target.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Dr. J. B. Matthews, a writer and former college professor, today described a communist plot to seize control of the Democratic party and ultimately the government of the United States. Dr. Matthews told his story before the house committee on un-American activities.

J. B. Matthews.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

He said that his revelation of the inner workings of the communist party had caused a threat of bodily harm against him. He said he had been warned by telephone to stop talking before the committee. When he left the witness stand late today a guard was assigned to protect him. He will return to the stand Monday.

Dr. Matthews explained to the committee that he had been an organizer of youth movements for the communist party until he became disillusioned and quit. He said he had organized more communist units in the United States than any other man except Prof. Robert M. Lovett of the University of Chicago.

Describes Trips to Moscow.

Dr. Matthews told of five trips he had made to Moscow from 1928 until he quit the organization two years ago. He said he was known as a "fellow traveler," a name given to communist adherents who, for strategic reasons, do not carry party cards.

He also told the committee that prominent Americans are duped into supporting communist youth movements. He named Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, as a dupe of the Reds for her address this week before the World Youth congress at Vassar college. He said thirty-five of the fifty American delegates at the congress were sent by communist organizations.

Dr. Matthews called the American Youth congress the best example of the communist party's methods. Because such organizations announce that peace is their principal aim, he said, they find no difficulty in attracting many innocent sponsors and then exploiting their names. Religious organizations of youths also are duped into supporting the movement, he said.

The peace sought by the communists, according to Matthews, is merely a breathing spell to prepare for a revolution.

Tells of Organizations.

Among organizations which Matthews said he helped to found were the League for Peace and Democracy, the Student Congress Against War at the University of Chicago, the National Student league, the International Labor defense, the Friends of the Soviet union, the American Friends of the Chinese People, and the League of Women Shoppers.

As examples of the exploitation of persons prominent in public life, Matthews named a few members of the national advisory committee of the youth congress. Among them were Senator Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, a New York political figure and former president of the Amateur Athletic union; Bishop Ralph S. Cushman of the Methodist Episcopal church; Harold Hoffman, former governor of New Jersey; Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar, and William Allen White, Emporia, Kas., editor.

With these names as window dressing, Matthews said, the communist directors of various units proceed to carry out orders from Moscow. Many of the groups are financed from the same source, he said.

Quizzed on Red Job.

Matthews was questioned by members of the committee, who wanted to know why he started working for the communist party and why he quit. He said he hated war and became associated with radicals after the world war in search of ways to prevent future conflicts. He eventually accepted employment from Moscow as an organizer.

He said he had taught at Peabody college, Princeton university, the Y. M. C. A. Graduate school in Nashville, Tenn., and was on the faculty of Howard university in Washington.

Matthews quit the communists, he said, when he became convinced that soviet claims of social and economic advances in Russia were false and when he realized that communists were seeking to control the United States.

Payoff Man Named.

Joseph Brodsky of New York was named by Matthews as the payoff man for the Russian plotters. In addition to money received from Russia, Matthews said, the organizations financed themselves by taking up collections, by the profit on dinners attended by pink intellectuals, and by appeals to Earl Browder, leader of the communist party in the United States.

Matthews admitted having taken part in the communist uprising in the Imperial valley of California several years ago. He named A. L. Wirin of Los Angeles, counsel for the American Civil Liberties union and the International Labor Defense league, as the man with whom he arranged for the demonstration. Wirin formerly was an employé of the National Labor Relations board in Washington.

Further testimony of communist domination of the WPA federal theater projects was given to the committee by Sally Saunders of New York, an actress. She testified that Harold Hecht of New York, producer of the play in which she was working, rebuked her because she protested advances made to her by a colored dancer.

Miss Saunders said there was much intermingling of white and colored players in the cast of a show now in rehersal. She said this was encouraged by the communists, who prated constantly about race equality.

Vassar Head Denies Charge.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Dr. Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar college, today defended the World Youth congress and denied that he was being exploited by communists.

Commenting on testimony by Dr. J .B. Matthews before the house committee on un-American activities that Dr. MacCracken, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and other prominent Americans were being exploited by the communist party of America, the Vassar president said:

"I think I have sufficient intelligence to know when I am being exploited. I am a Mayflower descendant. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is a Roosevelt and I am an American of the Americans."

The congress, in session at Vassar college, was attended today by Mrs. Roosevelt, who early this week addressed the delegates. Reached at Hyde Park, N. Y., Mrs. Roosevelt declined to comment on Dr. Matthews' statements.

O'Connell Backs Oil Seizure.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Representative Jerry O'Connell [D., Mont.] told the California Committee for Industrial Organization convention today that he hoped the day would come "when we will expropriate the oil industry in this country, also."

He made the statement in a speech after Guillermo Ybarra of the Confederation of Mexican Workers had declared his government's expropriation of foreign oil holdings expressed a will to liberate the working classes of Mexico.

The Montanan referred to the Dies investigating committee in Washington as the "Dies-Lies committee," and praised Harry Bridges, western regional director of the C. I. O. The Dies committee has heard testimony intended to show that Bridges was an active communist, which Bridges denied.

John Brophy, national director of the C. I. O. declared that if the organization is communistic, "then every progressive Democratic organization that has ever existed in this country is communistic."

fore they reached the capsized craft the gasoline tank of their motor launch exploded and the boat caught fire. Both men leaped into the water and swam until other guards picked them up.

Three persons were rescued from the lake two miles off Sherwin avenue after their sailboat overturned. They are Albert De Vry, 244 East Pearson street, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moorehouse, 1200 Sherwin avenue. They were towed ashore by a power boat captained by Russell Leach of Evanston.

Navy Officers' Boat Upset.

Off the Great Lakes naval training station two lieutenants, W. H. Jonnson and Wesley Randig, and their wives were thrown into the lake when a sailboat overturned. They clung to the craft until help arrived.

Several sailboats engaged in the Columbia Yacht club's Chicago-Waukegan race were disabled and had to be towed in by coast guard vessels near the training station. Coast guards at Wilmette reported that they had brought in half a dozen boats whose occupants were in danger.

Among those saved by Wilmette coast guards were W. B. Cudahy, said to be of the packing family, aboard the Leprechaun; Carl W. Johnson, 59 Lakewood drive, Glencoe, in the Ariel, Arthur B. Bradbury, 69 Lakewood drive, Glencoe, on the Ouiji; William W. Woods, 59 West Van Buren street, aboard the Nancy Lee, and John and William Rich, 461 Maple avenue, Winnetka, aboard the Galatea.

The storm struck the north shore suburbs with fury and caused considerable damage. Trees and wires were cast down and in some instances electric service was disrupted. Waukegan, Highland Park, and North Chicago all sent out crews to repair the damage and clear limbs from the streets.

TEXTILE UNION AND C. I. O. SPLIT ON COMMUNISM

Chief Charges Dictatorship by Lewis Ally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The long smoldering factional fight over dictatorship and communism in the ranks of the Textile Workers' Organizing committee has split the ranks of the C. I. O. affiliate, it was learned today.

Sidney Hillman [top] and Francis Gorman.

Francis Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers, who was high in the T. W. O. C. directorate, has broken with Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. Hillman dreamed of uniting all textile workers under the C. I. O. The break occurred ten days ago.

Gorman will announce the break in a speech tomorrow at Providence, R. I. He will appeal to his followers to desert the C. I. O. He will attack the Hillman wing of the forces of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. czar, for dictatorship and communism. Thousands of Gorman's followers already have deserted the C. I. O.

Gorman has given no indication where he will take the members of his union. The American Federation of Labor during the week indirectly offered them a haven. It created the national council of textile workers, with 25,000 members.

The A. F. of L. group was created to attract workers dissatisfied with the policies of the C. I. O. The response has been particularly heavy in the south. There the C. I. O. is virtually without standing because of its communist affiliations.

Four Complaints Cited.

Gorman has four grounds of complaint against the T. W. O. C., which he is expected to amplify in his speech tomorrow. These are:

1. The T. W. O. C. is studded with communist organizers.

2. Hillman attempted to assume dictatorial powers over the affiliated unions by taking away their charters, granted by old parent groups such as Gorman's United Textile Workers, and replacing them with T. W. O. C. charters which took away much of the power vested in locals.

3. Hillman concentrated on the wool and worsted branch of the textile industry in an attempt to control the industry from yarn to finished products.

4. Hillman neglected the organization of cotton textile workers.

Hillman forces impliedly admitted the presence of communists in their ranks. They said the T. W. O. C. did not make a practice of inquiring into the party affiliations of organizers unless political activity interfered with the organizers' usefulness.

It was acknowledged that organization activities had been concentrated in the wool and worsted industry because that industry is concentrated in three towns. Once the industry was completely organized, a Hollman spokesman said, the T. W. O. C. would have gone into the cotton textile field with the power of the wool and worsted industry at its back.

The Hillman spokesman said charters were exchanged with the full approval of Gorman. Gorman replied that it was done behind his back while he was in Geneva attending the international textile conference.

Lewis Silent on Break.

The spirit in the T. W. O. C. was regarded here as further evidence of the crumbling of the Lewis organization under the triple assault of its dictatorship, communistic leanings, and terrorist tactics. Lewis, who has been silent since his crushing defeat in the little steel strike over a year ago, had no comment on the break.

Soon after its organization David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, one of the C. I. O.'s most powerful unions, clashed with Lewis. Although he nominally is in the C. I. O. ranks, he had ignored Lewis and contributed nothing to the C. I. O. cause.

Where Dubinsky will bring his union is not clear. The A. F. of L. would welcome his return, but while he has been more friendly with William Green, A. F. of L. chief, than with Lewis, he has not committed himself.

WORKERS' ALLIANCE SEEKS $50,000 FUND TO ELECT WPA FRIENDS

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Workers' Alliance, an organization of WPA workers and relief recipients, tonight announced a campaign to raise $50,000 to elect legislators pledged to expansion of the WPA, higher WPA wages, and bigger relief allowances.

"We intend to go straight to the WPA workers themselves for the money," the alliance executive board said. Witnesses before a congressional committee now sitting in Washington have charged that the alliance is dominated by communists.

BEER BOTTLE USED IN HOLDUP.

SALINAS, Cal.—[U. P.]—Wallace Barksvale was disgusted. He was held up, with, apparently, the cold steel of a revolver being pressed into the back of his neck, and robbed of $8. Police arrested the holdup man, only to find that it was the neck of an empty beer bottle that had sent shivers racing down his spine.

Jury Lays Ex-Convict's Death Leap to Insanity

A coroner's jury yesterday attributed the death of Leo C. Fay, an ex-convict, to suicide while temporarily insane. Fay, who was 35 years old, leaped from a window on the seventeenth floor of the Palmer house on Friday. Fay was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary in 1936 for larceny and was paroled in August, 1937. He lived at 1635 South Austin boulevard, Cicero.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

PROPOSE TRUCE IN 6 DAY NORTH SHORE STRIKE

Union Favors Bondholder Plan; Road Cold.

Today will be the sixth day of complete tieup of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, whose union employés struck against a 15 per cent pay cut. Last night it appeared that there would be no settlement for several more days.

A proposal for a truce, with a compromise of the reduction, was made yesterday in a conference held in the office of Labor Conciliator Harry E. Scheck. It was greeted favorably by representatives of the striking unions, but was received coldly by the company.

The plan was offered by Attorneys Robert F. Carney and H. William Ihrig, representing the road's bondholders. They recommended that the road pay the men 85 per cent of the old scale in cash and the other 15 per cent in receivers' certificates, redeemable when the company gets sufficient funds.

Sprague Out of City.

This system, it was suggested, should be continued for sixty to ninety days, with the strikers and Receiver A. A. Sprague meanwhile arbitrating the issues. O. David Zimring, representing the largest union, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employés, said he would recommend the plan to the men.

Col. Sprague was out of the city, but his attorney, Ralph Bradley, said the matter would first have to be voted on by the bondholders and then presented in the federal court, which would have to issue an order to put the plan into effect. Ihrig indicated that he would go before Judge Philip L. Sullivan tomorrow and ask such an order.

Col. Sprague has declined to arbitrate until the national labor relations board has designated a bargaining agent for the employés. The Amalgamated association has some 900 members in the road's 1,300 employés, but four craft unions also have laid claim to bargaining rights. The receiver has maintained that the road can be kept in operation only by making the cut — that receipts are not sufficient to pay the old scale.

NLRB Meeting Tomorrow.

The labor board will hold a hearing tomorrow and rule on the bargaining agency. Scheck said yesterday that his office in Washington had received thousands of letters demanding resumption of North Shore service. "The proper place to send them," he said, "is to Col. Sprague."

Residents of north shore suburbs have been greatly inconvenienced by the strike. F. Raymond Bairstow, president of the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce, said that some business firms would have to shut down unless the North Shore's freight service is resumed soon. He estimated that 400 persons would be thrown out of work in the two towns if the strike and tieup continue. He has appealed to federal and state authorities for more effective conciliation.

Two more conciliators, John A. Moffitt and the Rev. Father Francis J. Haas, are expected to arrive from Washington and take part in negotiations for a settlement tomorrow. So far the state department of labor has not taken part in the controversy.

SLIPS ON ROOF; FALLS; DIES.

Harry Jones, 60 years old, 3713 North Ridgeway avenue, was killed late yesterday when he slipped on the wet roof of a porch on the front of his home and plunged to the sidewalk.

La Guardia Luncheon Guest.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City had lunch with the President. He promised to aid Mr. Roosevelt in his attempted purge of Representative John J. O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee. O'Connor has accused the President of aspiring to a dictatorship.

"I will speak against O'Connor in the campaign," La Guardia told reporters. "I served with him for ten year in the house—hence my opposition. The President told several excellent political jokes, and the phrase 'political joke' covers O'Connor."

La Guardia asserted there was no question of O'Connor's defeat.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace was an overnight guest at the Roosevelt mansion. Details of his discussion with the President, presumably in relation to disposal of the wheat surplus, were withheld.

REBELS IN AUTO UNION ASK LEWIS TO TAKE CHARGE

Urge Convention to Pick New Officers.

Toledo, O., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The "insurgent bloc" of the United Automobile Workers of America tonight unanimously approved a resolution urging John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., to appoint a director for the international with full power to administer all its affairs until adjournment of the next regular convention of the union. The resolution left the way open for Lewis to appoint himself director if he chose.

In another resolution the meeting recommended that the director issue within fifteen days a call for a special convention to be held here sixty days after the call for the purpose of filling all offices except that of president of the union and amending the constitution.

Called by Ousted Officials.

The conference here was called by five international officers expelled by Homer Martin, union president. Martin has said he was determined to purge the auto workers' union of communists. In an address Wyndham Mortimer, expelled vice president, who conferred in Washington early this week with Lewis, declared that Lewis would support the insurgents.

"You can rest assured Lewis is going to speak when he speaks, and I think this thing is going to be just about over," Mortimer said.

"We have taken no steps in this controversy without first consulting the national C. I. O., and you can rest assured that at the proper time the C. I. O. will give us the guiding hand we need."

The meeting got under way this morning. Action on the resolutions, however, was delayed until the conference could be augmented by delegates who rushed here after the close of a meeting of auto union officials called by Martin in Detroit. Martin denied that he had called the meeting to keep certain radical members from the Toledo conference.

The conference, in other resolutions, condemned the Martin Detroit meeting as hypocritical and recommended the ousting of Martin as Michigan head of Labor's Non-Partison league.

Calls Martin Foe of C. I. O.

Resolutions also accused Martin of "attacking and sabotaging" the C. I. O., and its leaders, recommended that all locals send their funds directly to the C. I. O., and urged locals to organize committees to protect themselves against "Martin dictatorship."

The night session opened with 702 delegates representing seventy locals present.

George Addes of Toledo, the ousted secretary-treasurer, presided at the meeting here. He was supported by Richard T. Frankensteen, Mortimer, and Ed Hall, the ousted vice presidents.

CHICAGO ROARS ITS WELCOME TO HERO CORRIGAN

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Chicago yesterday took to its heart a slender young flyer named Douglas Corrigan.

The city's expression of affection and admiration for the daring little man who flew "the wrong end of the compass needle" from New York to Dublin, Ireland, a few weeks ago, compared with any demonstration ever given a hero in Chicago.

It began the moment his silver monoplane, skimming at a height of 400 feet, suddenly appeared over Chicago airport at 10:50 in the morning. It rose to a climax when he was paraded with Mayor Kelly through the loop area.

Thousands Throng Route.

Police estimated that 500,000 persons lined the ten mile route followed from the flying field at 63d street and Cicero avenue to the La Salle street entrance of the city hall. The applause, cheers and general noises of greeting and approval were constant and deafening for nearly two hours. Ticker tape, confetti, and the contents of waste baskets fell on State and La Salle streets like snow.

Doug Corrigan, a man of the people, had a greeting the like of which seldom has been given in Chicago to a President of the United States or any other popular figure of modern times.

Through it all Corrigan grinned and waved acknowledgement. But to those who rode with him in Mayor Kelly's automobile he confessed he was just a little awed by it all.

Puzzled by the Reception.

"I like it," he said, pausing to wave again and again—he is a two handed waver, using either right or left with equal facility—"but I don't understand it. I've been getting the same thing everywhere. It's surely strange."

The young man, who appears a bit diffident and retiring at first, actually is poised and unabashed by anything that happens. He blithely perched on the folded top of the mayor's open automobile and responded to the crowd's cheers animatedly, waving, grinning, and nodding without apparent fatigue.

His poise was tested when he clambered from the car and stopped to confer with Mayor Kelly in front of the city hall. A pretty young woman squirmed past the police guards. Stepping up from behind she threw her arms around Corrigan and gave him a resounding kiss upon one cheek and ear.

It didn't phase him. He reached up, disengaged her arms, and stepped away from her without ever looking in her direction. His action was unhurried, impersonal, and it cooled the girl's ardor completely. She shrank back into the crowd and disappeared.

Thinks It a Mistake Now.

After Mayor Kelly escorted the guest of honor to his private office and there handed him a scroll of welcome, Corrigan obligingly posed for photographers. Afterwards he answered questions.

"Was it really a mistake, Doug?" demanded some one.

"It looks to me like it was now," he drawled, "especially since I can see all the trouble it got me into."

"What about all these reports of offers from the movies?" asked another.

"Well," he replied, "I've gotten a few but I've accepted none. Anything you see in the newspapers about that is untrue. It's just some outfit trying to grab a lot of free publicity."

Denies Air Line Ambitions.

"How about the report you are going to be a co-pilot for American Airlines?"

"That's not true either," he said earnestly. "I've not ever wanted to fly for the air lines. And I've never wanted to go into the movies. I've never tried either and don't think I'd like either one."

"But this celebration can't last forever," one reporter reminded him. "We're told you've had offers amounting to more than $100,000 from different sources. Why don't you take this money? It just doesn't make sense to most people."

He'll Decide Later.

"To tell the truth I haven't had time to consider many of these offers," he said. "I might take some. When I finally get back to California I'll decide. There's too much going on now."

"Have you been considering going back to work in the aircraft factories on the coast or barnstorming with your plane again?" he was asked.

"No, not once," he grinned. "I don't have to worry about places to eat either. I've been eating breakfast, luncheon, and dinner at banquets.

"I just decided not to look more than two days ahead. So you can see I have absolutely no future plans."

Crowd Gathers Early.

The crowd began gathering at the airport two hours before Corrigan was expected. By 9:30 the Cicero avenue and 63d street sides of the field were jammed with several thousand cars and an estimated 50,000 persons. They pressed against the heavy wire fence but were kept off the field proper by a special detail of 1,000 Irish cops, picked for the occasion.

Flying from Indianapolis, Corrigan arived at Chicago airport shortly before 10 a. m. and taxied his plane up to the American Airlines hangars on the southern boundary.

Corrigan cut his switches and then eased himself out from behind the huge fuel tanks that fill the forward part of his plane. He was grinning broadly, and wore the same trousers and stained brown lether jacket in which he flew the Atlantic. He had on a blue shirt with a bright Erin-green tie.

"Son, we're really glad to see you," said Mayor Kelly, shouldering his way forward. "I'm Mayor Kelly. You're the kind of folks we like to see."

"I'm mighty glad to be here, too," said Corrigan. "Two months ago I didn't expect ever to be in a situation like this. I'm in your hands and whatever you say goes."

The parade down town began a few minutes later.

Visits Hines Hospital.

After presentation of the city's scroll Corrigan and Mayor Kelly went to the Blackstone hotel to attend a luncheon given by the mayor's New Century Committee. From there Corrigan went for a tour of the city's parks and finally to Edward Hines hospital in Maywood where he was seen and cheered by invalid war veterans.

At dinner last evening at the Chicago Athletic association Corrigan expounded some more of his philosophy in a radio interview. He was asked:

"What's the most money you ever made during any one year in your life?"

"O, about a thousand dollars," he drawled.

"Do you have any ambition to make any more?"

"What's the use?" asked Corrigan. "The government'll take it all away anyhow, and, so far as I can see, it doesn't put the taxes it collects to any good purpose. I don't want any more money."

Later in the evening he attended as guest of honor the ninth anual Chicagoland Music Festival. He will leave Chicago about 9 o'clock this morning, flying his little plane to Milwaukee.

Youthful Corrigan Fan Hurt in Surge of Crowd

Bernard Dorman, 15 years old, left his home at 5511 Washington boulevard yesterday afternoon and went downtown to cheer for Douglas Corrigan. He was standing at La Salle and Washington streets when the hero passed. The crowd surged forward and Bernard was pushed through the glass side of the entrance to a comfort station and fell 10 feet.

Corrigan's Smile Wins Music Festival Throng

Douglas Corrigan wore a broad smile as he took his place before the microphone at the Chicagoland Music Festival last night. It was the largest crowd he has had for an audience since he returned from his wrong way flight to Ireland. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Festival Notes

More than 10,000 telephone calls, asking whether the music festival would be held in spite of the storm, were handled by Tribune operators yesterday in a little more than three hours.

Miss Ann Garrow, chief operator, had twelve operators on duty, and she said that even when the rain was coming down the hardest, from 5:15 to 5:45, the callers hadn't given up hope that their evening's entertainment would go on as scheduled.

All seventy-five of THE TRIBUNE'S Superior 0100 trunk lines were tied up with calls almost entirely about the festival. Miss Garrow said her operators reported that many of the calls were made by the same persons, some of whom called as many as three times during the storm.

The rain brought, of all things, the fire department. A scarlet hose cart and sedan pumper drove up in great state. Out leaped two dozen firemen, who sprayed kerosene on the deep puddles around the field. These they ignited, in bursts of flame. Why? The heat caused the water to evaporate.

◆

Two first aid stations were established in the recesses of the stadium by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen. Here six nurses and five doctors under the supervision of Dr. Edward A. Piszczek awaited casualties. But all they got were women with cinders in their eyes and a policeman who, falling, had to have his ribs strapped up.

◆

The first comer was Miss Miriam Shalan, a tiny brown eyed woman about 42 inches tall. Little Miss Shalan came before noon and cuddled up under the press stand during the rain, only the toes of her pink satin slippers getting wet. She is 69 and until 1937 says she sang in every festival. "Forty years ago," she said, "I was the principal midget singer."

◆

The only arm chairs on the field were those of four proud old men, G. A. R. veterans hearing their ninth festival. The first year 55 came, last year 19, and this year William Finley, James H. Lewis, colored; George Enslow, and Arthur Dawson—Lewis 94, the others 92. "We like it fine," Dawson said quietly. "The music, the weather . . . I wouldn't miss it."

CORRIGAN POLICE GUARD BARS WAY TO A MR. ALLMAN

Two young uniformed policemen guarded the door to a private dining room in the Blackstone hotel where Douglas Corrigan was a luncheon guest of the mayor's New Century committee yesterday. Their orders were to keep every one out.

There were protests, of course. And while the two policemen argued with a waiter they had barred, a heavily built man with graying hair clipped Prussian style, stepped from an elevator and sauntered through the doorway. The youngest policeman caught him by the arm and spun him around, saying: "Hey, you, you can't go in there!"

"He's okay, Pat," called the second policeman. "Take your hands off him. That's Commissioner Allman."

Seeks Refuge from Rain Under Train Coach; Killed

Michael Zanovich tried to dodge the rain last night, and it cost him his life. Zanovich, who was 45 years old, left his home in Fox Lake for Chicago aboard a local train of the Milwaukee railroad. The train stopped for water in Roundout. Zanovich alighted. Rain began falling. He crawled under a coach, apparently believing, police said later, that the train would not pull out for a considerable time. When the train started his left leg was severed. He died in Condell hospital, Libertyville.

STORM UNROOFS BUILDING; MAN IN AUTO IS KILLED

Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Lieut. C. Eldon Todd, U. S. army reserve, of Kansas City, was crushed to death in his automobile here late today under the roof of a down town store building torn off by a violent storm that did widespread damage.

The wind was accompanied by violent rain and hail. The storm was the worst here in fifty years. Water five feet in depth flowed down several streets.

Junior Shaw of company "B" of the CCC at Fort Leavenworth was in a hospital suffering from "severe shock." Officials would not say whether Shaw was struck by lightning.

Two large towers, one of them housing four bells, were torn from atop the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Army weather observers said the wind at times reached fifty-five miles an hour and was of "cyclonic nature."

85,000 CHEER NINTH ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL

Stirring Pageant Unfolds Before Throng.

Cheers Rise for Sousa.

The deep voice of the massed bands was changing now. Something quickening and more thrilling rose from those brazen throats. Cheers from the audience were beginning now—first for the bands and second for the music of old John Philip Sousa which they were playing. This was the "King Cotton March."

Then as suddenly as it had begun, the spectacle was dissolving. Amid thunderous applause the bands marched from the field.

Whole sections stood to cheer some bands who by this time had been rejoined by their jaunty drum majors. Rain was forgotten.

Moments of Glory.

In quick succession winners in other classifications had their moments of glory before probably the greatest crowd many of them ever had seen. First came the Echo chorus of Chicago, first among the women's groups. Their voices rose high and clear, carried perfectly to all parts of the field by an amplifying system that is the finest in the central west.

And with the Echo chorus sang all the groups that had competed against them. The winners in this contest, as in all of them, were announced just before the numbers were sung.

And the first of the soloists—a boy 13 years old. Amid a hush the high, sweet notes of a cornet filled the night. The boy, Harry Tully, of 11100 Bell avenue, Chicago, stood erect and poised before the vast throng.

From Rock Island and Moline and from Davenport, Ia., came the winning mixed chorus—the Tri Cities Catholic Oratorio society—to receive the warm welcome that the music festival gives to those who have achieved honors in the far flung contests. With the oratorio society sang the other choruses that had competed against it.

Another Young Soloist.

Now another soloist, Miss Ruth Rubenstein, 16 years old, of 1800 Farwell avenue. Here again the amplifying system proved its value. The plaintive notes of her violin sounded to the farthest corners of the field.

The last of the winning choral groups appeared now. It was the Meistersingers' guild of Two Rivers, Wis. The hearty voices of those Wisconsin singers — who sing because they love it—was one of the musical thrills of the evening.

As the last strains of their "The Sea I Must Fare" faded, attention of the throng swung to the field where for the first time in their history, two of Chicago's famous equestrian organizations were emerging from the entrances.

Jaunty, mounted musicians — the celebrated Black Horse troop band. Smartly prancing horses and erect riders who appeared to be part of them—the 122d Field Artillery lancers.

In intricate drills the lancers moved across the north end of the field. The amber rays of searchlights silhouetted them for most of the crowd. The erect lances with fluttering streamers were outlined as wands of light. And all this while the stirring music of the Black Horse band filled the arena.

No Time for Encore.

When these two proud troops—and they are justly proud—left the field there were roars of protest, but they couldn't return for an encore. There were too many events yet to come.

One of these was the singing of an organization that hundreds in the crowd had come to see and hear—the University of Illinois rural chorus of 400 voices. Their ten minute cut from the stirring cantata "Harvest Caravan" was one of the really high moments of the evening.

These people, who live close to the soil, come from twenty-five Illinois counties. They sing of what they know.

Following swiftly upon the rural chorus came one of the events such as has made the festival famous for assembling unusual musical organizations. This year it was a massed band of accordion players gathered from throughout Chicagoland and beyond. This band, made up of more than 1,000 accordionists, old, young, and middle aged, stood grouped before the stage and played.

Played together—that is, to the disgruntlement of several persons who had made small wagers that they would neither start nor finish together. But they did, because Capt. Howard Stube organized them and helped reherse them.

A Musical Treat.

Then came a musical treat that festival goers have come to know and love, the singing of the festival chorus of 2,500 voices under the direction of Noble Cain. As he led this great chorus in "Rain and the River," by Fox, the throng that filled the field realized suddenly why Noble Cain has been proclaimed a genius, not only in Chicago, but throughout the country.

Following was another original that has become a favorite of festival audience, the festival's own orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, who is internationally known as musician and conductor. Their one number "Tales of the Vienna Woods," by Johann Strauss, held the multitude in deep silence until its conclusion. Then came the welcome such as is reserved for a returning favorite.

During the months that precede each festival hundreds of hopeful young singers in many states compete for the highest honor that it can confer upon them. This is the right to appear before the thousands in Soldiers' field as the best woman or man singer in the great central west.

Gets Mighty Ovation.

Often this honor opens musical careers to them. The audiences know this and their greeting to these young winners is always a thing to be remembered. And so it was last night with Miss Lois Jean Tschappot of Grays Lake, Ill. Her singing of the favorite, "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour" by Friml, brought a mighty ovation.

Now more young people, making up one of the most famous school bands in the nation, that of Joliet Township High school. The way these youngsters tackled the maddeningly difficult "Rhapsody in Blue" as arranged by Grofe, seized the imagination of all. It brought them one of the greatest waves of applause heard during the evening.

The lilting blue notes of the "Rhapsody" gave way to solemn ones. There were deep male voices, those of the United German Male chorus of Chicago. The hundreds of voices were blended as one in German numbers, then in "America." It was a moment not soon to be forgotten.

Templeton's Work Matchless.

At the announcer's mention of the name of Alec Templeton there was spontaneous applause from the stands. Mr. Templeton, the festival's guest artist, played Dohnany's brilliant C major Rhapsody.

The playing had passion and drive where the piece called for such effects, a reticent and lovely lyricism in its quieter passages. Following his formal appearance came one of those matchless Templeton improvisations. Alec was given "Yankee Doodle," "Love's Old Sweet Song." the Rachmaninoff Prelude, and "Yes, We Have No Bananas," to weld to a single fantasy. He did it so aptly that the audience broke into giggles of pleasure.

With just the suggestion of a pleasant Scotch burr in his voice, Alec himself announced that he would give his impression of how "The Lost Chord" would sound if it had been done by Gilbert and Sullivan instead of by Sullivan alone. The result was a clever caricature of the Gilbert and Sullivan patter style. It drew laughter and great applause.

Roy Glahn, who only yesterday, in the contests which preceded the festival, was named best man singer, was employed at a climatic point of the evening to help set the stage for the celebrity who was about to enter. "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" put everybody in the proper Gaelic humor. The applause that followed was a symbol both of the audience's approval of the singer and of its excited anticipation of Corrigan's entrance.

One of the finest events on a fine program—the one that tickled the crowd most—was the historical pageant in music and drama. They lived over the covered wagon days, the gay nineties and they went wild over the costumed bicycle riders who streamed around the track.

In the historical pageant there was a performance of Herbert's "Pan-Americana" by the festival orchestra. Then Carl Craven led the audience in community singing of "My Old Kentucky Home" on a vast scale.

"A Hot Time in the Old Town."

J. Wesley Jones and his Chicagoland Festival Negro chorus sang two of the great melodies identified with the southland, "Swanee River" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." For the latter Geneva C. Williams was the soloist. Their voices throbbed with feeling, communicating some of this feeling to the audience.

And there was a hot time in the old town when two horse drawn steam fire engines rolled around the field, belching smoke and dropping hot coals. It was one of the most completely satisfying events of the evening.

Frank Bennett next directed a performance by orchestra and singers of that sentimental old favorite, "The Good Old Summertime." The nostalgic melodies of this and the tunes which followed, their effect heightened of course by the old time pageant which accompanied them, aroused both the people who actually remember those days and the vastly greater number who have heard their parents tell about them so eloquently.

Then the heavens seemed to burst into flame. The most spectacular fireworks display in the history of the festival turned loose in flame and din.

Two of the most majestic and most compelling melodies in the world came at the end of the evening. Noble Cain directed the festival chorus in the "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Chorus and audience joined in "The Star Spangled Banner" and the festival became history.

CROWD FILES THROUGH HANGAR FOR CLOSEUP OF CORRIGAN'S PLANE

More than 17,000 persons filed through American Airlines' hangar at 4848 West 63d street yesterday and last night to see Douglas Corrigan's

The machine is a Curtiss Robin, normally a three place high-wing cabin monoplane. The engine is a 165 horse power Wright 5 cylinder radial. It was built in 1929 at the St. Louis, Mo., factory of the Curtiss Airplane and Engine company. Ralph Damon, now vice president in charge of operations for American Airlines, was head of that plane manufacturing unit at the time the airplane was built.

Damon examined the ship yesterday and said it seemed to be in better condition than when it left the factory. The plane will be on exhibition again this morning until Corrigan takes off for Milwaukee.

CROWD OF 85,000 WHICH FILLED SOLDIERS' FIELD FOR CHICAGOLAND MUSIC FESTIVAL LAST NIGHT.

MUSICIANS WIN RIGHT TO APPEAR IN BIG FESTIVAL

Final Contests Give Them Places in Spotlight.

Final contests of the Chicagoland Music Festival were held late yesterday and the winners appeared before the great festival crowd in Soldiers' field in the evening.

First place among the vocalists went to Roy Glahn, 25 years old, of Orland Park, a tenor, and Miss Lois Jean Tschappat, 23, of Gray's Lake.

Mr. Glahn is a switchboard operator in Orland Park and won second place in the Chicago-Cook county contest last Tuesday, although he was ill when it came his turn to sing.

He Sings an Irish Song.

Glahn sang four times. The first three times he gave Bragga's "Bella del Tuo Soriso," but the judges still were unable to make up their minds.

"Could you sing an Irish song?" he was asked.

"I can cut an Irish brogue for anybody," Glahn replied. He burst into "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." This cinched his eminence and he was asked to sing the ballad for Douglas Corrigan, the aviator, at the festival.

Miss Tschappat, a dramatic soprano, works for her father in a La Salle street brokerage house. This was her first festival and for the judges she sang "Vissi d'Arte," by Puccini.

Mother of Two Is Third.

Second place in the women's contest was given to Miss Enid Hellman, 2042 North 60th street, Milwaukee, and third place went to a woman physician, Dr. Sarah D. Rosekrans, who practices medicine with her husband in Neillsville, Wis. She is the mother of two children and is a mezzo soprano. Dr. Rosekrans also won third place in last year's contest.

Since the contest was so spirited, the judges decided to award a fourth prize, which went to Miss Berenice Levine of Ravinia, a contralto.

Second place in the men's contest was given Earl Thiel, 3036 West Villard avenue, Milwaukee, a baritone, and third place went to Robert H. Reeves, a Quincy, Ill., baritone.

Winning Baton Twirlers at Festival

Norman Erickson (center), 1650 West 105th street, placed first in the baton twirling contest for boys between 12 and 17 years old. Audrey Corley (right), 1448 Hollywood avenue, took second place in contest for adult girl baton twirlers.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Second Last Year.

Miss Rubenstein won second place last year. Her winning number was Wieniawski's "Polonaise de Concert." She is a senior at Senn High school.

Adrian Da Prato, 17 years old, of 2336 Huron street, won second place in the violin contest, and William Henigbaum, 17 years old, of Davenport, Ia., won third.

Harry Tully, 13 years old, of 11100 Bell avenue, won first place in the cornet contest, from a field of ten. Arthur Nicholson, 18 years old, of Sharon, Wis., won second, and Lewis Twitchell, 18, of Des Plaines, won third.

Tully is a student at the Morgan Park Military academy, where he plays in the school band.

The men's choruses sang at the Drake hotel, where first place in class A was awarded the Meistersinger's guild of Two Rivers, Wis., directed by Dr. Thomas J. Bailey.

Second place in class A went to the Palason Male Choir of Southwestern Michigan, directed by Foster Krake.

In class B, the Purdue university glee club took first place under the direction of Albert P. Stewart, and the Fort Dodge Men's Civic Glee club of Fort Dodge, Ia., directed by H. H. Orth.

There were 93 entries in the baton twirling contest at Soldiers' field. Contest officials said that this was the largest number of entries ever received in a baton twirling contest.

Baton Contest Winners.

The winners, by classes, were:

Juvenile girls [under 12 years]: 1st, June Love, Centralia, Ill.; 2d, Jo Ann Eberhart, Mishewauka, Ind.; 3d, Patsy Cunningham, Benton Harbor, Mich.

Echo Chorus Wins.

Adult men: 1st, Rodney J. Adams, 934 Diversey parkway; 2d, Melvin Lewis, La Salle, Ill.; 3d, Robert Dawson, Dayton, O., and Raymond Gaedke, 4124 Monticello avenue [tied].

The Echo chorus of Chicago, directed by Miss Adeline Pryess, placed first in the women's chorus contest at the Drake hotel. Second favors went to the Watseka Women's chorus, Watseka, Ill., which was led by Miss Grace Burnham.

In the mixed chorus contest, first honors were given to the Central choir of the Central Presbyterian church, Lafayette, Ind., under the direction of Albert P. Stewart. Second place was won by the First Christian church choir of Davenport, Ia., William Paul Altquist, director.

Band Winners Named.

The band contests were held at the Lake Shore Athletic club and W-G-N studio. First prize for class A—adult bands of more than thirty players—was won by the Chicago Boy's Club Concert band of ninety pieces, an organization which has placed at the last six festival contests. John Sovinec is the director.

The Cedar Falls [Ia.] Band, Inc., placed second under the baton of J. A. Melichar, and third prize for class A entrants was awarded Nick Triantos and His Concert Band of Cicero.

In the class B contests for adult bands of thirty pieces or less, the Famous P. & O. band of Canton, Ill., directed by F. D. Walker, took first prize, while second honors went to the St. Joseph [Mich.] Municipal band, under the direction of Franklyn Wiltse. Third prize was given to the Solar Music House Concert band, Chicago, directed by J. F. Ewald.

Other Band Honors.

Top class C honors—contested for by juvenile bands of more than thirty players—went to the Wurlitzer Concert band of Chicago, led by Marcel Ackermann. The second prize was given the Davenport [Ia.] High School Summer band, directed by F. E. Mortiboy, while the Catholic Youth Organization band of Chicago, Thomas F. Fabish, director, was third.

The class D first prize for juvenile bands of thirty players or less was won by Hammond [Ind.] post, 16, Young Peoples' Concert band, which played under the baton of Frank Kooman. Second prize went to the Tolleston Summer School band of Gary, led by E. L. Schroeder, and third honors were given the St. Mary's Training School band of Des Plaines, directed by John Yaccino.

FOLDING CHAIR BORROWER GIVES POLICE PROBLEM

There's a brown horse and a green wagon with red wheels at the Grand Crossing police station. The wagon is loaded with folding chairs. And the police would like the owner to answer some questions.

He borrowed twelve of the chairs from an undertaker at 7659 Jeffery avenue yesterday. He told an employé he was from a well known family in the neighborhood and wanted them only for a few hours.

The employé remembered just as the man drove off that it was an old dodge to obtain folding chairs. Undertakers have lost more than 100 chairs in recent weeks to the man with a green wagon with red wheels, pulled by a brown horse. When the employe ran out to question the man he fled afoot.

Views on the art of living

Our views here at Hotel Shoreland are something like this: We believe in self expression—the expression of YOURself in the place where you live. We think that you should be able to select the size and type that suits you best—that's why we have apartments varying from one-room studio style to ten-room abodes . . . hotel rooms and suites.

We are sure, in spite of the genius of the interior decorators whose counsel we use, that you will have your own ideas about many things. So we maintain a staff of craftsmen here in the hotel.

We believe "good nerves" demand quiet nights for sound sleep . . . fresh air to breathe . . . a spacious, unobstructed outlook on land and water and a new outlook on life. Hotel Shoreland has all this . . . and yet with all of this it is only ten minutes by motor from the heart of the city!

Why not have a look at this hotel today, and see if our views aren't your views on the "art of living"?

ALL ROADS LEAD TO FESTIVAL AND ALL ARE JAMMED

Autos Fill Every Inch of Parking Space.

BY HAL FOUST.

The elaborate system of pavements on Chicago's downtown lake front was jammed last night by a crush of automobiles that was certainly one of the largest assemblages of motor cars in Chicago's history.

Forty-five minutes after the Chicagoland Music Festival was started [the start had been delayed by the weather], 30,000 men and women were trying to enter an already filled Soldiers' field. Parking lots, with an area almost doubled since a year ago, were loaded to capacity. Thousands of the late arrivals turned back toward their homes.

As had been predicted in yesterday's TRIBUNE, private automobiles brought a larger portion of last night's patronage than in the previous eight music festivals. The public was familiar with betterments made in pavements and parking facilities during the last year. The rain increased this trend, encouraging automobile transportation in preference to street cars, buses or elevated lines.

Thirty minutes before the show started, Burnham and Grant park pavements were loaded with automobiles filing into the parking lots. Cars were arriving from the north, south, and west sides and from suburbs and outlying cities of Chicagoland faster than the parking lots could receive them for the next hour and fifteen minutes.

These lake front pavements, according to Otto K. Jelinek, park district trafic engineer, have a larger trafic capacity than any similar system of roadways in the world. Europe has larger crowds at some of its major sporting events, but not nearly so many motor cars.

The parking lots were enlarged since last year from a total capacity of 6,900 cars to 12,000. The 12,000 was not nearly enough for last night. With all available storage space occupied, Engineer Jelinek estimated there were 6,000 automobiles, with an average of 3.2 persons per car, in a backwash between the Chicago river and 23d street.

Southern Beauty

IRENE SCHOENBERGER.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The traditional beauty of New Orleans women was upheld with the selection of this year's "Miss New Orleans." The 1938 queen is Irene Schoenberger. She will participate in the Atlantic City pageant in an effort to be chosen "Miss America."

HANGS SELF IN HOME.

HORNER RENEWS U. S. JUDGESHIP PLEA FOR KERNER

Gov. Horner has renewed his support of Attorney General Otto Kerner for a place on the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, the governor said yesterday. For several years, the governor has urged federal officials to name former Judge Kerner to the bench. Earlier this month he repeated his recommendation to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings at Minocqua, Wis.

Reports that there was political significance to Mr. Cummings' separate talks with the governor and Mayor Kelly were emphatically denied by both. The governor said the Kerner matter was the only thing of a political nature he discussed with the attorney general. Mr. Kelly said he discussed no politics at all.

PURGE COUNSEL CORCORAN TOLD HIS JOB IS SAFE

Not Engaged in Political Activities, Says RFC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.] — The $10,000 a year special Reconstruction Finance corporation counsel job of Thomas G. Corcoran, chief purge counsel of President Roosevelt, is safe.

Thomas Corcoran.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

RFC officials said today they had no knowledge of any political activity on the part of the baby faced attorney. Corcoran is a member of the "gold dust twins" team of presidential advisers with Ben Cohen, counsel for the national power policy committee.

George Backer Asked to Quit.

Earlier in the week the RFC requested the resignation of Edgar B. Dunlap, Georgia counsel for the federal unit, because he was engaged in political activity. Dunlap is working for the reëlection of Senator Walter F. George, who is number one man on the President's purge list.

George won his rating through the efforts of left wing advisers of the President. Corcoran commonly is credited with being the chief of these advisers, along with WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, son and Secretary James Roosevelt, and Cohen.

No Hint of Politics.

At the RFC offices, where it generally is acknowledged that Corcoran does little work for the financial unit because of his White House activities, it was said there is no reason to believe Corcoran's work for the President smacks in any way of politics.

Officials refused to lend an ear to what they called unfounded rumors of such activity. They showed no desire to conduct an investigation which might lead them inside the White House.

ASK EMBEZZLER TO PAY INCOME TAX OF $41,721

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[U. P.] —The government today sought to collect a 1936 income tax deficiency of $41,721 from W. C. Kurrle on the $78,247 he embezzled from the First National bank at Burlington, Ia. Kurrle petitioned the board of tax appeals contending the money was part of the bank's income and not taxable to him.

W. C. Kurrle.

"All of the petitioner's [Kurrle's] income resulted from profits made by speculation on the stock market with funds embezzled from the First National bank in Burlington, to which petitioner had no title," Kurrle's petition said. "The funds . . . are in fact income of the First National bank."

Kurrle is now serving a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

YACHT CLUB TOLD TO EXPLAIN ITS SALE OF LIQUOR

Officials of the Chicago Yacht club in Belmont harbor have been instructed to appear before park district trustees next month, it was learned yesterday, to explain why liquor was sold in the club in violation of park regulations. The place was raided a week ago by park police and $1,000 worth of liquor found on the premises was impounded.

The club operates and occupies space in the harbor under a permit issued by the park district. George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the district, said that club officials must show why the permit should not be revoked.

"The rules of the park district are clear," he said. "We have never permitted the sale of liquor on park property. That was one of the conditions of the permit for the yacht club."

Find Hines Witness

Max Silverman, bondsman for the late Dutch Schultz, who has been found in California prison. However, it is unlikely that he will be brought east to testify in the Hines trial.

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—With the trial of Tammany Leader James J. Hines adjourned until Monday, counsel for both sides planned to spend the week-end hard at work. They planned to interview prospective witnesses, study the records, and otherwise make general preparations for the second week of the trial. There was no court session today by agreement of counsel.

Contrary to reports from Los Angeles, District Attorney Dewey's office said today that Max Silverman, bail bondsman to the late Dutch Schultz, is no longer wanted as a witness in the policy racket trial of Hines, Tammany district leader.

Silverman has been located in a California prison where he is serving a one to fourteen year term on a bad check conviction.

DIES OF WOUND INFLICTED BY HER AUNT IN PARK

Mrs. Elizabeth Cooke, 42 years old, died yesterday in the Kankakee State hospital in Kankakee, of bullet wounds inflicted Thursday night by her aunt, Miss Martha McGuire. Mrs. Cooke was the daughter of John F. Hahn, Evanston real estate dealer.

She had been a patient in the Manteno state hospital. Thursday night she was taken out for a motor ride by Miss McGuire. Miss McGuire was 65 years old, and lived at 3852 Calumet avenue.

While in Bird park, Kankakee, Miss McGuire shot Mrs. Cooke and then killed herself. She left a note explaining she could not endure the thought of leaving her niece alone. An inquest into both deaths will be held Thursday.

Open Clipper Air Service from Seattle to Alaska

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20. — (AP) — Weekly air express service between Seattle and Alaska was inaugurated today when the Pan-American airways "Baby Clipper" hopped off on a 1,000 mile flight to Juneau. Aboard was the first air express shipment ever sent from the United States to Alaska. No passengers or mail will be carried for the present.

The Classics—Undiluted

By CALEB

IT IS STRANGE indeed that William Shakespeare should be looked upon as difficult and highbrow. For though he wrote of great men and fine ladies, he wrote of things in their lives which are common to all. He saw Italian nobility through the eyes of a British country lad, and it was thus he wrote.

His humor was quick, earthy and direct; his philosophy homely, sound and penetrating. There is nothing about him abstruse or dull. His plays have all the action, adventure and topical love interest of a modern movie serial — all the blood curdling technique of a horror tale. In spite of all this he still seems to many good folk the very epitome of tedious reading.

It is altogether likely that the straight-thinking, hard-hitting Bard of Avon, like many another artist, has fallen victim to his commentators. It is they — not he — that are often tedious and abstruse. Over lines intended to be read with the bright speed of nimble youth they pore in painstaking analysis and ponderous deliberation, or engage in endless argument about his meaning.

The great and elemental truths of life are simple no matter when and by whom they are stated. Great teachers through the centuries have spoken meaty phrases, terse and to the point. About their brief but ample paragraphs, volumes and tomes have been piled in musty profusion.

We need to go back to the source of things — to the classics themselves. In music, literature, philosophy and the art of living we are content all too often to get our understanding second hand—our information diluted and adulterated by straining through many minds, largely inferior to the master they seek to interpret.

Most of the great classics are simple when approached directly, without intermediary. The average man needs no sponsor, no conductor to admit him to their presence. A monstrous mistake is his if he permits anyone to foist upon him such a scheme. Let him take his Shakespeare, his Brahms, his Spinoza straight and undiluted. Given half a chance, they will open for him a new and fabulous world of character and interest.

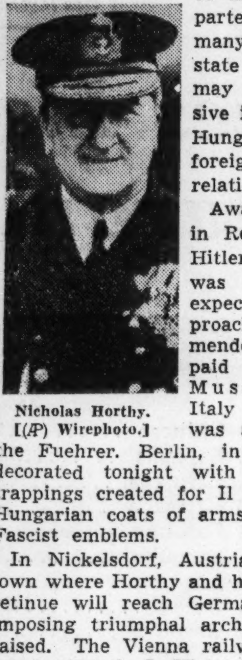
NAZIS PLAN FETE FOR HORTHY AS LURE TO HUNGARY

Race with Little Entente to Win Budapest.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, departed for Germany today on a state visit which may have decisive influence on Hungary's future foreign political relations.



Nicholas Horthy.
[(AP) Wirephoto.]

Awaiting him in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's realm was a welcome expected to approach the tremendous ovation paid Premier Mussolini of Italy when he was a guest of the Fuehrer. Berlin, in fact, was decorated tonight with the same trappings created for Il Duce, with Hungarian coats of arms displacing Fascist emblems.

In Nickelsdorf, Austrian frontier town where Horthy and his wife and retinue will reach German soil, an imposing triumphal arch had been raised. The Vienna railway station was decorated. In Kiel arrangements for Horthy's reception were complete.

Hitler's elaborate preparations reflected his desire to make a strong friend of Hungary, lying directly in the path of the German "drive to the east."

Others Woo Hungary.

Pressure to win Hungary's friendship, however, came from another direction simultaneously. It was from the little entente nations— Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia. Their foreign ministers prepared to meet in Bled, Jugo-Slavia, to discuss future policy for the Danubian basin, with an eye on Hungary.

Politically, Hungary fancies herself in much the same position as a girl who finds more than one man seeking to marry her.

Far-reaching political, economic and military offers are expected to come from Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany. An offer of friendship from the entente ministers in Bled, however, may rival the German lures.

The Hungarian government has been silent on its foreign political affairs, but it was learned privately that some of the propositions are:

FIRST—A joint proposal by Italy and Germany to incorporate Hungary in the Rome-Berlin axis. As a result of this Hungary, as before the world war, would become a military ally of the axis states.

SECOND—Proposals by Italy and Germany that Hungary leave the league of nations and declare the Trianon peace treaty of 1920 no longer valid. This action would be similar to Germany's in 1933.

[Germany and Italy thereafter would encourage Hungary's rearmament, which still is forbidden by the peace treaties.]

THIRD—An offer by Italy and Germany for extended Hungarian minority rights in Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia.

FOURTH—An offer by Germany to pledge economic union with Hungary.

Offer Nonaggression Pact.

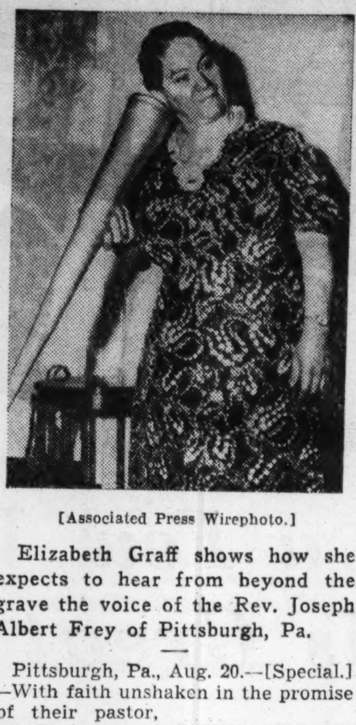
The entente states, on the other hand, were said by the same source to have offered Hungary the following:

FIRST—A nonaggression pact.

SECOND—Military equality.

THIRD—Closer economic relations to attain better world market prices for farm products.

Awaits Word of Dead



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Elizabeth Graff shows how she expects to hear from beyond the grave the voice of the Rev. Joseph Albert Frey of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—With faith unshaken in the promise of their pastor, the Rev. Joseph A. Frey, to return from the dead, members of the First Spiritualist Church of Allegheny sat by the clergyman's bier in a north side funeral home yesterday and today and waited for his spirit to appear.

The Rev. Joseph Frey.

Meanwhile, a photographer focused his camera lens on the body of the dead man in attempt to photograph "spiritual emanations." The images, said Dr. George J. Lingenhoel, would be composed of exteplasm. He added: "It is possible that there will be half a dozen faces of the Rev. Frey's dead friends in the picture when it is developed."

Miss Elizabeth Graff, the Rev. Mr. Frey's nurse and secretary for many years, told of his promise to come back. "When he returns, it will likely be a spiritual manifestation at first and later a physical one."

Schuschnigg Is Called Upon to Prove He's Aryan

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 20.—The Roman Catholic priest of Kamnik, in Slovenia, recently received a letter from Kurt Schuschnigg, former Austrian chancellor, requesting the birth certificates of his grandfather and great-grandfather, both born there. The former chancellor needs the documents to prove his Aryan descent so that his 2 year old son, Kurt, will be able to sit among Aryan pupils in his school. Schuschnigg's great-grandfather was a Slovene and wrote his name "Susnik."

PROBE REPORTS OF NAZI PLANES ON CZECH BORDER

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Czech government opened an official inquiry tonight into reports that two German planes appeared today over Czechoslovakian territory. One flew over the Friedland region and another hovered over another border area, it was said.

Meanwhile, Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator in the Czech conflict, with is German minority, adjourned his discussions for the weekend. He departed for Castle Oberplan where he will be the guest of Prince Schwarzenberg.

Leaders of the Sudeten German [Nazi] minority indicated they would accept political jobs proffered their group yesterday by the Czech government. They termed the offers wholly inadequate, however. The Germans demand automony.

Premier Milan Hodza planned to attend the funeral tomorrow for Father Andreas Hlinka, Roman Catholic priest and leader of the Slovak autonomy movement. The government ordered a military tribute to Father Hlinka.

SEIZED IN CITY TO ANSWER BOSTON PERJURY CHARGE

Frederick H. Graves, who has been sought for several months on an indictment for perjury voted at Boston, Mass., was arrested yesterday by Detectives Jerome Looney and James Condon. The seizure took place near the Ambassador hotel, where Graves had been a guest.

Graves was a witness in a suit in which the city of Boston sought to collect damages from Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso. It was alleged that the governor, while mayor of Boston, received a large share of an $85,000 settlement the city made in a suit brought by the General Equipment corporation.

Graves testimony was damaging to the governor's case. The court ordered that Curley repay $30,000 and Dr. Santosuosso $20,000. The indictment charging perjury was based on testimony later given the grand jury in Boston by Gov. Curley and an official of the Boston finance commission. Curley denied receiving any part of the $85,000. Boston policemen were on the way here last night to get Graves.

GERMANY EXPELS BRITISH OFFICIAL IN VIENNA AS SPY

Police Free Him, Force Departure at Once.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Capt. Thomas Kendrick, British passport officer in Vienna, was requested today to leave Germany immediately. The German government announced officially "there were proofs of his conducting espionage."

Capt. Kendrick had been in the custody of the Vienna GSP [secret police] since he was arrested Wednesday night as he and his wife prepared to leave for England on a vacation. His detention led the British government to demand of Berlin that Kendrick be released at once and that an explanation be made.

Kendrick was freed by the police at the same time he was ordered out of the country. With his wife and chauffeur he left Vienna at once and headed for the Hungarian border, 40 miles away. He crosed the border at dusk.

Assert Kendrick Confessed.

German papers said the British officer was convicted on his own confession of misusing official prerogatives to obtain military information.

The official announcement, however, was a laconic communique, distributed by D. N. B., official news agency, which said:

"The head of the passport division in the British consulate general in Vienna, Capt. Thomas Kendrick, has been arrested because there were proofs of his conducting espionage. The British ambassador, who made inquiries into the case, has been requested to see to it that Capt. Kendrick leaves the reich's confines within the shortest time possible."

The newspaper Berliner Tageblatt, in inspired comment, asserted:

"The reich's government, in not drawing the full consequences of the confession, merely gave proof of the earnestness of its desire to foster amicable relations with England. It would be deplorable if this were misunderstood in England. Because Germany showed clemency, Britain must not conclude it may invoke methods—well known to Germany in all its ramifications—of the British secret service."

In Vienna for 13 Years.

German foreign office spokesmen said they remembered no precedent for the Kendrick incident.

Kendrick had been passport officer in Vienna for thirteen years. The British consulate in Vienna denied he enjoyed diplomatic or even consular status, saying he had no consular rights and that he worked in conjunction with the consulate, but independent of it. Kendrick's status, it was said, was analagous to that of a representative of the United States treasury department abroad.

Nazis to Cut Off Sugar for Austrian Jewish Firms

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Sugar probably will be a thing of the past soon for Austrian Jewish bakeries, candy factories, and dealers in sugar. By order of the commissioner in charge of the sugar industry in German Austria Jewish firms dealing in sugar and "using sugar in their establishments for manufacturing purposes" will not be supplied with it after Aug. 25. Jewish coffee houses also may be affected. Any Jewish owned automobile in Berlin now can be spotted as such because Jews only are issued those licenses numbers above 355,000.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man about 45 years old, clad in working clothes, was taken from the river at the Randolph street bridge yesterday by the coast guard.

GIRL, 22, PLUNGES FROM CAR, DIES; SEIZE EX-CONVICT

Driver Once Sent to Prison by Her Testimony.

In May, 1936, Benjamin Scardina was sentenced to a year in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for passing counterfeit money. One of the witnesses whose testimony helped send him to prison, police say, was his friend, Miss Marie Kasel.

Miss Kasel, now 22 years old, died in the County hospital yesterday, a few hours after she had leaped or fallen from a car driven by Scardina. He told police she jumped from his car early yesterday at Hudson avenue and Elm street.

Held Pending Investigation.

The police held him pending an investigation.

Scardina, a married man with two children, is 30 years old. He lives at 918 Cleveland avenue. He told police he had been working since he got out of prison.

Scardina met Miss Kasel at 1 a. m. yesterday after she finished her work in a tavern, he said. She lived at 1241 Clybourn avenue. They went to an outdoor festival in Oak street. After a while he tried to drive her home, he said. She did not want to go home, according to his story, but he insisted.

Springs from Auto.

Suddenly she sprang from the automobile, as he told the story. Scardina stopped and picked her up. Believing she was not seriously injured, he took her to her room. He became alarmed when she failed to revive and summoned a physician, who notified police. Miss Kasel was taken to the hospital, where it was found her skull had been fractured.

Scardina's conviction was based on the government's charge that he had possessed and passed $300 in counterfeit $5 and $10 bills.

Scardina told Chicago avenue police last night that he had been in love with Miss Kasel for more than four years. His wife knew of the romance, he said, and told him "When you get tired of her you'll quit her."

GERMANY'S NEW WAR PLANES PUT FEARS IN FRENCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, chief of staf of the French air force, and his aids were impressed by Germany's powerful new airplanes and also with the high efficiency of her newest machine guns and anti-aircraft guns. They will leave Berlin tomorrow for home.

The French officers now are fearful of what the Germans may have which was not shown to them. However, the delegation is confident their German hosts showed them as much as they showed Marshal Italo Balbo, Italian governor of Libya, on his recent visit. The remarkable performances of Germany's newest machine guns mounted in airplanes, which hit ground targets with surprising accuracy, were admired.

Most of the foreign aviation attachés stationed in Berlin say they are convinced that Germany today has the outstanding air force in the world.

$89

Extravagant fur sleeves and collar of sable-dyed skunk strike an outstanding fashion chord. Their rich lavishness accentuates the slenderness of this pencil-line silhouette. And as Carson's sale price proves, this year you don't have to be a wealthy heiress to look like one. You may have the sketched coat in black, wine or green and in misses' sizes of 12-20.

GERMAN U-BOAT FLEET SOON TO EXCEED BRITAIN'S

Nazis Building Improved Smaller Submarines.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 21 [Sunday].—Germany's "effective" submarines total but one less than Great Britain's. Within a few weeks Germany will have more such vessels than the British. These statements were made today by Lieutenant Commander Kenneth Edwards of the British navy.

Germany has thirty-seven submarines in service, and thirty-one building, of which six are almost completed, Edwards wrote in the Sunday Times. The British have thirty-eight modern submarines in service and eighteen building. Edwards admitted, however, that the British have 14 older vessels, but said they are too old to be effective.

Build Smaller U-Boats.

Though the Germans were held to 45 per cent of the British tonnage in submarines by the 1935 naval agreement, they got around that by making smaller craft.

The submarine is the only warship whose power does not depend on tonnage. A small submarine fires the same torpedo as a big one, the only disadvantage being that it cannot remain at sea so long. Unlike the British, the Germans have little need for submarines with a long cruising radius.

Even Germany's smallest submarines, of about 300 tons, however, have cruised to the Mediterranean and the Canary Islands, two of the points the British are most nervous about.

Improve Listening Devices.

Seventeen of Germany's U-boats are between 500 tons and 750 tons. All carry a gun of more than three inch caliber in addition to 21 inch torpedoes.

British naval circles believe the Germans have developed underwater listening devices of astonishing capabilities, so that their submarines can fire without showing their periscopes.

HUNT PALESTINE TERRORIST GANG THAT RAIDED CITY

JERUSALEM, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Troops, planes, and police today searched the hills around Hebron for a band which raided and terrified that city of 18,000 population last night.

A large gang entered Hebron late in the night, fired the postoffice, Barclay's bank, destroyed an armored police truck, and invaded the urban police post, seizing rifles and shooting two occupants. The band killed an Arab constable and wounded a British policeman.

RIVER RECEDES; JAPANESE MAP PUSH ON HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21 [Sunday.]—(AP)—With Yangtze floodwaters slowly receding in the battle zone east of Hankow, Japanese troops today were reported concentrating on the north bank for an overland thrust against the provisional Chinese capital.

The fresh troops were said by Chinese military advices reaching Shanghai to be massing between Hwangmei and Susung, along the Hupeh-Anhwei provincial border about 115 miles east southeast of Hankow.

Vote Down Proposal for High School Auditorium

Voters of Maine township yesterday rejected a proposal to borrow funds for the construction of a $150,000 auditorium at the Maine township high school. The vote was 532 against to 136 for, according to Theodore Markworth, secretary of the school board.

Picket Church to Keep Priest

Parishioners of the Rev. Simon Borkowski at Vulcan, Mich., demonstrating their refusal to let him leave. The priest is standing in the doorway. He was ordered transferred. [Associated Press Photo.]

Church Stands Firm

Vulcan, Mich., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Parishioners of St. Barbara's Catholic church are going to lose their priest whether they like it or not. They have been picketing the church since last Saturday in protest against the transfer of the Rev. Father Simon Borkowski. Bishop Joseph C. Plagens of Marquette today refused to cancel the transfer.

Father Borkowski.

Leonard Plourde, the pickets' spokesman, said they believed an injustice was being done to their priest. Father Borkowski is a member of the Salvatorian order. He was lent to the Michigan diocese thirteen years ago. Yesterday the superior sent word from Rome that Father Borkowski might be taken into the diocese. The bishop refused to accept him.

Pickets have kept the Rev. Father Erasmus Dooley, pastor of St. Mary's church in Norway, a nearby town, from entering St. Barbara's parsh house and a note signed by seventy-five persons warned him against trying to enter the church.

Germany Bars Sale of Collier's Magazine

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—The official Gazette today announced that Collier's magazine had been banned indefinitly in Germany by order of the police and the propaganda ministry. No reason was given.

2 ATTACK WOMAN ON WEST SIDE; SEIZED IN CHASE

Two young men who admitted severely beating a woman and attempting to rape her were captured by Racine avenue police last night as they fled the scene.

Mrs. Celia Wisnienski of 1800 Haddon avenue, was walking in Erie street, just west of Halsted, when two young men stepped to her side. In the 600 block of North Green street, under a viaduct, they seized her and pulled her through a hole in the fence into the North Western railroad yards. They beat Mrs. Wisnienski severely, but her screams finally routed them.

Policemen Edward Kennedy and Joseph Ponici heard the cries, saw the two run away, and caught them. They said they are Joseph Hudzik, 19 years old, 671 North Racine avenue, and Harry Ligenza, also 19, of 628 North Peoria street. Mrs. Wisnienski was taken to County hospital.

Yachtsman and His Wife Robbed Near Lake Forest

Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Prather, 25 East Delaware place, were robbed of $71 last night by six young hoodlums in Sheridan road, near Lake Forest. Prather is a wealthy yachtsman. They were returning by motor from a boat trip to Waukegan when the robbers in a dilapidated automobile curbed their car. The bandits indicated they had guns. Some time later Chief Clayton Tiffany of Mundelein arrested six youths in an old car. They are to be held for possible identification today.

FALL INJURIES FATAL.

Mrs. Ida Neumann, 70 years old, 7511 Wabash avenue, died last night in the County hospital of neck injuries suffered on July 5 when she fell in her home.

FRENCH OFFICIAL AND WIFE START MT. BLANC CLIMB

ST. GERVAIS, France, Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—Minister of Education Jean Zay and his wife, accompanied by fifteen guides, fourteen porters, and twenty movie cameramen, struggled up Europe's highest mountain peak, Mount Blanc, today to save the French cabinet from "disgrace" in the eyes of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

The climb was to demonstrate that French statesmen are just as rugged as Il Duce's assistants who dive over bayonets and leap through hoops of fire.

Zay and his wife hope to reach the 14,307 foot level of vallot shelter before 10 a. m. Sunday when Zay is scheduled to inaugurate an Alpine hospice there. The last 4,000 feet of the ascent is against an almost sheer rocky face of the mountainside.

STENCH BOMBS ROUT CROWDS IN 13 N. Y. THEATERS

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Stench bombs were exploded tonight in twelve Brooklyn motion picture theaters and one in Queens, causing Saturday night crowds of 400 to 900 persons in each theater to rush to the doors. Nineteen persons were injured, but none seriously. All the theaters were units of the Century chain, operated by Century Circuit, Inc.

The outbreak of bombings disclosed a dispute between local 306 of the Motion Picture Operators' union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, and the Empire State Motion Picture Operators' union, an independent group.

BRITAIN PROBES FLIGHT OF NAZI PLANE OVER BASE

LONDON, Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—Air ministry officials were reported today to be investigating the flight of an airplane bearing the Nazi swastika symbol on its fuselage over the artillery garrison at Shoeburyness on the east coast last night.

The Central News agency reported that a twin motored monoplane bearing the Nazi emblem flew at only 200 feet altitude over the garrison and continued out to sea toward the continent.

The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party and anti-Nazi, asserted the plane was a German Junkers airliner and said that military authorities were disquieted.

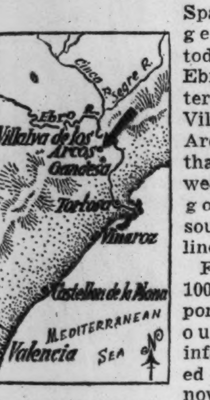
100 REBEL PLANES RAIN BOMBS ON SPANISH TROOPS

Hundreds Killed; Heavy Destruction Reported.



Arrow indicates town upon which rebels rained bombs.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Spanish insurgent command today focused its Ebro river counter-offensive on Villalva de Los Arcos, hoping that it is the weak spot in the government's south Catalonia line.

Fifty tanks and 100 planes supported by furiously attacking infantry, pounded at the town, now little more than a mass of débris seamed with trenches, about five miles north of Gandesa.

The attack was shifted to the north of Gandesa after insurgent failure to break through the government line in the Pandos mountains on Gandesa's south.

Rebel Planes Shot Down.

A government air fleet was reported to have surprised an insurgent squadron today over the Ebro valley. Dispatches from Barcelona said seven new insurgent craft were shot down and that all government planes returned to their base.

Government advices today said "not a single foot" of ground had been yielded to the north of Gandesa, where the government had seized positions in a fierce counter-conquest of July 26.

Insurgent dispatches said hundreds of government soldiers had been killed and much material captured but made no mention of other gains.

At the end of one of the most active weeks of fighting in months, Spanish war fronts had been little altered. Several of the Pandos hills, south of Gandesa, changed hands, but the government held its foothold west of the Ebro river.

Stop Mercury Mine Drive.

Much the same thing was true of the Segre river front, about fifty miles north of Gandesa. Even the strong insurgent offensive in southern Spain against the Almaden mercury mining region had been stopped.

The government counter-attacked on the Almaden front and at the close of the week the insurgents had been thrown back to a point thirty-five miles from the Almaden mines.

KRUEGER'S WIFE IMPROVES FROM GUNSHOT WOUNDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emita Jewett Krueger was reported recovering today from two bullet wounds received yesterday. Mrs. Krueger is the wife of Karl Krueger, orchestra conductor. She was shot by Charles L. McDonald, estranged husband of her maid.

A second blood transfusion was given Mrs. Krueger this morning and her condition improved rapidly. She has one wound in her side and another in her leg. McDonald shot Mrs. Krueger when she stepped from her automobile in front of a dancing school, where she went to get her daughter.

McDonald is in the Los Angeles county jail. He admitted he had followed Theresa Krueger home from school and said he only was trying to locate his wife. Krueger said Mrs. McDonald left their employ several times and always returned on the plea that she needed the job to support herself and daughter. McDonald blamed Mrs. Krueger for his domestic troubles.

Arrow points to hole cut in floor of tobacco store by robbers who entered through basement apartment.

Burglars who wanted to rob a tobacco store at 10847 South Michigan avenue took possession of the basement apartment below it early yesterday. Then they chopped their way through the ceiling and carried out $1,800 worth of cigars and cigarets.

There were three in the gang. Forcing their way into the apartment they pushed Arend Smith and his wife and daughter, Ina, 4 years old, into a rear room. One of the gang stood guard over the family while the others chopped the hole with axes and took the loot.

SOVIET PROTEST SENT JAPAN ON SHIP INCIDENT

MOSCOW, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Tass, official soviet news agency, today said the Moscow government had sent a note to Japan protesting "unprecedented lawless actions" concerning the alleged mistreatment of a Russian ship crew.

Tass said information received by the commissariat of foreign affairs established that the crew of the soviet ship Refrigerator I. was detained by Japanese authorities May 31 in Soya Strait and subjected to inhuman treatment by Japanese at the port of Wakkanai, on the northernmost Japanese island of Hokkaido.

The message said members of the crew, including Capt. Bykovsky, were beaten with sticks and their feet tortured with electric current in order to extract information on the armed forces of the U. S. S. R., and the internal situation of the country.

Soviet Planes Over Border.

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—An undated Domei [Japanese news agency] dispatch today declared six soviet Russian bombing planes crossed the Manchukuo border and circled over Hunchun, a few miles from Changkufeng, scene of a month-long frontier incident ended by truce Aug. 11. The planes, flying in formation, dropped no bombs. Another plane was reported over Keiko, across the Siberian border.

FRANCO REJECTS BRITISH PLEA TO BAN ALIEN TROOPS

Changes Asked; Most Nations Will Balk.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The reply of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, leader of the Spanish rebels, to the British proposal for withdrawing foreign volunteer soldiers from Spain was received today. It amounts to a virtual refusal of the scheme.

Such fundamental objections are made that the scheme is believed to be doomed since the other powers are not likely to accede to the changes demanded.

Though not a direct refusal, the reply is what one source describes as a complicated and torturous analysis.

Public Gets Text Tomorrow.

The text of the document, containing 1,500 words, will be given to members of the nonintervention committee tomorrow and released to the public on Monday.

The earl of Plymouth, chairman of the committee, will return to London from a vacation in South Wales tomorrow to study the reply and will consult other members. He will call a formal meeting later in the week.

It already is reported, however, that Jean Maisky, soviet ambassador to London, has informed the foreign office that Russia will not consider further concessions.

Objects to Big Withdrawals.

So far as is known the chief point which Franco wants changed is the requirement that a "substantial withdrawal" of foreign volunteers be made before belligerent rights are granted to both sides. That proviso was put in so neither party can get belligerent rights under the British plan and then change their minds about withdrawing foreigners. If not dead, the scheme certainly is in a tight spot and observers here do not expect to see it put into effect.

Meanwhile, Italy's continued refusal to say "yes" or "no" to British inquiries as to whether she has sent new aid to Franco recently is taken as virtual confirmation of those reports. The British, in any case, would not have asked Rome formally unless she already knew pretty certainly that the reports were true.

Italy Stalls Along.

Sir Noel Charles, counsellor of the British embassy in Rome, twice asked Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, about the reports and each time was stalled off.

The Anglo-Italian treaty negotiated last spring and prized by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, is near collapse, it is believed here. Air attacks on British ships and renewal in the Italian press of boasts about air exploits in Spain are taken as signs that Premier Mussolini considers a Franco victory more important at the moment than British good will.

Lindbergh Visits Moscow Factories; Anne Sees Art

MOSCOW, Aug. 20. — (AP) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh visited industrial plants outside Moscow today, while Mrs. Lindbergh, here on an aerial trip with him, remained in the capital and toured museums and art galleries. The Lindberghs are expected to remain at least until next week.

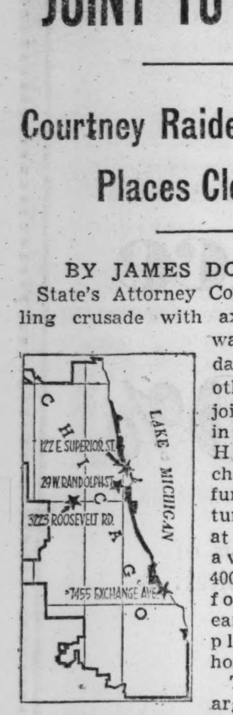
AXMEN WHACK 4TH GAMBLING JOINT TO PIECES

Courtney Raiders Find 3 Places Closed.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.



Stars mark four gambling dives raided in last four days.

State's Attorney Courtney's gambling crusade with axes instead of warants yesterday closed another gambling joint—the fourth in as many days. His policemen chopped up the furniture and fixtures of a room at 7455 Exchange avenue where 400 patrons were found in the early afternoon playing the horses.

The place was arge in size and had been reported as strong politically. It was in the 7th ward, on the south side, and in cutting it into smithereens, Courtney's men completed one circuit of the city.

They started in the loop, the 1st ward, last Wednesday. On Thursday they hit a north side political stronghold in the 42d ward and reduced it to debris. Friday they visited the west side, the 24th ward, where political machines usually deliver a solid vote, and left a trail of wreckage.

Axes Instead of Arrests.

As in the other surprise attacks on the gambling fraternity, Courtney's policemen made no arrests; that is, arrests to be followed by court appearances of the persons. Instead, as he had done on the other three days, Lieut. Tom Kelly locked up two men and ordered them held until 3 o'clock this morning, then freed without any charges placed against them. Courtney has found that judges and juries will not convict bookmakers so, it was explained, the new policy is to ax them out of business.

The men arrested yesterday were James Martin, 7620 Colfax avenue, and Edward Cohen, 8010 Exchange avenue. Kelly asked Cohen who owned the place. He replied that it was run by "The Outfit." He said he was payoff man and that the place took in $2,500 daily.

Martin, on the other hand, asserted he didn't know who owned the gambling house. He admitted he paid the employés, but when asked who paid him, Martin said, "Some guy whose name I don't know."

Find Money Cupboard Bare.

Lieut. Kelly said no money was found. He had to break in two doors to gain entrance for himself and his eight axmen. Thus the management had time to do something with its bankroll. The betting at this location was said to be so heavy that guards armed with shotguns were posted every day.

Lieut. Kelly said the telephone of the gambling joint was listed under the name of Rand's Smoke shop. William Rand is a political lieutenant of the Democratic ward committeeman, James Ryan, chief clerk in the county clerk's office, Kelly said. Rand has a trucking business and leases some trucks to the city.

The gambling quarters and some of Rand's trucks share the premises, an old garage, Kelly said. The space used by the gambling "outfit" measures about 75x150 feet. It had been partitioned into several rooms. Over one of the doorways was a sign—"Poker." In another room there was a chuckaluck game. There were tables for blackjack.

Women Patrons Numerous.

The room devoted to betting on horse races contained over 200 upholstered seats of the theater type. At least half of the patrons of yesterday were women. None of the patrons was seized.

The gambling house advertised by cards that it furnished "car service." Automobiles would pick up the players anywhere on the south side and take them home after they had made their bets.

While this garage temple of chance was Lieut. Kelly's destination when he started out yesterday afternoon, he made three stops before reaching it. He tried to get into a place near 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue, supposedly operated by the Skidmore-Johnson syndicate. It was closed, as were two others, he said.

The policy of the prosecutor was said to be to carry the war to the most powerful, politically, financially, and otherwise of the gambling groups. His first raid was directed against a supposed Capone syndicate betting parlor.

Courtney's four smashes at syndicate gambling were all in the city. Raids in the suburbs were made yesterday by county highway policemen who are under the jurisdiction of Sherif John Toman. The highway policemen, however, did not carry axes, and they did no damage to equipment. They did arrest eleven persons charged with being keepers or inmates of gambling houses.

Five arrests were made in Melrose Park, three in Cicero, one in Lyons, and two in Willow Springs. All prisoners were released on bond and will face trial before country town magistrates.

ARCHITECTS HOLD UP BLIND LANDING BEAM AT AIRPORT

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Installation of a new experimental blind landing system for airplanes at Chicago airport has been delayed because city architects cannot decide upon the type of building that is to house it.

This was reported yesterday to airport and aeronautical officials by city engineers. They said the small building which is to protect the delicate ultra-high frequency radio blind landing transmitter from wind and weather will not be finished for another two weeks. The transmitter cannot be put into operation for another thirty days, they said.

Completion of the new blind landing system had been promised by Aug. 15. The transmitter was built by the Bendix Radio corporation and a crew of experts at the field has been ready to assemble it for weeks.

It was explained at the city hall that the architects have been unable to reach a decision because they want the architecture of the transmitter structure to conform with the style to be used in constructing the new terminal building at the field.

Plans for the terminal have not yet been approved. It will be built on the north half of the field near Cicero avenue and 55th street when the airport ultimately is expanded from its present 300 acres to 595 acres.

The aeronautical radio technical committee that decided to place the transmitter at Chicago has told the city that any style of building will be agreeable so long as the materials used in its construction will not interfere with the radio signals.

The new transmitter is a gift to Chicago. It will be rented to the city by Aeronautical Radio, a not for profit radio communications corporation in which twenty-eight commercial air line operators are co-owners. The rental will be $1 a year.

Signals from the transmitter will be sent out on two antennas. The same frequency—93,900 kilocycles—will be used for both. The transmitter will be installed at the southeast corner of the field. Approaches on the dual runway and glide path beams will be made over the northwest-southeast runway. This will be 7,000 feet long when the airport is expanded.

The only other cities where these transmitters are to be placed are Newark, N. J., and Oakland and Burbank, Cal. The new experimental landing system will be used only for pilot training purposes for the next year.

ROBBERS HOLD UP DRUG STORES.

Two robbers took $295 yesterday in holdups of drug stores at 3634 North avenue and 3302 Milwaukee avenue.

Cornstalks Over 16 Feet Make Farmer Champion

Marion, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Charles Guy of Cambria was declared champion corn raiser at the annual Williamson county farmers' and merchants' picnic here yesterday. His corn stalks measured from the first joint above the roots to the tip of the tassle, sixteen feet seven inches. Several entries were over fourteen feet high.

What causes your STOMACH TROUBLE
A United Medical Service is fully equipped to discover the cause — and it is very important to know!

MORE people, perhaps, suffer from stomach disturbances than from other ailments, yet very few realize the dangerous possibilities which they frequently present. While many digestive up-sets are the result of worry, fear and the strain of modern life, many others are caused by disease. The most serious of these are ulcers and cancer of the stomach, liver and gall-bladder trouble, a diseased appendix, heart disease and other dangerous conditions.

It is difficult to judge by symptoms alone. A sensitive stomach with no disease present may react the same as where a very serious condition exists. For this reason it is highly important that every stomach disorder be traced to its source and corrective treatment started without delay. For all symptoms if allowed to persist may be followed by dangerous organic changes. The X-ray studies pictured above show five different conditions responsible for stomach distress. Three indicate serious diseases, two indicate no disease, yet symptoms in all five were practically the same. Symptoms that should receive early medical attention are: dyspepsia or indigestion, belching sour material, nausea, vomiting and abdominal pains.

Proper treatment, however, cannot be instituted until the exact cause of the disorder has been determined. Self-treatment with patent medicines or diets is extremely dangerous. While it may afford temporary relief, it also may cause delay in the diagnosis of a serious disease. An X-ray examination of the stomach, gall-bladder and intestinal tract is necessary to obtain the earliest and most positive diagnosis of a stomach disorder. Modern medicine recognizes this fact but patients often fail to receive such examinations on account of their excessive cost elsewhere.

Since the organization of a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE five and one-half years ago these adequate medical protective services are no longer an expensive procedure. X-ray examinations as well as other modern medical facilities have been made available to all income groups within their ability to pay. And what is more important, a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE is a complete and fully responsible service. It was organized by Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, outstanding pioneer in providing low cost medical care to the people of Chicago for the past eighteen years. His medical associates are men of long experience and training with special knowledge in the different fields of medicine. If you are ill, come to this well equipped, responsible medical organization and let its well trained physicians determine the cause and prescribe proper treatment. Note the low fees for the many different services.

PORTRAIT OF A TYRANT AS A YOUNG MAN.

Angelica Balabanoff, the daughter of a Russian middle class family, who went into exile to be the pre-war associate of Lenin, Plekhanov, Zinoviev, and the socialists and Marxists of a dozen countries, has written her memoirs. She was with Lenin and the bolshevists who at the outbreak of the Kerensky revolution obtained permission from Germany to cross over from Switzerland to Sweden and to Russia and turn the Russians away from the war and into the dictatorship of the proletariat. She was the first secretary of the Third International. She came out of her experiences still a rebel but with a lost cause. The bolsheviki cracked up after they won.

Among several world characters with whom her recollections chiefly deal is an emigré she met while he was a young man in an unusual state of poverty, wretchedness, and unstable mentality even for an exile and outcast. She relates that he first came to her notice at a meeting of socialists in Lausanne, where she was the speaker. She particularly observed him for his agitated manner and unkempt clothes. Among the poorly dressed he was extremely dirty. He was nervous and seemed extraordinarily self-involved. Her curiosity was aroused and she asked friends if anybody knew this stranger.

She was told he was an Italian who thought he was a socialist but seemed to have no clear idea of what socialism was. One man told her that the fellow was nearly starved and that the comrades had been endeavoring to feed him, even using the party funds. The wife of one had made the man some underwear out of a sheet. He was plainly a victim of himself and of life, was supposed to have been a hard drinker, to be diseased mentally and physically, semi-hysterical much of the time, incapable or unwilling to work, at least at manual labor.

Angelica sought out the derelict and asked if there wasn't a way in which she could help him. He replied with an outburst of emotion that no one could help him. There was no reason why any one should. He was always out of luck, he said, and he couldn't get any work he was physically able to do. He was too sick. A publisher had offered him 50 francs to make a translation of a Kautsky pamphlet. He couldn't do it because he only knew a few commonplace German words. That was his kind of luck. Angelica said that she knew German and would help him. He was suspicious of her. He was nervous and excitable, but she persisted and he agreed to accept the help.

When she sealed the bargain by offering her hand, she asked: "And what is your name, comrade?" "Benito Mussolini," he replied.

Comrade Balabanoff's picture of the socialist origins of Il Duce is the most unflattering of all drawn of him by his former associates in exile and may have the distortions inevitable in the account of an embittered communist whose early enthusiasms were betrayed on every hand, not only as Benito did but as her Red companions persistently and consistently have been doing.

Gradually Mussolini, better fed and better clothed through the interest taken in him, became less hysterical and less timid, was able to absorb some of the socialist doctrins to which he thought he was committed. Angelica says that his sense of inferiority was his impelling motivation. When he had picked up odds and ends of the socialist and Marxian doctrin his associates discovered that he was what is called a Blanquist, a disciple of the French socialist Blanqui, whose formula was that of the terrorist coup d'état, something to be achieved by a violent and sudden use of force.

When the king of Italy granted amnesty to minor political offenders in exile Mussolini, who had run away to escape military service, returned to Italy and became the editor of the Socialist party paper, Avanti, with whom for a time Balabanoff worked. Benito advocated, among other things, a popular uprising against the African imperialistic adventure of Italy in Tripoli. Mussolini preached a revolt of the plain people against the African adventurism.

The bitterness with which his old comrades in exile later observed the progress of the turncoat who destroyed the socialist-communist elements of Italy is unequaled, as it naturally would be, in modern vituperative literature. To them even Stalin is not so complete a traitor to the ideas which were discussed by the émigrés and exiles protected by the hospitality of Switzerland while they waited for their hour to strike, not knowing how close the hands of the clock were to it.

This bitterness, as has been said, will distort the picture. But the convert, if not the renegade, in Mussolini cannot be denied and the neuroses and psychosis of his youth are undoubtedly explanations of his subsequent conduct, as they are of the conduct of most of the governing class of the world today.

Sigmund Freud, driven from Austria by Mr. Hitler's Nazis but allowed to go into exile, is the man who should write the history of the Europe of the present. He and the psychiatrists, the men who know what physical and mental maladjustments do to human beings, can interpret what has happened in the last ten or twenty years in the various great countries to produce the witch's dream of government which oppresses civilization and threatens to destroy it unless there can be a fortunate and timely return of the pendulum from the extremes of hysteria into which emotion has led the subject and tortured peoples.

The rulers do not exhibit all the characteristics of madmen. Their subtleties of lunacy are not revealed in wildly rolling eyes, bristling hair, and clutching fingers. They are expressed in the imperial orders and edicts which govern tramping, shouting men and threaten to throw armed masses at each other in conflicts which have no reason other than to be found in the fermenting brains of small tyrants fighting their sense of inferiority by presenting a ferocious megalomania to a dumfounded world.

60 CENT WHEAT.

President Roosevelt declared at the outset of his administration that he could make the farmers prosperous. To measure the progress of the farmers toward the objective the department of agriculture constructed an index. The normal or 100 was the ratio between the prices of what farmers sold and what they bought in the period from 1909 to 1914.

"Those five years preceding the beginning of the world war were years of fair prosperity in this country," the President said in a speech in Chicago in which he described the index. "They were the last years before the widespread disturbance caused by the world war took place in our economic life: This is a fairly satisfactory way of measuring our efforts."

Now let us take the reading of the official barometer of farm prosperity. In May 1933, AAA was created. In that month the index stood at 67. One year later, in May, 1934, it was up to 68. By devaluing the dollar, paying a bounty on pregnant sows and little pigs, plowing up partly grown cotton and reducing other groups by means of benefits, the reading was raised 1 point in a year.

At the rate of 1 point per year it would take 32 years to raise the prosperity index to the desired normal. Pre-war conditions would not be restored until the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of war. Then something happened: It didn't rain. Prices soared. The index farm prosperity hit the century mark. The drouth made Roosevelt a genius.

Mr. Roosevelt told all about how he had done it in his campaign speeches in 1936. He had planned it that way. He had lifted prices on the farm up to the level where the farmer and his family can live, although he was opposed by the greedy few who "profit from depression and from low farm prices."

The department of agriculture still publishes the index of purchasing power, but doesn't talk about it much. For the index for last June was down to 74. Since June prices of a number of commodities have risen, but farm prices have sagged. Since the middle of June wheat has dropped 25 cents and corn 6 cents. The purchasing power index must be close to the 67 level, where it was when Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace went to work on it. By its own test of success the present national administration has made a miserable failure of its efforts to make agriculture a prosperous and stable industry.

ILLINOIS' STRIKE RECORD.

The strike on the North Shore electric line is receiving a great deal of attention because it is one of the few serious labor disputes to occur in this state in some months.

Illinois' record in this respect is relatively good. In the first three months of this year, the latest period for which the facts are at hand, 84,000 man days of work were lost in Illinois because of strikes. New York, with double the population, lost four times as much. Pennsylvania, with a population only 20 per cent greater than is found in Illinois, had double the strike loss.

The record speaks well for employers and employés alike in this state. Evidently there is more understanding and tolerance on both sides here than in other jurisdictions. Our employers have learned for the most part to meet labor in a spirit of friendliness and our union leaders to accept their share of the responsibility for maintaining good relations.

We have been fortunate, too, in the attitude of our public officials. Labor racketeering has not been tolerated here, at least in recent years, to the extent it is found in New York and Pennsylvania. That has minimized the influence of gangsters in union affairs in Illinois and has made it relatively easy to maintain peaceful and friendly relations.

THE AIRPORT.

Progress in the expansion of the Chicago airport is disappointingly slow. Months have passed since the assembly at Springfield passed the enabling legislation which was to facilitate the removal of the Western Indiana tracks and permit the enlargement of the field; and still the matter stands about as it was in the spring.

Fortunately for Chicago, the delivery of the forty-passenger planes to the air lines has been delayed and for that reason, and only for that reason, Chicago still retains its position as the center of the nation's aviation lines. Once the larger planes are placed in service Chicago will find itself reduced to the rank of a jerkwater station unless the field has been enlarged to accommodate the new equipment.

The time has come for the city council to take a hand in the matter. There is need for an inquiry to determine the cause of the delay and to eliminate it.

Editorial of the Day

BO McMILLIN.

[Daily Pantagraph.]

Among the darlings of fate, such as Lindbergh, Corrigan, et al, may be classed Bo McMillin, just selected by a popular vote of nearly 5,000,000 to be head coach of the All-Star football team for the coming match.

On the day when Bo, playing on the team for little Centre college in Kentucky, beat great Harvard university by his one man sprint, he might have thought that the peak of his career was at hand. His feat on the grid was one of the most sensational upsets in the history of football, and when he was presented with the ball which he carried on his winning score he thought he had attained the acme of his desires.

Although a modest chap, like Lindbergh, Corrigan, and other heroes, Bo McMillin did not sink back into gridiron oblivion, but kept on going up, because the people like the cut of his jib.

Since that day he has held coaching jobs and is rated a topnotcher among United States coaches.

Now comes his crowning glory, being selected head coach of the national All-Stars in competition with some of the other great names in American football.

LAND OF MANY CLASSES

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—The social stratum of Japan is divided today into considerably more layers than the usual upper, middle, and lower classes. At the top there is the very thin upper crust comprised of people who dwell, as the Japanese put it, "above the clouds." These are members of the imperial family and consist, besides the emperor and the empress, only of princes and princesses of the blood. The imperial family is deeply concerned with the welfare of the people but takes absolutely no part in politics.

Ordinary princes, such as Prince Saionji, the last surviving elder statesman; Prince Tokugawa, descendant of the Shoguns who once ruled the land, and Prince Shimazu, one of the wealthiest landowners in the country, are not in this category.

Immediately below the thin imperial layer come the old nobility. Led by princes not of the blood, such as Prince Saionji, Premier Prince Konoe, and Prince Tokugawa, they include all the marquises, viscounts, and a few barons.

Then come the multi-millionaires and the new nobility. Here are to be found the industrial, financial, banking, and business tycoons. Here are to be found what the common people generalize as "the capitalists." Here are to be found the richest people in Japan, headed by the Mitsuis, Iwasakis, Sumitomos, Okuras, Yasudas—the so-called "Big Five." They are Japan's du Ponts, Mellons, Rockefellers, and Morgans—only far more so.

* * *

They are the most powerful group of men outside of the army. They are so powerful as a group that not even the radical elements in the army, which strongly oppose them, can do anything to them. The army, much against the will of the younger officers, has had to seek the coöperation of this group in all important undertakings.

Here are the men who, comprising less than one-half of 1 per cent of the population, control between 70 and 80 per cent of Japanese trade and industry. It is conservatively estimated that the "Big Five" alone control over 50 per cent of the nation's trade and industry.

The Seiyukai and Minseito political parties, which are the counterpart in Japan of the Republican and Democratic parties in America, dare not offend the "Big Five." It is generally admitted that the Mitsuis subsidize the Seiyukai and the Mitsubishi [the Iwasaki family] are behind the Minseito.

This is not to say, however, that the "Big Five" control the political parties. Such is far from the truth. Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yasuda, Sumitomo, and Okura money is invested in the parties more as a safeguard than anything else.

There are no anti-trust laws in Japan and the "Big Five" do not want such legislation to be introduced, much less passed. Therein lies one of the most important reasons for their heavy backing of candidates of the Seiyukai and Minseito.

Likewise, also, the "Big Five" and the other families in this category are heavy investors in practically every important newspaper. In many cases they have enough money in individual newspapers to permit them to dictate to them, but they never have been known to do this. They let the newspapers do very much as they please, just so they are not used as weapons against them. The papers have, on occasion, attacked the "capitalists," but never in a rabid manner such as they employ in attacking the government.

* * *

The newspaper business, by the way, is about the only unprofitable undertaking in which the money of the tycoons is to be found. Newspapers seldom make money in Japan, but they wield tremendous influence.

For years the so-called money barons swallowed practically everything in sight which showed promise of becoming a big enterprise. Often they employed unethical practices. Since 1930, when a wave of national resentment led by young army officers resulted in the assassination of the executive head of the Mitsui empire and threatened the very existence of the "Big Five," these people rapidly have changed their methods.

This has resulted in putting the upper middle class on its feet. This layer in Japan's social stratum is growing rapidly at present. In this class are to be found the men who are pushing Japan's industrialization and foreign trade.

These are the people who are beginning to own expensive private automobiles and are patronizing the golf and country clubs, joining the Rotary clubs, and raising the standard of living of a large section of the people. This class is growing more and more important and is the backbone of the country's future business and industrial growth. In many cases it is interlocked by family and financial ties with the "Big Five" and others in that category.

It is a common saying in Japan that a man cannot rise without pull. There is more pull in this country than anywhere else with the possible exception of China. This is not strange, for the family system governs Japanese society. But this does not mean that a man without good family connections cannot succeed. As a matter of fact many of the big men of Japan today come from the common people and are what are known in other countries as "self-made" men.

* * *

By a peculiar Japanese custom total strangers are frequently made members of a family by adoption or by marriage. In a country where marriages are contracted not so much for love as for family considerations this custom has proved eminently satisfactory.

It may be unusual for the head of a big enterprise in the United States to call in one of his most enterprising young men and ask him to marry his daughter. This is a common practice in Japan. If the head of the enterprise unfortunately has no daughters and is convinced that his sons are incapable of handling his affairs, he may ask the young man to become his son by adoption.

Below the upper middle class comes the lower middle class. This is comprised of salary earners. They constitute the most highly educated group of people in the country. Strangely, this class earns the least money—outside of the common laborers—raises the biggest families and pays proportionately the highest ratio of taxes. This is the nearest approach to the vast middle class in America.

Below this class comes the upper lower class, the highly paid technical factory workers. The lower middle class people do not mix socially with this category of people.

* * *

Then comes the lower class, the people who are doing most of the hard work and getting little for it.

Next are the scums—the rag pickers, river boat dwellers, and the idle.

Then come the "untouchables." The Japanese used to regard this class just as India regards her untouchables. Only rarely is an untouchable able to marry a person from an ordinary family. Many of the untouchables are well-to-do and since the government some years ago forbade mention of the word "Eta" in birth certificates and other records, it has become more and more difficult to distinguish an untouchable. Once this fact becomes known, however, he is stigmatized and those around him stop associating with him.

Below the scum and the untouchables come the lepers. Because there is no compulsory segregation; lepers may wander wherever they please. Occasionally members of well-to-do families contract the disease and every effort is made to hide the secret. Once the fact becomes known all members of the family and even distant relatives are shunned. Although medical science claims that leprosy is not hereditary, no Japanese will wed the daughter of a family in which there is a leper "strain."

HOW MANY ARE PHYSICALLY ROBUST?

If we are not ill are we in possession of health? If we reply in the affirmative we echo a popular but mistaken notion. A trained physician, observing a group of individuals, is struck by many evidences, no so much of acute disease, as of lack of buoyant hardiness. This one may show excessive fatigue while another may exhibit a mild grade of anemia. Still another may display a poor posture, which is sure to decrease the air capacity of the chest and throw out of position the abdominal organs. The chap with a pendulous abdomen betrays gross overweight. He is encouraging an additional strain upon the heart and the circulation. Of a group of college boys one out of every ten will present some manifestation of substandard vitality.

Where does health come from? A strong physical constitution is inherited—it comes from our parents. As far as illness is concerned, we invite it through bad habits, neglect, or occasionally because of an environment beyond our power to modify or escape. The child of a tuberculous mother, for example, if removed promptly from her vicinity and reared under sanitary conditions, will pass the affliction by; but leave the infant in her charge and it will most certainly become infected.

We should not, therefore, content ourselves merely with the fact that we are not facing—at the moment—pneumonia, arthritis, or some kidney disorder. In the absence of all recognizable maladies we must make and take every opportunity to bring vigor to the degree at which resistance to infection will be so high that no damage will be done—should it come. It will then roll off the system much as water will drain from a duck's back.

Most of us take good health for granted. This is a perfectly natural point of view. It is only when some ailment strikes at an important organ and a towering physical structure—a friend, perhaps—topples and falls that we give much concern to ourselves. We are far more likely to push the old machine to the limit of endurance without considering the consequences. As a result, every physician marvels at the numerous instances of needless invalidism; all because the victim will not use the same intelligence about himself that he applies to his business, his social activities, or even to his play.

A week or two ago I was discussing with a camp director the question of the general physical stamina of high school boys. I was astonished and disheartened by his pronouncement that 60 per cent of the lads under his care showed imperfect chest development with low lung capacities. Underweight was far more common than overweight—22 per cent as compared with 4. He had determined to do one thing—namely, before the end of the six weeks' season he planned to square scores of shoulders and add an average of several pounds.

There is a well known Italian saying that air is more needful than bread and there is no time more propitious for the building of stalwart physiques than during childhood. Oxygen is essential to the activity of the muscles. In order to use it properly we must build an adequate bony cage in which to house the lungs. This means breathing exercises which, if persisted in, will oblige the body to furnish sufficient room. Good red blood will come as a natural sequence and, armed with these two factors—oxygen and a sufficient supply of hemoglobin—food will be used to construct a stout frame.

It is not too much to ask that every thinking person make a modest effort to learn something about himself; the way the parts operate and their functions. He will thus be able to detect squeaks and creaks should they appear and, by some minor adjustment, make the necessary moves for their elimination. We should be more than guests or passengers within our bodies on the journey through life.

I heard recently a business man in a neighboring city say of a local physician that he was the most valuable member of the community. He cannot function as a health banker but he can render service as a friendly counselor and adviser for the enhancement of well being.

YES; LIMIT EXERCISE.

M. B. writes: Is it safe for a man of 55—with a blood pressure of 180—to go to an elevation of 8,000 feet on vacation? He has no heart or kidney complications.

REPLY.

ILLINOIS SALES TAX.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Will you kindly give me information about the [1] law recently passed at Springfield concerning a tax of 3 per cent on sales or resales made by piano tuners? [2] Do I pay a tax of 3 cents on every dollar's worth of piano material I purchase at a wholesale house, or [3] do I pay a tax of 3 cents on each dollar I receive from the customer? If the answer to 3 is yes, do I also pay a tax of 3 per cent on the tuning of the piano? F. S.

1. There has been no new legislation in this field, but in April of this year Judge Fisher granted an injunction restraining the department of finance from collecting the tax from a concern selling findings, the theory being that the person rendering a service such as yours is the retail dealer, and hence the one subject to the tax. The department issued a mimeograph to the effect that it was guiding itself by this decision and a month ago we stated these facts in one of our answers which has been privately reprinted. We are now informed that an appeal has been taken from Judge Fisher's decision and that until decision on the appeal the department is adhering to its original position that the concern selling the findings is the retail dealer, and hence the one subject to the tax.

2. No. You would not do this under either ruling. Under the ruling now applied by the department, you presumably pay a price increase on your purchases of findings, but what you pay is not technically a tax. Your seller pays the tax. If the appeal is unsuccessful, you will pay the tax direct to the department. Technically, there is a possibility of a double liability, but we would expect the administrative officials to make an effort to avoid such injustice.

3. As above stated, you do not pay a tax under the present ruling. The price increase that you pay will apply only to the findings.

4. Clearly not, under the present ruling. Even if that ruling is reversed so that you are held as the retail dealer it would seem practicable for you to separate the tuning service from your retail sales and pay the tax only on the latter.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO DISINHERIT.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How can an adopted child be disinherited when one also has a child of one's own? 2. Is there no way to make adoption papers void? L. S.

1. A parent can disinherit any of his children by will. This means that if you leave a will giving your estate to your blood children your adopted child will have no claim unless he can prove undue influence or lack of mental capacity.

2. If the foregoing does not cover what you have in mind, please state the facts on which your further questions arise.

"BOB" INGERSOLL.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 18.—August 21 marks the 105th anniversary of the birth in Dresden, N. Y., of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll—"Bob" as he was affectionately known to thousands of friends, among them the writer's grandfather and father.

No man in our country's history faced more vituperation than Ingersoll, but few today will not admit that he was a truly great American. Had he held different religious views, Ingersoll, without question, would have become President. No American was ever better qualified than he for the presidency. The late great Senator Beveridge asserted that Ingersoll has had no peer as an orator in all recorded history. Another great writer recently wrote: "Ingersoll's words go singing around the earth to inspire men who never knew him. Men may forget his theological debates, but they cannot forget that of all moderns he made the word liberty something vital, giving men the hope that liberty might be attainable if men purged themselves of isolating hatreds and intolerances."

Ingersoll's path was straight; his motives pure and his integrity unstained. As he lived he died. "Unshrinkingly he passed to the twilight beyond the purple hills." T. M. SMITH.

RAIL EMPLOYES' PASSES.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Free transportation for railroad employés seems to be a pet peeve for some people. True, Uncle Sam does not permit his employés to frank their letters. But he does give them a paid vacation.

If some of these people with paid vacations would travel by train the railroads might make enough so they could give us a vacation with pay. Besides, I am sure Mr. Traveler would return rested and eager for the old job instead of so tired he feels worse than when he started.

There are any number of people who never think of taking a trip on a train but are always looking for a free ride in some friend's car.

My husband has been a railroad employé for thirty years. We have had two trips, these to visit a sister whose health will not permit her coming here. Yes, we used a pass. Our meals and sleeper had to be paid for and when we returned our rent and bills were due. There was no vacation pay waiting, we had to work two weeks and get behind in bills before we saw a pay envelope again. A SWITCHMAN'S WIFE.

OLD TYRANNY; NEW CLOTHES.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 18.—Mr. Roosevelt's Georgia speech in which he sought to read Senator George out of the Democratic party, and in which he affirmed the amazing doctrin that it is the duty of congress merely to approve the will of the executive, marks him as the greatest reactionary in American history. It is a deliberate attempt to revive the doctrin of autocratic rule advocated by Thomas Wentworth in the reign of Charles I. and resisted by John Hampden and other patriots, many of whom fled to America and inspired the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

Read the Roosevelt speech and then read these words from Green's History of England:

"Wentworth's aim was to force . . . such a system as the Tudors had clung to, where a large and noble policy placed the sovereign naturally at the head of the people and where parliaments sank into mere aids of the crown."

Now the New Deal turns out, what many of us have claimed all along, to be the old tyranny in new clothes. If, as Mr. Roosevelt told Georgians, Senator George is a "feudalist" because he stands up for his independence of the legislative branch of our government, then Washington and Jefferson were feudalists and the Declaration of Independence is a lie. ROWING IN SAME BOAT.

Hinsdale, Ill., Aug. 15.—Yes, Daily Reader from Geneseo, you're right; the small business man is taxed until he can't draw a salary for himself. I'm rowing in the same boat with you, and the rowing is hard and getting harder, for we are so overweighted and penalized with taxes that thousands like you and me, hiring four to six men, will see our boat sink unless weight is thrown overboard. Can it be that it has all been "planned" this way?

WHO ARE THE BENEFICIARIES?

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Where does the money go that is taken in at the "President's Birthday Balls" for infantile paralysis? I have a friend who has infantile paralysis and she is very much deformed by it, but she has a brilliant mind. She has been put out in the Oak Forest infirmary. Why couldn't some of that money from the balls be used to help this girl?

JUST ANOTHER CRIPPLE.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—The highly irregular Paris weather this year—a hot March, icy spring, freezing weather in June, and a succession of downpours since then—calls attention to some new opinions about the Gulf stream which supposedly meanders across the Atlantic.

Now M. le Danois, director of the French bureau of sea fisheries, attacks the theory that the Gulf stream affects France's weather by serving as a unique heating apparatus.

Danois declares the Gulf stream does not exist and never did. He has another theory to explain why Paris, farther north than Quebec, never has a snowdrift and why skating ice doesn't happen every winter or for very long.

Danois' theory is one of Atlantic pulsations, movements which are unpredictable. His views were well received at the recent meeting in Copenhagen of the international council for exploring the sea.

Among observations tending to discredit the prevalent Gulf stream beliefs are records of the movements of war mines, wrecks and floating débris off the coast of France. Instead of being cast up on the shores of Scotland and Norway, the objects were found in great number around the Azores, in a direction opposite to the supposed flow of the Gulf stream.

These observations have been confirmed by various scientific expeditions and tests, notably that of the prince of Monaco, who aboard his oceanographic yacht experimented with floats distributed here and there where the gulf current was supposed to flow.

Danois' theory, the result of thousands of recordings of ocean temperature and of the degree of saltiness of the water, assumes that the Atlantic has two layers of water. The bottom layer, like that of the arctic, is relatively cold and free from salt. Above this floats a great sheet of warm, salty water.

This conforms with the oceanographic principle that two big masses of water of different temperatures and different degrees of saltiness do not mix. One bit of evidence supporting the theory is the fact that "dead seas" in which neither animal nor plant life can exist have been found off the island of St. Helena in the South Atlantic and in the Pacific off Chile. That is, the "dead seas" are bodies of water which do not mix with the rest of the ocean.

Affected by the moon, the sun and other influences which are not fully known, the great sheet of warm salty water on the Atlantic contracts and expands, Danois asserts. These slow pulsations, the "heartbeats of the Atlantic," are such that the warm water in some years or seasons reaches only as far as the British Isles and in other years or seasons gets as far as the Scandinavian countries, and sometimes beyond, in the direction of Spitzbergen, exerting their moderating effect on the climates of the countries concerned.

4,000 KENTUCKY MINERS QUIT C.I.O. FOR A. F. L. UNION

Twenty Locals Chartered by Progressives.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Joe Ozanic, president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, announced last night his union had "chartered" the entire district of the Independent Miners union in western Kentucky, embracing twenty locals and 4,000 members.

He asserted the new district of the P. M. W. A., designated as No. 4, "will assume full jurisdiction over all mine workers employed in and around the coal mines, coal washeries, coke ovens and rescreening plants within the boundaries of what heretofore was known as district 23" [of the United Mine Workers].

Ozanic said that before their affiliation with his union, which is a unit of the A. F. of L., the independent miners were members of the C. I. O.'s United Mine Workers. About three years ago, he said, they "seceded from the United Mine Workers' organization due to the dictatorial and iron rule methods of John L. Lewis and his autocratic associates."

Lists Charters Issued.

"The Independent Miners union and its entire membership," Ozanic continued, "realized that the Progressive Mine Workers of America is the only bona fide mine workers union in existence in the American coal fields."

He said the charter was issued to the following district officers: R. M. Nance, president; S. R. Wood, vice president; Nolan Clark, secretary-treasurer, and Luther Barnett, W. D. Robison and Willie T. Brooks, executive board members. These officials, Ozanic said, would serve the members of the new district until a district convention is held. Charters also were issued to the twenty locals.

The P. M. W. A. began an aggressive organizing campaign in American coal fields immediately after it was granted an A. F. of L. charter in May, 1937.

The union was born in Illinois during the coal miners' war started in March, 1932, by the termination of the $6.10 basic wage scale. Dissatisfied miners broke away from the United Mine Workers organization and a long series of bloody disputes between the two factions followed.

Organizes in West Virginia.

Ozanic also announced the P. M. W. A. had established and chartered a local in Dorton, Ky., composed of some eighty-eight workers employed at the Elkhorn Coal company's mine.

A new local also was established and chartered yesterday at Sharoon, W. Va., when, Ozanic said, a majority of the 260 workers voted for P. M. W. A. affiliation.

He said it was expected that several more large locals in West Virginia, now affiliated with the U. M. W. A., would take the same action and would be chartered by the P. M. W. A.

TAVERN PATRONS LOSE $5,000 TO FIVE MASKED BANDITS

Five masked Negro bandits made a daring raid early yesterday on Cochran's Wonder Bar, 6352 Broadway, terrorized more than forty patrons and escaped with loot estimated at between $5,000 and $10,000.

The robbers entered the bar after cutting their way through barbed wire barriers in the rear. The leader carried a shotgun, and the others revolvers. They compelled their victims, half of whom were smartly dressed women, to lie on the floor.

The gunmen then systematically robbed each. One woman, whose name was not learned, reputedly lost jewelry valued at $3,000. Another lost a ring and a watch which cost $500. The individual cash losses ranged from a few dollars to $500, according to one report. The cash register alone yielded $200. No resistance was attempted.

Among those robbed, Summerdale police said, were Charles Bidwell, chain drug store owner; W. Linden, 1436 Rosemont avenue; Grace Fisk, 5724 Winthrop avenue; Miss E. Mathews and L. H. Johnson of 1311 Glenlake avenue; Alice Poulson, 6332 Winthrop avenue; R. Doherty, 1248 Rosemont avenue; D. Parrelli, 6311 Wayne avenue, and F. Hutter, 6252 Magnolia avenue.

Directs Payment of His Debts and Kills Himself

Thomas Moran, 48 years old, 4005 Irving Park road, wrote a note last night giving instruction for the payment of six personal debts ranging from $1 to $156. Then he killed himself with gas in the garage of the People's Gas Light and Coke company at 4647 Irving Park road, where he was employed as a mechanic.

Woman's Death by Pistol Bullet Called Accident

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that the shooting in which Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of 628 North May street was killed Friday was accidental. Mrs. Brown, who was 48 years old, was shot in the home of Mrs. Azelia Morrison at 1722 Warren avenue while Charles Benesh, 1652 Hubbard street, was loading a revolver. Benesh, Mrs. Morrison's son-in-law, said the weapon was accidentally discharged.

A VISITOR LEARNS HE IS NO MATCH FOR COIN SHARKS

Steve Bagi of Cleveland, O., found a new game here yesterday. The Chicago police had heard of it long ago.

Bagi was waiting for a bus in the Union bus depot, 1157 South Wabash avenue. A distinguished appearing man in tweed clothing, with an Oxford accent to match, suggested they go for a walk. Outside they met the Englishman's "dear friend."

To kill time they began matching pennies. Next it was dimes. Then it was quarters. Suddenly Bagi's new friends remembered a luncheon engagement. Bagi was out $16 by this time. When he told police they said he had gotten off cheaply.

LOSE TINS OF GAS DEADLY ENOUGH TO KILL HUNDREDS

Part of a shipment of deadly cyanide gas, enough to kill several hundred persons, was sought frantically by Chicago police yesterday when it was reported lost in the city.

Harry Kaufman, a licensed fumigator employed by the Pesticide company, 356 North State street, told police his company ordered two cases of the gas from the American Cyanamid and Chemical company's plant at Warners, N. J., and received only one. It was feared the other had gone astray. Opened by inexperienced persons it might cause a disaster.

Police went to the offices of the National Car Loading corporation, where record clerks insisted only one case of the gas had reached Chicago. Telegrams were sent to the shipper in New Jersey asking them to trace the missing case.

HORSE CAVALRY FINDS PLACE IN ARMY MANEUVER

Field Trials on Gulf Coast Prove Successful.

(Cavalry and its traditions, going back to the horse and chariot days, and the need for bigger and more mobile guns in connection with mechanized transport, are discussed by John Menaugh in today's Graphic Section.)

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The third army maneuvers in De Soto national forest, Mississippi, which ended recently with a successful "defense of New Orleans," were pronounced a success today by the army high command.

The maneuvers, it was said, demonstrated the importance of mobility and mechanization for which the army is striving. The combat exercises demonstrated that for "close tactical reconnaissance the horse still is very valuable." Thus the old standard arm, now often called "horse cavalry" to the irritation of veteran cavalrymen, finds its tactical place with modern mechanized cavalry.

Under the plans drawn for the maneuvers an attacking force, designated as the brown army, landed on the Mississippi coast near Biloxi and Gulfport in a campaign against New Orleans. The attacking force was met by the defending blue army in De Soto forest. Twenty-seven thousand men were engaged in the maneuvers.

Gateway to River Safe.

At the end of the maneuvers the major battle between the forces has not taken place and parts of both armies were in retreat. The brown forces were kept from destroying the blue army and New Orleans, the gateway to the Mississippi, was safe.

During the exercises various developments in the methods and material of war were tried out. Modern radio developments were used by both sides. Radio platoons of 35 to 40 men each were used to catch the signals of the "enemy" by both the defending and attacking forces.

The platoon operating with the blue force had little luck with the signals sent out by the brown army, because the latter used its radios warily and coded all its messages. Blue's messages, on the other hand, were sent in plain English, readily picked up, and used by the brown commanders.

Use Motorized Tricycle.

A new vehicle tested during the maneuvers was the motorized tricycle, an adaption of the familiar commercial product used by children. The military tricycle can carry the driver, two passengers on a rear seat, and perhaps one or more riders on a step between the two rear wheels.

What use will be made of it has not been determined, but it was developed to serve as a possibly speedy reconnaissance car or as a service bike to go to the assistance of motorized vehicles broken down while in transit.

Another recent development tested during the maneuvers is the stereo map. A mosaic of aerial photographs, it would be used in place of the contour maps now in service, but which have long been deemed unsatisfactory because of the lapse of time between their manufacture and their use. By using the stereo map a commander in the field is able to have a record of the theater of operations made only half an hour before he expects to begin his activities.

Force Change in Tactics.

These developments, symptoms of the general trend in military affairs, are forcing a change in the tactics and organization of armies. The American army is now slowly but surely undergoing the modification that has taken place in European military service.

Maj. Gen. George A. Lynch, chief of infantry, believes with some other military authorities in a program of bold experimentation and reasoning but rapid change as it is needed.

"We may be sure," Gen Lynch wrote in the infantry journal, "that whatever organization we accept today as adequate to our purpose, will be partially outmoded within a short period. We are living in a transitional period, where new developments in the domain of material are imposing corresponding changes in organization and tactics."

Defensive Holds Edge.

However, regardless of what changes may be made in the United States army or the forces of other countries, one basic fact remains unchallenged. The defensive still has an edge on the offensive because the machine gun still is supreme.

Events in Spain have shown that the only way to overcome machine gun fire is to bring to bear on the defenders a fire power two to four times that which they are able to muster.

While these general principles were reaffirmed during the third army maneuvers, the value of the training received by the troops engaged was not lessened even though no major "battle" was fought. Most of the operations, out of respect for air power, were carried on between the hours of midnight and noon of the following day.

The general tactical method during war games was for camps to be broken and advances to the "front lines" to be made between midnight and dawn. Then when daylight began to make free movement possible the attacks got under way.

2 Boys Burned as Gasoline Can Bursts Into Flame

Glen Stenwall and his cousin, Howard Wadstrom, both 10, of 1233 Linden avenue, Park Ridge, were seriously burned yesterday when a gallon can of gasoline burst into flame whil ethey were playing with a toy locomotive behind the Stenwall home at 6481 Oxford street. They were pretending the gasoline can was their fuel tank. Both boys were taken to the West Suburban hospital, Oak Park.

Army Studies New Uniforms

U. S. MAY CHEER AGAIN SOON FOR HER BOYS IN BLUE

Studies Winter Change from Olive Drab.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The army soon may march in wintertime in slate blue uniforms, instead of the familiar olive drab.

The war department announced today that woolen uniforms of the new color, described by some officers as "like faded blue denim," were under consideration.

Troops at five scattered posts will make field tests for a year, before officials decide finally whether to adopt the new shade for winter field wear by the nearly half million men in the regular army and national guard.

Olive Drab Shades Vary.

The slate blue apparently would be more nearly invisible to enemy airmen, it was said, and is easier to produce uniformly in woolens. During the world war olive drab shades of wool were found to vary with virtually every order.

Though the new color was described officially as "pleasing in appearance to the eye," the opinion of those who have seen it was far from unanimous. They reported it little resembled the French army's horizon blue. Some privately described it as "terrible" and "like a prison uniform."

The present cotton khaki uniform is to be retained for summer wear.

The field test was ordered after a year's study by a general staf board. Appearance was only one factor. One former major general, Johnson Hagood, has suggested overalls would be the most practical uniform, arguing they would be comfortable and easily manufactured.

Tans First Used in 1898.

The projected change would be the first of a major nature since Spanish-American war days, when tan shades displaced the blue for field wear. The world war brought the jaunty overseas cloth hat and the steel helmet, but the olive drab and khaki were retained.

New styles to be tested include trousers for the cavalry that resemble pantaloons, bagging over conventional type canvas leggins, and a shirt opening wide at the neck.

Others are mostly similar to existing types of uniform. Among them are two types of field caps, a field coat, a wool shirt with sport collar, wool trousers, breeches for cavalry, and two types of overcoat, one knee length and the other shorter.

The tests will be made by two cavalry troops at Fort Bliss, Texas, two batteries of field artillery, Madison Barracks, New York, two infantry companies at Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyoming, and one infantry company each at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, and Fort George G. Meade, Maryland.

Millard H. Boyce, Belvidere Insurance Executive, Dies

Belvidere, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Millard H. Boyce, 72 years old, lifelong resident of Belvidere, died today. He was secretary of the Lincoln Protective association, an insurance company which he organized in 1916. He served for fourteen years as manager of the Planes Screen Door and Stove company here. His parents were the late Judge and Mrs. M. M. Boyce. His widow and two sons survive. Funeral services will be held Monday.

Woman Killed, 3 Injured When Two Cars Collide

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. I. Sylvester P. Hoeffel, 77 years old, was killed and her husband, 84, a Green Bay insurance man, was injured critically in an automobile collision on highway 41 two miles south of here last night. Their car was struck by an automobile driven by Harold Sharkey, 18 years old, of Depere. He and his companion, Miss Martha Beach, 16 years old, also of Depere, were injured.

OBITUARIES

Charles R. McCabe Jr.

Funeral services for Charles R. McCabe Jr., 49 years old, Chicago insurance executive, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ignatius church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. McCabe died Friday night in his summer home at Long Beach, Ind. He also had a home at 531 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Mr. McCabe was senior partner in the firm of McCabe & Hengle at 175 West Jackson boulevard. He was born in Chicago and educated in the Chicago schools. During the world war he was a captain in the 86th division. He was a member of the Illinois Athletic club and the Ridgemoor and Long Beach country clubs. He was well known as a hunter of big game. In 1911 Mr. McCabe was given a Carnegie hero medal for saving lives in an accident on Lost lake, Wisconsin.

Paul Edgerton Gardner.

Paul Edgerton Gardner, retired Chicago broker, died Friday at Old Westbury, N. Y., where he had resided since 1930, it was learned here yesterday. He was 50 years old. Mr. Gardner was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1911. During the world war he served in the army overseas. He was for some years a member of the firm of Farnum, Winter & Co. and at one time was president of the company operating Arlington race track. Surviving are his widow, the former Hope Norman Bacon of Old Westbury; one son, Frederick Sewall Gardner; his mother, Mrs. James P. Gardner, and a brother, Ralph N. Gardner, all of Chicago.

G. Grattan Cassidy.

G. Grattan Cassidy, young operatic singer and actor, died in the Henrotin hospital yesterday of injuries suffered July 5 when he fell through a trap door while rehersing in a loop theater. He leaves his mother, Mrs. George P. Cassidy, and a sister, Claudia Cassidy [Mrs. William Crawford], dramatic critic of the Journal of Commerce. Mr. Cassidy lived at 1039 Rush street. Mass will be celebrated at Holy Name cathedral at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Shawneetown, Ill., his birthplace.

Ferdinand Schuyler Mathews.

Plymouth, N. H., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Ferdinand Schuyler Mathews, illustrator and author of books on art and natural science, died here today at his summer home. He was 84 years old.

FIRE TRAPS TWO ON 46TH FLOOR; CRIES BRING HELP

Two workmen were rescued by firemen early yesterday from a washroom on the 46th floor of the One North La Salle street building. They had fled to the washroom from the smoke and intense heat of a fire in the express elevator shaft of the building.

Their cries and a portable electric light dangled from an open window aroused guests in the nearby Hotel La Salle and brought firemen to their aid.

The fire started in a fuse box on the 24th floor and spread rapidly up the shaft. Firemen under Battalion Chief Cornelius Minehan were hampered in fighting the blaze. They had to walk from the 39th floor to the 46th floor carrying their equipment because of impaired elevator service.

Milwaukee Road Absolved of Train Wreck Blame

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[U. SUE TRUSTEE OF GEORGE E. PRICE'S $100,000 ESTATE

2 Nephews, Niece Demand Accounting.

Two nephews and a niece of the late George E. Price filed suit in Circuit court yesterday seeking control of his $100,000 estate. Price, member of a pioneer Chicago family, was city building inspector for twenty-seven years. He died April 18 at the age of 85.

Defendant in the suit is Lawrence K. Pillsbury, the trustee of the estate. The court is asked to instruct Pillsbury to make an accounting and to restrain him from disposing of any of the property. The suit charges that he already owes the estate $25,000.

Insane and Then Sane.

The heirs also seek to have the court set aside a trust agreement dated Sept. 8, 1933, under which Pillsbury was named trustee by Price. They contend that Price was mentally incompetent at that time.

In 1927 Price was declared insane. However, in March, 1933—a few months before the agreement was drawn—Price appeared before the County court and was adjudged sane.

Price's daughter died in January, 1933. She was Mrs. Malinda McNeil, wife of Gordon McNeil who died in 1931 leaving a $50,000 estate. The combined value of her estate and that of her husband was nearly $100,000 in real estate and securities. All this reverted to Price because she died intestate.

Pillsbury Named Administrator.

Then, while he still was legally insane, Price had Pillsbury appointed administrator of these estates, the suit states. Pillsbury also became Price's conservator in place of his daughter. Next came the trust agreement of September, 1933.

Pillsbury is occupying the McNeil country home in Sleepy Hollow road north of Elgin in Kane county. It is also alleged that he claims an interest in Price estate property at 65 East South Water street and 619 South Wabash avenue.

Price's father was Cornelius Price, early Chicago contractor who built the Tremont house in 1848. This was one of the first large hotels west of Buffalo.

BOMBER CROSSES U. S. IN 15 HOUR NONSTOP FLIGHT

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—A B-18 army bomber, powered by two 1,000 horse power engines, landed here today 15 hours and 38 minutes after taking off on a nonstop flight from Hamilton field, San Francisco. It made the flight in an average speed of 167 miles an hour.

It was the first transcontinental flight by a bomber of the B-18 type. Lieuts. John G. Armstrong and David H. Walker, pilots, said the flight, a training cruise, was made at an average altitude of 12,000 feet and covered 2,600 air miles. The pilots and two crew members—Private C. E. Dysinger, mechanic, and D. L. Byerly, radio operator—used oxygen masks most of the way.

Finds Father, Missing for 41 Years, Dead in Chicago

Leslie O'Connor, 180 Spring street, Batavia, found his father yesterday after forty-one years. In 1897 his father, Howard O'Connor, left Batavia. Never since then had the son been able to find him. Yesterday his father died in the Chicago Good News mission, 1539 Harrison street, at the age of 83. Before dying he told the Rev. Edward Hieber that he had a relative named Leslie O'Connor in Batavia. Through that clew the clergyman found the son and the son finally found his father.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

August Majoch, 48 years old, 13428 Baltimore avenue, was killed last night by a Chicago, South Shore and South Bend electric train at 134th street and Brainard avenue. The motorman told police that Majoch either stumbled or leaped in front of the train.

HUGHES PREDICTS NEW ERA IN FLYING AFTER FLIGHT AT 20,000 FEET

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Resting after his speedy transcontinental flight to test a new type of oxygen mask, Howard Hughes, breaker of air records, predicted tonight that transport flying was about to enter a new era.

The lanky flyer, who set a new record today for flying across the country in a transport type plane, expressed belief that all commercial flying will be done in the substratosphere height of 30,000 feet as soon as proper oxygen masks and other equipment are manufactured.

"A good oxygen mask, permitting the pilot of the transport to breathe oxygen and air of the same density as that at sea level is going to do much toward making high altitude flying easy and efficient," he said. Passengers would not be required to use the masks, breathing oxygen-infused air in the cabins.

Hughes averaged 238 miles an hour at an average altitude of 20,000 feet in making the flight from Glendale, Cal., in ten hours thirty-four minutes. He was accompanied by Harry Connors, navigator; Glenn Odekirk, superintendent of the Hughes plane plant in Los Angeles, and Charles Perrine, radio engineer.

WED IN HOSPITAL ROOM AFTER SHE IS HURT IN CRASH

An automobile accident, injuries, and a hospital were not enough to keep Miss Ann Lukosh from becoming a bride yesterday. Ann is 21 years old and lives at 7410 58th place, Summit.

She was on her way from a reception to St. Joseph's church in Summit for her marriage to Frank Ross, 26 years old, of 5521 South Newland avenue, when her car collided with another at 56th street and Rutherford avenue. Ross was waiting in Summit. With her in the car was her maid of honor, Miss Valerie Kukutis, 21 years old, of 1924 South Jefferson street.

Ann suffered a shoulder fracture and nose injuries. Miss Kukutis was also hurt. They were taken to the Southtown hospital. Dr. Alfred Mienow told Ann she'd be in the hospital three weeks. She thought it wouldn't do to delay the wedding that long. Phone calls brought Ross, the Rev. John F. Fuerst, pastor of St. Joseph's church, and Al Kominski, 4330 43d street, the best man, to the hospital. Her maid of honor was already there. The Rev. Father Fuerst performed the ceremony in Ann's hospital room.

IN ENGLAND IT'S DIFFERENT; NO 'LAWYERS' THERE

Barrister, Solicitor, K. C., or Junior Is Proper.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Legal difficulties between Barbara Hutton and her husband, Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, have set London guessing at the huge fees their respective counsel probably will be paid.

They had the two top ranking barristers, Norman Birkett, for the count, and Sir Patrick Hastings, for Barbara.

It is seldom that either Birkett or Hastings takes a case with a fee of less than $5,000. In addition to that there is a daily "refresher" that may be as much as $500 for every day the case continues. Each of them is said to have an income of more than $250,000 a year.

Law's Aristocrats.

Lawyers are just lawyers to Americans, but to the English they are either barristers or solicitors, as different as sheep and goats. Barristers are the aristocrats of the law. Their efforts are confined almost exclusively to talking. They alone may plead cases in court.

Any defendant has the right in English law to plead his own case, but few are brash enough to try it. And if they do not do it themselves, only barristers may do it on their behalf.

Solicitors are the humbler branch of the profession. They get less in fees than the barristers, but they do all the pick and shovel work of preparing cases. They provide the sound background for the barrister's oratorical fireworks before the bench.

Solicitor Is Go-Between.

He is the go-between for barrister and client, and theoretically employs the barrister. The client pays for the barrister, but all his dealings are through the solicitor.

Barristers may not sue for their fees if the client fails to pay. In the eyes of the law they get "gratuities," not fees. There is little risk for him, however. The solicitor is responsible for paying the barrister.

Within the ranks of the barristers there is a further division into "juniors" and "king's counsel," commonly referred to as K. C.'s.

Juniors may be many years older than the K. C.'s with whom they work, for the term has nothing to do with age or seniority in practice. It merely means that in important cases there will be a K. C. in charge.

Many juniors have refused to "take silk"—to become K. C.'s—because they feel that by doing so they would have to give up their minor practice which provides a good income.

Barristers Wear Wigs.

Barristers appear in court in black robes and white horsehair wigs. Ordinary barristers wear robes of black alpaca, but K. C.'s wear silk, which is the origin of the expression "taking silk."

Humblest of all, the solicitors merely wear dark suits and stiff collars. They are often scolded by the judge if they appear in light suits.

When addressed by the judge or a colleague, the barrister is always a "learned gentleman." It is never, "As Mr. So-and-so says." It is always, "As my learned friend says," or "As the learned gentleman says."

Barristers also take the place of American district attorneys as prosecutors. A director of crown prosecutions assigns ordinary barristers to prosecute cases just as the defendants hire others to defend them.

At the head is the attorney general, a barrister, who is a sort of chief prosecutor. He and the solicitor general, who is also a barrister, get fees in addition to their salaries.

Inns Govern Students.

Neither solicitors nor barristers are licensed by the state. Barristers are called to the bar by one of four inns of court. Lincoln's Inn, Gray's Inn, the Inner Temple, and the Middle Temple are the four inns surviving.

Students may study as they wish. Usually they read in a solicitor's office as apprentices and attend lectures given by their inn. They must dine a certain number of times—varying with their preliminary education—in the common room of their inn.

Bar examinations are given by the inns, which also call the successful candidates to the bar. The benchers of the inn may disbar any barrister convicted of professional misconduct.

Solicitors are licensed by the Law society after serving a five year apprenticeship and taking strict examinations. Like the inns of court, the Law society is not a government body, but it has all the powers of one. It passes upon even the private lives of solicitors, and there is no appeal from its decisions.

Neither barrister nor solicitor is required to have a college education, though in both professions the number of college men is increasing.

Barbara and Count Swim

[Acme Photo.]

Appear Friendly

VENICE, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow and his wife, the former Barbara Hutton, went swimming together today at the Lido, with no apparent signs that bitterness had lingered from the court battle six weeks ago that ended in their legal separation.

Speculation over a possible reconciliation between the Woolworth heiress and her second titled husband increased as the count again prolonged his stay here and an apparently friendly attitude was observed between the two.

The count, after postponing his departure from Venice a second time, joined his wife on the beach. Both were accompanied by friends and, after swimming, all went to a bar for snacks.

LEGION PUTS ON ITS CONVENTION EVE HIGH JINKS

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The legionnaires went to town tonight in a merry prelude to their twentieth annual convention. The high jinks were under the expert supervision of the 40 and 8.

Headquarters reported the highest registration of official delegates—1,000—in the state department's history. Convention officials predicted upward of 50,000 visitors. The first general session is scheduled for tomorrow night.

A sharp increase in the nation's armed forces was advocated by the national defense commission of the Illinois department in recommendations drafted for presentation to delegates.

LYONS LASHES BACK AT HORNER ON TRAILER ISSUE

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for the United States senate, lashed back at Gov. Horner's ridicule in two street corner meetings in Chicago last night.

"Horner has made light of my use of a trailer in my campaign," Lyons said. "I had to use it to get around. I haven't 60,000 pay rollers or the pap, patronage, and power that Horner has. I am out meeting the plain people in a plain way."

Mr. Lyons spoke to two crowds of about 800 each at Milwaukee and Ashland avenues and Division street, and again at Milwaukee, Damen, and North avenues. At each he referred to the governor's attack on him last week in Springfield.

"Carry on, Henry Horner," he invited. "Every time you insult me you are insulting every laboring man in Illinois. You have marked me as your No. 1 'purge' because, as a legislator, I've fought tooth and toenail your sales tax and every other one of your taxes on the poor of the state."

Earlier in the day, in a speech at Armington, Ill., the Republican nominee asserted that President Roosevelt had exceeded his authority in aligning this country with Canada in case of war.

"In a speech which shocked the world, President Roosevelt has brought up a question of paramount importance that affects the very lives and homes of 2 million Illinois families, as well as every other American citizen," he said.

"I have asked the Democratic candidate for the senate to state his position on this issue. I, here and now, pledge to the citizens of Illinois that, while representing my state in that body which alone has the right to declare war or make treaties, I shall never vote to ratify any treaty or resolution that would permit any President to use the youth of this nation to guarantee the possessions of the British empire or any other.

"I don't believe in being a big brother to foreign empires at the cost of American lives," he added. "Canada is not a sister American republic, but a member of the British empire."

2 WORDS TABOO IN IGOE WIRE SO IT ISN'T READ

Politicians who returned from Springfield yesterday still were chuckling over the alleged inside story of why a telegram from United States Attorney M. L. Igoe was not read to the Democratic crowd at the state fair on Thursday.

F. Lynden Smith, Gov. Horner's director of public works, wired an invitation to Mr. Igoe to attend. A reply came, the story goes, but it was not one which the Democratic day committee wanted the grandstand crowd to hear. For Mr. Igoe said, in effect, that he couldn't get to Springfield because he was too busy with the grand jury.

The meaning the Hornerites feared the crowd would accept, according to the yarn, was that the prosecutor was continuing his investigation into possible misuse of federal road money during the April primaries. He also is inquiring into allegedly excessive bids on Cook county highway projects. Smith had appeared before the grand jury on the latter matter.

In any event, mention of the words "grand jury" appear to have been forbidden during the ceremonies and Mr. Igoe's wire stayed in some one's pocket—perhaps Director Smith's.

PEAS

TRYING to open a can of peas with a chisel and a hammer is a clumsy, inefficient way to do the job. Likewise, to try to find an apartment without the help of Tribune rental want ads is to pass up a convenient aid for which there is no adequate substitute.

For your convenience, landlords and rental agents list their apartment values in the Tribune want ad section. For your further convenience, the Tribune groups these offers by location in city or suburb and by number of rooms.

No worthwhile apartment value is likely to escape your notice when you follow the Tribune rental columns. The Tribune prints more apartments to rent want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

If you plan to move, you can save useless stair-climbing and pavement-pounding by taking full advantage of this modern convenience which every year helps thousands of families to find their choice of apartments. Turn to the Tribune rental columns now.

● To find the apartment you want, review the rental offers in the Tribune. As you read, make up a check list of those which appeal most to you. Then make a tour of personal inspection, visiting only those buildings which you know in advance are likely to offer what you want. This is the most satisfactory method of apartment hunting you can use.

TRIBUNE RENTAL WANT ADS HAVE THIS ADDED CONVENIENCE

TRIBUNE rental want ads are listed by location in city or suburb and by number of rooms. Thus, if you know that you want to live on the North Side, for instance, and that you require a minimum of four rooms, you turn immediately to the columns headed "To Rent—Apartments—North" and then consult the offerings under the subheading "Four, Five, Six Rooms and Larger." Then all you have to do is to make up a list of the offerings which appeal most to you and inspect them at your leisure.

Apartment Owners! Rental Agents!

The Tribune want ad section is Chicago's recognized rental medium. Because it is read by more people and produces better results, the Tribune prints more apartments to rent want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined. To fill your buildings at minimum cost, build your advertising program around the Tribune. Call Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser. If you prefer, a Tribune representative will call on you at your request.

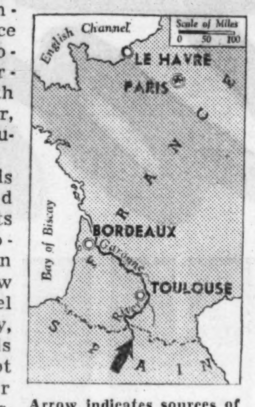
LOSS OF GARONNE RIVER SOURCE IS FEARED IN FRANCE

Need Water from Spain for Power Supply.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 20.— The Garonne river, which furnishes electric power in southwest France and provides Bordeaux with its harbor, is in trouble.



Arrow indicates sources of Garonne river.

France is worried about it. Its source, located in Spain, now is in rebel territory, and there is some doubt whether Generalissimo Francisco Franco will continue the Spanish government's agreement not to dam up the waters or impede or divert their flow.

Such a move would not dry up the hefty Garonne because it is fed by numerous rivers and brooks on the French side. But if Franco were to cut off the source or reduce it considerably the effect on the various power dams in France might be serious.

U. S. Engineers May Be Used.

Fear is expressed in the French press that Franco may call in American engineers—Americans are mentioned because of their reputation for building power and irrigation dams—and interfere with the waters that flow down the slopes of the Maladetta mountains. The name means "Accursed hills" in English.

International safeguards should protect France against possible meddling with what is essentially a French river, but breaking of covenants and treaties has made the French fear for the stream. They believe it will not be safe until Franco definitly indicates he will continue to respect it.

The concern about the Garonne recalls the brilliant work in 1931 of the young geologist Norbert Casteret, who discovered the source of the river. The source had been the object of scientists as far back as 1797, when the geographer Ramond de Russel took up the work.

Recall Geologists' Work.

Up to Casteret's discovery it was known only that the Garonne's source was a great spring called Goueuil de Joueou—Eye of Jupiter. Where the water came from that boiled up in that spring, 2,500 gallons per second, was not known. There was a torrent which disappeared two and a half miles away in a sink called Trou du Taureau—Bull's Hole.

Geologists agreed the stream, gone underground, could not possibly connect with the Goueuil de Joueou because the geological strata intervening must be impenetrable. Casteret refused to accept this conclusion.

In 1926 he began pottering around the Goueuil region, digging, boring, and taking samples. He discovered a calcareous stratum between the Bull's Hole sink and the Jupiter's Eye spring. This stratum could allow the water from the sink to proceed to that of the spring.

With the aid of his teachers, Professors Martel, Alfred Lacroix, and Camille Jullian, and financed by the French Academy of Sciences, the French Academy, and the authorities of the Haute Garonne department, Casteret bought a ton of green coloring matter and dumped it in the Bull's Hole sink. It came out at the Jupiter spring and flowed down the upper reaches of the Garonne, filling it with violent green and scaring the river valley peasants.

2 CHILDREN WIN $75,000 FATHER LEFT IN VAULT

Court Rules Against Woman's Claim.

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rodney A. Wright today won a five year fight to prevent Mrs. Marie Furr of Chicago from sharing the estate of Dr. Rodney A. Wright. Circuit Judge William F. Fulton ordered $75,000 which has been in escrow for five years turned over to the Wright children, Betty, 12 years old, and Rodney, 13.

Dr. Wright died six years ago, soon after a divorce had been granted Mrs. Wright. The divorce never became legal because the judge who granted it was killed in an accident before the decree was signed. Dr. Wright died of heart disease before the divorce case could be heard by another judge. A property settlement had been made previously.

Letters Support Claim.

Mrs. Furr offered letters in an effort to establish her claim to 2,000 shares of stock and to collateral trust deed notes. When Dr. Wright died the stock and notes were in a safety deposit box and were valued at $30,000. In the last five years the estate has increased 150 per cent in value.

One letter showed that Dr. Wright wrote to Mrs. Furr a short time before his death and said he wanted her to have the stock and notes in the event anything happened to him. He was about 60 years old.

Counsel Admits Intent.

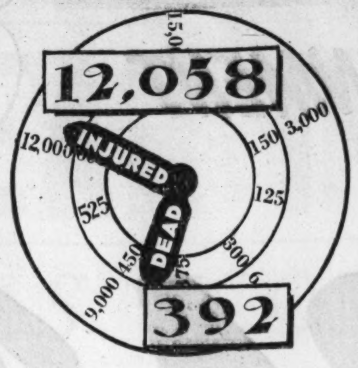
Counsel for Mrs. Wright, as guardian of the children, admitted that Dr. Wright's intention to give the stock and notes to Mrs. Furr was clear. It was contended, however, that since his will contained no provision for her the stock and notes became a part of his estate, which was left in trust for his children.

Mrs. Furr also showed the court letters in which Dr. Wright told of his affection for her and reviewed their friendship. Mrs. Furr formerly lived in De Kalb.

Wed for Less than Week; Sees Husband Die in Lake

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Dale Hall, 28 years old, of Bridgman was drowned last night while swimming in Lake Michigan at his home town. His bride, whom he married last Sunday, saw him die.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll



AUTO SKIDS INTO TREE; PASSENGER DIES OF INJURIES

George Mahn, 58 years old, 5212 West 25th street, Cicero, was fatally injured last evening when an automobile in which he was riding skidded on the wet pavement in Ogden avenue, east of Hinsdale and hit a tree. He died in the Hinsdale sanitarium. The driver was Frank Andreas, 2242 North Christiana avenue. He and several others in the car were shaken up.

Pinned beneath the overturned family car, Mrs. Rudolph Swanson, mother of three children, suffered injuries which caused her death early yesterday at St. Francis hospital, Blue Island. The tragedy occurred at Artesian avenue and 120th street in the suburb when the Swanson car collided with that of Franklin Lathrope, 19 years old, of 11951 Longwood drive, Blue Island. Mrs. Swanson was 37 years old. She lived at 12212 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island.

Victor Hardman, 42 years old, 6643 South Bishop street, suffered a possible skull fracture last night when he drove his automobile head on into a street car in front of 6745 South Ashland avenue. He was taken to the Southtown hospital.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 512 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 392 were killed in Chicago, where 12,058 were injured in the same period.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN FALL.

Frank Kofzyk, 64 years old, 4328 South Wood street, died in the Southtown hospital last night of injuries incurred when he fell in his home five days ago.

POLICEMAN DIES OF INJURIES; FELL CHASING SPEEDER

Motorcycle Policeman Joseph Mitchell of 5819 South Whipple street died in the South Chicago hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when he lost control of his motorcycle while pursuing a speeder. The motorcycle crashed against a parked automobile in front of 10523 Torrence avenue. The speeder escaped.

Joseph Mitchell.

At the request of the police the inquest was postponed until Sept. 8 to allow a search for the speeder. Funeral services for Mitchell, who was 38 years old, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Zion [Lithuanian] Evangelical Lutheran church, Bell avenue and Cermak road. His widow and a daughter survive.

Two bandits forced their way into Jonah Silver's automobile at Sacramento boulevard and Thomas street yesterday and robbed him and Mrs. Silver of $275 worth of rings and $30 cash. The Silvers live at 3541 North avenue.

108,000 ATTEND N. Y. A.'S FREE JOB SERVICE CLASSES

More than 108,000 Chicago youths have attended the National Youth administration's free job information and preëmployment classes to improve their ability to earn a livelihood in the last year. William J. Campbell, state NYA director, made this announcement yesterday.

"In a two hour lecture," said Campbell, "the ordinary young man or girl learns more about a given industry than the post-war beginner in that industry learned in five years. The classes not only provide up to the minute information on the availability of jobs, but give the youth definite assurances whether he will fit into given jobs."

The NYA junior counseling service conducted in coöperation with the Illinois state employment service, he said, has provided 5,672 Illinois youths with jobs in private industry this year.

Sister Ill, He Hops Freight and Dies; Note Tells Story

A note was shown to a coroner's jury yesterday. It said, "Sis seriously ill in Springfield." That was all, but it told why a man dressed in rough and worn clothes was riding a freight train at Blue Island on Friday. He fell under the train and was killed. Other papers found on him identified him as Frank McDougal, a transient who had lived at 623 Madison street. The jury decided he had fallen while riding between the cars.

TO CELEBRATE 40 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP . . .

1898 – 1938

When Eldridge Johnson built the first Victrola in 1898, he envisioned an ideal of perfection in sound reproduction which is as alive today as it was forty years ago.

That ideal is symbolized now, as in the past, by one of the world's most famous trade-marks – the RCA Monogram and the little fox-terrier, Nipper, listening to "His Master's Voice."

HEAP'S PASS TO FARKAS SCORES IN ALL-STAR DRILL

NORTHWESTERN BACK GETS AWAY ON TWO RUNS

Blues Beat Reds in 1st of 2 Games, 6-0.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Don Heap, one of the finest half backs that ever played in the Western conference, yesterday furnished his All-American rivals with a sample of the ability that helped Northwestern win the Big Ten championship in 1936. In the first of two intrasquad games between the Reds and Blues, Heap broke away for two off tackle runs and just before the end of the first fifteen minute period shot a pass to Andy Farkas of Detroit from his opponents' 7 yard line that scored the only touchdown in the scrimmages, cut short by rain.

Heap's superlative play, after a week of practice in which others had taken the headlines, was gratifying to the All-Star coaches, although it further complicates their problem of naming the men who must bear the burden against the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field a week from next Wednesday evening.

Heap Leads First Blue Team.

Heap was the bellwether of the first Blue team. That same eleven also was largely composed of players who, like Heap, have been working diligently while others had been presumed to be nearer selection as first and second choices for the game with the Redskins.

Farkas Misses Place Kick.

The Red team, that was defeated, 6 to 0, in the thirty minute game, since Farkas missed the place kick for the extra point, lined up as follows:

Left end, Hugh Wolfe, Texas, who has been shifted from the half back group to bolster the ends since Pete Smith of Oklahoma and John Kovatch, Northwestern, were unable to scrimmage because of injuries; left tackle, Felix Dixon, Boston university; left guard, Joe Routt, Texas Aggies; center, Ralph Wolf, Ohio State; right guard, Mike Calvano, Northwestern; right tackle, Al Babartsky, Fordham; right end, Perry Schwartz, California; quarter back, Jack White, Princeton; left half, Cecil Isbell, Purdue; right half, Andy Uram, Minnesota, and full back, Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh.

Calvano suffered a twisted neck and a pulled tendon in the first five minutes of play. He was replaced by Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame.

Wind Helps Blues.

When these teams lined up for the kickoff just before 4 o'clock the north wind that whipped down the gridiron was welcome relief to the players from the sweltering weather of the morning. The wind, however, brought rain twenty minutes later. With this wind behind their backs, the Blues immediately had the better of the attack.

The first assault, after an exchange of punts, failed when Isbell intercepted a pass by Heap and was downed on the Reds' 18 yard line. Isbell then made five yards off Shirey's tackle and Patrick followed with a smash through center for six yards.

Isbell lost a yard and after White had plunged for four yards, Uram lost three when he failed on a reverse. On fourth down Patrick kicked. He was rushed and barely got the ball away. It went almost straight up, the wind carrying it back. As the ball bounded on the War Admiral Beats Esposa, Fighting Fox

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—War Admiral won the Whitney Memorial today to surpass his famous sire, Man o' War, in total earnings. War Admiral's $2,725 share of the $3,000 purse places his winnings at $251,700, as against $249,465 for Man o' War, first thoroughbred in American racing to earn more than $200,000.

War Admiral proved conclusively that he was the best horse in the race, even though William Ziegler Jr.'s Esposa ran her gamest and most gallant race to be second at the end of the mile and a quarter.

Fighting Fox Poor Third.

The only other starter, Fighting Fox, was beaten off and he was a distant third in a test that was run over a fast track in 2:03 4-5. This is reasonable time for a mile and a quarter over the Saratoga strip, but many assumed that War Admiral would do better in view of the 126 pounds which were on his back as the result of the weight for age conditions.

Mrs. Ethel Mars' No Competition won the $12,450 Grand Union Hotel stakes and Mrs. Gwaldys Whitney's Gay Charles, outsider at 4 to 1, was first in the $2,345 Beverwyck steeplechase handicap. Gay Charles was timed in 4:21 1-5 for the two miles, while No Competition's time in the six furlong dash was 1:12 1-5. Mrs. Mars' horse was a 4 to 1 shot.

Wayne Wright was in War Admiral's saddle for the first time, and after the finish he had this to say: "He ran just like a machine. All I had to do was sit there and guide him."

Late Challenge Fails.

For all of that Esposa came within part of a length of War Admiral in the stretch. Under the drive that Jocky Nick Wall turned loose, it seemed that Esposa was going to make trouble for the champion. But she didn't. Doing her gallant best was not enough. Wright apparently had instructions not to use the whip on War Admiral.

Looks at Course; Borrows Club; Plays 1 Hole—in 1

LaGrande, Ore., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Dean Irwin of Pendleton inspected the local golf course during a visit. "I think I'll play just one hole," he said. He borrowed a mashie and ball, made a hole in one.

Wooderson Sets Record in Half Mile

On the same Hotspur Park track on which he established the world outdoor mile mark of 4:06.4 a year ago the 26 year old clerk smashed the records for a half mile and 800 meters, then practically collapsed near the finish.

He was clocked in 1:49.2 for the half and 1:48.4 for 800 meters. The previous record for both distances was set at 1:49.6 by Elroy Robinson of San Francisco at New York on July 11, 1937. Robinson was not timed at the metric distance, about five yards short of a half mile, but was given the record, since his time bettered the existing mark.

Beaten by Brother.

The man who beat Wooderson today was his own brother, Stanley. That happened because Stanley got an 85 yard start and was just one of five men who set the pace for Sydney.

Wooderson was grabbed by the crowd of 6,000, lifted on their shoulders, and paraded around the park when it was announced he had broken the records.

A bad lull going into the last 220 yards nearly cost Wooderson his two records. Visibly exhausted at that point, his face contorted, he appeared to be run out. But suddenly he spurted near the end and finished miraculously.

J. Furniss, starting with a handicap of eight yards, set the pace, and set it faster than had been planned, so that Wooderson ran the first 220 in 25.7 seconds. He did the next furlong in 26.9 and now had passed Furniss and was well under his schedule [he had planned to run each half of the race in 54 seconds].

Spurts in Last Quarter.

He fell away slightly in the third 220, which required 27.8, and when he faltered going into the last lap he appeared to be beaten.

But it was here he started going. Trailing both his brother and F. S. Whittingham, who had been spotted seventy yards, he passed the latter not far from home and nearly caught his brother at the tape.

Wooderson's next goal is Jack Lovelock's 1,500 meter record of 3:47.8. He will go after that in the European championship meet.

PlanOperation Tomorrow on Hubbell's Arm

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—A bone specialist ordered an operation today for Carl Hubbell, depriving the New York Giants of their star hurler in the thick of the fight for the National league pennant.

The specialist, Dr. J. Spencer Speed, said the operation, to be performed Monday, should greatly improve Hubbell's ailing left arm.

There is a chance, the surgeon said, that Hubbell will be able to take the mound again before the flag race ends but as Hubbell expressed it, "The season probably will be about ended."

Bone Loose in Elbow.

There is a loose piece of bone in the joint of the left elbow.

Hubbell's arm has been paining him all season but he didn't decide to quit until after the game against Brooklyn Thursday, when he retired in the fifth inning. Hubbell showed little worry as he laughed and talked with newsmen during the examination.

"If I'm able to go and Terry [Manager Bill Terry] tells me to go, I'll get out there and pitch the best I can," Hubbell said when he was told the operation might make it possible for him to pitch this season.

Chiozza Greets Him.

Lou Chiozza, Giant second baseman who came home three weeks ago with an injured shoulder, greeted Hubbell when he arrived by plane from New York early today, and he spent most of the day with his teammate.

"Every time I pitched a ball that last game I felt a twinge of pain," Hubbell told Chiozza.

Pariso Shows Winning Ways in Two Stakes

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jocky Nunzio Pariso of Buffalo, N. Y., again blazed his way into the spotlight at Washington Park yesterday afternoon, where 29,700 racegoers watched him ride to thrilling victories in both the stake races.

Coming from far behind in both of them, Pariso scored with Novelette, from the stable of Mrs. Jacob Lowenstein of Chicago, in the Beverly handicap. Thirty minutes later he drove up over the same path on the Le Mar stock farm's Mar Le to win the Olympia Fields sprint handicap.

His riding in both races bordered on the sensational. He made his finishes so thrilling that the huge crowd, which was dodging raindrops while both events were decided, was in a turmoil. Neither Novelette nor Mar Le was a favorite, but both had been stoutly backed because Pariso was in the saddle. It was the second day in a row that he has been the hero of the Washington Park throngs.

Shining Heels Sets Pace.

The Beverly, fashioned for fillies and mares, attracted a band of the fleetest in that division in the west. Stoutest backing went to Birdlea and Legenda, with a plunge coming on Novelette near post time after the fans learned that Pariso was to ride her.

Early in the race Shining Heels made a dazzling pace while running the half in :46 2-5 and the three-quarters in 1:12 1-5. Pariso had been racing in fourth and fifth position with Novelette. At the head of the stretch he drove the Chicago filly into a contending position. After a few strides more he sent her through an opening between Shining Heels and the South American mare Sumatra III. Then she flew on into the lead.

Novelette continued to widen her advantage under a careful hand ride by Pariso until she reached the line of finish a length and a half in front of Birdlea, which also had closed much ground. Sumatra III. hung on to get third money. The mile and 70 yards had been run in 1:43 2-5.

Pays $13 to Backers.

In the betting Novelette paid $13 to win, $5.60 to place, and $4.20 to show. Birdlea's place and show prices were $3.80 and $3.00. Sumatra III. paid $5.80 to show.

Pariso was tendered a rousing greeting when he returned to the scales, but it did not compare with the one he got when he scored with Mar Le. This son of Misstep was bounced around a bit in the early stages, as was his stable companion, Mad Money. They were running seventh and eighth and they had only three horses beaten when they reached the turn in the six furlong dash.

Then they moved forward like a team, with Mar Le always slightly in the lead. By the time the field hit the turn into the stretch Mar Le was up in fourth place and Mad Money fifth. Then they dashed past Fairflax, Leading Article, and Mr. Blaze.

Scores by Half Length.

The Le Mar roommates finished closely lapped, with Mar Le the winner by half a length. Fairflax, a colt from Canada, was back in third place just a head behind the two leaders.

Mar Le reeled off the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5. In the betting the entry paid $9 to win, $8 to place, and $5.20 to show. Fairflax was at $4.80 to show.

SOX ERR, INDIANS SLUG STRATTON FOR 8-2 VICTORY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 20.—Monty Stratton, the elongated member of the White Sox staf, went in pursuit of his thirteenth victory again today, but encountered distressing complications. Most of the complications were in the form of long and short hits from the enemy bats, the result of which was an 8 to 2 triumph for the second place Indians, as well as Stratton's seventh setback of the year.

Another complication for Stratton was the inability of his fellow workers to puncture Mel Harder in anything more than a mild fashion. He handled them so well that for five innings they collected only three hits. They added two in the sixth which proved of no use, but when they ripped off two others in the seventh to score two runs it appeared as if the old boy might be tottering. Instead he was just taking things easy, proof of which is that after having his lead threatened he didn't give up a hit in the last two innings.

Guilty of Fielding Blunders.

Along with their futile bat wielding the Sox were guilty of what can easily be termed weak kneed fielding. They compiled four errors, one of which was the turning point in the struggle. It was an offense by Stratton in person, who fumbled a bunt and paved the path to two Indians' runs in the third inning, giving them a 3 to 0 edge. After that they scored three more runs with the help of fielding blunders and two in which blunders didn't figure. These two were homers, one dispatched beyond the barriers by Jeff Heath in the fifth and the other by Rookie Ken Keltner as the starter of a three run disturbance in the eighth.

Stratton Bit Unlucky.

Stratton wasn't exactly lucky in the first inning, and because of this the Indians started off with a one run lead. Lary opened with a pop to Berger after which Heath slapped a single into center. Hemsley lifted a fly over short center, and it dropped for a single just beyond the reach of Kreevich, Radcliff, and Appling. This bargain hit put Heath on third, whence he scored on Solters' fly to Radcliff.

The big storm, which threatened to blow Stratton right off the mound in the third but which subsided with only two runs across, began with Lary beating out a bunt and Heath drawing a pass. Hemsley sacrificed and Stratton fumbled the ball, thus filling the bases with none out. Stratton shook off Solters on strikes, but Averill lined a single past Appling, sending Lary and Heath home and Hemsley to third. The remainder of the inning was simple. Trosky popped to Owen and Keltner grounded to the same fellow.

Strikes Out the Side.

As proof that he wasn't discouraged by the third inning happenings Stratton gave the Indians a pitching treat in the fourth. He fanned Hale, Harder, and Lary in succession. In the fifth, however, he inadvertently threw the home run ball and Heath boomed it over the high but close right field barrier, putting the Indians ahead, 4 to 0. The sixth also brought a bit of pressure for Stratton. Keltner tripled to left center with one out, but Stratton fanned Hale again and

FOUR ERRORS BY TEAMMATES HANDICAP DIZ

Fumbling Continues After Page Goes In.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Pirates yesterday slapped Dizzy Dean with his first 1938 defeat. But it wasn't his crippled arm that got Diz, it was an unskilled, six error defense and a double play Cub offense that thwarted the Expensive One in a game that ended, Pittsburgh, 5; Chicago, 2.

Of the half dozen errors perpetrated by the Cubs, four bobbed up to hamper Dean in his five and one-third innings of creditable bearing down. Four runs were charged to Dean's record. The first of these was unearned and two, one unearned, were driven home after his departure, having got on base during Diz's term.

The Pirates executed five double plays in beating the Cubs last Sunday. And the Chicagoans couldn't shake off the curse yesterday. They tapped into three double plays in the first four innings and tapped into another one in the sixth.

Nine Games Behind.

The Cubs showed little class and no spirit as they absorbed their sixth defeat in their last seven starts and sagged nine games behind their league leading conquerors. It was the ninth victory for the Pirates in fourteen clashes with the collapsed Chicagoans and for the first time established Gabby Hartnett as something less than a .500 manager. Under Gabby's new broom régime the Cubs have lost 15 and won 14.

Red Lucas, a great performer in his day, but washed up now to the point where he is given a start only at intervals of a month or so, pitched six innings. He yielded six hits, but made the Cubs do all their double play tapping. Bill Swift pitched the last three innings and allowed only one Chicagoan to get on base, Rip Collins, who knocked his tenth home run with one out in the ninth.

The Cubs started off as though they planned to return to serious National league competition. Stan Hack opened what jocularly was called the Cub offense, with a double to left center. Herman walked, then the fold up. Collins forced Herman and Galan lined into a double play.

Cubs Get a Run.

A Chicago run was manufactured in the second before the inevitable double play showed up. Reynolds led off with a double and scored on O'Dea's single past Young. Demaree flied to P. Waner and Jurges tapped into a double play, started by Young.

The Cubs were threatening in the third. Herman doubled with two out and Collins whiffed. In the fourth Galan led off with a double—that made it three out of four Chicago innings opened with doubles. Reynolds bounced to Vaughan and Demaree tapped into a double play started by Vaughan.

Dean didn't let a punt by Demaree in the second or a center field throw by O'Dea in the fourth get him down. But another boot by Demaree in the fifth enabled the Pirates to tie the score with an unearned run. Todd opened with a single to right and took a base when Demaree kicked the ball. Lucas fouled to Hack, and Handley flied to Galan, but Jensen doubled to right, scoring Todd with the tying marker. P. Waner flied to Reynolds.

Rizzo struck out for the second time at the start of the sixth. Vaughan doubled to right and the Pirates went

REDSKINS' GAME TODAY TO DECIDE ALL-STARS' FOES

28 Players to Be Picked for Chicago Trip.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 20.—The fate of twelve Washington Redskins will be decided on the field of combat tomorrow when the world champions' training for the Chicago All-Star engagement reaches its climax in a regulation game.

Coach Ray Flaherty today split the squad of forty into the two teams which will battle it out in an advertised exhibition for which admission will be charged. The Redskin band will play and radio commentators will practice by exercising their descriptive powers on a specially installed loud speaker system. It promises to be a big day. Also very hot.

Only twenty-eight men will be taken to Chicago when the squad breaks camp a week from today. Those chosen for the squad will be picked largely on their showings in tomorrow's contest. Several who will not make the grade will be pretty good football players and may land with other National league teams. Washington must ask waivers on each man before it farms him out or turns him loose.

Two Long Workouts.

In preparation for the contest, which is expected to attract several thousand fans at $1.10 a head, Flaherty today drove the squad through two long workouts. The pattern of each followed closely on all previous double sessions: Passing practice, signals, and dummy scrimmage in the morning with more dummy scrimmage, signals, and long kicking drills for punters and safety men in the afternoon.

Sammy Baugh, the incomparable, will direct one team, which will be known as Lightning Roy Baker's Ballston Braves. His back field associates will be Ed Justice, a half back, and Don Irwin, full back, both veterans, and Jay Turner, a rookie quarter back from George Washington.

Flaherty's team will have two rookies in the starting back field. Jim Abbitt, the Elon college half back, and George Karamatic of Gonzaga, will team with Riley Smith, the Redskins' regular quarter back, and Erny Pinckert, a seven year veteran in professional football.

Abbitt, a southpaw passer and punter, gave his most impressive demonstration in today's drill. For the first time he exhibited the ability he was said to possess.

Much Work Remains.

Baker's team will have the two outstanding rookie ends on the squad, Bob Masterson of Miami and Hal Bradley of Elon. Masterson, whom the Chicago Bears traded to the Redskins for Dick Bassi, Santa Clara guard, appears to be equally as good at receiving passes as Wayne Millner and Charlie Malone, Washington's regular ends. He is fast, a shifty open field runner, and with 195 pounds evenly distributed over his 6 foot 1 inch frame, he has displayed a preference for rugged play in what little scrimmaging the club has done.

Only five days of training remain after tomorrow's game before the squad moves on to Chicago for three workouts in Soldiers' field. Eleven sessions are scheduled in this period, two each day, except Saturday, when the squad will break camp with a long drill in the morning.

Much work remains to be done in that time. Flaherty hopes to learn definitly from tomorrow's intrasquad game what phases of attack and defense need the most attention. Then he will devote the remainder of the stay here to straightening them out.

All-Stars Tell of Their Thrills and Fans Agree

Questioning the All-Stars on their greatest thrill in athletics provides a cross-section of some of the outstanding football events in recent years. Andy Uram of Minnesota says his greatest thrill was in the Nebraska game two years ago when he caught a lateral from Wilkinson after a punt and ran it back for the winning touchdown with only a minute left to play.

Jack White's greatest thrill was scoring the last quarter touchdown which gave Princeton a 7 to 6 victory over Pennsylvania in 1935. It was his first varsity game. Jack Coffis of Stanford received his greatest thrill when he caught a pass that resulted in the touchdown which beat Southern Methodist in the Rose Bowl game in 1935.

Jim McDonald of Ohio State says his greatest thrill occurred last year in the homecoming game with Illinois. "Before the game," he said, "the homecoming queen gave me a sendoff with a kiss. Just after the kickoff I caught a pass, reversed the field, and ran forty-seven yards for a touchdown. The people all thought that I was inspired by the kiss. Maybe they had something there."

Frank Kinard of Mississippi recalls that his greatest thrill was the time he kicked off and the opposing team failed to pick up the ball or ground it. He ran down the field and fell on the ball for a touchdown. It was the only touchdown he made in college. Last year's victory over Ohio State gave Frank Filchock of Indiana his greatest thrill, for he threw the pass that resulted in the only touchdown of the game.

Ruetz Is New St. Mary's Assistant Football Coach

Moraga, Cal., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Joe Ruetz, former Notre Dame football star now in training in Evanston, Ill., with the College All-Stars for the game with the Washington Redskins Aug. 31, today was appointed assistant football coach at St. Mary's college. Ruetz's home is in Oshkosh, Wis.

ALL-STARS REACH HALF-WAY POINT AND ARE GOING STRONG!

Andy Uram, Minnesota half back, gets a punt away in the first of two intrasquad games played yesterday by the All-Americans at Northwestern university. Fred Vanzo, Northwestern quarter back (in air), makes vain attempt to block ball. The All-Americans are at the half-way mark in their preparations for the game with Washington's Redskins in Soldiers' field Aug. 31 and will get day off today.

California Has a Good Will Ambassador in Mr. Schwartz

BY HOWARD BARRY.

You've read about those California men. In the magazines they're tanned, blond, blue-eyed giants who swim like Johnny Weissmueller and play tennis like Don Budge. Well, Perry Schwartz of the University of California goes them one better. He's not only a tanned, blond, blue-eyed giant who can swim and play tennis—he also knows how to box a tackle, upset a half back, or catch a pass.

He does those things so well that the football fans of the nation elected him to a place in the starting lineup of the college All-Star football team that will meet the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field a week from Wednesday night.

Ought to Be Good-Will Ambassador.

The chambers of commerce of all the California towns ought to get together and elect Schwartz their good-will ambassador. Since he came to Chicago to practice for the game he has made many a dour midwesterner wonder if there might not be something in this California propaganda after all. He's such a healthy looking fellow with such a breezy, friendly manner, and he gets so much fun out of everything he does, that you begin to wonder if it might not be the climate.

He'll hasten to assure you that the climate is great on his family's ranch up in the mountains about a hundred miles north of San Francisco. There's some mighty lively trout fishing, too, in the stream that flows through their thousand acre property. And the hunting is fine.

He'll Play with Dodgers.

Schwartz is going to desert California for a while and play professional football this fall with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Then he hopes to make a connection in the business world. Despite his happy-go-lucky manner, he took his education seriously and hopes to put it to use in helping wrestle with the country's economic problems.

Schwartz has been playing winning football since his high school days. When he was a half back at Tamalpais High school [that's an Indian name, he explains] their team won the championship of its conference.

During his sophomore year at California he played full back. The team won nine games that year, but lost to Stanford.

Coffis Spoils California Season.

"Coffis spoiled that season for us," Schwartz said, referring to his All-Star roommate, Jimmy Coffis of Stanford. "We were all ready to go to the Rose Bowl and then he scored a touchdown on us."

Schwartz became an end in his junior year and that has been his position since then.

"I like it better than the back field," he says. "There's more action to it. It keeps me young."

Last season was another big one for California. The team went through without a defeat, but was tied by Washington, 0 to 0.

This Play Impresses Him.

Schwartz showed his spirit of teamwork in describing the play that impressed him most during his college career.

"Last year against Southern California we worked one of those perfect scoring plays, on which every man on the team carries out his assignment without a slip. We were on our own 40 yard line and the play worked for a touchdown."

When asked about his own part in it, he said: "My job was to box the tackle. That was one time I did get a tackle."

After the All-Star game Schwartz hopes to get down east to see his old pal, Budge, play in the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills. He and Budge used to be doubles partners some years ago out in California. They went to Canada as a team to compete in the western Canadian tournament.

He's Interested in Music.

Schwartz is much interested in music, and take a tip from him, there's a young concert pianist named Marcus Gordon who is going to go places in the musical world. Schwartz hopes to be in New York during the winter when his friend gives a recital in Carnegie hall.

Schwartz was born in Chicago 23 years ago, but his family took him west when he was a year old and he has never been back until now. He'll take California every time, but he has one good word for Chicago:

"I sure love this lake. I wish I could take it back with me."

BUDGE DEFEATS WOOD; THEN WINS WITH GENE MAKO

Newport, R. I., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two members of the United States Davis cup team, Don Budge and Gene Mako, indicated today they were prepared for any immediate assignment when they dominated final play in the 22d Newport Casino tennis tournament.

Budge retired the Casino's huge bowl in the morning by defeating a former international teammate and ex-Wimbledon winner, Sydney Wood of New York, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Several hours later, he and Mako swept through Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, the Austin, Tex., veterans, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2, in the doubles final.

Although both matches were decided in straight sets, they were exciting. Budge won the singles because he was able to keep Wood in back of the baselines during most of the match, thereby preventing him from using his best shots.

Allison and Van Ryn became finalists when Wood and Joe Hunt of Los Angeles defaulted to them this morning.

HEAP PASSES TO FARKAS FOR ALL-STAR SCORE

Reds' 17 yard line, Birr, of the Blues, grabbed it and ran to the seven yard line before he was tackled.

Faras Makes Fine Catch.

Vanzo failed to gain and a pass by Heap to Vanzo, who was behind the Reds' secondary, was just out of Vanzo's reach. On third down, however, Heap passed in the flat to his right and Farkas made a fine running catch, taking the ball from three converging Reds to step on over the goal line.

The rain started three plays after the teams changed goals for the second quarter. Under the handicap of a wet ball and slippery turf, neither team threatened, but Heap and Calhoun continued to bother the Reds' line with occasional first downs in midfield.

Blues—Gallagher, Yale, and Gustitus, St. Ambrose, ends; Woltman, Purdue, and Ryba, Alabama, tackles; Hoptowit, Washington State, and Dragash, South Dakota State, guards; Erickson, Washington, center; Coffis, Stanford; Popovitch, Montana; Kilgrow, Alabama, and Hackney, Duke, backs.

Reds—Zachary, Purdue, and Benton, Arkansas, ends; Babartsky, Fordham, and Kinard, Mississippi, tackles; Ruetz and Kuharich, Notre Dame; Wegner, Northwestern, center; McDonald, Ohio State; Spadaccini, Minnesota; Rohm, Louisiana State, and Robbins, Arkansas, backs.

Forced to Call Off Game.

Before the end of the first period of the second game the coaches sent the squad to the practice field as the rain continued. Then the drizzle increased in intensity and not only ended offensive effort of both teams but finally forced the staf to call off the remainder of the game.

Bo McMillin, head coach of the All-Stars, was disappointed, but, although he couldn't complete plans to give all the players a thorough test under game conditions, he stuck to his decision that every one would have ava cation today. The All-Stars will report tomorrow morning to start the second half of their training for the Redskins.

Plagued by Minor Injuries.

So far the All-Americans have been plagued by a series of minor injuries which have kept many from working. In this group are Puplis, Blackaby, Smith, Davis, Carroll, and Gmitro. Wegner, Isbell, and Kovatch also have worked under handicaps. The boys, however, have come along splendidly in their conditioning. The squad has excellent spirit.

The All-Americans will have speed, better than average passing, and several excellent pass receivers. All this can be welded together to threaten the Redskins. It also should assure the 80,000 who will watch the fifth of the charity games between the professional champions and the collegians of a wide open contest with the All-Stars attempting to match Sammy Baugh pass for pass.

CHICAGO GIRL ENTERS FINALS OF PARKS TENNIS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., and Catherine Malcolm of Chicago gained the finals of the National Public Parks singles tournament today.

Freeman, national junior champion, defeated Norman Buck of Alhambra, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3. Miss Malcolm won over Marjorie Blair of Santa Ana, Cal., 6-4, 6-4.

Sixth seeded Willis Anderson of Los Angeles eliminated Louis Brownstein of San Diego, Cal., 8-6, 7-5, 6-4, and second seeded Gertrude Dockstader of Los Angeles removed Louise Martin of Los Angeles, 9-7, 3-6, 6-1, to complete the brackets.

Sumner Scott's ketch, Breeze, and the Hanson-Barnard syndicate's R-sloop, Safara, won the cruising and racing division prizes, respectively, in the Columbia Yacht club's annual race to Waukegan yesterday. Twenty-eight of thirty-six yachts that started the thirty-five mile race finished. Two of the remaining eight were towed into port when a line squall struck late in the afternoon.

The corrected time for the Breeze was 3:44:16, while Safara's time was 3:16:22, three seconds less than that of Romany, another R-sloop. Breeze repeated its class C victory in the Chicago-Mackinac Island race.

Revenge Finishes First.

Revenge, the sixty foot sloop owned by Ken Griffin and Blair Walliser, and one of the last to start, crossed the finish line first, 61 seconds and about 100 yards ahead of the yawl Scarab. Revenge closed in on Scarab during the last half mile. The elapsed time for Revenge was 3:53:27.

The yawl Swanee and sloop Svek T., the latter the smallest yacht in the race, were towed into port by the United States coast guard patrol boat Rush after the offshore forty mile squall had struck the last finishers and their owner-skippers had accepted the offer of aid by the Rush's commander, Boatswain Lee Scott.

Mainsail, Jib Torn.

The Swanee's mainsail and jib were torn, but the Svek was undamaged. Summaries:

Hold Outboard Central Title Regatta Today

Outboard speedboat drivers from New York to Iowa, and from Minnesota to Indiana, will compete today in the annual central divisional championship regatta of the National Outboard association in the Burnham park lagoon. Major prizes are the Gold Cup for high point winner in class A, B, C, and F of the amateur division, and the $10,000 Commander Eugene F. McDonald trophy for the first to finish in a special race for amateurs in class C. Professional contestants will receive cash prizes.

Racing is scheduled to start shortly after noon. Commodore Charles F. Chapman, editor of Motor Boating magazine and secretary of the American Power Boat association's racing commission, is expected to come from New York to judge the meet. Starting the tiny hydroplanes will be Commodore Jesse Sackrider. James W. Mulroy, executive secretary of the National Outboard Motor association, will manage the events.

Gar Wood Jr. of Detroit will defend both the Gold Cup and the McDonald trophy. Leading contestants among the more than ninety drivers who will face young Wood are Lewis Carlisle, Paul Wearly, Bob Meyer, Don Frazier, Andy Gantner, Marion Rowe, Ray Hulett, Eddie Pabst, Tom Cooper Jr., and W. D. Cox. David Zimmerman, former commodore of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, Commodore Alden Fields of the South Shore Canoe club, and Evelyn Baron of the N. O. A. Chicago staf, will relay the account of the regatta to spectators.

CARDINALS MAKE 5 TOUCHDOWNS IN LONG WORKOUT

Coach Milan Creighton put the Chicago Cardinal football squad through its first heavy scrimmage of the season at the Morgan Park Military academy yesterday afternoon. Following four days of limbering up exercises and signal drills, Creighton decided to test the football ability of the two dozen rookies on hand. For an hour and a half the veterans and rookies went through their paces.

Five touchdowns were scored. Jimmy Lawrence, hard running back who is playing his third season with the Cardinals, made two, catching long passes tossed by Paddlefoot Sloan, University of Arkansas star.

ROUTED GERMAN NET TEAM TOLD TO RETURN HOME

Blame Loss to Australians on Too Much Tennis.

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Badly beaten by Australia in the first three matches of the Davis cup interzone final, Germany's four man tennis team today was "requested" to cut short its American tour and return home for a "rest."

A cablegram from Capt. E. C. Schoeborn, president of the German tennis federation, reached F. C. Uhl, nonplaying captain of the German team, shortly before Henner Henkel and Georg von Metaxa, the German singles players, took the court against Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, respectively, in the final two matches of the playoff.

Both German players were stunned by the news. They had been counting on playing in the United States national doubles tournament starting in Brookline Monday, in the national singles at Forest Hills in September, and in tournaments on the Pacific coast.

Australians Sweep Series.

The ailing Henkel took the court and merely went through the motions as he took a 6-1, 6-0, 8-6 blasting from Quist. Metaxa was little better as Bromwich polished him off at 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 to provide the Australians with the clean sweep of the series that their coach, George M. Lott, had predicted. They had clinched the right to meet the United States for the cup by winning the doubles yesterday.

The German squad still hoped the federation would change its mind. Walter L. Pate, official of the United States Lawn Tennis association, tonight cabled an appeal to the federation to have the team remain, and Capt. Uhl said he would wait for a reply before making further plans. According to Uhl, the cablegram from Schoeborn merely said:

"Team requested to return home in order to be saved from too much tennis."

Calls Team Overtrained.

"We have been campaigning continuously since April," said Uhl, "and have played five Davis cup matches besides participating at Wimbledon, Hamburg, and other tournaments.

"While not detracting in any way from the Australians, who played very well, it was obvious that our men were overtrained and needed more time to offset the change to grass courts."

The Germans not only failed to take a single set in the five matches, but they carried only one to deuce. Contributing to their showing, of course, was the poor physical condition of Henkel, who suffered from an injured elbow.

ALICE MARBLE WINS PAIR OF ESSEX TITLES

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Alice Marble, America's top ranking woman tennis star, today won her third successive singles title of the year. Then she teamed with Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge to win the doubles title at the fourteenth Essex county women's invitation tournament.

Both victories came at the expense of hard hitting Australians. Miss Marble beat 21 year old Nancye Wynne, 6-1, 6-3, to add the Essex singles crown to her recent victories at Seabright and Rye. The Americans beat Miss Wynne and Dorothy Stevensen in the doubles, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The Australians gave Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan, American and Wimbledon champions, a thorough scare in the doubles. They started out like a whirlwind, winning the first set, 6-1. In the second set, however, Miss Marble regained her singles form and lashed out point after point. In the third set both Australians were double-faulting and the Americans had no trouble winning.

Miss Wynne paired with Harold Thompson Jr., son of the Essex professional, to lose out in the finals of the mixed doubles. They lost to Mrs. Murjorie Morrill Painter of Dedham and Dr. G. Colket Caner of Boston, 6-2, 9-7.

Russell Crane Appointed to Ohio University Staf

Athens, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Russell Crane, football captain and guard at Illinois in 1929, was named assistant football and track coach today at Ohio university by Athletic Director Don C. Peden. Crane was line coach and head track coach at Mississippi State, 1930-'35, and University of Richmond, 1936-'37.

53,200 RACING PROGRAMS SOLD; $456,047 IS BET

29,700 Watch Program at Washington Park.

There were 53,200 programs sold at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. The attendance figure announced by track officials was 29,700. The total betting on the eight races was $456,047.

Jocky Kenneth McCombs, leading rider at Washington Park, left last night for Detroit where he will vacation for two days. McCombs will return to action Tuesday.

The Woolford Farm stable, after enjoying little success at Washington Park, will be shipped to Aqueduct track in New York some time this week. Jocky Charley Rollins is going along to do the riding.

The veteran racing mare Spanish Babe was purchased yesterday by Roscoe Goose from Mrs. F. M. Grabner of Chicago. Spanish Babe will not be raced again this season and she likely will be reserved for breeding purposes next year.

Jocky Nunzio Pariso figured in a new kind of a spill yesterday. While riding Busy Man to the post for the third race, the horse tossed him over the fence onto the crowded grandstand lawn. A dozen spectators tried to catch him but he went all the way to the pavement. He was not injured.

The spills in recent races at Washington Park have not been caused by bad track conditions, Patrol Judges Willie Davis, Willie Doyle, and George Swain said yesterday. Riders at Washington Park have been particularly zealous in their riding efforts, they pointed out. This desire to win, and not holes in the track, has caused the accidents, they believe. The jockies have been taking chances with their mounts and "going through holes in the fields," it was explained.

WINN, AUTO RACE DRIVER, DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Billy Winn of Detroit, one of the country's leading automobile race pilots, died tonight of injuries received when his car blew a tire and overturned on the fourth lap of the 100 mile race at the Illinois state fair today.

Winn, thrown clear of the car after it had turned over once, suffered a fractured skull, broken ribs and internal injuries. He did not regain consciousness.

Tony Willman of Milwaukee won the event, driving the distance in 1 hour 18 minutes and 42 seconds in a Cragar Special. Ted Horne of Los Angeles was second and Russ Snowberger, Detroit, third. Willman's prize was $800.

Duluth Golfer Wins Title for Blind, 6 and 5

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 20.—[U. P.]—Clinton F. Russell of Duluth today defeated Dr. W. H. J. Oxenham of England, 6 and 5, to win the world's blind golfer's championship.

Both men were obviously bothered by the gallery which they could not see, and they fell far short of the 80 scores which both had previously registered. Although the match lasted for only thirteen holes, Russell had a 56 for the first nine, and a 22 for the first four holes of the second nine, while Oxenham turned in a 62 for the first nine and 26 for the next four holes.

10,000 See Finish.

A crowd of more than 3,000 was at the first tee when the match started, and as the players progressed from hole to hole, the gallery increased until nearly 10,000 were present to watch Russell hole out his final putt on the thirteenth green. Receipts from the match were to be given to the Lighthouse for the Blind in Duluth.

Both players were materially assisted in their games by their personal caddies. Russell's clubs were carried by Jimmy Kiehler, his regular caddie here, while Oxenham brought his caddie, George Rennie, of Hove, England with him.

Tee Up Balls, Give Directions.

The caddies teed up the ball for the men, placed the club head, and estimated distance and proper direction of stance. The golfers kept their heads down and they tried to concentrate as much as possible on the perfect form advocated by their professionals.

Russell has played golf since 1928. He lost his sight in an eccident thirteen years ago. Oxenham lost his sight in the war, and he took up golf about five years ago.

41 DRIVERS WILL RACE TONIGHT ON MIDGET CARD

Five star pilots, Jimmy Snyder, Harry MacQuinn, Emil Andres, Duke Nalon, and Tony Willman will head a list of forty-one drivers who will compete in the nine race midget automobile program on the Riverview speedway tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Other events on tonight's card include five heats at 10 laps, an Australian pursuit event, and two handicap races.

Promoter Bob Lundgreen announced a match race between Snyder, MacQuinn, and Nalon would be held if they are among the fastest qualifiers. Qualifying trials will start at 7:30 p. m.

Barometer Is Good Indicator of Fishing Luck

BY BOB BECKER.

Studious fishermen with a scientific turn of mind have been intrigued for years by any weather conditions which may tend to make fish bite. For example, there are anglers who firmly believe that barometer readings are a definite factor in good or poor fishing. B. C. Snider of Lincoln, Ill., has been working on this angle for several years. He finds that a high barometer invariably means more activity by fish and therefore better fishing because they will take lures. A low barometer indicating stormy, upset weather conditions, according to Snider, is likely to have an adverse effect on the way fish bite.

Another scientific theory which has come in for a lot of discussion is that known as the solunar periods for fishing which we have discussed previously. This theory holds that fish react to the forces which cause tides in the ocean, and are more apt to bite when these forces reach a given lake region. We have checked on this for more than three seasons of fishing, finding it a helpful guide as to when fish may bite.

We have noticed this: when a low pressure area moves into a lake region, the wind goes to the east or northeast, and you have what the fisherman calls dirty weather. Then all fish seem to go down deep and quit hitting. This is a direct reaction to barometer and weather. We first became conscious of this factor when we were fishing Lake Ishtokpoga, Fla. One day we found our excellent bass fishing coming to a sudden end when the barometer needle nosedived and the weather changed abruptly. [For two summers now we have been carrying a barometer with us to carry on further checks of this factor in fishing.]

One thing that is bound to affect fishing [although most anglers hate to face the fact] is a spell of bright, very hot weather which tends to make game fish sluggish. Just as oppressively warm weather makes us want to take it easy, so we believe that fish react the same way. Also, it is reasonable to suppose that they will be more active around sundown or after dark on hot, bright days. Thus the fisherman may have to change his angling tactics if he wants to catch fish.

Golden Gloves Graduates Top Marigold Card

Golden Gloves graduates will share the spotlight in three bouts on tomorrow's program in Marigold Gardens.

In two supporting matches of four rounds Chester Rutecki, 1936 Golden Gloves welterweight title holder, meets Sherman Edwards, west side middleweight, and Frankie Kainrath, who successfully defended his Golden Gloves bantamweight crown last March, faces Lou Laurie, American Olympic Golden Gloves flyweight representative two years ago.

Zale, who was held to a ten round draw in a previous meeting with Celebron, is confident he will win this time and thus score his first victory since placing himself under the joint management of Sam Pian and Art Winch last June. Prior to his first clash with Celebron, Zale stopped Jimmy Clark in the same arena June 13.

Celebron's achievements this year include five knockouts in nine appearances.

Cooper Has 7 on Final Hole; Tied by Snead

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Harry Cooper of Chicago took a seven on the 18th hole of his final round in the Canadian open golf championship at the Missisauga club today and finished in a deadlock with Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Cooper, the defending champion, and Snead finished with scores of 277, six strokes behind Lawson Little's 1936 tournament record and three strokes ahead of Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y. Runyan, in a three way tie for the lead at the 54 hole mark, needed a 75 for his final round and had a 280 total.

Hold Playoff Tomorrow.

B. L. Anderson, secretary of the Royal Canadian Golf association, announced Snead and Cooper would play off for the title Monday at 18 holes. The last playoff was in 1931, when Walter Hagen of Detroit defeated Percy Alliss of England by one stroke over 36 holes.

Phil Farley of Montreal won the amateur medal with a score of 295, taking the trophy for the second straight year and the fourth time in his career. Lex Robson, veteran Toronto pro, led the Canadians in the quest of the title that has gone to the United States every year since the world war. He scored 72 and 71 today for a total of 289.

Cooper spoiled one of his greatest tournament performances on the last hole of his last round. A stroke behind Snead and Runyan at the halfway mark yesterday, he overtook them this morning with a brilliant 69 on the third round. Coming up to the final hole, he was three under par and seemed sure of victory.

That Fatal 18th!

He hooked his tee shot out of bounds, then sliced his second ball into a gully, was barely out with his iron, and three putted. Sam got a birdie three on the 15th and came home to tie. It was a close finish, for Snead's second on the 18th was wide of the green, but he chipped to within two feet of the cup.

Ed Oliver, husky pro from Wilmington, Del., placed fourth with 141—71—71—283. Then came Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., with 285's and the veteran Walter Hagen of Detroit, Tony Manero of Peabody, Mass., and Horton Smith of Chicago with 286 each.

Manero, United States open champion in 1936, outshot everybody in the field today to get among the leaders. He scored 70 this morning then fired a 66 in the afternoon to equal the course record set yesterday by Cooper.

Women Play Tomorrow in Closed Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Marion Miley, the Kentucky professional's daughter, who is ranked one of the best swingers feminine golf has seen in a decade, tomorrow will begin the defense of the closed championship of the Women's Western Golf association at Olympia Fields Country club of Chicago.

'Tis quite a chore the slender Marion has cut out for herself, if she would keep the crown she won last year in St. Paul by defeating Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., 7 and 6, in the thirty-six hole final.

Not only will Miss Jameson be on the premises seeking to even the score of last year's match, but there will be a number of other parties capable of matching the champion's game. One is the veteran Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, who won the qualifying medal in the 1937 tournament with a 75.

There also is that determined party, Patricia Berg of Minneapolis. Ten days ago the red haired little Minnesotan outdistanced Miss Miley at Butterfield to win the association's famed seventy-two hole derby, after Marion had taken it for three consecutive years. Of course, the Derby is a medal play event, but one need look no farther than the national tournaments of 1935 and last year to learn the scope of Patty's match play talents. She finished as runner-up in both of those events.

Chicago will be represented by a number of stars, including Virginia Ingram and Shirley Ann Johnson, Sunset Ridge clubmates who finished champion and runner-up, respectively, in the 1938 Chicago women's district; Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, and Ellamae Williams of Medinah, finalists in this year's state meet, and Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam O' Shanter.

Pairings of leading players:

Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Russell Mann, Milwaukee, Wis.
Beatrice Barrett, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Charles Newbold, Wichita, Kas.
Patty Berg, Minneapolis, Minn.; Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge.
Dorothy Traung, San Francisco, Cal.; Helen Hofmann, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Lillian Zech, Tam o' Shanter.
Mrs. Charles Dennehy, Onwentsia; Phyllis Buchanan, Denver, Colo.
Eleanor Dudley, Ridge; Barbara Ransom, Stockton, Cal.
Edith Estabrooks, La Jolla, Cal.; Ellamae Williams, Medinah.
Hilda Livengood, Danville, Ill.; Dorothy Ellis, Indianapolis, Ind.
Dorothy Foster, Springfield, Ill.; Mrs. Dan Chandler, Dallas, Tex.
Shirley Ann Johnson, Sunset Ridge; Eileen Wood, Dearborn, Mich.
Goldie Bateson, Milwaukee, Wis.; Eva Shorb, Massillon, O.
Mildred Hackl, Midlothian; Janet Shock, Dayton, O.
Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. A. R. Copeland, Beverly.
Virginia Nilles, Park Ridge; Virginia Lindblad, Lincolnshire C. C., Crete, Ill.

JOHN DAWSON WINS ROUNDUP AT GLEN OAK

John Dawson of Glen Oak carded 77—68—145 to win the annual Roundup at Glen Oak Country club yesterday. Art Doering of Westward-Ho was second with 73—76—149, and George Dawson third with 75—75—150. C. L. Marshall and William Roth tied for low net with 145. Art Basse and F. G. McIntosh were second with 146. William Roth, L. J. Kunzer, Dr. T. D. Laftry, and W. B. Nordhen were the low net foursome with 603.

GINKUS TAKES AMATEUR GOLF TITLE, 5 AND 4

Goes to Work to Beat Cabon in Afternoon.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Vincent Ginkus, husky blond steel tester, yesterday won the 34th Chicago city amateur golf championship by defeating lean Joe Cabon of Evergreen, 5 to 4, in the thirty-six hole final match in Lincoln park. The 21 year old Lithuanian-Irishman, who made his competitive debut as a caddy, thus won his first big tournament.

Ginkus, representing Lansing airport, found himself two down to the 33 year old Cabon, also a steel worker, at the end of the morning nine, but rallied to take four holes on the last nine to give himself a two hole advantage at the intermission. He had a medal card of 74, four over par, against Cabon's 77.

Has Six Hole Edge at 27th.

In the afternoon, Ginkus really went to work, going out in 31, three strokes under par, to take a six hole edge at the twenty-seventh. He yielded two of the next four holes, but won the thirty-second with a birdie to decide the match.

The championship consolation flight, for first round losers was taken by Chick Edwards of Cog Hill, who defeated Jim Johnson of Hickory Hills, 2 and 1. First flight victor was Ray Chamberlin of Libertyville, who handed Tony Mikelocei of Hillside a 6 and 5 defeat. The first flight consolation final, also a thirty-six holes, was won by C. E. Rueckert of Beverly, who won with a 3 and 2 decision over Ed Mayfield of the home club.

Here Are Title Cards.

Cabon lost the first hole by three putting, but dropped a putt for a birdie at the [illegible] with a pair of [illegible] ninth, Ginkus finding a trap at the former and topping his [illegible] ninth. The [illegible] penalty shot at the tenth, [illegible] trapped at the thirteenth, lost to Ginkus' birdie at the fifteenth, and then was [illegible] at the seventeenth.

In the afternoon, Cabon took three to reach the nineteenth green while Ginkus was holing an excellent putt for a par and a [illegible] footer fell for Ginkus at the twentieth, but Cabon took the twenty-first [illegible] own. He lost [illegible] on the next hole, however, and Ginkus holed [illegible] for a birdie at the twenty-[illegible]. Cabon conceded a [illegible] at the twenty-fourth, where Cabon was bunkered. They halved the next four holes, and Cabon claimed the twenty-ninth, charging that Ginkus lifted a strip of wire in a trap. Cabon was only two feet from the hole at the 119 yard thirty-first. Ginkus then ended the match by dropping a fifteen foot putt for a birdie at the 560 yard thirty-second.

61 PILOTS SEEK BANKED TRACK CROWN TODAY

Champion pilots from coast to coast will compete in the 50 lap standard car national title race for banked track drivers on the Hammond speedway this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The field, sixty-one in all, will include Petri Alberti, Parisian pilot who holds several records in America and abroad; Joie Chitwood, only Indian pilot in the country, who won the 100 mile Altoona, Pa., event; Everett Saylor, last year's central states champion; Spider Webb, west coast title holder; Morris Musick, Texas champion; Jimmy Wilburn, holder of several records throughout the country; Johnnie McDowell, winner of the 35 lap feature race a month ago on the Hammond track, and Buddy Rush of New York, who will make his debut on the Hammond oval.

The thirty-two mile championship contest appears to be a wide open affair, with a field of eighteen expected to face the starter. Because of the record entry list it was decided to move the time trials up to 11 a. m.

Hammond officials have hung up a special purse of $100 for the pilot who turns in a new track record for the one lap distance. Seven other events have been carded. They include four elimination heats, two handicaps, and a match race between Alberti, Saylor, Chitwood, and Webb. The latter race will be at 12 laps for a special added purse.

The speedway is located half a mile beyond the old Roby speedway on route U. S. 41.

DOUGLAS PARK, PORTAGE PARK SWIMMERS WIN

The Douglas park boys and the Portage park girls won the team championships in the Chicago park district swimming meet yesterday in Riis park. Douglas park scored 38 points to beat out California park by four. The Portage park girls piled up 40 points, 14 more than California. Columbus park was third in the boys' standing with 16 points and Douglas park's 25 points took third in the girls' competition.

Peggy McGinnis of Trumbull won both 25 yard races for midget girls. Muriel Berendt of Portage park took girls' senior events.

PHILS WIN FIRST VICTORY AT POLO GROUNDS, 8 TO 7

Arnovich Hits Homer, Bats In Four Runs.

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Today for the first time this year, the Phillies won a ball game in the Polo grounds, nipping the Giants, 8 to 7, in a slugging match to drop the New Yorkers five and one-half games behind Pittsburgh in the National league race.

Morrie Arnovich paced the 16-hit attack with a homer and two singles, driving four runs across. Phil Weintraub also hit a homer for the Phils and Gil Brack collected four hits.

The Giants made a dozen hits, including homers by Dick Bartell and Harry Danning, but they were unable to do much with the offerings of Al Hollingsworth, who relieved Hugh Mulcahy in the sixth. Score:

REDS, CARDS, SPLIT.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds and the Cardinals split a double-header today. The Reds won the opener, 4 to 2, and Lon Warneke pitched the Cards to a 5 to 4 victory in the second game for his twelfth victory of the year.

The second game was a replay of a contest May 14. An argument similar to the one that necessitated the replay developed over a hit that bounded off the edge of the pavilion roof. In the seventh inning Johnny Mize hit the projection with a line drive and the ball bounded back into the field. He was flagged at second, but Umpire Dolly Stark changed his mind and waved him around, ruling it a home run. A heated argument followed. The officials changed their minds again and ordered Mize back to second.

Rookie Don Lang starred in the first game for the Reds, driving in the run that broke a 1-1 tie and then slamming out a homer with one on in the ninth. Scores:

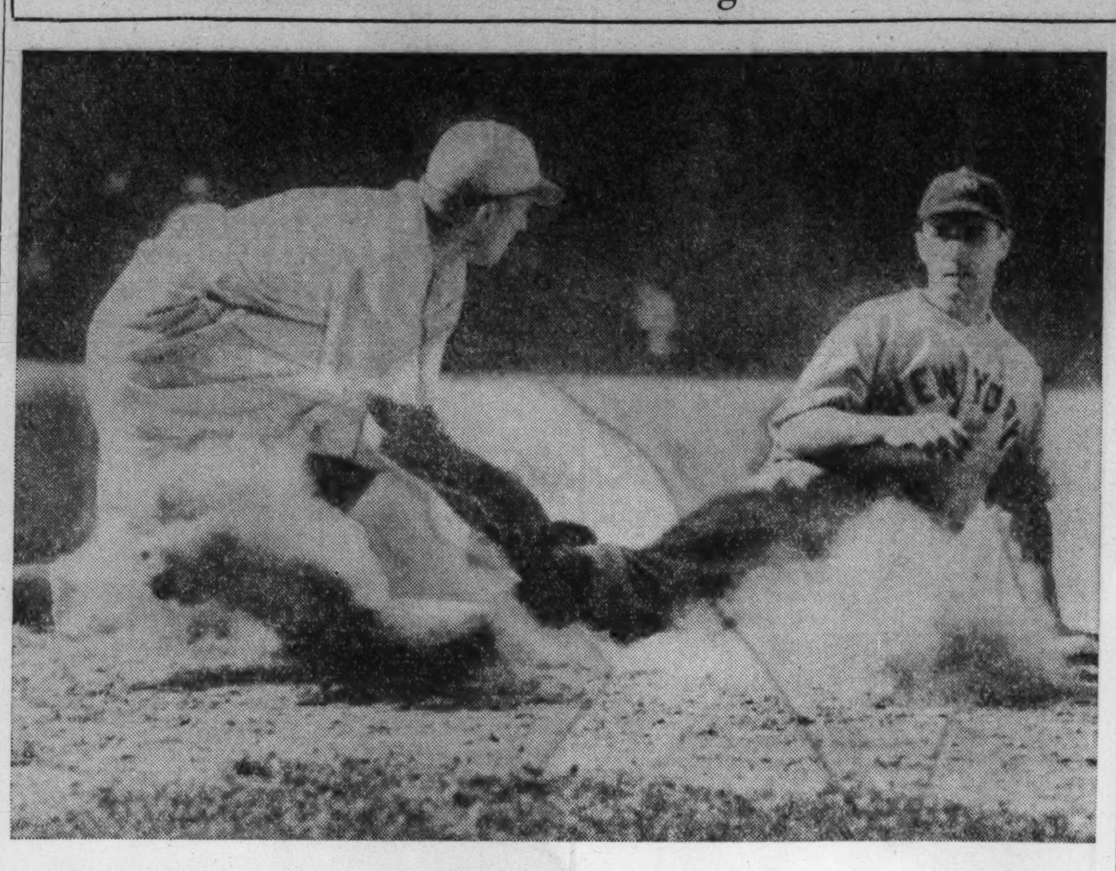
A Yankee Base Runner Is Caught Off Guard



Frank Crosetti, Yankee shortstop, is caught by Pitcher Al Williams' throw to First Baseman Lou Finney of the Athletics. Crosetti had strayed too far from the bag. This occurred in the eighth inning of yesterday's game in Philadelphia. It was won by the Yankees, 11 to 3.

Pirates Rout Dean, Defeat Cubs, 5 to 2

Dean Goes Out.

Manager Hartnett humanely concluded there was no use of making Dean struggle with an ailing arm and a rattled defense at the same time and excused him, calling in Vance Page. Todd lined one to right and by the time Demaree located the ball Suhr and Young were home and Todd was on third, credited with a triple. Hack threw out Lucas and Handley bounced to Collins.

No announcement was made of plans to bring in replacements, though the Cubs now are faced with a fight to keep from toppling into the second division. The Boston Bees are only 5½ games and the Brooklyn Dodgers six games behind.

The Cubs' roster carries 22 players, one under the limit. If the organization knew where there was a player available they could bring him in without releasing a man from the present inadequate ensemble. Ten days from now they will be privileged to bring in stars from their Moline farm but by that time it may be too late, many observers point out.

◆

Bill Lee and Tex Carleton will start for the Cubs in this afternoon's double-header with the Pirates in Wrigley field. Manager Pie Traynor has invited Cy Blanton and Russ Bauers to start for the Pirates. A week ago in Pittsburgh the Cubs knocked out Blanton in the first inning, but Bauers beat them, 2 to 0, in the final of the series.

◆

Clay Bryant, who stayed at home Thursday and Friday, was in uniform yesterday. He may be able to pitch in the Pirate final Monday.

◆

The fact that the box seats for this afternoon's show have been sold out for three days indicates the turnstiles will be shooting for a season record. The mark is high—43,223—set in a Cub-Giant double-header.

The weather man promises cool weather for this afternoon. Maybe not as cool as yesterday's 36 in Yellowstone, but cool.

Vander Meer Out of Game Until Infected Ear Heals

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds announced today Johnny Vander Meer, his ace hurler, would not pitch again until an infection in his right ear cleared up. Vander Meer complained of pain in the ear last night and went to a specialist who treated the infection. A small tumor was removed from the pitcher's left ear Thursday.

Sox Errors, Indian Hits Beat Stratton

Harder rolled to Berger for the third out.

The Sox shook off their meekness against Harder when Kreevich lined a two bagger into left center in the seventh. Averill made a great bare-handed stop of the ball, but then dropped it as he was about to throw to third, Kreevich going to third. He scored on Berger's double to the same spot. Rensa lined to Trosky, who tried to double Berger off second, but his throw went so far into left field that Berger scored.

The Indians were a bit rough on Stratton in their last couple of attacking efforts. In the seventh Berger fumbled on Heath, who went to third on a single by Hemsley and home on Solters' grounder to Kuhel, whose throw to the plate was late. Keltner opened the eighth with his No. 21 homer into the left field bleachers. Harder singled with one out and with two out Heath singled, Kreevich fumbling to let the two runners take an extra base. They scored on Hemsley's pop single which Radcliff chased almost to shortstop.

LYONS, KNOTT TO PITCH

Colored Nines Meet Today in All-Star Game

All-star baseball as played by the best performers in the Negro American and National leagues will be presented in Comiskey Park this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It is the renewal of the east-west series which began on Chicago's south side in 1933 and has been played there annually ever since.

For the sixth game this afternoon the west, managed by Andy Cooper of the Kansas City Monarchs, will depend upon strong pitching and air-tight fielding to offset the array of sluggers from the east. He will give the opening pitching assignment to Hilton Smith, big right hander, who was an important factor in the Monarchs' march to the Negro American league championship last year.

Brown May Start for East.

The east probably will start a left-hander, Barney Brown of the New York Black Yankees. Oscar Charleston of the Pittsburgh Crawfords, manager of the eastern stars, was undecided yesterday on which pitchers to follow Brown.

Charleston has led two all-star teams to victory and if he succeeds again today the east will hold a 4 to 2 edge in the series. Mayor Kelly will throw out the first ball. He also was the guest of honor at last August's game in Comiskey Park.

In an effort to match the strength of the western squad Manager Charleston made three last minute additions to the eastern battlefront. He induced the Newark Eagles to send Shortstop Willie Wells and First Baseman Mule Suttles, and also called in Outfielder Vic Harris from the Homestead Grays, champions of the Negro National league.

Suttles Home Run Hitter.

Suttles has hit two home runs into the left field seats of Comiskey park and he promises to drive another ball there before today's game ends. Wells has no equal as a fielder in colored baseball.

U. S. SWIMMERS SET RECORD; LEAD EUROPE, 24 TO 18

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—American swimmers streaked to a new world's record in the 400 meter relay event of the American-Europe meet at the Olympic pool tonight. The team of Takashi Hirose of Hawaii, Otto Jaretz and Paul Wolf of Chicago, and Peter Fick of New York, beat the European quartet in 3 minutes 59.2 seconds to slice 2.8 seconds off the former record of 4 minutes 2 seconds.

YORK HITS 26TH, 27TH HOME RUNS; TIGERS WIN, 6-4

Detroit Catcher Bats In 4 Runs Against Browns.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Rudy York's 26th and 27th home runs of the season paced the Detroit Tigers to their sixth consecutive victory today, a 6 to 4 conquest of the St. Louis Browns. The two hits scored four of the Tigers' six runs.

All the Browns' runs were scored by homers. Don Heffner hit one with Beau Bell on base, and Bell and George McQuinn each connected with the bases empty. McQuinn's hit marked the thirtieth successive game in which he has hit safely. Score:

RED SOX, 10; SENATORS, 7.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Red Sox made it five in a row today by trimming Washington, 10 to 7. The Senators outslugged the Sox, 15 to 12, but the home team profited by the wildness of Jimmy De Shong, who passed five and made a wild pitch, and his successor, Ken Chase, who passed four and threw away one pitch. Zeke Bonura led the Senators' attack with two doubles, a single, and a home run, his fourteenth of the year. Score:

YANKEES, 11; A'S, 3.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, who's on the up from the batting doldrums, hit a homer with the bases loaded and a two run double today as the New York Yankees defeated the Athletics, 11 to 3.

The six runs Gehrig batted in helped Monte Pearson score his eighth victory in a row and his eleventh of the year. Pearson gave up eight hits, four of them in the second inning when the A's did all their scoring.

By the victory, the Yanks maintained their ten game edge over Cleveland in the American league race. Score:

WILSON BLASTS HORNSBY ON VISIT FOR GAME TODAY

Calls Former Cub Pilot Jealous of Him.

Arriving in Chicago to perform as a semi-pro with the McKeesport, Pa., team, Hack Wilson, the former home run slugger of the Cubs, yesterday directed a blast at Rogers Hornsby, the manager who sold him down the river. Wilson will appear in a double-header this afternoon against the Chicago Mills in Mills stadium.

Hack Wilson.

"For seven years I kept my mouth shut and have gone around saying what a nice fellow Hornsby was, but he was a louse," Hack said. "He took the bat out of my hands because I got more money and publicity than he did. I had one bad year and I got let out. They forgot awful quick the money I drew through those gates."

Wilson told interviewers that he received $6,000 a month in 1931, the season following his performance of hitting 56 home runs and setting a National league record of 190 runs batted in.

Didn't Get It All.

"But I did not get it all," Hack continued, "Hornsby fined me anywhere from $500 up to $8,600 that year. The $8,600 was what I did not get for the last six weeks when I was suspended for the rest of the season.

"Coming out of Cincinnati, Pat Malone, who was a great pitcher for us, hit one of the Chicago writers and knocked out some teeth. It cost him $500 for that and me $8,600 for telling Hornsby off. I called Hornsby everything I could think of on the train and he had it coming.

"Hornsby told Bill Veeck [then president of the Cubs] that I called Bill and Owner William Wrigley a couple of so and sos. I called Hornsby a liar in front of Mr. Veeck for that and he sat there and took it. Then they suspended me.

Sunday School Clubhouse.

"You couldn't read a paper or smoke a cigaret in the clubhouse under Hornsby. You came in and sat like a monkey on your chair and got dressed. No laughing or playing around. He ran the club like a Sunday school.

"My last year, 1931, I was playing one day, on the bench the next. He took the bat out of my hands. I was what they call a 'cripple ball' hitter. But Hornsby gave me the take sign and there I'd stand. Then I'd be benched. He was sore; that's all, because I was the big guy on the team.

"And there wasn't a time in that whole year, 1930," he boasted, "that I ever was in a hotel room before 11 o'clock in the morning. That was O. K., of course, because I was going great. Nothing was said. But because I had one bad year, away I went. Hell, when they let me go I could hit better with a bat under my arm than some of the guys. But I was too big for Hornsby. I've never said anything about it before, but people might as well know the truth."

◆

In another double-header today the Spencer Coals will entertain Joe Hauser and his Sheboygan, Wis., club in Spencer field, 4200 North Central avenue. Mike Yaros and Lefty Stevens will pitch for the Spencers.

HORNSBY ANSWERS HACK.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby replied tonight to verbal jabs by Hack Wilson, former Chicago Cubs slugger, with the assertion that "the trouble with Wilson was that he did his cabareting all night and wanted to continue it in the team's clubhouse."

Hornsby, now managing the Chattanooga Lookouts in the Southern association, commented on Wilson's charge that players were not allowed to smoke in the clubhouse as follows: "Smoking in uniform is not allowed in any major league clubhouse of which I know."

Catch Baseballs Thrown from 708 Feet Up; Record

Cleveland, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Henry Hartz Helf, Cleveland's third string catcher, stood today in Cleveland's public square and speared a ball thrown off the Terminal tower, 708 feet up, to break the altitude catching record established thirty years ago when Gabby Street caught a ball thrown from the top of Washington monument, 550 feet high.

Mathematicians estimated the ball was traveling 138 miles an hour when caught.

"For a second I didn't know if it was going to hit my head or glove," said Helf.

Later Little Frankie Pytlak, Cleveland catcher, grabbed another one tossed from the tower but the 25,000 who craned their necks for a view gave most of the plaudits to Helf.

Ken Keltner, Indian third baseman who toed the temporary pitching mound on the 52d floor, hurled twelve balls. The other ten dropped in shrubbery and on concrete walks, giving Catcher Rollie Hemsley and Coaches Johnny Bassler and Wally Shank no chance for catches.

The balls that missed connections bounced six stories into the air.

INDUSTRY WHIRS FASTER, WEEK'S PAY ROLLS RISE

Activity at Highest Level of Year.

The nation's industrial machine whirred faster last week and several thousand names went back on factory pay rolls. Statisticians, after making allowances for seasonal trends, found that industrial activity on the whole was at the highest level of the year.

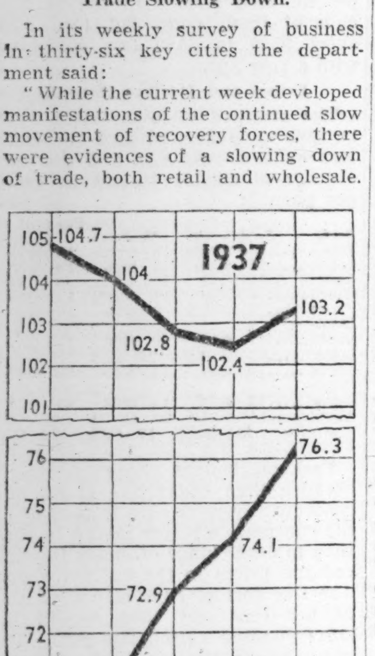
Indices showing increases for the latest available week included steel production, automobile output, power production, cotton textile manufacturing, and freight car loadings.

Retail and wholesale trade declined, however. This was attributed by the department of commerce to the unfavorable effects of heat in many parts of the country. Cities in the south made a better showing than those in other areas, the department said.

Trade Slowing Down.

In its weekly survey of business in thirty-six key cities the department said:

"While the current week developed manifestations of the continued slow movement of recovery forces, there were evidences of a slowing down of trade, both retail and wholesale. This reduced tempo apparently was based more on transient conditions than on any solid apprehensions as to the business outlook."



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in the last four weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, and also shows the corresponding 1937 activity. (1929-'30 average as 100.)

The output of automobiles rose to 23,940 cars and trucks from 13,790 in the preceding week, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., said. A year ago the total was 93,339 units. Secretary of Commerce Roper said a survey indicated that the number of cars in dealers' hands by the end of August will be down to less than an average of four cars per dealer, the lowest inventory position since 1934.

Resume Auto Production.

Indicating a more favorable position in automobile retail sales, some manufacturers, including the Ford Motor company, resumed production of 1938 models to assure dealers of an adequate supply. Factories are busy preparing for 1939 model production.

Ford's resumption sent 24,000 workers back to their jobs. Other branches of industry also called back idle employés or increased working schedules. In the rayon unit of the Ampthill plant of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., at Richmond, Va., almost the entire normal force of 2,500 was back on a five day week as production increased. Factories in Toledo, O., added a total of 545 persons to their pay rolls. Officials of the American Viscose corporation said 600 employés of the Roanoke, Va., plant will be called back in the next few days. There were other similar cases.

Steel Output Increases.

Steel production moved up to 40.4 per cent of capacity last week, one point above the 39.4 per cent rate of the preceding week. The 40.4 per cent rate was the highest in the last ten months. A month earlier mills were operating at 36.4 per cent and a year earlier at 83.2 per cent.

Electric power output in the week ended Aug. 13 rose to 2,133,641,000 kilowatt hours from 2,115,847,000 a week earlier.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced details of an improvement and expansion program to cost $17,500,000. Most of the outlay will be on the Indiana Harbor plant in the Chicago district. The program was described in connection with the registration of a $30,000,000 issue of convertible debentures.

Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities in the week ended Aug. 17 were $525,794,000 more than in the preceding week, but 12.2 per cent less than the total a year earlier.

Business Index Rises.

Barron's index, showing the physical volume of business, rose to 58.6 per cent of normal for the week ended Aug. 13. A week earlier it stood at 56.2 per cent, and a year ago it was at 87. Increased automobile output accounted for most of the rise in this index, but coal and petroleum production showed advances after adjustment for seasonal trends.

Consider Plan to Consolidate Gift, Estate Tax

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The treasury is studying a proposal to consolidate the federal gift and estate taxes. This is considered as a way to raise a more positive barrier to avoidance of the higher tax brackets.

Under the proposal to combine the taxes into a single "transfer tax," all gifts, whether made during the donor's lifetime or passed on as estates, would be taxed the same. Successive gifts, whether effective before death or afterward, would be lumped together to determine the tax bracket applicable to them. Thus they would come under a higher bracket than if they were taxed separately, part as gifts and part as estates.

Would End Litigation.

The system of taxing a series of gifts the same as a lump gift of the same aggregate amount already is imposed by the gift tax, and the government attempts by litigation to prevent reduction of estates for tax purposes by gifts made "in anticipation of death."

Officials believe elimination of this litigation is one result that may be expected from adoption of a single "transfer tax." Another they are taking into account is the elimination of duplicate forms and procedure.

The proposal is sharing treasury attention with the previously published proposals for another revision of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes, for extension of expiring excise taxes, and for reduction of personal income tax exemptions.

Obstacle to Simplification.

The chief obstacle to simplification of estate taxes, experts said, was the revamping of the present system of giving credits for inheritance taxes paid the states. Under the 1926 federal estate tax these credits range from nothing to 80 per cent of the federal tax, but no credit is given on the additional estate tax imposed in 1932. Officials would prefer a flat percentage credit near the average of 15 per cent.

At present each taxpayer has a life time federal exemption of $40,000 on his gifts and a similar $40,000 exemption on his estate. One of these exemptions probably would be eliminated in the proposed consolidation. The gift tax now has an additional exemption of $5,000 per year per person, which has been reduced to $4,000 beginning next year.

BERLIN STOCKS RISE; TAX BOOST REPORT DENIED

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The stock price recovery continued today. Many issues gained 1 to 2 points. The rise followed a statement by Dr. Fritz Reinhardt, secretary of the finance ministry, that all reports of an impending increase in the income tax were false. Further, he forbade any discussion of other possible tax increases, "because the German people must be protected from nonsensical rumors."

The statement itself, however, suggests further tax increases. Among those reported under consideration are a capital levy, a special defense tax, and a boost in the inheritance tax. The proportion of national income collected by the government already amounts to some 40 per cent.

Whether such an additional yield will be sufficient to enable the government to carry out its policy of retiring new treasury notes within six months, or whether it will have to take recourse to new inflationary credit expansion, remains to be seen.

UTILITIES POWER HOLDER OBJECTS TO ATLAS PLAN

A Utilities Power and Light corporation minority stockholder yesterday appealed from a court order authorizing Atlas corporation to submit a reorganization plan for Utilities Power. The minority holder was the Associated Investing corporation. It filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals an appeal from an order issued July 22 by Federal Judge William H. Holly.

Judge Holly authorized Atlas to submit a plan to reorganize Utilities Power and Light under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act. Atlas holds a majority interest in Utilities Power. The order also instructed Harry N. Gottlieb, special master in chancery in the federal court, to hold hearings on the plan and take evidence on the value of Utilities Power.

Associated Investing corporation contends the court order was issued before the Securities and Exchange commission acted on the case, and that therefore the court had no authority to act.

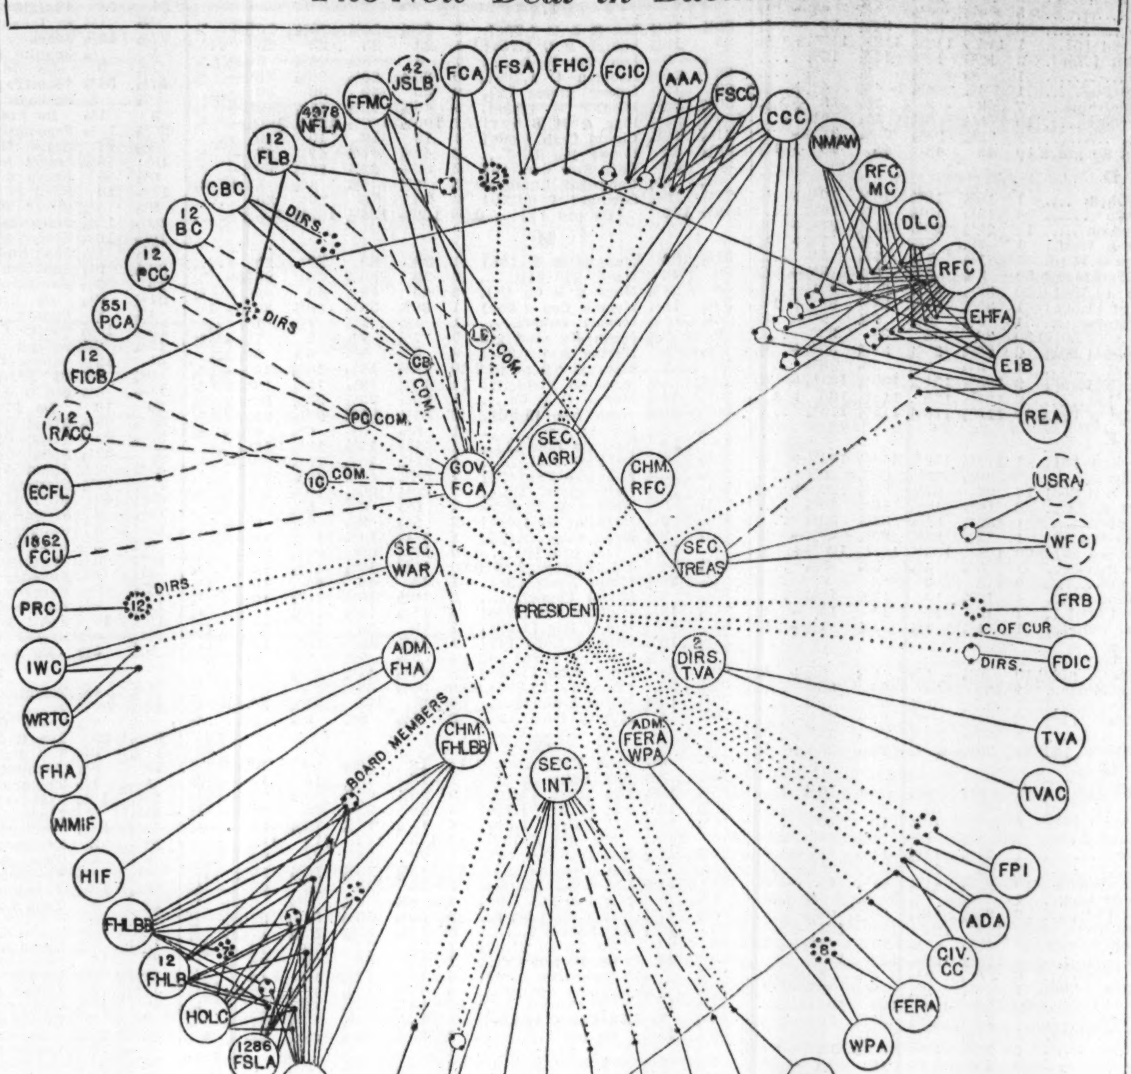
Silver Production in U. S. Shows Decline This Year

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Reports to the trade today indicated United States silver production in June totaled 4,679,000 fine ounces, compared with 4,813,000 in May and 5,487,000 in June, 1937. The output for the first six months of 1938 totaled 30,593,000 ounces, compared with 32,060,000 for the like period in 1937.

Howard Wood's Articles on Sale in Booklet Form

Copies of a booklet entitled "What Is Holding Business Back," by Howard Wood, financial editor of THE TRIBUNE, are on sale at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. The booklet contains reprints of the series of ten articles on the factors hindering genuine business recovery in the United States. These articles were published in the financial section of THE TRIBUNE between July 25 and Aug. 5. The booklet sells for 10 cents—13 cents if sent by mail.

The New Deal in Business



From Harvard Business Review

The executive officers of the various alphabet agencies of the federal government are shown in the above diagram. Each small circle in the outside ring of the chart represents a government corporation, agency, or system of agencies, such as the twelve federal land banks.

The inner ring of small circles designates the executive officers, appointed by the President, who are chiefly responsible for the conduct of these agencies. The inner circle represents the President. The black dots represents officials of federal agencies. Circles of the smallest size represent other administrative officers not included in other categories.

A key to federal agencies follows:

AAA—Agricultural Adjustment administration.
ADA—District of Columbia Alley Dwelling authority.
ADM.—Administrator.
AR—Alaska railroad.
BC—Banks for coöperatives.
BON. PROJ.—Bonneville project.
BUR. RECL.—Bureau of reclamation.
CBC—Central bank for coöperatives.
CB COM.—Coöperative bank commissioner.
CCC—Commodity Credit corporation.
CHM.—Chairman.
CIV. CC—Civilian Conservation corps.
C. of CUR.—Comptroller of the currency.

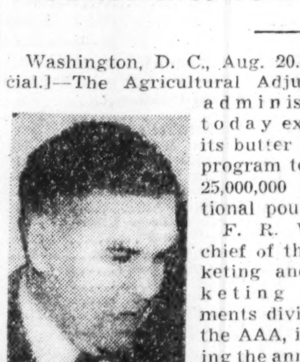
AAA Extends Butter Buying; Will Take 25,000,000 Pounds

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The Agricultural Adjustment administration today extended its butter buying program to cover 25,000,000 additional pounds.



F. R. Wilcox.

F. R. Wilcox, chief of the marketing and marketing agreements division of the AAA, in making the announcement said that loans up to $7,250,000 to the Dairy Products Marketing association had been approved for this purpose.

This is in addition to the 50,000,000 pounds authorized to be bought beginning last June 16. From that date until Aug. 19 the government had bought 43,000,000 pounds of that allotment. The original loan grant amounted to $14,500,000.

Lends to Chicago Agency.

Under the plan the federal Commodity Credit corporation lends on warehouse receipts to the Dairy Products Marketing association, an organization of regional producer coöperatives with headquarters in Chicago.

Purchases by the association are made in the open market and are available for resale when prices improve sufficiently to cover the purchasing price and costs of handling and storage.

The AAA said that the Dairy Products Marketing association is a nonprofit organization, so that any net proceeds from the resale of butter after the association has retired its loans are to be turned over to the federal surplus commodities corporation to buy dairy products for relief.

"Undoubtedly, the removal of price depressing surpluses from a glutted market through the purchase program has helped to stabilize butter prices, which probably would have declined seriously without the purchase program," Wilcox said today.

The AAA announcement said the wholesale price of 92 score butter in the Chicago market has been held at 25¼ to 25½ cents since the purchase program started.

Butter in storage on Aug. 1 set an all-time record for that date at 172,000,000 pounds, compared with 124,000,000 pounds on Aug. 1, 1937, and a five year average for that date of 127,000,000 pounds. The AAA also asserts that milk production per cow reached a peak on Aug. 1, 1938, and that the program this year prevented a price drop during the usual high production period.

Another "Ever Normal" Plan.

Wilcox also asserted this dairy program embodies the "ever normal granary" markets principle sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The loan rate on butter to the D. P. M. A. is not to exceed 75 per cent of the average market prices established over a period of years, according to the AAA. Also the maximum purchase price for butter is subject to determination monthly by the secretary of agriculture and the association. Differentials between the grades and markets are also established under the setup.

GOLD CONTINUES FLOW TO U. S.; 19 MILLION IN WEEK

Gold totaling $1,258,000 was engaged yesterday in England for shipment to the United States, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported. The bank also listed $6,800,000 gold engaged earlier in England but not previously reported.

Engagements yesterday brought the total for the week to $19,498,000, a trifle less than the preceding week's engagements.

British and French currencies were steady on the foreign exchange market, closing unchanged from Friday's quotations in terms of the dollar.

Gold was quoted in the London market at 142 shillings 5½ pence, 1 penny below Friday's price. The London quotation was equivalent to $34.77 an ounce compared with $34.78 on the preceding day.

ANOTHER GAIN IN STEEL INGOT PRODUCTION IS INDICATED THIS WEEK

Another gain in the national steel ingot production rate this week was indicated yesterday by preliminary mill schedules. The Chicago rate is expected to reach a new high for 1938, and production will also be stepped up at Pittsburgh.

Chicago mills will begin operations at 38.2 per cent of theoretical capacity this week, it was indicated. This would be a gain of 1½ points over a week ago and 0.6 point above a month ago, when the previous peak for this year was reached. A year ago the district's mills were operating at 85.2 per cent of capacity.

A Dow, Jones & Co. report said ingot production in Pittsburgh will begin tomorrow at 32 per cent of capacity, a gain of 2 points. This rate would be highest since the middle of March.

MORE BUSINESS GAINS PREDICTED FOR SEPTEMBER

Politicians Are Threat, Says Trade Chamber.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Further improvement in business during September seems almost certain unless it is thwarted by politicians, the United States Chamber of Commerce announced today. It said the current upward trend of business is exceptional, because business activity usually eases at this season.

The chamber predicted that when data have been collected and analyzed late in August, they will make clear there was an increase in industrial activity in July. There are not many years in which such an increase has occurred, it said.

Basing its analysis of the trend of business on figures for checks drawn on banks by their customers, the chamber said these "unmistakable facts" stand out.

Steady Gains in Some Areas.

Since June there has been fairly steady progress through the states of the Pacific coast, in the northwest, and in the southwest. In the central west, east of the Mississippi, about half of the reporting centers show similar conditions. There is about the same ratio in the south, east of the Mississippi.

In a number of cities where there has not been gradual improvement since early June, evidences of improvement have developed in the last four weeks. The chamber explained that the detailed evidence suggested that the improvement which some areas experienced is spreading.

Other signs of industrial improvement listed in the chamber's summary were:

Activity of cotton mills, both in the south and north, was higher in July than in June.

Use of Power Rising.

Figures on the use of electric power have been rising for six weeks or more. The chamber said that if the rise continues at its recent pace use of electric power later in the year will break all records.

Shipments of package freight by rail have shown as strong an increase as last year, which was unusual.

The output of bituminous coal has tended to rise.

During the first five months of this year imports dropped, but in June increases in raw materials over the figures for May were reported. Exports have been holding up well, the chamber said. It pointed out that "the physical volume of exports in June was almost exactly the same as the good volume of June, 1937,

Proposal for Spillway for Sardis Dam.—U. S. Engineer Office, Vicksburg, Miss.—Sealed bids will be received here until 11:00 A. M., C. S. ASSAILS LAXITY IN 'ALPHABET' AGENCIES OF U. S.

Abbott Tells Need for Overhauling.

Alphabetical corporations and corporate agencies of the federal government show a lack of efficient operation. Besides, a pressing need exists for a clear definition of their purposes, and for reorganization of their vast superstructure.

These conclusions were drawn by Charles Cortez Abbott, in a study published recently in the summer edition of the Harvard Business Review. The writer made a detailed examination of the administration, character, limitations, and powers of these agencies, whose growth has mushroomed in recent years.

Tracing the history of the agencies as a whole, Abbott pointed out that many date from the world war period or from the 1920s, but that the great majority have been set up since 1932.

Not All to Meet Emergency.

Although many of the agencies were designed to meet an emergency, others—such as the TVA—were not.

"With passing time the pretense of transient existence has been abandoned in the case of many of these bodies," the writer says, "and now they represent a permanent element in American society."

The importance of these bodies results from the vast sums at their command and the burden which they place on federal finances, according to the writer. Their varied undertakings, the different portions of society that their operations affect, the number of their employés, and their concentration in the hands of the small number of men who control them are added reasons given.

Government Has Vast Stake.

Direct financial interest of the government in these bodies can be estimated only with difficulty, the author says, but it appears to be in excess of five billion dollars. In contrast, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, one of the country's largest corporations, has assets valued at about three billion dollars, and an equity of about two and one-third billions.

Activities of federal agencies range from loans to individuals as small as $10 through the emergency crop and feed loans division of the Farm Credit administration, to single loans amounting to millions of dollars extended by the RFC.

Operations comprise diverse undertakings such as the insurance of mortgages as large as $5,000,000 on a single piece of property by the FHA, the manufacture of rum and the raising of chickens and tomatoes by the Virgin Islands company, and the operation of the Alaska and Panama railroads.

Wide Range of Activity.

Construction and operation of vast hydro-electric plants by the TVA and the Boulder dam and Grand Coulee projects, and the financing of consumer purchases of domestic electrical appliances, such as stoves and refrigerators, are included. And the scope of the activities, Abbott writes, may be extended almost without end.

Employés are numbered in the tens of thousands. The TVA alone, for example, supports 6,000 employés, each receiving an annual wage of $1,500 or more.

What the ultimate effect of this vast superstructure will be on American life and business is impossible to foretell, the author says. "But it can be confidently predicted that to analyze this extraordinary development, and to devise proper criteria for the success of the policies of these corporations and proper controls for their administration, will require the labor of at least a generation," he adds.

Origin of Agencies Diverse.

Legal origins of various agencies illustrate their diversity. The RFC and the Inland Waterways were created by congressional statute. The Federal Prison Industries, Inc., and the Export-Import bank of Washington were set up through executive orders issued under statutory authority. The Farm Security administration was erected by a memorandum of the secretary of agriculture.

The Panama railroad has a New York charter issued in 1849. The Virgin Islands company exists through an act of the colonial council for the municipality of St. Thomas and St. John.

The Commodity Credit Corporation, authorized by executive order, was incorporated in Delaware.

"Neither the charters nor the administrative procedure' of the government impose distinct limitations on the management of these bodies," Abbott says.

CCC Has Vast Powers.

The Commodity Credit corporation is empowered to do anything necessary to accomplish the purposes of the agricultural adjustment act of 1933, the national recovery act of 1933, the federal emergency act of 1933, and the reconstruction finance corporation act of 1932. That agency is also able to buy, hold, sell, ware-

Ford's Efforts to Decentralize Called Success

Henry Ford's experiment in the decentralization of industrial operations has proved an 'unqualified success" on a small scale basis, according to W. J. Cameron, spokesman for the Ford Motor company. This was announced in a summary report released yesterday. The complete report will be made at the International Management congress to be held in Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 to 23. The congress will bring together 2,500 business executives for a discussion of management problems.

W. J. Cameron.

Ford's experiment, which has been in operation for twenty years, includes twenty-two small village plants employing 4,000 workers, within fifty miles of the main Ford plant at Dearborn, the report shows. Employing 25 to 400 men and women each, the plants are used for making small automobile parts, such as lamps, starters, generators, drills, and inspection gages.

Gives Employés Advantages.

The program is designed to give the employés "all the advantages of rural life with a city income." It reflects Ford's belief that the country will be in better position when workers have "one foot on the land and one in industry." The "decentralized" worker has an opportunity to raise vegetables or animals, making it possible to balance his activity and add to his income.

In pointing out the advantages to the employés Cameron's report says: "He works in a small factory, in beautiful surroundings, and where noise and strain are reduced to the minimum. His family has the advantage of living in quiet, restful, peaceful surroundings, and in the cleaner air of the country, yet within an hour's ride of the big city. If he has no land of his own the thrift gardens of the company always are available. Except for brief seasonal layoffs, or at their own request in the sowing or harvesting time, the employés of the Ford village industries never have been without jobs.

Sought by Many Workers.

"Perhaps the best proof of the relative desirability of the country over the city industrial jobs and of the popularity of decentralization with the workers is the army of city employés that is constantly besieging the company's employment office for transfers to the suburban plants."

Cameron emphasizes, however, that decentralization is a "practical and not a humanitarian movement, except in that the humanitarian and utilitarian usually go hand-in-hand."

The advantages found for the company are: better quality work in the small plants than the large ones, greater interest and pride in their work taken by employés, and reduced labor turnover because of the relief from the restless atmosphere of the city.

Why Ford Tried It.

"Mr. Ford was interested," Cameron's paper sayss, "in bettering the lot of the worker, and making life easier and more enjoyable for everyone, but in this matter of small industries in the country, he was interested from the practical business man's point of view as well; in water power development, for instance, and in economical operation."

The experiment, though holding great promise for expansion, is still on a small scale, Cameron says.

"It is not yet decentralization in any large sense," he points out, "and complete industrial decentralization is not now regarded as possible. The heavier and final operations in the manufacture of products such as the automobile must always be centralized. For example, foundries are large units and must remain intact. It is only to the contributory departments that we can look hopefully for any fairly rapid and considerable development of the decentralization idea."

CHICAGO BANK CLEARINGS RISE FOR LAST WEEK

Chicago bank clearings increased last week to $256,400,000 from $247,100,000 in the preceding week, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The total for the corresponding week in 1937 was $327,100,000. The daily clearings follow:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$ 37,100,000	$ 4,100,000
Tuesday	48,100,000	3,900,000
Wednesday	47,300,000	4,000,000
Thursday	43,300,000	2,900,000
Friday	40,400,000	3,800,000
Saturday	40,200,000	3,300,000
Total for week	$256,400,000	$22,000,000
Corr. wk. last yr.	327,100,000	33,100,000

The New York Clearing House association reported the week's clearings were $2,755,648,185, compared with $2,633,491,038 in the preceding week.

U. S. TO BORROW 14 BILLIONS IN NEXT TWO YEARS

Refunding and New Issues Computed.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The United States government in the period between now and July 1, 1940, will be in the market to sell at least 14 billion dollars worth of securities. This estimate was made yesterday by Chicago security dealers, who believe that the figure is conservative and that the actual amount of federal borrowing will be much greater.

The 14 billion dollar total includes refunding of securities that will mature during the period. Such maturities must be paid, or holders induced to extend them by making exchanges for new issues. The total also includes expected borrowings by federal agencies whose securities are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the federal government. It likewise includes expected borrowing by the federal government to meet deficits caused by its huge spending program. It also includes a few issues which do not mature in the period to July 1, 1940, but which may be redeemed at the option of the government during the period.

Expect Low Interest Rates.

Because the keystone of the successful financing and borrowing of the government is maintenance of the present low interest rates, it is logical to assume that the present low rates will be continued. In this event it is also logical to assume that the government will attempt to replace securities when they are callable with new securities bearing lower interest rates.

The government's financing up to July 1, 1940, estimated to approximate 14 billions, may be divided into two classes: First, issues actually maturing prior to that date; and, second, those that are expected to be redeemed on the dates when the treasury is privileged to call them, plus amounts of new money to be borrowed to cover treasury deficits. The two groups are made up as follows:

ACTUAL.

TREASURY NOTES AND BONDS. Rate of interest, maturity—	Amount.
1¼ Dec 15, 1938	$ 433,000,000
1½ March 15, 1939	942,000,000

*TREASURY BILLS.

Total	$7,867,000,000

*Treasury bills are included only for the period Aug. 24 to Nov. 16. After the Nov. 16 maturities have been met it is difficult to anticipate whether the treasury will continue its short term borrowings at the rate of about 100 million dollars weekly. In any event treasury short term borrowings will materially swell the government's position in the security market.

*Estimated. †The Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Commodity Credit corporation have indicated that they plan further borrowings to finance their activities. The above estimates are considered conservative.

Can Refinance Before Election.

A significant aspect of the government financing necessities is the fact that all the foregoing can be taken care of by June 15, 1940—the year of the presidential election. From June 15 until Dec. 15, 1940, there are no maturities. This means that in the period from June 15, 1940, to Dec. 15, 1940, during which the national election occurs, the government does not have to undertake any financing if it does not desire.

The quarterly date, Sept. 15, 1940, gives an opportunity for it to enter the market should it choose. But the present setup gives the government the opportunity of keeping out of the security market should it feel that its activity might create disturbances in the money market.

The possible borrowings of the RFC and the Commodity Credit corporation [the CCC] require some

ACTIVE STOCKS CLOSE HIGHER IN UNEVEN LIST

Trading Light and Price Changes Narrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—Stock prices were irregular today, but the most active issues made small gains. The market was dull on a turnover of only 245,580 shares.

Indicating the narrowness of the change, the Dow Jones average of industrial stocks gained only .07 point, rails .14, and utilities .04. The number of issues traded fell to only 468. Of these 183 advanced, 131 declined, and 154 showed no change.

Optimism predominated in general business situation, but traders displayed little inclination to commit themselves. Among the favorable items were the forecast of K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler corporation, that automobile production next year would show an expansion of 25 to 55 per cent, and indications of increased operations in the steel industry next week.

Foreign Situation Disturbs.

Offsetting these developments to some extent, however, was concern over the European situation. The frigid greeting given to the concessions offered by the Czech government to the German minority instilled caution in traders.

A moderate buying in steels and motors provided the principal advancing influence. Gains running to a point or more were posted for leaders shortly after the opening, but these were substantially reduced or canceled at the close.

Motor stocks were the liveliest of the session. Chrysler climbed more than a point at the start, but finished at 73, a gain of ⅝. General Motors, the most active of all issues, was ahead ¼ at 48⅛. Bendix reached a new high for the year, up ⅝ at 23⅛.

U. S. Steel Makes Gain.

U. S. Steel held an advance of ⅝ at 59 and Bethlehem was ⅜ higher at 57.

Tire company shares were active, although they retreated in the closing period. U. S. Rubber was down ¼ at 45⅛. Goodyear and Goodrich were slightly higher at 28½ and 24½, respectively. These shares were aided by reports crude consumption was currently exceeding imports by a wide margin. Indications of a brisk pickup in tires sales were reported.

International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, National Biscuit, United Aircraft and Public Service of New Jersey were easier.

CHICAGO STOCK GAINS IN WEEK EXCEED LOSSES

Chicago stocks advanced yesterday and closed with more gains than losses for the week. Sixty-four of the 135 issues traded during the period advanced, forty-six declined, and twenty-three were unchanged. Two new issues were traded. Seven issues made new highs during the week.

The Tribune average of twenty stocks closed at 11.20, up 0.09 for Saturday and 0.45 for the week.

Bendix Aviation advanced ½ point yesterday to a new 1938 high of 23⅜. The closing price was 23¼. Rollins Hosiery gained ¼ to a new top at 2⅛. Adams Oil and Gas also set a new high at 8¼, up 1¼. Swift closed at 17⅞, up ⅛. Montgomery Ward advanced ⅛ to 47½, and Marshall Field finished at 47½, up ⅛.

Yesterday's volume was 12,000 shares against 8,000 on the preceding Saturday. The week's turnover slipped 98,000 shares from 122,000 in the preceding week, and 191,000 in the corresponding 1937 week.

Virginia Utility to Spend 3 Million Dollars on Plant

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Plans for the immediate construction of a $3,000,000 addition to the power plant of the Virginia Electric and Power company here were announced today. A new 40,000 kilowatt turbo-generator and a steam boiler will be installed at the company's 12th street station.

COTTON

American cotton markets were slightly easier in the early trading yesterday but rallied later. Lower prices in Liverpool and more favorable weather for the new crop in the south were the bearish influences.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .04 cent lower with New Orleans, 8.35 cents; New York, 8.40 cents; Galveston, 8.30 cent, and Houston at 8.25 cents a pound. Future prices follow in cents per pound:

COOL WEATHER, BARGAINS CAUSE RALLY IN HOGS

Consumers Use More Pork as Prices Decline.

Cooler weather and the ability of Chicago housewives to recognize meat bargains rescued the hog market from one of the sharpest August breaks in many years during last week. Packers attributed the pickup in live costs at the stock yards directly to the broader consumer buying of pork, which has been retailing at the lowest price levels for this season in four years.

The recovery was mild compared with the break of the preceding week, however, and buyers can look for at least another week of bargain rates in pork at the butcher shops, it was said.

Average Hog Price Is $7.75.

The week's live costs averaged $7.75, up only 5 cents from the week before, which was the lowest cost since February, 1935. A year ago packers paid an average of $11.80 and two years ago the price for hogs was $10.30.

Although all cuts of meats are well below prices during the summer of 1937, pork still is the leader on all bargain counters, showing a much greater percentage of decline, as a whole, than any of the other principal meats. The recovery during last week ranged from 50 cents to $3.00 per hundred pounds in the various cuts of fresh pork, but they still show $5.00 to $6.00 loss compared with a year ago.

Prices and Decline Shown.

The attached table indicates what butcher shop owners paid for meat last week, a year ago, and the percentage of decline [prices in cents per pound]:

Packers bought hogs relatively cheaper than other live stock, and consequently were able to pass on to the consumer a larger saving in pork than in other kinds of meats through reduced prices to the butcher shops. The live cost of hogs last week was 34 per cent less than during the corresponding period last year. The reduction in the live cost of steers amounted to 26 per cent, and in lambs 21 per cent from 1937 prices.

Pork Prices Out of Line.

It is unusual for pork to sell so much lower than other meats at this time of the year. The live cost of the hogs for the week was $2.50 per hundred pounds lower than steers. A year ago it also was abnormally low compared with steers, being $2.10 under the cattle price. Two years ago hogs cost packers $1.50 more than steers and three years ago swine showed an increase of 65 cents over the cattle price.

At the close of last week all classes of meat animals showed good price gains compared with a week earlier. The various grades of hogs finished unevenly 15 to 50 cents higher, heavy butchers indicating the most gain. Lambs closed strong to 25 cents higher and old sheep were mostly 25 cents higher. Steers, cows, and hefers were steady to 25 cents higher. Calves were strong.

Practically all live stock yesterday was billed direct to packers. Not enough sold to warant a change in quotations.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK STOCK UP $12 DURING WEEK

Shares of the First National Bank of Chicago were the best performers last week among Chicago bank stocks. Making another gain of $2 yesterday, First National stock was quoted $230 bid, $235 asked, a total gain of $12 for the week.

American National and Harris Trust each finished the week $5 higher, Continental Illinois National and Personal Loan and Savings were each $2 above their close of the preceding week, and Merchandise National shares gained $1.

Terminal National slipped $1, as did Chicago Title and Trust. Others were unchanged.

TWO OIL FIRMS' PROFITS LOWER IN SIX MONTHS

Utility Companies Earn More This Year.

Two oil companies, Atlantic Refining company and Standard Oil company of Kansas, yesterday reported earnings in the first six months of this year lower than those in the first half of 1937.

Other interim statements reported higher profits for two utility firms, Oklahoma Natural Gas company and the Tampa Electric company. Lower earnings were disclosed by First National Stores, Inc., chain grocers, Sisco Gold Mines, Ltd., and Brown Fence and Wire company.

Atlantic Refining's net profit in the first half year dipped to $2,863,511 from $3,436,756 in the corresponding 1937 period. Indicated profit for the June quarter amounted to only $815,511, against $2,048,000 in the preceding three months and $1,443,756 in the June, 1937, quarter.

Earns $3.17 a Share.

The report of Standard Oil of Kansas showed a profit of $348,854, or $3.17 a share, for the first six months. Earnings were $518,050, or $3.84 a share, in the first half of last year.

Net income of Oklahoma Natural Gas increased to $1,464,226 in the twelve months ended July 31 from $1,393,540 in the preceding twelve months.

Tampa Electric's profit amounted to $1,509,289 for the twelve months to July 31, against $1,436,416 in the preceding twelve months.

A profit of $647,977 was shown by First National Stores for the quarter ended July 2. In the same quarter last year the company had a profit of $806,835.

Mine's Profits Decrease.

Net profit of Siscoe Gold Mines slipped to $547,451 in the first six months of this year from $643,302 in the 1937 first half.

Brown Fence and Wire reported a net profit of $294,052 for the fiscal year ended June 30, compared with profit of $533,678 in the preceding fiscal year. On Aug. 5 directors of the company voted to take no action on the common dividend. Action was postponed until November in view of business uncertainties, although sales from July 1 were reported to be running 6 per cent over corresponding 1937 volume.

Investors' Guide

Transfers of Capital.

Recent large international movements of capital reflect the uncertainties facing investors in all parts of the world. Wars, fear of wars, and fear of currency devaluations have caused rapid transfers of funds from one country to another.

Many of these transfers are being made to this country because, for the moment at least, the United States appears to be most free of war threats. Also, no immediate prospects of any further devaluation of the dollar are visible. Hence the rush to United States money with resulting investments in this country.

How much of the recent rise in the stock market may be attributed to the influx of foreign funds is problematical.

Just before the May devaluation of the franc, when it was "pegged" at 2.79 cents, a heavy movement of French funds was made to the United States. Much of this was in the form of short term bank balances which had to be returned to France. As the franc continued to fall far below its pegged price these funds have continued to be held in this country.

Many investments in England have been liquidated and transferred to the United States as a result of rumors that the British government would let the pound slide to its old parity ratio with the dollar. Some observers believed such a course might be provided for in the pending Anglo-American trade agreement.

◆

Other influences in the flight from the franc and pound have been the war scares and the involved political relationships of various nations. The Japanese-Russian border difficulties aroused fears that France, as an ally of soviet Russia, might become involved. Great Britain historically has been closely allied with France, and thus might also be drawn into any war between Russia and Japan.

The Nazi-Czechoslovakian situation continues to hold a central position on the international stage, adding to uncertainties in European investments.

During any world crisis investors in those countries which are most involved always seek to transfer their investments to countries most remote from the trouble center. Belief that some degree of industrial recovery in the United States made this country an even more attractive haven for "scared" funds pending the outcome of the various crises.

CONSOL. BISCUIT DIRECTORS VOTE 15 CENT DIVIDEND

National Bond & Share to Pay in Stock.

Directors of the Consolidated Biscuit company yesterday increased the dividend for the third quarter to 15 cents a share on the common stock. The company had paid two dividends of 10 cents each this year. A total of 40 cents a share was paid last year.

Distribution of one additional share of stock for each share held was ordered by directors of the National Bond and Share corporation for Sept. 3 to holders of record on Aug. 30. The dividend was declared to carry out the plan approved by stockholders last Monday for doubling the 180,000 shares of no par capital stock outstanding.

Meeting Is Postponed.

Directors of Fohs Oil company postponed the regular meeting scheduled for yesterday to Sept. 6 because President F. Julius Fohs is in Europe. A quarterly dividend of 15 cents was paid in June.

The Welch Grape Juice company voted an interim dividend of 10 cents on the common shares. In June the company paid 15 cents cash and 5 per cent in stock.

Sanford Mills directors voted a dividend of $1 for payment Sept. 1. The last payment was $2 on Nov. 26, 1937.

TRADE IN BONDS IS SMALLEST IN THREE MONTHS

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Trading in bonds today dwindled to the lowest level in three months and prices shifted irregularly in a narrow range.

A few rails were offered down a point or so, cancelling the previous day's gains. But carrier loans generally were steady. Traders showed a selective interest in utilities and industrials.

Transactions totaled $1,903,200, the smallest since May 28, against $2,223,500 last Saturday.

Canadian Pacific to Give Up Its Fort William Elevators

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 20.—The Canadian Pacific railway has decided to lease its huge grain elevators at Fort William instead of operating them, it was learned today. "We have concluded that we are railroad men, not grain men," said an official of the road.

FOOD PRICES ADVANCE IN EARLY SUMMER, BUT HOLD WELL BELOW '37

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The price of the nation's foodstuffs crept slowly upward in early summer months, but remained well below the average for corresponding periods of 1937.

Statistics compiled by the bureau of labor statistics showed today that 80.2 cents bought as much food in June as could be obtained with 86.3 cents in the same month of 1937—the same amount 100 cents purchased in 1923-'25. But the same quantity of food purchased with 80.2 cents in June could have been bought for 79.1 cents in May. The increase of 1.3 per cent in the food index was attributed by the bureau of jumps in the price of fresh fruits and vegetables.

The department placed the Chicago figure at 82.5 per cent of the 1923-'25 level in June, 81.1 in May, and 89 in June, 1937.

Living costs of wage earners and lower salaried workers in thirty-two large cities increased an average of 0.4 per cent from March 15 to June 15, Secretary Perkins announced today. Increased cost of food was largely responsible, the labor secretary said, although rental costs and miscellaneous items contributed to the general rise.

DETROIT UTILITY PLANS REFUNDING OF 40 MILLIONS

A $40,000,000 issue of Detroit City Gas company bonds and notes will be registered about Sept. 1 with the Securities and Exchange commission, the Dow-Jones news service said yesterday.

Dillon, Read & Co., the Mellon Securities corporation and associates probably will be the underwriters, it was said. Proceeds of the offering will be used to refund the company's outstanding 5 and 6 per cent bonds, which are callable at 105, and for other purposes.

The Lone Star Gas corporation filed a registration statement amendment disclosing that the annual interest rate on its new $11,300,000 bank loan notes will be 2⅞ per cent. The company also is issuing $20,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures due in 1953.

CANADIAN FREIGHT RISES.

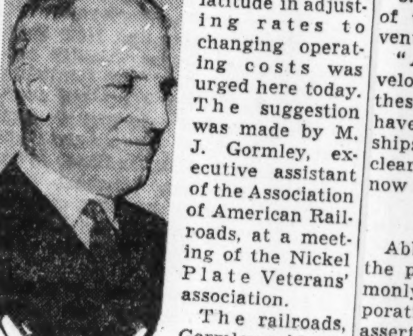
URGES RAILWAYS BE GIVEN POWER TO ADJUST RATES

Gormley Asks Revision of Regulations.

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—A revision in regulations to give railroads more latitude in adjusting rates to changing operating costs was urged here today. The suggestion was made by M. J. Gormley, executive assistant of the Association of American Railroads, at a meeting of the Nickel Plate Veterans' association.



M. J. Gormley.

The railroads, Gormley said, ask no favors from the government. They ask only "fair regulation and equality of treatment with other forms of transportation, and greater freedom in the pricing of the only product they have to sell—transportation," he asserted.

Cites Increased Costs.

"The experience of the last fifteen months," Gormley said, "has shown the necessity of such a change. With the greatly increased cost of operation, the railroads have been unable to adjust their prices to meet expenses. This is because of the unfortunate language in the rate making rule of the interstate commerce act, which has been construed by the Interstate Commerce commission as requiring it to substitute its judgment for that of railroad management as to what the basis of rates should be to yield needed revenue."

The railroads, he said, propose a revision of Section 15-a of the act [the rate making section] that will direct the commision to regard the revenue needs of the railroads as a primary consideration.

Recalls Rate Boost Plea.

Gormley recalled that within the last year the railroads asked the I. C. C. to grant an increase of 15 per cent in freight rates to meet rising costs, and that thec ommission granted an average of only 5.3 per cent.

"You have heard the statement that transportation costs impose a heavy burden on the country," he said. "Being interested in determining just what this burden amounted to as far as railroad freight charges were concerned, we found:

"The railway freight revenue in 1936 amounted to $26.14 per person for the year, or an average of about 7 cents per capita per day. Had the commission granted the request of the railroads in full, it would have increased the revenue to $28.44 per capita per year, making an increase of 2-3 of a cent per capita per day."

Recovery in Sweden.

Sweden has been much publicised recently on its success in combating the world business depression. A presidential commission just recently completed an investigation of Sweden's labor policies and also branched out into investigations of other Swedish economic problems. The commission will submit a report on its findings to congress.

Much of the recent budgetary experimenting in this country has been said to have been based on Sweden's experience. A widely believed fallacy here is that Sweden voluntarily "went off gold" in order to halt deflation, and succeeded in doing so.

In the first place, Sweden did not do so voluntarily. She was forced to when England scrapped the gold standard and Sweden was unable to get a stabilization loan in New York because of pressure on world money markets.

Secondly, Sweden did not stop deflation by going off gold. Domestic prices and prices of goods exported continued to fall for some time after Sweden abandoned the gold standard. Prices of goods imported from gold standard countries, however, immediately rose.

The Riksbank's index of prices was steadied by the rise in import prices which offset declining export prices. The Swedish people were having to pay more for their purchases abroad and at the same time were receiving less for goods sold abroad. Swedish recovery did not begin until 1933 when exports began to increase.

Abbott Relates Need for Reorganization.

house, and process all sorts of commodities, to deal in real estate, to lend and borrow money, to buy and sell corporate securities, and to establish branch offices at home and abroad.

"Such purposes give its directors considerable discretion," Abbott writes, "and in carrying them out the corporation is given all the powers granted private corporations by the laws of Delaware, under which it is chartered."

Chief Reasons for Confusion.

Three chief reasons exist for the confusion which currently appears to exist in the system of federal agencies, Abbott says. They are:

1. Congress has never defined the scope and purpose of federal corporations and corporate agencies. Nor has congress fixed the methods by which they should be created, financed, and controled.

2. Many of the more recent bodies were chartered as emergency measures in the confusion of an acute business depression, and "seemingly were chartered without any clear purpose."

3. During the last six years many of these bodies have had most adventurous careers.

"As a result," the writer says, "developments in the history of many of these bodies have been so rapid and have given rise to so many relationships of varying types that to get a clear conception of their evolution is now almost impossible."

Charges Dubious Methods.

Abbott's study does not overlook the presence of many practices commonly viewed askance in private corporations. There is no question, he asserts, that in the federal structure many dubious practices do exist.

"The alleged laxity in the corporation laws of Delaware have been much criticized in this country, but such criticism has not prevented the Commodity Credit corporation and the Farm Surplus Commodities corporation from making use of the advantages of these statutes," Abbott asserts.

"Lack of publicity of corporate accounts has been deplored by most persons interested in corporate policies, but the Virgin Islands company and the Tennessee Valley Associated Coöperatives, Inc., publish no annual reports.

Complete Accounts Lacking.

"Complete corporate accounts have been generally recommended as desirable by analysts of corporate affairs, and in the case of the railroads reports have been required by the interstate commerce commission. But a group of statements more diverse in form, structure, and completeness than that published by the federal bodies would be hard to find."

Abbott says pyramided corporate financing is regarded with suspicion in the United States, but that examples of federal corporation financing stemming from the treasury are frequent and striking.

Since 1914 public policy has frowned on interlocking directorates in private industry. An example of such a situation taken by Abbott from federal corporations is the Export-Import bank. Each of the fifteen directors of the bank, Abbott says, holds an advisory or official post in another federal agency.

Enjoy Special Advantages.

In contrasting public administration of agencies with private operations, managers of federal corporations enjoy two advantages which their cousins in private business do not. Abbott says they are:

1. Federal administrators do not work under the threat of stockholders' suits for fraud, malfeasance or negligence, either because their corporations do not issue stock—the TVA does not—or because of technicalities in the way the stock is held.

2. Success of their operations is generally not subject to the systematic and objective appraisal given private business in the securities market. This is because few federal agencies sell their own securities in the public markets, and those which do for the most part have their credit buttressed by a government guaranty.

Sees Lack of Efficiency.

"It is hardly possible to think that these conglomerate bodies grouped under the heading af 'federal agencies,' of mixed origin, and still more miscellaneous history, linked to one another by uncertain and rapidly changing relationships, operate as whole with any high degree of efficiency," Abbott concludes.

"It is only too easy to believe that the great latitude given managers of these agencies in their operations may lead to the exercise of irresponsible and arbitrary power."

"Much of the uncertainty and ambiguity connected with the operations of these bodies," Abbott continues in his conclusion, "is traceable to the fact that in numerous respects their legal status and political perquisites, their position in the framework of government, and their relations to private interests have never been authoritatively defined."

TEXAS & PACIFIC NET INCOME FOR 7 MONTHS FALLS

The Texas and Pacific railway yesterday reported net income of $228,486 for seven months ended July 31, against $1,511,184 in the corresponding 1937 period. July net income after charges was $62,368, compared with $244,823 in July, 1937.

The Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville railroad had a July net loss of $15,611, compared with net loss of $7,713 in July, 1937. Its seven month net loss was $119,970, against net loss of $64,621 in the first seven months of 1937.

RUBBER, COPPER RISE AS STOCKS SHOW SHRINKAGE

Other Commodity Prices Uneven for Week.

Rubber and copper, two important commodities in industrial usage, moved higher in futures markets last week. The advances reflected traders' belief that inventories have been reduced to a point where substantial purchases will be made by industrial users.

The advance in rubber was influenced particularly by the brightened outlook for the automobile industry, which is stepping up its tire commitments

Other commodity futures moved narrowly and unevenly. Cottonseed oil, silk, and sugar showed gains. Slipping a little were lead, tin, and cocoa. Holding steady were coffee and wool tops.

Dow-Jones Index Rises.

The Dow-Jones index of eleven commodity futures advanced 1.14 to 47.91 [1924-'26 average equals 100]. This sharp upturn was caused largely by advances in grain futures, which are heavily weighted in the index.

Rubber contracts gained 0.36 to 0.38 cent a pound. The spot price of smoked ribbed rubber sheets moved up 0.32 cent to 16.32 cents a pound.

Copper futures closed the week 0.15 to 0.20 cent higher than quotations a week earlier. A fair demand for domestic copper in the spot market was reported, with the price unchanged at 10⅛ cents a pound. Export copper prices steadied last week, finishing at about 10.06 cents, or the same as a week earlier.

Other Metals Are Lower.

Tin, moving unevenly most of the week, finished 0.10 to 0.25 cent a pound lower for futures. The spot price of tin slipped to 43 cents from 43.15 cents at the end of the preceding week. Zinc and lead lost 0.10 cent a pound for futures and were unchanged in cash markets.

Domestic sugar contracts made net gains for the week of 0.02 to 0.04 cent a pound. World futures eased, closing off 0.01 to 0.02 cent. Prices for raw and refined sugar were unchanged in the spot market.

Cocoa eased 0.02 cent. Silk futures were up about 1 to 1½ cents. Cash prices for silk were ½ cent higher. Japanese special crack double extra silk sold at $1.73 cents a pound at the end of the week.

Hides and cottonseed oil were the only futures markets open yesterday at New York. Hides were up 0.10 cent for the week and cottonseed oil gained 0.15 cent. Both were a shade higher yesterday.

Cotton Spinning Industry More Active During July

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The census bureau reported today the cotton spinning industry operated during July at 100.2 per cent of capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 91.9 per cent during June this year and 121.9 per cent during July, last year.

FEDERAL POLICY RAISES PROFIT OF A FEW CONCERNS

Gold Mines and Business Machines Helped.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The administration's policies toward business have been flatly opposed by many business men. They declare that they are overregulated and overtaxed, and as a result get too small a profit return for their efforts.

But to a few businesses the present administration policies have been a boon in spite of the fact that these lines, too, are subject to the same regulation and taxes.

Take, for example, the makers of business machinery. The government has required so many reports from business that large companies have been forced to instal additional calculating and recording devices to meet the demands from Washington. Another case in a widely different line is that of gold mining firms. Instead of getting $20.67 an ounce for gold, as they did in 1932, they are now getting $35, as a result of the devaluation of the dollar.

More Shipyard Business.

And, in another instance, the administration's present big navy policy, calling spending more than a billion dollars for ships and airplanes in the next ten years means more business for shipyards and aviation factories.

The company which has probably cashed in more than any other on the huge demand for more governmental reports is the International Business Machines corporation. It makes specialized equipment for sorting, tabulating and compiling all sorts of statistical data. The machines are not sold, but are installed on a rental basis. Cards also are made by the company for use in the machines. They are sold outright.

The electric bookkeeping and accounting machines of this firm alone are estimated to make up about 85 per cent of such labor saving devices used in the United States. The government itself in recent years has greatly expanded its needs for this type of office equipment. One of its more novel uses is in the federal bureau of investigation. There, by use of the machines' sorting mechanism any finger print sent from anywhere will be identified in a few minutes time, if it is on file.

Watson Builds Business.

Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines, took over his present job in 1914, after leaving a position with the National Cash Register company. He has played a big part in building the company to a point where it dominates the accounting machines field. He has contended in recent months that the blame for the industrial slump should be divided "fifty-fifty" between business and financial heads and the government. In many of his views, he has shown a New Deal leaning.

Net income of International Business Machines, boosted because of direct and indirect government demands, last year amounted to an all time peak of $8,082,513, or $10.42 a share. In the first half of this year, with profits for most corporations either going for a sharp dip or turning to losses, the company earned $4,019,303, or $79,000 more than in the first half of 1937.

Remington-Rand Profits.

Another firm, whose activity is partly in this field, Remington-Rand, Inc., reported for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, profits of $4,509,733, or nearly $1,000,000 more than in the preceding fiscal year. This was the highest on record except for the year ended March 31, 1930, when $6,040,554 was earned.

Among others who have profited from the increasing amount of reporting by business to the government are the cost accountants. The added burden of reports and increased costs brought by so-called legislation have made unemployment among them practically nonexistent, according to the National Association of Cost Accountants.

An example of what the dollar devaluation has done for gold mining profits is found in the record of the Homestake Mining company. It had a profit of $2,495,000 in 1932. In 1933, this had jumped to $5,007,743. Profit in 1935 amounted to $8,144,000.

Reverse Effect on Mining.

Ordinarily, the business cycle has a reverse effect on gold mining from its effect on the ordinary industrial company. When a depression hits, costs of labor and material tend to go down in terms of gold. This means that gold is worth more in terms of everything else and the gold miners get bigger profits. Thus, Homestake's earnings went from $1,044,070 in 1929 to $2,496,000 in 1932. Then, the gold mine operators got an artificial boost when the devalued dollar made the same amount of gold that was formerly valued at $1 worth $1.70.

In the field of shipbuilding and aircraft, the government's orders mean lots of business, but not so much in profits because all naval contracts limit the profits for private business to 10 per cent. Besides this, competitive bidding for contracts may reduce the profit margin even lower.

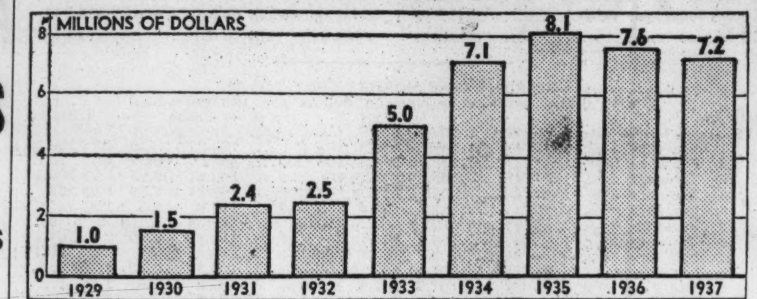
Gold Mine's Profits Soar



The chart shows what has happened to profits of a leading gold mining firm, Homestake Mining, since 1929. The devaluation of the dollar, making gold worth $35 an ounce instead of $20.67, gave a sudden boost in April, 1933. Earnings of gold mining companies, disregarding political tinkering with money, ordinarily "reverse" the usual business cycle. In depression, costs of material and labor go down, but the drop is in terms of gold. Thus, the value of gold goes up. This explains why, with the volume of output virtually unchanged, Homestake more than doubled its profits from 1929 to 1932. It explains why profits slipped from 1935 to 1937, a period of rising costs.

U. S. TO BORROW 14 BILLIONS IN NEXT TWO YEARS

Refunding and New Issues Computed.

further explanation. In order to keep its debt separate from the national debt, the structure of the RFC has been changed to enable it to sell its notes directly to the public. In the announcement of the RFC program of extending aid to various institutions to help bring back prosperity it was estimated that the additional RFC borrowings would probably be between 700 and 800 million dollars. It has already sold 211 million dollars of notes, which leaves 500 million, conservatively estimated, yet to be sold.

The CCC has already borrowed 206 millions to finance its activities in the commodity markets and it is believed that its future borrowings will be at least 250 million more.

Four Methods of Borrowing.

There are four chief possible methods by which the government can raise the needed money:

1. Borrow from the "public," which means to borrow from banks, insurance companies, large institutions, and other lenders.

2. Continue the sale of "baby bonds" to small investors. From the time when the sale of baby bonds was started in 1935 to the present, enough of these bonds have been sold to place the total amount outstanding at approximately 1 billion 700 million. About 120 millions of these bonds have been cashed by their holders before maturity.

3. Raise money by increasing taxes and by reducing tax exemption. Already there are whisperings that the income tax base may be broadened. There is agitation for reduction of the tax exemption on federal securities and for the ending of tax exemption on municipal obligations.

4. Further devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold. This is inflation.

How Government Operates.

The government operates in the nation's security market through several mediums. It uses the offices of the secretary of the treasury and the federal reserve board. It distributes its securities through banks and investment houses. And in the case of its "baby bonds" it deals directly with its security customers.

The largest operations are carried on through the banks that are members of the federal reserve system. These banks hold a huge part of the federal debt as represented by federal securities.

June Urban Foreclosures Are Fewer Than Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Federal Home Loan bank board reported today there were 10,704 nonfarm foreclosures in June, a decrease of 2.8 per cent from May and a decline of 27.1 per cent from June, 1937.

WHEAT AND CORN REACT SHARPLY AFTER ADVANCE

Brokers Report Lack of Aggressive Buying.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .63⅞	$ .64⅝	$1.05⅜
Corn	.52¼	.53¼	.93½
Oats	.23½	.23⅝	.29
Rye	.41⅞	.42½	.76⅞
*Soy beans	.78½	.78¾	.95¾

*October delivery.

North American grain markets reacted sharply yesterday after a small advance in the early trading. Wheat declined more than 1 cent and corn sagged about 1½ cents a bushel from the day's high marks. Brokers said the recession resulted more from lack of aggressive buying than from selling pressure.

Closing trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ¾ to ⅞ cent. Corn was ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel lower.

Oats showed independent strength and closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel higher. About 200,000 bushels of cash oats were reported sold for shipment to the east. During the last week cash oats have advanced about 1 cent a bushel relative to the September delivery.

Report Germany Buying Wheat.

Germany was reported to have purchased 750,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat yesterday, according to a London cable to J. S. Bache & Co. Winnipeg also reported a much better demand for cash wheat from Europe. This had some effect on wheat futures, which closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher. Canadian terminal markets received approximately 1,000,000 bushels of cash wheat yesterday, part of which was hedged by sales of futures. Persistent showers were reported to be delaying harvesting in parts of the Canadian northwest.

At the high point yesterday September wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade sold at 65⅛ cents, an advance of 5⅛ cents a bushel from the low price on Aug. 20.

Expect Sales to Britain.

Part of the appreciation in price in the last week was attributed by brokers to expectations of liberal sales of domestic hard winter wheat to the United Kingdom in the immediate future. The department of agriculture's proposed program of subsidizing exports of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat is regarded as being one of the influences which is checking speculative interest in the market at the present time.

Country offerings of cash corn showed a tendency to increase yesterday and purchases of about 100,000 bushels were reported for deferred shipment to Chicago. Export sales of corn were said to be slow, but leading handlers regarded the small purchases as merely a pause in the demand and they expect a liberal business in the immediate future. It is estimated about 1,000,000 bushels of cash corn will be shipped via lake from Chicago to Canadian ports this week.

Construction Awards Fall.

The dollar volume of engineering construction awards in the week ended Aug. 17 fell 42 per cent from the level of the preceding week, but still was 3 per cent above the total of a year earlier. The volume for the Aug. 17 week was $44,479,000.

An event of the week indicating that business still has a long way to climb was disclosure that the American Telephone and Telegraph company had to dig into surplus to pay part of the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on the common stock. The dividend was declared Wednesday. Net earnings in the period were insufficient to cover the payment.

The Argentine government on Tuesday called off a proposed $25,000,000 offering of bonds. The action was not explained. The issue was to have been offered in the American market.

Minimum Truck Rates Set.

The interstate commerce commission acted to stop the truck rate wars in the central states and New England. It issued orders Tuesday setting minimum rates. The minimum fixed for the central states will average about 3½ per cent higher than present schedules. The central region includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, New York [other than the part covered by the New England division], Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

A 30 cent an hour wage minimum for the textile industry was agreed upon tentatively by labor and the industry as federal wage and hour regulating machinery began operation. A start was made after Donald M. Nelson of Chicago was named chairman of the textile industry board.

The interstate commerce commission on Tuesday approved the reorganization of the Chicago Great Western railroad. The plan cuts capitalization from $139,247,313 to $62,291,827 and reduces the annual interest charges from $1,858,295 to $767,071. Other charges bring the annual fixed requirements to $1,435,242. The common stock holders lose their equity. The plan still is subject to approval by security holders and the United States District court at Chicago.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

TRAFIC VIOLATOR PICTURES.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—If you want some good trafic violators' pictures come to 18th and Loomis streets. Seventy-five per cent of trafic passes the red light going north—street cars, private cars, and trucks. We cannot get any coöperation from the city police. J. VONDRAK.

BUMPERS INTERLOCK.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—One of the concomitant joys of motoring every driver has the misfortune to experience is locking bumpers. This nuisance has been the center of much complaint, but little effective action has evolved from the desire for an efficient regulation of bumpers and guards.

The common type of single bar bumper proves very insufficient in the use it was intended for. Of prime difficulty is the fact that front bumpers are two to five inches lower than the rear ones on the majority of cars. This is intentionally done to counterbalance the weight on the rear springs when the vehicle is loaded. However, upon applying the brakes, as is always occasioned in the emergency of possible catching, the front end is depressed, resulting in an interlock with the rear of the preceding car.

Seemingly the only possible solution to this problem is some type of standardization of the bumpers on all automobiles. As the present style of adapting bumper guards to protect the fenders and grill is both costly and unsightly, an arbitrary minimum and maximum specification should be made by the automobile manufacturers. Until this is accomplished today's motorist can look for many a sprained back and much delay in his effort to unhook bumpers.

In daily observation it is found that locking of bumpers causes a great extent of trafic tie-ups and a good amount of fender repairs. A strong block of public opinion probably would result in some improvement and modification in this automotive accessory.

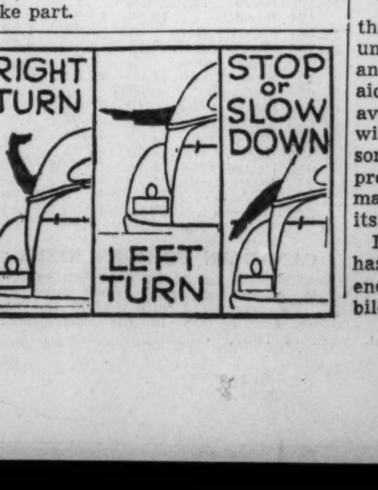
NEWS AND VIEWS

After 10 years of experiments with rayon, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company announces that it is placing on the market a new tire in which rayon is one of the principal parts. The company declares that the use of rayon gives lighter weight with greater strength. It says that a tire made with rayon cord is so much stronger than a tire made of ordinary cord that a rayon tire of four ply will outwear an ordinary tire of six-ply. The rayon ply cord is said to be 30 per cent stronger and 10 per cent lighter than the ordinary cord tire.

Membership in the Chicago Automobile Trade association is greater than at any time in its history, S. B. Shapiro, general manager, announced yesterday. Fifty-three members have been added in the last three months. H. T. Hollingshead, president, said that the increase in membership has resulted from the broadening of the scope of services to members.

C. P. Simpson, general sales manager of the Pontiac division of General Motors, announced yesterday a new activity in the field of dealer-factory relations. The Pontiac company on Aug. 29-31 will be host at a series of meetings in Pontiac and Detroit in which coöperating committees of Pontiac dealers will meet with sales department heads of the factory to lay plans for the 1939 model season. A total of 32 dealers chosen from the Pontiac dealer membership will attend the three day meetings. H. A. Wehmeier, vice president and distributor of Community Motors, Inc., will be the Chicagoan who will take part.



West Side Gets Much Study and No Trafic Betterments

BY HAL FOUST.

Only by unusual activity can Chicago save a $1,252,636 grant offered by the public works administration for the extension eastward of Wacker drive to the outer drive. Aldermen have been looking the gift horse in the mouth, and it may even now be too late to accept it.

For this $2,783,636 improvement, it was proposed that Chicago should spend $1,531,000 of its gasoline tax revenue as well as the federal "easy money." West siders protested that East Wacker drive was not needed as much as some development of west side trafic facilities. Trafic engineers agree that the worse congestion is west from the loop.

Bowler Heads Subcommittee.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] was appointed as chairman of a subcommittee to study more advantageous uses for $2,783,636 of construction money. Then David R. Kennicott, PWA administrator, advised that this $1,252,636 grant couldn't be transfered to another job. The council can reject the money for East Wacker drive and apply for federal funds for a different project, but the new application must stand on its own merits.

Nevertheless, Ald. Bowler is proceeding with his study of possible alternates while the East Wacker drive proposal remains on the table of the council finance committee. Under federal regulations, construction must be started on East Wacker by Aug. 29 if the city is to get the $1,252,636. PWA officials have been asked for an extension of this deadline. It is possible that this request would be granted if the city were to demonstrate intentions to begin work soon.

PWA Grant Deadline Is Sept. 30.

The deadline for any new applications for PWA grants is Sept. 30. This date was fixed by congress and can not be changed. Plans must accompany the application. About a month is required for preparation of specifications. So if the council decides to gamble, to reject the $1,252,636 on the chance that PWA will approve some better project, the aldermen haven't much time for deciding what the alternative should be.

Many suggestions are being made to the subcommittee undertaking this study. Arthur Engh, special engineer for the board of local improvements, said that most of these suggestions are not applicable because they involve condemnations. The federal government won't pay any part of the cost of acquiring land or removing buildings for a right of way. The city hasn't funds to pay this part of the cost. Furthermore, condemnations take months and sometimes years to complete. And the PWA officials will approve only those jobs which can be started promptly as relief for unemployment.

Urge Congress Street Development.

An organized promotion is urging that Congress street be developed rather than East Wacker drive, if the council is going to take a chance on PWA officials approving an alternative. To open the street as a parkway from the central business district to the city limits would cost an estimated $22,000,000, with most of the money being spent by the public acquiring depressed real estate. To build a river bridge for Congress, with approaches from Wells street and from Clinton street, also involving condemnation, would cost $5,247,000.

West side motorists have viewed the Chicago Surface Lines' tunnels under the river at Washington street and at Van Buren street as possible aids to automobile trafic, apparently available for conversion at a cost within the city's means. Although some engineers are cold toward this proposal, the Chicago Motor club is making a thorough investigation of its possibilties.

Leslie Sorenson, city trafic engineer, has observed that the tunnels are wide enough for only one lane of automobiles in each direction, both lanes subject to blockades from one stalled car. He has also commented that the grades of the tunnels, as steep as 10 per cent, are too steep for safe motor car operation.

"Furthermore," said Mr. Sorenson, "the city's traction engineers used the existing Washington street and Van Buren street tunnels under the river as part of proposed subways to carry street cars from west of the river to Grant park. Chicago has submitted these plans to the department of interior in an application for a PWA grant."

So how might $2,783,636 be spent to more advantage to trafic than extending Wacker drive eastward?

Makes Survey in 1933.

In 1933, Dr. Miller McClintock of the Harvard university bureau of trafic research, conducted a survey of Chicago street transportation problems for Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council trafic committee. The survey concluded that the city should build lightweight elevated highways for passenger cars only at an estimated cost of about $500,000 a mile. At this rate, $2,783,636 could build a four lane elevated highway on any existing street between the central business district and Cicero avenue.

The McClintock design would be too light for buses. In 1934, the Illinois highway department designed a heavy duty, four lane elevated highway for Randolph street west from Clinton street to connect with Warren and Washington boulevards at Union park. The estimated cost of the structure was $1,144,000, less than half the cost of the East Wacker drive project. In connection with its Randolph plan, the state suggested that $451,000 be spent on surface street pavements to serve the elevated highway trafic.

Park District Systems.

The Chicago Park district has designed one-way street systems to alleviate the delays and hazards of west side trafic. These proposals are pending before the city council. They have been pigeonholed because retailers on the streets concerned believed that the one-way regulation would hurt their businesses.

The one-way street plans, however, seem to offer much in the way of trafic benefits for little expenditure. The Warren and Washington one-way operation between Garfield and Union parks has demonstrated the value of such regulation from the standpoints of travel efficiency and safety.

The park district estimated that this Warren-Washington system could be extended to Michigan avenue, using Washington for east bound and Randolph for west bound, and could be extended west to the city limits, using Washington for east bound and Maypole and West End avenues for west bound, for $2,288,378. This cost would include some condemnation for right of way west of Garfield park.

Estimate Cost at $1,773,927.

The park district engineers estimated that for $1,773,927 Jackson and Monroe street could be placed under one-way trafic regulation from the outer drive to the city limits.

The city's traction plan includes another west side project that might be cited in considering what to do with $2,783,636 if we didn't have to spend it on East Wacker drive to get the $1,252,636 of "easy money." Part of this traction program would convert the Lake street elevated line into an elevated highway for express bus and passenger car use. The cost of this conversion is estimated at $6,750,000. It couldn't be done piecemeal with an initial job costing less than $2,783,636.

Alderman Bowler has also considered the extension of Wacker drive south rather than east. Engineer Engh estimated that to extend it under Washington street a block to Madison street would cost $5,310,000, including property condemnation costs. The engineer figured that to continue the two-level thoroughfares south to Harrison street would add another $10,460,000 to the cost.

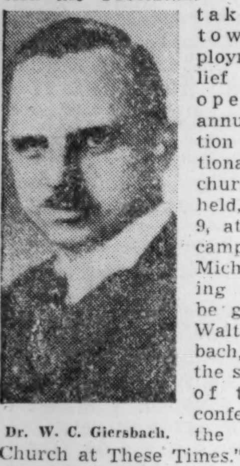
CHURCH STAND ON RELIEF TOPIC OF CONVOCATION

Change Is Noted in Attitude.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The whole question of what position the Protestant church should take organically toward unemployment and relief will be reopened at the annual convocation of Congregational-Christian churches to be held, Sept. 6 to 9, at Tower Hill camp, Sawyer, Mich. The opening address will be given by Dr. Walter C. Giersbach, director of the southern area of the Illinois conference, on the topic "The Church at These Times." More than 250 ministers of this faith are expected to attend.



Dr. W. C. Giersbach.

Five years ago Dr. Giersbach was employed by the Chicago Church federation, representing more than 1,000 churches, to study the whole relief and unemployment problem, and to determine the organic attitude of the churches toward it. He discovered that the Protestant denominations were not interested in assuming any major portion of organized relief. "The distribution of charity," his report stated, "is not the primary task of the religious forces—it is the task of the state."

Attitude of Church Changes.

The theme of this year's Congregational-Christian convocation is the place of the church in present day life, its relationship to modern problems, unemployment, work relief, and federal aid; so it would appear that the organic relation of churches toward organized relief may be undergoing a process of "re-thinking."

Dr. Hugh Vernon White of Boston and Prof. Arthur E. Holt of the Chicago Theological seminary, will discuss "The High Cost of a World Society" in a series of lectures covering the possibilities of a world church, world-wide philosophy of life, social order and economic order. Prof. S. C. Kincheloe of the same seminary, also will conduct discussions on rural life citizenship, relief, and their implications for the church.

Three Forums Planned.

"Selected Phases of the Minister's Task" will be covered by three forums conducted by Dr. Albert Buckner Coe of Oak Park, Dr. Norris L. Tibbetts of the Hyde Park Baptist church and the Rev. Ross Cannon of Sandwich. Dr. Wilfred A. Rowell of Hinsdale will speak on the causes of a shift in Congregational loyalty, and the Rev. Niel E. Hansen, associate director of the Chicago Congregational union will describe "Contemporary Beliefs of Congregationalism in the Midwest." Other speakers scheduled include the Rev. Robert L. Stubbs of Western Springs and Frederick J. Newey, a layman.

Two special meetings for women members of the convocation will be conducted by Mrs. John W. Laidlaw of Western Springs and by Mrs. E. E. McClintock of the missions council in Chicago.

Dr. James M. Yard, executive secretary of the Chicago round table of Jews and Christians, in coöperation with the Methodist summer assembly, has arranged that three consecutive evening meetings in the Des Plaines camp grounds shall be devoted to an institute of human relations, on the general topic "American Democracy vs. Totalitarianism," in which a Catholic, a Jew, and a Protestant will participate. Rabbi David Graubart of the Humboldt Boulevard temple will speak Sept. 1 on "Religion in a Democracy"; Sept. 2, Dr. John A. Lapp, labor lecturer and arbitrator, on "Essential Principles of American Democracy"; Sept. 3, Prof. Harold D. Lasswell of the University of Chicago on "Propaganda and Democracy," and all sessions begin at 8 o'clock.

◆

Prominent among student conferences in recent years have been the Ashrams of the Student Lutheran Association of America. The Ashram has been defined as a "corporate spiritual quest through group discussion." The third annual Lutheran Ashram opens tomorrow at Flathead Lake, Mont., under the direction of the Rev. Frederick Schiotz, newly elected secretary of the Student service commission of the American Lutheran conference. The Chicago delegation composed of twenty-five students from the universities and schools in the city will arrive today. The Rev. Carl Lund-Quist, pastor of Concordia Lutheran church, 3853 North Seeley avenue, will serve as dean of men, and leaders from all the synods will direct Lutheran youth in its Ashram on the topic "A Clinic in Christian Community Living."

◆

Sponsored by the international council of religious education, 203 North Wabash, almost 300 persons between the ages of 18 and 25 will meet tomorrow night at Conference Point, Lake Geneva, Wis., for a twelve day camp program designed for those who, active in interdenominational work, may eventually become leaders in that field.

O'MALLEYS GET TOGETHER TODAY IN ANNUAL OUTING

Will Draw Clan from All Over City.

O'Malleys from the south side, O'Malleys from the west side, O'Malleys from the north side—O'Malleys from throughout Chicagoland—will gather today for another reunion of the proud Irish clan that traces its ancestry to the days when Erin's kings ruled from Tara's lofty halls.

The reunion will be the second held since O'Malley clansmen of the Chicago area organized to provide unemployment relief and sick benefit for its members in Chicago and Cook county. In little more than a year's time the organization has provided jobs for some thirty of its members—the heads of thirty O'Malley families—and, now, not one of the 5,000 O'Malleys in the area is on the relief rolls.

But today, as at last August's picnic in Thatcher's woods, all things serious will be relegated to the committee on future business as O'Malleys test their skill and prowess in an egg passing contest, a tug of war, sack and potato races, and a softball game.

Prizes for All.

There will be prizes, too, for the oldest and the youngest O'Malley, for the largest O'Malley family, and for the most beautiful of the O'Malley colleens.

For the benefit of the younger generation, the legends of the O'Malley family will again be told. One clan historian will tell of Eochaidh XII., first of the line, who ruled at Tara in 357; another of Conall Airbsion, who was baptized by St. Patrick, and still another of Flannabhra Ua Maille, from whose name the surname O'Malley is derived.

The most stirring story of all is that of Grace O'Malley, immortalized in poetry and song, as the Irish queen of Mayo who defied and repelled the soldiers of the English Queen Bess, and who afterward visited the British queen and so well gained her esteem that she made Grace's son an earl.

As far as is recorded, the first O'Malleys came to Chicago about seventy-five years ago. No O'Malley's name is writ large in the city's history, but several of them have represented their respective wards in Chicago's council chambers.

Heads of Clan.

The O'Malleys who head the clan are representative. They are: Chaplain, the Rev. Joseph J. O'Malley, 6312 South Oakley avenue; general chairman, Tom O'Malley, 4010 West Madison street; legal adviser, Thomas J. O'Malley Jr., 4126 West Wilcox avenue; medical advisers, Dr. Joseph F. O'Malley, 5043 West Adams street, and Dr. James O'Malley, 1558 West 79th street; secretary, Charles T. O'Malley, 1521 Sherwin avenue; treasurer, John F. O'Malley, 6234 Kenwood avenue, and sergeant at arms, James O'Malley, 7031 Indiana avenue.

The arrangements committee for today's picnic includes Austin O'Malley, 1727 North Narragansett avenue; Mrs. Martin O'Malley Scally, 8430 South Morgan street; Mrs. M. O'Malley Sullivan, 5421 Congress street; Miss Julia O'Malley, 1511 Olive avenue; John J. O'Malley, 6375 North Paulina street, and Miss Mary E. O'Malley, 68 East Cedar street.

On Sports Committee.

On the sports committee are John O'Malley, 1511 Cullom avenue; James O'Malley, 1934 Patterson avenue; John O'Malley, 5626 West Addison street; Al Dillon, 224 Harlem avenue, Berwyn; Charles P. O'Malley, 28 North Madison street, La Grange; James J. O'Malley Jr., 6519 Minerva avenue, and Miss Catherine O'Malley Dunne, 823 Wolfram street.

Serving on the reception committee are Mike O'Malley, 10949 South Whipple street; Martin J. O'Malley, 7223 North Paulina street; Miss Catherine O'Malley, 8250 South Laflin street; Mrs. J. O'Malley Caul, 6243 South Francisco avenue; Miss Frances O'Malley, 2650 Wilson avenue; Judge Walter O'Malley, Aurora; J. J. O'Malley, Franklin Park; Miss Bernice Ellman, 4730 Monroe street, and Miss Mary O'Malley Flynn, 6336 Hermitage avenue.

In Charge of Registration.

The registration committee includes Miss Grace O'Malley, 1240 North Shore drive; Miss Julia O'Malley, 1511 Olive street; Miss Mary O'Malley Moran, 3124 North Damen avenue; Miss Margaret O'Malley, 141 North Stone avenue, La Grange, and Miss Grace O'Malley, 4010 West Madison street.

Serving on the entertainment committee are John F. O'Malley, 111 West Monroe street; Miss Mary O'Malley, 814 West 59th place; Miss Helen O'Malley, 6234 Kenwood avenue; Walter J. Madigan, 4148 North Albany avenue; Austin O'Malley, 4719 Kenmore avenue; Miss Margaret O'Malley, 417 South Homan avenue; Andrew O'Malley, 3428 Grace street, and Mrs. Catherine O'Malley, 3016 West 111th street.

Time for Fish to Beware

When the days begin to shorten and the schoolhouse casts a larger shadow, then fishing really gets good. The perch and bullheads take the bent pins every time. . . . well, a couple of times anyway. Which all goes to prove that the tail end of vacation are the days of real sport. Huckleberry Finn and his friend, Tom Sawyer, were just a couple of good fellows who got together with a dog, poles, and a can of worms and they had nothing on Jack Preble or Stuart Bowyer, who can have just as good a time at Ogden park's lagoon, 65th street and Racine avenue . . . when the policeman is sitting over in the shade of the fieldhouse. Jack (right) is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Preble, 2265 West 113th place. Stuart's parents are Hr. and Mrs. H. D. Bowyer, 2255 West 111th street. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

TWINS PARADE SET FOR SUNDAY ON MICHIGAN AV.

It's the Highlight of Odd Convention.

Chicago will be seeing double next Sunday afternoon when the International Twin parade will take place on Michigan avenue and disperse at Grant park bandshell for a talent show and exhibition. The parade will be the highlight of the the International Twin convention, which will be held for three days beginning Friday in the Morrison hotel.

New plans were announced last week, substituting the Grant park site for the Chicago Arena, where the talent show was first scheduled to be staged. Admission will be free.

Parade Starts at One.

The parade will get under way at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Prizes will be awarded for the best twin floats. Police Commissioner James P. Allman and Michael Rosinia, city prosecutor, will be members of the parade committee.

Twins from 20 weeks to 15 years old will have their part in the events according to the new program. Under the direction of Leonard Hicks Jr., honorary judge of the executive committee, a special convention committee will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon for tiny twins.

Parents are invited to escort their children to the party, which will be staged in the Morrison hotel and will feature acts by clowns, magicians, and ventriloquists.

Other events of interest will be a moonlight cruise on the S. S. Theodore Roosevelt, an all-twin day at Riverview park, and the convention banquet with twin celebrities as guest speakers. Twin members of the Chicago fire and police departments will be special guests.

U. of C. Asks Study.

During the last week the University of Chicago has requested that a special observation study be made during the convention. A combination twin magazine, scrapbook, and program will be issued for the 5,000 delegates in attendance.

In charge of all arrangements will be the Zephyr Twin club of Chicago with Rosita and Camille Mossessa as presidents, and the International club, of which John and James Mitchell are presidents.

ANTHONY G. SEAMAN, BATTALION MARSHAL, RECEIVES PROMOTION

Formerly marshal of the 26th battalion of the Chicago fire department, Anthony G. Seaman, 6422 Rockwell street, was promoted recently to the position of marshal of the Fourth division by Michael J. Corrigan, fire commissioner. The division includes the stockyards, the central manufacturing district, Kenwood and territory east to the lake. Chief Seaman's headquarters were in Truck No. 41's house, 6041 South Western avenue, and are now with Engine No. 59, 820 West Exchange avenue.

MOVIE TO SHOW EVOLUTION OF STREET CARS

"Streamlines," a two reel movie showing the evolution of street car transportation, will be shown at a meeting of the Auburn Park Lions club Wednesday noon in Greene's restaurant, 79th and Halsted streets. C. D. Mack, superintendent of the Chicago Surface Lines, will be guest speaker.

William C. Anthony, 8301 Stewart avenue, will be program chairman for the day and the weekly display will be in charge of Harry Oken, 7823 Halsted street. Thirteen year old Buddy Hallen, 7937 Eberhart avenue, vocalist, will entertain.

The club pet parade for boys and girls of the neighborhood will be held Sept. 15 under the direction of Charles Smith, 1035 West 79th street. Assisting on the committee will be Dr. Michael Dickman, 757 West 79th street; Charles Pasal, 7807 Union avenue; Leo Deitch, 1001 West 79th street; Charles Frank, 7900 Halsted street, and David Nelson, 7744 Halsted street.

GLASS BRICKS ARE SPECIFIED IN CHURCH PLANS

Work Will Be Started in September.

Plans for a new $20,000 church to be built by the Marquette Road Bible Baptist church at Laflin street and Marquette road, have been drawn providing for the use of glass bricks. Whether the church will be the only glass house of worship in Chicago, or whether it will be built of face brick, construction is scheduled to begin the third week in September.

Built in tabernacle style, with the entrance directly off the street for the convenience of elderly members of the congregation, the church will have an auditorium seating 500 persons, a basement with kitchen and Sunday school room, a pastor's study, church office and rest rooms. On the platform of the auditorium will be a built-in baptistry.

Church 39 Years Old.

The Rev. William G. Studer is the present pastor of the church, which was built 39 years ago by a group of old-fashioned Baptists living in the prairie land of that vicinity. It was in 1917 when the congregation had dwindled to 17 members, that Dr. Studer took over the pastorate. Today there are 100 members. Under his direction the old house of worship, which now will be razed to make room for the new building, was repaired and redecorated.

Dr. Studer also organized a Sunday school department, a Young People's fellowship, a men's club, and a missionary society. He is heard regularly over radio station WAAF each Sunday evening at 7 and 7:45 o'clock.

End Anniversary Fête.

Two services today will mark the close of the church's 39th anniversary celebration. The Rev. Donald Gately, superintendent of the old Pacific Garden mission where Billy Sunday was converted, will be the speaker at the 11 o'clock morning worship and the Prof. John L. Baker, former grand opera star, will talk on "The Modern Gospel" this evening at 7:45 o'clock. Prof. Baker will also sing "Holy City."

Plans are being made by Dr. Studer for an evangelistic campaign to be conducted Sept. 11 to 18.

GOODWIN L. DOSLAND TO ADDRESS BETTER GOVERNMENT MEETING

"A Constructive Program for America" will be the topic of a talk by Goodwin L. Dosland, Republican candidate for representative in congress from the 3d district, Friday evening. He will address a meeting of the Young Republican organization of the 19th ward in the garden of Robert V. Mehaffey's home, 2058 West 103d street, president. This will be the first of a series of moonlight gatherings in the interest of better government. In charge of the evening's entertainment will be Miss Elizabeth Canavan, Miss Juliet Woodward, Ralph Brady, Walt Steffa, Holland Flanger, Miss Mary Anthony, Miss Marcella Heynan, Ben Austin, and Miss Josephine Harrington.

ENGLEWOOD RED CROSS WORKERS MAKE DRESSINGS

Women workers of the Englewood unit of the American Red Cross will meet from 1 until 4 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the home of Mrs. J. C. Stevens, 6138 Winchester avenue, assistant general chairman of the branch. Surgical dressings will be made.

Since May of this year 25,000 dressings have been prepared for hospital use by 36 members of the unit. The Tuesday afternoon group is under the direction of Mrs. Lorranine E. Wiedow, and the Thursday class is supervised by Mrs. Mary W. Shalack.

In the fall a home hygiene and care of the sick course will be offered to Parent-Teacher associations, Girl Scouts, colleges, high schools, civic, and community organizations. The instruction will cover care of the sick in the home, care of babies and the aged, food for well and sick, and first aid.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

FOR all-around ability and outstanding promise, James Allen Cunningham, 11426 South Hale avenue, has been designated as the first recipient of the George Eddy Warren memorial scholarship to Brown university, Providence, R. I. Carrying a stipend of $450 for tuition and fees, it was established this year by Mrs. Warren in memory of her husband, a graduate of the class of 1889. James will return next month as a sophomore to resume his study of political science for the second year on a scholarship. Last year he held a minor one. The university committee on scholarship selected him for this new honor on the basis of his previous work.

THREE Girl Scouts of Troop 220, which meets at the Normal Park Baptist church, already have demonstrated characteristics of future ideal wives. The three recently passed their hostess badge, preparing a meal of baked ham, potatoes, tomatoes, cake, and coffee for their guests. They are Evelyn Ewert, 7010 Sangamon street; Phyllis Medema, 7025 Morgan street, and Clara Thomsen, 7130 Stewart avenue. Clara, however, has a slight edge on the others. She has passed the dressmaker's badge and holds the needlewoman and laundress badges also. And to get all these, the girl must do everything from oiling, cleaning, and using a sewing machine to describing the accessories she will wear with dresses she has planned.

Three south side Boy Scouts recently went native and canoed down the White river to its source, White lake, from Hesperia, Mich., a 75 mile jaunt. They are Don Lutes, 11918 South La Salle street, Troop 712; William Mason, 5418 Woodlawn avenue, Troop 558, and Roger Conner, 1326 East 53d street, Troop 506.

Mrs. William S. Burke, 7155 Normal boulevard, was hostess last week to Dr. Albert G. De Quevedo, descendent of one of the oldest California families and noted psychologist. After several days' visit Dr. De Quevedo departed for Camp Lavelle in Cliff Haven, N. Y., where he will deliver a series of lectures. Sponsored last season by Fordham university, Dr. Quevedo is one of few lecturers to fill Carnegie hall to its capacity.

JUNIOR chambers of commerce in Kansas, Texas, Mexico, California, British Columbia, and Minnesota will be the subject of study for Frank T. Lindman, 7650 Saginaw avenue, who left recently on a three weeks' vacation tour. He is treasurer of the South Shore Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the legal research staf of Chicago's corporation counsel. Frank, who has been active in the organization and progress of the south shore group since its inception last February, will be the guest of many of the junior chambers in the cities that lie along his route.

Dr. Campbell is the editor of Veterinary Medicine magazine, and served as publicity and public relations chairman for the twelfth congress in 1934 in New York.

SWIMMING is the best exercise in the world, some experts claim. And Miss Laura Anderson, 9322 Winchester avenue, will vouch for that statement 100 per cent. Swimming changed her whole life. Just a year ago she was a discouraged young lady of 25. Blind, she had been rejected by The Seeing Eye institute in Morristown, N. J., for inability to walk fast enough and for lack of physical strength. Today Miss Anderson and Ginger, her Seeing Eye police dog, are a familiar sight on Chicago streets, and she is an enthusiastic visitor at the park's district's swimming pools at Ridge and 102d street parks. It was in these pools that Miss Hazel Anderson, instructor, built up Laura's strength so remarkably in five months that she was able to return to Morristown and pass all tests with ease. One of her happiest days will be when Ginger belongs entirely to her. At present she is paying for her "eyes" by giving music lessons and talking at club meetings.

TOWNS' SEWAGE IS POURED INTO WATER COURSES

Survey by Tribune Reveals Peril.

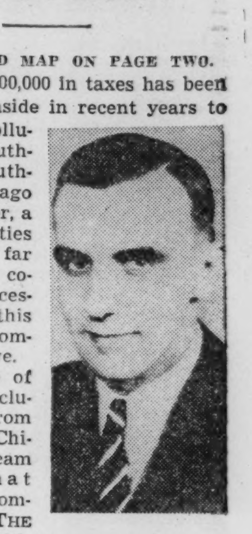
Nearly $40,000,000 in taxes has been spent or set aside in recent years to end stream pollution in the southern and southwestern Chicago area. However, a few communities have thus far withheld the coöperation necessary to make this huge outlay completely effective.

This is one of the main conclusions drawn from a survey of Chicagoland's stream pollution that was recently completed by THE TRIBUNE. In it's study this newspaper was aided by such sanitation authorities as Clarence W. Klassen, technical secretary of the state sanitary water board, and officials of the Chicago sanitary district.



Clarence W. Klassen.

Drainage from the southern area is provided by the Calumet river and its tributaries and is carried to the Des Plaines river by the Calumet Sag channel. Most of the communities along these watercourses have either connected their sewage outlets with large treatment systems or have installed treatment facilities themselves.

Some Are Indifferent.

This is mainly the story of those municipalities or groups which have done neither.

Offender No. 1 in this respect is South Chicago Heights. The village does not treat its wastes in any way before emptying them into a tributary of the Little Calumet river.

The village could correct the evil in either of two ways, sanitation engineers say. It could erect its own treatment works or it could contract with the Bloom township sanitary district to connect with the modern new Chicago Heights treatment works that is ample to care for both municipalities.

Officials of South Chicago Heights argue they cannot afford to build a plant or to pay a neighboring town for treatment. Observers say municipal jealousy is a big factor that keeps the town from asking coöperation from their larger neighbor to the north.

Steger a Bad Spot.

Steger is the only other bad spot at the south end of the Calumet river system. Steger sewage is only partly treated before it enters Third creek just upstream from South Chicago Heights. Its plant requires improvements in both equipment and efficiency, engineers report.

The Washington Park race track has only partial treatment facilities and dumps much filth into the Little Calumet during the racing season. The Illinois Central railroad yards discharge imperfectly treated wastes into the same stream.

Other railroads that pour their yard wastes into the Little Calumet before rendering them harmless are the Chicago and Eastern Indiana and the Indiana Harbor Belt lines.

The main source of sewage pollution on Mill creek, a small stream that empties into the Calumet Sag channel, is the Capitol dairy near Orland Park. The dairy's wastes should be more fully treated than at present before they enter the stream, according to sanitation workers.

Will Use Interceptor.

Blue Island, Dixmoor, Riverdale, and Calumet Park are among the communities that will hook into a new interceptor that is being built by the Chicago sanitary district. Calumet City was a stream pollution offender until recently when it made connection with a newly completed intercepting sewer of the district.

Private homes and small industrial plants are among the other sources of pollution on the Calumet and its tributaries. As soon as the larger offenders have been brought into line, the efforts of the sanitary water board will be centered on these smaller sources, Mr. Klassen said.

The Calumet river pollution problem is complicated by the fact that considerable corruption enters the stream from industrial plants and other sources in Indiana, which is outside the jurisdiction of the Illinois sanitary water board.

States Coöperate.

Much is being accomplished by friendly coöperative action between the neighboring states. Additional help in solving the problem is expected from the bureau of stream pollution control, a division of the United States public health service, which was set up to cope with interstate pollution of this sort.

Coöperation is the keynote of the sanitary water board's policy, the members declare. The stream pollution law provides $100 a day fines for violation, but the board has seldom found it necessary to invoke the penalty.

The members appeal to civic pride with the argument that the pollution of watercourses is needless; that it ruins the streams for recreational purposes, threatens public health, and creates foud odors far downstream from the point of corruption.

PLAY COUNCIL OF MIDLOTHIAN PLANS FIELD DAY

Realizing the need for a planned recreational program, members of organizations in the village of Midlothian recently organized a council to supervise the community center. Saturday the council will sponsor a field day at 147th street and Crawford avenue, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase equipment for boys' and girls' activities in the center.

The program for the day will be open to all surrounding towns and will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and close with dancing in the evening. Scheduled to take place are a band concert, soft ball games, bicycle parades, pet parades, volley ball games, boxing exhibitions, horse shoe matches, tug-of-wars for men and women, and a track meet consisting of eight events.

Prizes for Everybody.

Handicraft exhibits will also be on display and ribbons will be awarded to the best in each class. In addition, prizes will be given to the oldest person on the grounds, the youngest, the largest family, and the person who comes the farthest.

Addresses will be delivered by Mrs. Maryon A. Leary, supervisor of District 2 WPA; Robert G. Davis, WPA area supervisor of Cook county; Richard J. White, president of the village; R. K. Cummings, president of the school board, District 143; Mr. Allen, director of the recreation center, and Mrs. Perry Newport, chairman of the advisory council.

Aiding in Arrangements.

Members of the council who will assist Mr. Allen in the arrangements are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Nicolai, Edwin Schampel, Charles Murphey, Mrs. Burt Johnson, Mrs. William Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Burton, Miss Helen Powley, Miss Grace Holm, Miss Macile Pacatte, Miss Dorothy Fredholm, and Harold Lebow.

The campaign for funds for the center began July 17 when the village board declared Recreational Donation week. Activities started with a tag day, followed by a house to house canvas during the week, and closing with a donations booth located in a prominent place in the town. Children carried placards and change boxes for offerings throughout the week.

BREAKFAST BAR ADDED TO THE NEW KITCHENS

More Uses Revealed for This Needed Room.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

For the most part, in these columns, we show only actual instances of the work of real people who have built for themselves new, small homes, or helped themselves to greater comfort in life through the modernization of already existing houses, or apartments.

Today, however, we're departing from the usual run of things to show a new model kitchen in Chicago, because this kitchen, more than any we have seen in some time, reflects in so many ways what women are wanting—and getting.

In the great majority of cases a kitchen in an already built home is a fair sized room. This means that it can adapt itself excellently to a present trend, which is to include in a kitchen some sort of alcove for some sort of purpose, most desired by the individual family.

Kitchens in homes which are going up now incline to be small, but it is equally true that they, too, manage to yield a fraction of their space for purposes not strictly confined to cooking and meal tending.

Interesting Arrangement.

This model kitchen has an interesting arrangement. The sink is not under the window, as was the case in the golden oak era, when dishwashing was a more arduous job, and it helped some to be able—at least—to look out of a window, while at your tasks.

The sink, however, gets the benefit of window light and backed up against it is a novel little breakfast counter, as useful for a hurried cup of coffee in the morning as for a more leisurely cup of tea, chocolate, or what-you-like after the movies.

Another term for this new counter unit which is making its way into our kitchens is a "breakfast bar." [The word "bar" seems to be outgrowing its former restricted meaning; it is by no means confined to alcoholic beverages, but rather is intended to provide handsomely finished space for exactly the sort of liquid and solid refreshment the individual family in the case happens to relish.]

Light and Gay.

Most new and remodeled kitchens are so light and gay they make you want to whistle at your work . . . if you happen to own one. But along with this new cheerfulness of spirit, wise arrangement of work centers, and the possibility of work leavened by limitless small and large pieces of labor saving equipment, comes the useful little kitchen alcove, which can be used for what you will: breakfast bar, a dinette, a laundry, or even a sewing room, reading room, or study.

Alcove themes are being developed in numerous ways. Naturally, these alcoves are not large, and their furniture, their equipment, cupboards, and cabinets must all be as neatly fitted as the parts of a clock.

In this kitchen the space saved by the position of sink and breakfast bar, back to back and away from the wall, permits a generous measure of working areas, with stainless steel counters, cabinets with electric towel dryer and dishwasher, as well a corner all its own for a work desk with cabinet space for papers, pencils, menu books, and so on.

Agua Marine Walls.

Here the walls are of aqua marine blue, the shelves edged with red bands, and in the sink there is a waste disposal unit. Along the walls are plug in strips and portable lumiline lamps are used—the kind which can be plugged in every six inches.

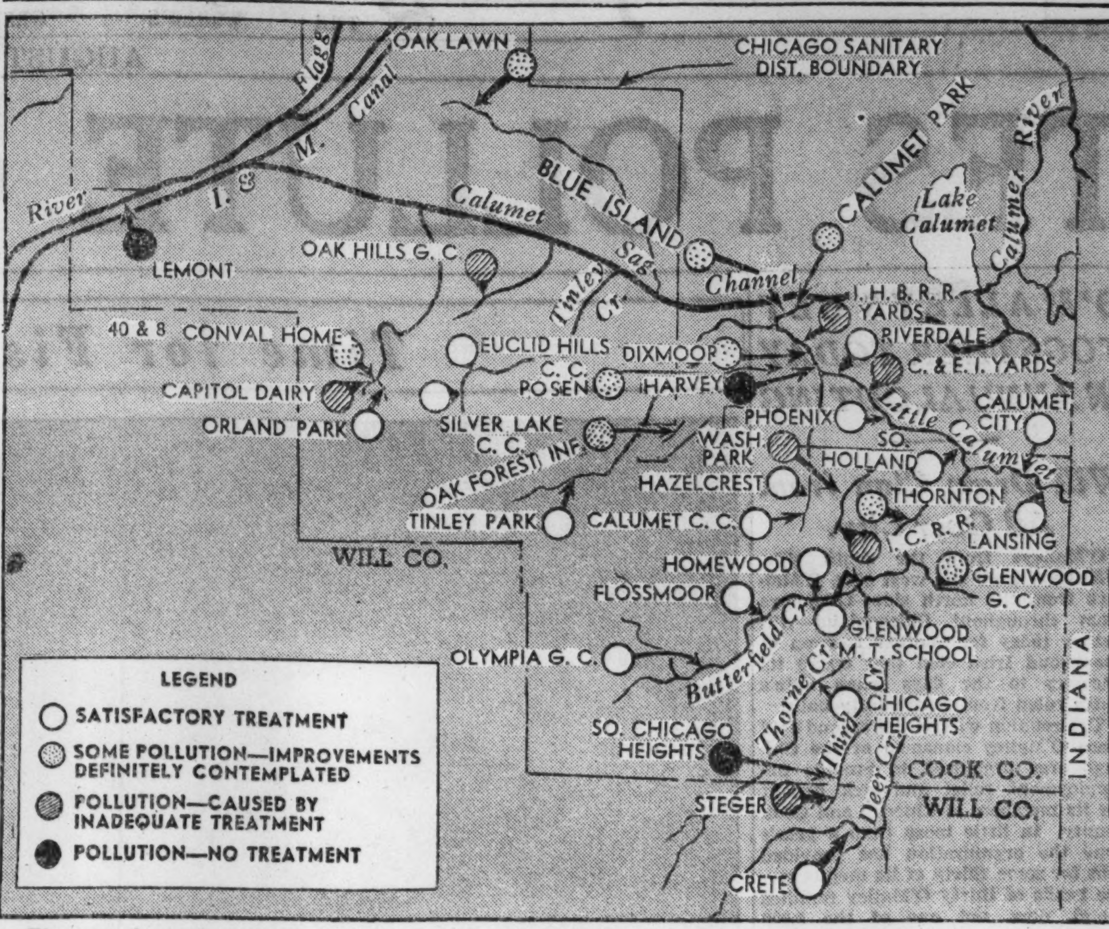
In kitchens where there are alcoves and accessory spots for other purposes than cooking, light which can be easily moved is an asset. And when you are planning such an alcove, keep in mind that while this work can be used for almost any purpose you wish it ~~is~~, after all, a part of the kitchen, and should retain the spirit and appearance of an efficient little workshop.

Given Other Uses.

For concrete examples of new ideas carried out in kitchen alcoves one such space for a family which was small was given over to laundry and mending purposes. In this nook the washing machine was placed against a partition already piped; against a second wall stood the ironer, and opposite this, the sorting table. Wall space, of course, was given over to cabinets for laundry and mending supplies.

In another home the kitchen alcove was appropriated as a sort of subsidiary nursery. A seat was built under a window, with shelves on each side for toys, and cupboards underneath for all manner of picture books and paper dolls, or engines and cars; and a neat little gate shut off this alcove so the youngster could play while the mother worked, and yet run no risk of accident around the range or sink.

Stream Pollution at a Glance



The map above shows the principal sewage outlets into the Calumet river and its tributaries and the approximate degree of pollution at each source. It does not show outlets of the Chicago sanitary district, which has virtually eliminated stream corruption sources within its own boundaries.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 22.

After gathering the peach crop, spray the trees with Bordeaux mixture to keep the various foliage diseases in check. Trees afflicted with the yellows should be cut down and burned to prevent the spread of this serious disease to the rest of the trees. There is no effective spray. Biennials such as fox glove, campanula, viola can be started from seed now. It is good practice to sow quantities of perennials in flats, carrying the young plants over the winter in the cold frame and setting them out when new growth starts in early spring.

Tuesday, Aug. 23.

This is a good time to prune shade trees, as it is easy to see what branches should be removed and how the work should be done. Remove the limbs close, leaving no stub. Paint the wounds carefully, using white lead paint or a commercial antiseptic for the purpose. Make all cuts cleanly, without tearing the bark. Newly set out plants that are not growing vigorously can be stimulated into growth by applications of nitrate of soda or other quick acting fertilizer.

Wednesday, Aug. 24.

The lawn ought not to be closely mown in hot weather, or the grass roots may be burned by exposure to too much sun. It is generally advisable to let the clippings remain as protection for the roots, instead of collecting them in a grass catcher.

Thursday, Aug. 25.

If you grow cacti and other succulent plants such as aloes, agaves, hawthornes, gasterias, etc., see that they get plenty of water during the hot weather. Certain varieties need to be shaded during the greatest heat of the day, to avoid burning. As a rule most cacti can withstand full exposure to the sun.

Friday, Aug. 26.

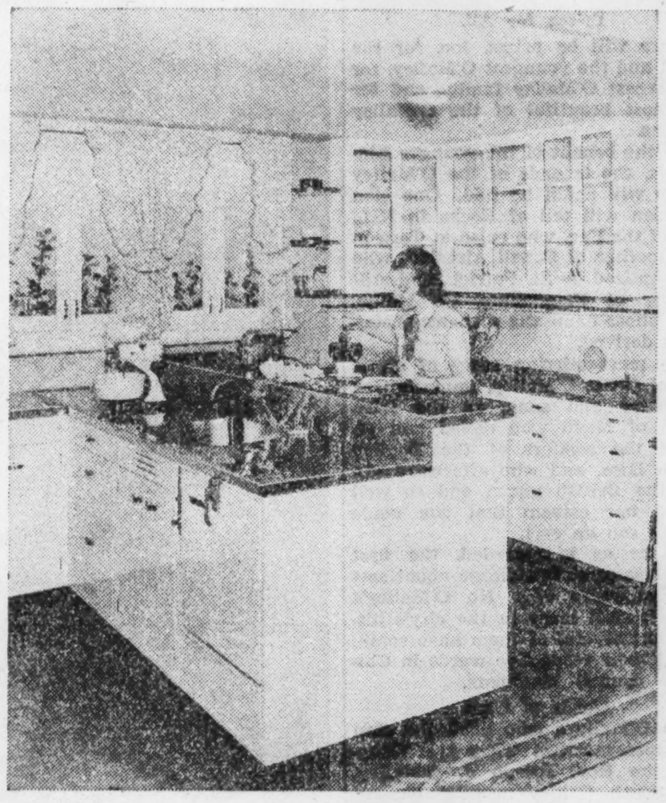
Plans for fall planting ought to be well in advance of doing the actual work. Go through your garden notebook and observe the changes to be made in your perennial borders. The color effect may be improved, or certain varieties may be taking up too much room. New varieties may be needed to replace those which have not proved satisfactory.

Saturday, Aug. 27.

Now is the time to observe and take notes on fall blooming shrubs and perennials if your own garden is lacking in this particular respect. The butterfly bush blooms well into fall and there are several notable varieties of recent introduction such as buddleia fortune and buddleia charming. The cutleaf chaste tree [vitex negundo incisa] and blue spirea [caryopteris] will be in bloom.

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.]

Novelty in Kitchen Use



No getting around the fact that the kitchen alcove has come into our midst to tarry a while. Here we see it caught and cornered and used for a novel little breakfast bar. Backed up against the sink, it has generous light from the nearby window. A model kitchen in Chicago which reflects in more ways than one what women are wanting in kitchens these days, and what they are getting!

PAVE 76TH ST. FROM ASHLAND TO RACINE AVE.

A half mile of concrete pavement is being laid on 76th street from Racine to Ashland avenues, making a through street which starts almost at the lake front. At a cost for paving of $55,000, the street will be 42 feet wide from curb to curb. Thirty-two catch basins and nine manholes will be constructed along the extension, and 1,588 feet of 15 inch sewer pipe will be installed. Money for the improvement is furnished by the state gas tax and federal funds.

FEDERAL MUSIC PROJECT GIVES CHILDREN'S DAY

The federal music project will sponsor an entertainment of vaudeville acts and music by one of the smaller orchestras, at the annual homecoming celebration for the children at the Protestant Child Haven association, 6323 Yale avenue, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, Aug. 31. Children will have a picnic lunch on the lawn at 4 o'clock. Friends of the Haven have been invited to attend the entertainment at 8 o'clock.

Marquette Park to Hold Folk Dance Festival

The second annual folk dance festival of Marquette park will be held Thursday in the fieldhouse, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue. Appearing on the program will be Vytautas Beliajius, teacher of Lithuanian, Scandinavian, Russian, Mexican and Spanish dances; Thadeus Malinowski of the University of Chicago International house and leader of Polish dances; Chester Silder, Polish dance leader, and the Sherman park American folk dance group under the direction of Arthur Butler.

FIRST HELLENIC YOUTH CHAPTER ORGANIZED HERE

To preserve the "glory that was Greece" and the famous Hellenic athletic events, the young people of St. Nicholas Hellenic Orthodox church, 5957 Peoria street, recently organized the first chapter of the American Hellenic Youth group. The first project of the club will be the financing of $10,000 for the erection of the new Byzantine front of the church.

The Rev. Daniel Gambrilis, pastor, will be sponsor and advisor of the organization and has planned a program that will include gymnasium, swimming, literature, and study groups.

JOLIET CITY OF HOMES, GARDENS AND GARDENERS

Floral Club Is Neighborly Organization.

(This is the fourth in a series of articles explaining the work and community projects of south and southwest side garden clubs.)

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Joliet could be grim. Portaled with prison turrets and cluttered with metal factories, it could wear a dark face. Instead it is a city of modest homes and of great, wide gardens.

Mrs. Herbert Baron.

Although set high on limestone, Joliet is layered with a rich, dark loam that breeds the robust rose and the 13 foot sunflower. Its people are gardeners. They point with pride to their oaks instead of their oatmeal works, which is the second largest in the world, and to their peony patches instead of their pig iron factories which serve the nation. Naturally they have a garden club which is one of the finest in the state.

A Neighborly Get-Together.

Not membered with owners of large estates, the Joliet Floral and Garden club is not an affluent organization, nor is its recent leader a dowager. Instead it is a neighborly, monthly get-together and its latest president, Mrs. Herbert Baron, is a tiny, white haired housewife who opened each meeting with a poem inspired by her garden.

The club was organized a decade ago as a commercial society by Clarence Sterling, a blind florist. It lost its professional aspect soon, however, for the residents, realizing the value of such a unit, took it over. Today the eighty-nine members are home owners who, individually, supply flowers only for their tables and their church altars.

Collectively, like good neighbors, the Joliet gardeners get big things done briskly. They hear of the Shawanee national forest project and promptly plant an acre of pines in honor of their first president, Mr. Sterling. They picnic in Pilcher park and the following month erect a 50 foot council ring among the hawthorns and crab trees.

Perennial Garden Show Winners.

They receive a notice for the Illinois Garden show at Navy pier and immediately get busy at exhibits that year after year receive special awards. At lilac time they fill their cars with blooms and drive 36 miles into Chicago to give them to the sick.

Not content with merely donating to the Illinois Garden club project at the Abraham Lincoln Memorial garden in Springfield, the Joliet group will send a committee down this fall to find out exactly what contribution is needed, be it a fountain or a large plot of plants. At home, they know the needs of the community and plant elms in the school yards and rings of petunias before the city hall, as well as donate to the free milk fund and the Orphans' home.

This year, from the proceeds of their flower show which will be held Sept. 15 in the Ottawa Street Methodist Episcopal church, the gardeners will beautify the entrances to the city, the library lawn, and more school yards.

Nearby Towns Invited.

Surrounding towns, Wilmington, Lockport, Plainsfield, Homer, and New Lenox, will be invited to participate in the show, and amateur growers will be given places for all of their entries. Ribbons and cash awards will be given to the winners. Mrs. John Jennings, a member of the state board and last year's first vice president, will be chairman of arrangements. Mrs. Jennings is also the leader of the Forget-Me-Not club sponsored by the Joliet Floral and Garden club for children between the ages of 9 and 13 years.

Another junior group, called the Garden Buds, for children more than 13 years old, is directed by Mrs. George Arbiter.

Aid for Gardeners.

A third club project is the Joliet Garden center conducted twice a month in the public library for residents with plant problems. In addition to individual advice, lectures are delivered by members of the club and hired speakers. Joliet is one of the few cities in Illinois offering such a facility.

Officers who led the club's good neighbor policy last year were Mrs. Baron, president; Mrs. Jennings, vice president; Mrs. Charles I. Crawford, second vice president; Mrs. C. Walter Beatty, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Baude, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Leonard Flint, financial secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Engimann, treasurer.

Give Dinner.

The Chicago South Side Zonta club will give a dinner party at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Lindquist cafe, 5540 Hyde Park boulevard, in honor of a member, Agnes Reeves, who is moving to Califorinia.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moraw, 8110 Marshfield avenue, recently announced the engagement of their daughter Ruth Eleanor to Edward Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stone, 6114 Wood street. Miss Moraw is a graduate of Calumet High school. Mr. Stone is an alumni of Lindblom High.

LAKE BATHERS GET CHANCE TO SWIM TO MUSIC

2 Concerts Listed for 31st Street Beach.

[Maurice Photo.]

The Columbia Concert band, led by Norman L. Black, will play a program of overtures, marches and other numbers at 7 o'clock Tuesday night. The Jubilee Singers, conducted by James Mundy, will present a program at 7 o'clock Thursday night.

These are two of the eight free concerts which will be given on the south side this week.

The first Chicago performance of the symphonic sketch, "Mood Pastorale," by Hall Macklin, will be the important item in the concert at 8 o'clock tonight in Jackson park by Harold Bachman's band.

Miss Freda Draper, contralto; Vernon Gerhardt, baritone, and Homer Phillips, trombonist, will be the soloists in this weekly concert sponsored by the Chicago Federation of Musicians and the Chicago park district.

Other programs by Federal music project units include two by the Illinois Concert orchestra, conducted by Max Bendix. The first will be held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night in the Woodlawn Baptist church, 6207 University avenue, and the second at 8 o'clock Friday night in Washington park, 56th street and South Park way.

The Dixie orchestra also will give two concerts, one at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the Home for Aged Jews, 6140 Drexel avenue, and the other at 8 o'clock Friday night in Madden park, 38th street and Rhodes avenue. Zilner Randolph is the conductor.

The Jubilee singers will appear also at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in Washington park.

The program at Jackson park tonight will consist of:

"Procession of Nobles," from "Mlada" [Rimsky-Korsakov]; the overture to "Oberon" [Weber]; a solo by Mr. Gerhardt, "Invictus" [Huhn]; "Mood Pastorale' a solo by Mr. Phillips, "King Carnival" the suite, "Frescoes [Haydn Wood] comprised of the waltz, "Vienna, 1913," "Sea Shanties," and the march, "The Band Stand in Hyde Park."

"Procession Into the Cathedral," from "Lohengrin" [Wagner]; concert revue by Hadley; a solo by Miss Draper, "Spring Song of the Robin Woman," from "Shanewis" [Cadman]; the nocturne from "Two American Sketches' [Griselle]; "Rhapsody in Rhumba" [David Bennett]; favorites by Victor Herbert, and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Club President

Mrs. Owen Daniels, 1237 West 74th place, president of the Neighborhood Woman's club, will preside at a special meeting of the club at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Arnold Bierer, 7026 Throop street, first vice president and program chairman.

Colored M. E. Church Folk Give Silver Tea Sunday

The Domestic Workers association and the Boykins Choral club will give a silver tea from 4 to 6 o'clock next Sunday in the Jubilee Colored Methodist Episcopal church.

PROGRAM LISTED BY CHICAGO LAWN WOMAN'S CLUB

Opening of Session Will Be Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Members of the Chicago Lawn Woman's club will have a three fold program of education, philanthropy and entertainment next season. According to an announcement made last week by Mrs. J. R. Thetford, program chairman, meetings will be divided into departmental days with education as the theme, philanthropic days when public welfare and health will be considered, and play days, alternating with the two preceding topics, when a great part of the meeting will be entertainment.

Tuesday, Oct. 4, opening day, will be one of the play days and Mrs. John Ross Reed, wife of the producer of the pageant, "Wings of a Century," featured at the Century of Progress, will give characterizations of "Child Sketches, Songs and Stories."

Departmental days will start Oct. 18 with a club institute forum when each chairman of the club will present a brief outline of her duties. Speaker for the day will be R. A. Nanke, manager of Logan Square Business college, who will talk on "Law Observance."

Forum on Citizenship.

Other programs will be given by Mrs. H. T. Simpson, American citizenship chairman of the club, who will conduct a forum on "Woman's Participation in Citizenship" and Mrs. William G. Suthers, "Unfinished Business, Legislatively Speaking," Feb. 21; Ulmer Turner of N. B. C. studios, "Views From Behind the Mike," and Mrs. Richard McClure, president of the Better Films council, "The New Textbook for the World," April 4.

Under the heading of philanthropy will come the programs for public welfare and Indian welfare departments on Jan. 3. Speakers will be Mrs. Lauren Drake of the Travelers' Aid society, "Travelers' Aid Service in Chicago," and Mrs. C. J. Albrecht, state chairman of Indian welfare, "Indians of the Southwest." March 7 will be public health and child hygiene day presenting a representative of the Chicago Heart association, and Dr. R. K. Packard, past president of the Illinois State Medical society, who will discuss "State Medicine as It Affects the Public."

Chicago Heights Woman's Club.

Highlights of the year's program will be guest night, Nov. 9, when all public school teachers and families will be invited to hear Dr. No Yong Park tell of "Chinaman's Chance"; Dec. 10 when the club will revive the old custom of giving a Christmas party for club member's children; Dec. 14 when neighboring clubs will be guests at a lecture on "The Natives of the Himalayas"; Feb. 8, an all-day symposium treating "Adjusting Democracy for Human Welfare"; April 12, the annual business meeting and reception of new members, and May 4, the May breakfast and party held at the Olympia Fields Country club, ending the year's activities.

Englewood Junior Woman's Club.

The eighth of a series of summer bridge parties, planned by Mrs. Aldrich D. Hasper, hospitality chairman, for members and guests, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edmund B. Coon, 9802 Seeley avenue. Dessert will be served and bridge played. Assisting Mrs. Coon as hostesses will be Mrs. Albert A. Wells, Mrs. J. Meyer Holland, Mrs. Leslie E. Bain, Mrs. Carl Lang, and Milton F. Carr.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

A preview of the year's program, arranged by Mrs. John T. Preston, lists the following speakers and artists: Mrs. Raymond S. Knapp of the Illinois League of Women Voters; Barclay Acheson, associate editor of the Readers' Digest; Dr. J. Raymond Schutz, sociology and economics professor; Dr. Rowena Morse Mann, Dr. James Shelby Thomas, president of Clarkson college and Chrysler Institute of Engineering; Dr. J. M. Artman, national chairman of the Parent-Teacher association; Edna Fay Campbell, scientist, and Dr. W. W. Whitehouse, lecturer.

Neighborhood Woman's Club.

Members of the program committee will hold a special meeting Thursday afternoon in the home of the first vice president and program chairman, Mrs. Arnold Bierer, 7026 Throop street. All departmental chairmen and representatives to the Third district are requested to be present.

Wins Rockford Scholarship

Miss Betty Bochman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bochman, 8957 Aberdeen street, has been awarded a scholarship to Rockford college and will matriculate there next month. She is a graduate of Morgan Park High school, where she was vice president of the Girl Reserves, treasurer of the concert band, and a member of Tau Epsilon honor society.

RADIO, MOTION PICTURE COSTS ARE COMPARED

Movies Run Higher Than Broadcasts.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new International Motion Picture Almanac presents some illuminating comparisons in the cost of producing movies and radio shows. Movies' cost per minute of screen time is far higher than that of even the most elaborate of radio programs.

The most expensive picture of the last season cost per minute of screen time $23,200. The most expensive airing of the year was the sponsorship of the Louis-Schmeling fight, which ran to $2,516 per minute. Because of the extreme brevity of the bout, it could have been handled adequately in five minutes. But the time could not be bought that way. Fifteen minutes was the shortest parcel NBC would sell. The above figure is the estimated cost per minute for fifteen minutes to the sponsor. Actually the fight is said to have cost NBC a lot of extra money, the story being that the network paid more for the exclusive rights to the fight than it got back out of fifteen minutes' sale of time.

Both these citations—for movies and for radio—are exceptional. The most expensive picture of the year, the almanac estimated, was likely on the basis of its performance up to now, to take in slightly less through its world-wide gross of less than its negative cost. So the loss, after distribution costs are added, will be about $3,400 a minute.

The High Cost of Pictures.

An audit of a series of four pictures made by one of the best known of Hollywood producers revealed that every minute had cost the makers $3,343.

Most expensive of the regular weekly radio shows is "Good News of 1938," according to the almanac. This show, starring Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer headliners, costs $416 each minute of the sixty it is heard on Thursday evenings. This figure does not include time or wire charges. Thus, the talent cost of this show alone runs to around $25,000 a week.

The Charlie McCarthy-Edgar Bergen-Don Ameche show is estimated to cost $175 per minute each week for talent and production. This figure seems low by comparison with the "Good News" show. Perhaps these figures were estimated during the period when Nelson Eddy was not on the program. His services, it is said, would add perhaps 50 per cent to this figure.

$25,000 Each Week.

The figure for the M-G-M show is said not to vary, the sponsor shelling out the same amount each week to the film company, which provides an assortment of stars for guest appearances and a regular company, including Frank Morgan, Fanny Brice, Robert Taylor, and Meredith Willson's music. Actual cost to M-G-M is said to run over $25,000 on some weeks.

The cost for both the radio variety shows cited is considerably less than one of Hollywood's best known producers is paid. For a total of 536 negative minutes he received $525,000, or $981 per minute.

Chaplin Cost Plenty, Too.

Even back in the twenty year ago era, pictures were expensive, the report shows. Charlie Chaplin's two part comedies cost about $3,815 per minute to produce. He drew $2,223 per minute of released time.

Going back even further, "The Birth of a Nation" cost $689 a minute of screen time, which is less than the typical story preparation costs of today's Hollywood products.

For a group of nine typical plays the costs for story and play purchases averaged $252 per minute screen time, and cost of studio rewriters, dialoguers, averaging eleven to a picture, ran to $951.

'Labor Policy' Will Be Round Table's Subject

"A Labor Policy for Business" will be the subject of discussion during the University of Chicago Round Table broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 9:30 tonight. Taking part in the discussion will be William H. Spencer, dean of the school of business; Wiley W. Stone, assistant professor of industrial relations, and Maynard C. Kreuger, assistant professor of economics—all of the university.

Kent Blasts Misconceptions on 'Don't You Believe It!'

That Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" has always been accepted as a literary masterpiece; that Emily Post is responsible for etiquet, and that the Fourth of July is a legal holiday, are three usually accepted facts that will be blasted by Alan Kent on his coast-to-coast series over W-G-N and the Mutual network entitled "Don't You Believe It!" from 8:00 to 8:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Fran Carlon, dramatic actress who will star in "Love Is the Answer to Everything" on Curtain Time over W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Friday. Miss Carlon will play the role of the wife of an artist.

STOKES SALUTES COLE PORTER ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Henry Weber Will Give Gershwin Program.

The music of Cole Porter, distinguished American jazz composer, will be featured on Melodies from the Sky at 9:30 p. m. Wednesday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N dance orchestra.

This will be the third in a series of programs saluting the life and music of modern American composers. Headlined on the show will be a medley from the new Porter musical comedy, "You Never Know," which will be presented on Broadway this fall. Mr. Stokes announced that something of the plot of the play also will be presented.

Edna O'Dell, the Four Shades of Blue, the chorus and orchestra will play and sing four songs from "You Never Know": "For No Rhyme or Reason," "At Long Last Love," and "From Alpha to Omega."

Also heard will be Cole Porter medleys from "Rosalie," "Born to Love," "Anything Goes," and "Gay Divorce," including the ever popular "Night and Day," which will be sung by Gunther Decker, the chorus, and orchestra.

On Your Sunday Date, from 9:30 to 10:15 tonight over W-G-N, Harold Stokes and the W-G-N dance orchestra will play a medley from "Garden of the Moon," with Edna O'Dell, Skip Farrell, and the Four Grenadiers featured.

On the Memory Lane medley Gunther Decker, the chorus, and orchestra will do "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Japanese Sandman" [1920], and "My Gal Sal" [1905].

Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N tenor, will sing "Say Love Is Not a Dream" in a medley from Franz Lehar's "Count of Luxembourg" on the Pageant of Melody over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Baggiore will also sing Tosti's "A Vuchella" and Bartlett's "A Dream," while Margery Mayer will sing Bohm's "Calm as the Night."

Henry Weber's Concert revue at 9:30 Thursday will feature themes from the music of George Gershwin. Kathryn Witwer, W-G-N soprano; Mark Love, W-G-N basso, and the octet will do the vocals. The medley includes "Clap Yo' Hands," "The Man I Love," "Of Thee I Sing," and "Strike Up the Band."

'Love Is the Answer' Is Curtain Time Vehicle

"Love Is the Answer to Everything," a drama by Sterling Quinlan of Hollywood, will be presented on Curtain Time over W-G-N from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m. Friday. The three starring rôles will be taken by Hugh Studebaker, Frances Carlon, and James Goss.

U. of C. Chapel Service.

Henry N. Wieman, professor of Christian theology in the divinity school at the University of Chicago, will be the speaker on the chapel service at 11 a. m. today over W-G-N.

NORTHERNERS WILL SALUTE IRVING BERLIN

The Northerners, popular male octet, will sing selections from the Irving Berlin picture, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," over W-G-N from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m. Tuesday. Willard Andelin, basso, will sing Victor Herbert's "I Want What I Want When I Want It." Baritone John Macdonald will do a solo chorus of "Home On the Range," and Wesley Summerfield, tenor, will sing a chorus of Krenser's "Hymn to the Madonna," with the rest of the octet joining in.

Two Grant Park Concerts Slated on W-G-N-Mutual

Portions of two more concerts of the Grant park series will be broadcast this week over W-G-N and the Mutual system. At 8 p. m. tomorrow a half hour broadcast of the concert by the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra under the direction of Leo Kopp will be offered. The program: Overture to "Boccaccio," the Swedish rhapsody "Midsummer Wake," and the waltz by Strauss, "Vienna Blood." On Saturday evening the Woman's Symphony orchestra, directed by George Dasch, will be heard from 8 to 8:30 p. m. playing the overture to the opera "Mignon" and Franck's "Symphony in D Minor."

FADIMAN WILL CONDUCT GALA MAGIC KEY HOUR

Doris Doe Is Soloist for Variety Show.

Doris Doe, Metropolitan Opera contralto; Cesare Sodero Jr., 11 year old violin prodigy; Larry Clinton and his orchestra; Todor Mazaroff, Bulgarian tenor, and Clifton Fadiman and Franklin P. Adams will headline a gala Magic Key program at 1 p. m. today over WENR-NBC.

Cesare Sodero Jr., son of the well known conductor, made a brilliant debut as a soloist with the New York Civic orchestra last month.

Mazaroff, a former shepherd and a native of the village of Pavelbania, near the town of Kazalnik, is 34 years old and has been hailed abroad as a "second Caruso."

On the popular side, Larry Clinton's orchestra will join the weekly summer parade of dance time aggregations. In addition to arranging and conducting, Clinton is known as a composer.

Fadiman, literary critic of The New Yorker and sardonically humorous referee of the popular program Information Please, will act as master of ceremonies and will bring with him to the microphone one of his prime program accomplices, Franklin P. Adams.

WAY BACK HOME TO BE MOTIF OF MIDDAY SERVICE

"'Way Back Home" is to be the inspiration and motif of the W-G-N Midday Service this week. The speakers:

Monday—The Rev. C. L. Venable, Wicker Park United Lutheran church.

Tuesday—The Rev. J. Clyde Forney, Highland Avenue church, Elgin.

Wednesday—Bishop Samuel P. Spreng of the Evangelical church, Naperville.

Thursday—To be announced.

Friday—Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn, Temple Beth-Israel.

Saturday—L. A. Bowman, layman of the First Presbyterian church, Oak Park.

Heidt and Brigadiers.

Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers will broadcast from Fort Dearborn inn, near Detroit, Mich., at 9 p. m. over WMAQ-NBC. The program will open with Grever's popular "Ti Pi Tin," followed by "My Blue Heaven," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and "Three o'Clock in the Morning."

DOES DULLING SOAP FILM ROB YOUR HAIR OF GLAMOUR?

Amazing new Film-removing shampoo washes away ugly Soap Film! Instantly reveals Breath-taking new Lustre that men Admire!

OLD WAY Hair dull, unattractive after "old-style" shampoo that leaves cloudy soap film to cover up natural lustre.

AMAZING NEW WAY You'll discover that dulling soap film is completely gone after washing with sensational new HALO Shampoo! Even the dullest hair is left silky-soft and sparkling with new-found brilliance that men rave about!

Women cheer Colgate's thrilling new HALO Shampoo for Normal, Oily and Dry hair! Not oil, not soap—HALO cannot leave cloudy, unrinsable film, as ordinary shampoos do! Thus, a single HALO shampoo gives any type of hair Glamorous new Highlights and Radiant new Softness!

No wonder women are raving about Colgate's thrilling new HALO Shampoo that contains no soap! For Halo is an improved liquid shampoo! And results are sensational on all types of hair! Here, at last is one way to make normal, oily or dry hair glisten with dazzling new highlights that men admire!

So don't suffer any longer with shampoos that irritate the scalp. Don't suffer, either, with old-style liquid or bar soap shampoos that leave unrinsable soap film on hair to cover up its natural brilliance. Try Halo Shampoo today. And discover, as thousands have, how attractive your hair really can be!

A single Halo shampoo will prove a revelation! For it instantly removes cloudy soap film to reveal a glamorous new beauty you never knew your hair possessed! Most astonishing, remember—Halo is one shampoo that works equal wonders on normal, oily and dry hair of any color! Yes—a Halo shampoo leaves all types of hair with sparkling new highlights! Even dullest hair takes on breathtaking new sheen . . . while "wild" hair becomes wonderfully soft and silky after washing with Halo!

Actual retouched photos above show what a wonderful improvement this new shampoo may make. Isn't the hair on the right more attractive? Results are so exciting because Halo is utterly different in three ways.

FIRST: Halo contains NO soap! Thus it cannot leave gummy soap film on hair to dull its natural lustre, as old-fashioned liquid or bar soap shampoos do. Yet Halo makes more creamy lather than soap, in hardest water. One sudsing washes away all dirt and loose dandruff. Completely removes that drab, cloudy soap film left by other shampoos. Lemon or vinegar rinses are not needed. Yet hair is absolutely free of dulling film . . . alluringly fragrant, cleaner, more radiant than you ever dreamed possible!

SECOND: Halo is NOT an oil! Leaves hair silky-soft, but never greasy or sticky.

THIRD: Halo contains NO harmful chemicals. Does not irritate the scalp.

Thousands of women have been thrilled by Halo's sensational beauty results. Colgate guarantees that Halo is safe for normal, oily and dry hair! Get this amazing new Halo Shampoo at any toilet goods counter. 10c and 50c sizes. Or, to try before you buy, mail this advertisement with your name and address, to Colgate, Dept. N-530, Jersey City, N. J., by August 28, and you will receive, absolutely free, enough Halo for three shampoos! Act today. You, too, can have soft, lustrous hair this easy, new way!

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK GUARANTEE
If you do not agree that a single Halo Shampoo makes your hair more beautiful than you ever dreamed possible, mail empty bottle to Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., Jersey City, New Jersey. And we will send you a check for DOUBLE what it cost you! Offer expires Sept. 15, 1938

6160 SOUTH HALSTED STREET

PRESENT EIGHTH IN VESPER SONG SERIES TODAY

Two Are Listed for the Southwest Side.

Oscar R. Berry.

On the trail of music, southwest side residents will go by auto, bus and street car today to Dan Ryan woods, 87th street and Western avenue, and to the Argonne forest in Palos Hills preserve, 94th street, one quarter mile west of 104th avenue. There they will hear the eighth of a series of choral concerts being sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, in cooperation with the Cook county board of commissioners.

From a band stand in the center of the picnic grounds, the Greater West Side Choral guild will present a program of lyrics from 4 to 5 o'clock, while in Argonne forest at the same hour the International Harvesters Male chorus will sing spirituals.

The Choral guild is composed of 40 voices under the direction of Miss Bessie Ryan and is part of the Greater West Side Fine Arts association. Last February the association was organized by Miss Ryan and William Devlin, secretary of the West Town Chamber of Commerce.

Has Young Membership.

April saw the beginning of the choral and dramatic guild whose membership reached out among the young artists and students of the community. The choral group will sing at the air races Sept. 11 at Ford flying field and expect to present a musical comedy in the early fall.

Today the program will include "America, the Beautiful," "The Bells of St. Mary's," "Santa Lucia," "Long Long Ago," "In the Gloaming," "Juanita," "All Through the Night," "Glow Worm," "Pale Moon," and "America." The Ladies' Glee club of the guild will sing three numbers, "Prelude to a Cycle of Life," "A Promise," and "Annabelle."

Soloists scheduled to appear are Lauretta Louise Schultz, who will sing "Carmena"; Burton Arnold, "Song of Songs"; Audrey Hayden, "Only a Rose"; Margaret Anderson, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise"; Arthur Russell Thomas, "Thine Alone"; Jean Rose, "West of the Great Divide"; Dorothy Cunningham, "A Daddy's Prayer," and Frank Vitellaro, "Serenade."

Sopranos in Group.

Sopranos are Miss Rose, Lucille Thomas, Eleanor Sala, Veronica Cullen, Eileen Burns, Helen Catlin, Eileen Breslan, Miss Cunningham, Miss Schultz, Marie Harvey, Mildred Walsh, Miss Anderson, Miss Hayden, and Gladyola Engel. Among the contraltos are Edweige Masciola, Mary Enslen, Betty Baxter, Shirley Roe, Margaret Martoccio, Lottie Hartwig, Dolores Hartwig, and Pearl Snyder.

Tenors: Mr. Vitellaro, Jerry Dube, Elwood Merrill, Thomas Farr, Robert Martoccio, Thomas Fey, Carl Schrotberger, and William Murphy. Baritones: Mr. Thomas, Mr. Arnold, Ray Ryan, and Thomas Miner. Basses: James Harvey, Harold Hartwig, James Collins, Pat Byrns, Henry Schlacta, and Richard Ryan.

While only half the size of the Choral guild, the International Harvesters chorus has been established for 3 years. It was begun by Willis Bibbs and Barney Downs for the purpose of furnishing music at a safety program to be presented by McCormick Works.

After a successful program the chorus continued to sing for safety programs in Harrison High school. It had an original membership of 110 voices under the direction of Garner Kendricks, but at present consists of 20 members and is conducted by Oscar R. Berry.

Program of Chorus.

The voices of the chorus will blend today at Argonne forest in "Deep River," by Burleigh; "Sweet and Low," by Barnby; "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," by Pace; "Wide River," by Johnson; "Heaven," by Pace; "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," by Pitcher; "Asleep in the Deep," by Petrie; "Go Shepherd," by Frye-Martin; "Little David," by Pace; "Certainly Lord," by Johnson; "Po' Ol' Lazarus," by Work, and "Good Night Beloved," by Tinsuti.

"O Danny Boy" will be sung by John Nettles, tenor, and "Inflamatus" will be led by Virginia Caine.

West Side Choral Guild Sings Today

ANNUAL GARDEN SHOW DATE SET BY MORGAN PARK

Floral Exhibits Already Being Groomed.

A garden show, like any other good performance, needs rehersing, so petunias, that will be given the dignified title of exhibit A, need prompting before hand.

Residents of Morgan Park are now choosing their floral actors which will take part in the second annual community show Sept. 13 and 14 in the Guild rooms of the Church of the Mediator, 110th street and Hoyne avenue. It is being sponsored by the Morgan Park Garden club and the Women's Guild of the church.

Morgan Park, known for more than half a century as one of the most beautifully gardened sections of outlying Chicago, was laid out in the pattern of an old English village with fine shade trees, winding streets and triangular bits of park.

Become Weed Plots.

Since incorporation of the village into the city of Chicago, the charming triangular park sections have become a community problem. They have no place in the budget of the department of streets or of any park commission and consequently many of them have lapsed into weed patches.

Only where neighbors or clubs have personally supervised the gardening are the plots cared for, so the proceeds of the flower show this year will be spent in beautifying them.

Will Award Ribbons.

Blue ribbons will be awarded for first prizes, red ribbons for second, white for third, and yellow for honorable mention. Special awards will be designated by green ribbons and awards of merit by purple ribbons.

Exhibits will be divided into nine classes—Specimen flowers, artistic arrangements, fruit and vegetable arrangements, table arrangements, indoor decorations, miniatures, collections, men's special entries, and junior classes.

Committee members in charge will be Mrs. Stuart Murdoch, president of the garden club; Mrs. Herman Kitzelman and Mrs. Frank Dismore, cochairmen; Mrs. Howard Stevens, chairman of artistic arrangements; Mrs. W. O. Korten, chairman of fruit and vegetable arrangements; Mrs. T. A. Telfer, chairman of tables; Mrs. John Bingham, chairman of indoor decorations and miniatures; Mrs. Homer Whitcomb, chairman of juniors; Mrs. Percival Blatchford, chairman of men's entries.

Wins Scholarship

Miss Mary Foerster, 6626 Bishop street, a sophomore in the premedical department of the Central Y. M. C. A. college, was recently awarded an honor scholarship for the fall semester in the college. The award was based on her scholastic record of the last school year.

Outing.

The Regular Democratic club of Bremen township will hold its annual picnic next Sunday in Bachelor's grove, 143d street and Oak Park avenue.

LEGION COUNCIL TO DEDICATE ITS NEW 'IRON LUNG'

The 3d district council of the American Legion will dedicate its new life saving respirator, known as the "iron lung," Friday night, at 8:30 o'clock, at 6344 Cottage Grove avenue. Nate T. Felt, retiring district commander, and chairman of the iron lung committee, is in charge of arrangements for the program.

Ceremonies will start at 7:30 o'clock with a parade which will form at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. The 3d district is the largest Legion district in the nation and all of the thirty-two posts which it comprises will participate in the parade.

Mayor Kelly will be a special guest and Paul G. Armstrong, national executive committeeman from the department of Illinois, will unveil the machine. It was purchased through subscriptions of Legionnaires in the 3d district, and is available for use to any one on the south side. Mme. Freud Hapsburg, Vienna operatic contralto, will sing the Star Spangled Banner, accompanied by South Shore post band.

The respirator will be housed in a special trailer and manned by volunteer Legionnaires and nurses from Jane A. Delano post who are becoming first aid experts under the direction of Dr. Frank J. Norton, 3d district medical officer.

◆

Officers recently elected by the 3d district auxiliary are Mrs. H. L. Hanes of Woodlawn unit, director; Mrs. Elmer La Chappelle, Hyde Park, alternate; Mrs. Zoe Parshall, Illinois Central, treasurer; Garnett Applegate, Oakland-Kenwood, chaplain; Mrs. Catherine Saynor, Raymond J. Hagemann unit, historian; Mrs. Grace Woessner, Eaton-Priddy, sergeant at arms. The new officers will be installed at the October meeting, with Woodlawn unit as host. Mrs. Frank Miller of Chipilly unit will be district delegate to the state and national conventions.

◆

Bride at Home

[Paul Studio Photo.]

Miss Cecilia B. Pyra, daughter of Mrs. Mary Pyra of 1728 West 34th street, recently became the bride of Joseph Grzymalski in a ceremony at SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church. She is a member of the White Rose society, of which her mother is vice president. Mr. and Mrs. Grzymalski are now residing at 3443 West 53d street.

WATER CARNIVAL SCHEDULED FOR M'KINLEY PARK

The fifth annual water carnival in McKinley park will be held tomorrow evening in the huge pool at 39th and Leavitt streets. Not only will there be aquatic exhibitions and competitions, but a stage show, social dancing, and bathing beauty contest as well.

Lloyd Pekelsma, physical director in charge of aquatic activities, has announced that the competitive swimming events will include a ladies 40 yard free style dash, a men's 40 yard free style, and a men's 160 yard relay. These will be open to any amateur in the city and loving cups will be awarded to the winners.

Beauty Test Entrants.

Among the entrants will be Anne Mucha, 4049 Richmond avenue; Gladys Sweet, 1924 Laflin street; Lillian Wojenik, 4537 Whipple street; Bernice Churas, 3253 Halsted street; Lauretta Sinder, 3845 Honore street; Loretta Hagerty, 2251 West 35th street; Ellen Judge, 4645 Spaulding avenue; Evelyn Sabard, 11144 Vernon avenue; Marge Stralka, 5600 Spaulding avenue, and Louise Galan, 5689 Ada street.

Others will be Betty McLean, 10217 Sangamon street; Beatrice Zaretsky, 3815 West 64th place; Ester Stern, 6959 Green street; Betty Anne Barn, 6601 Normal boulevard; Joanne Spatuzza, 6426 Maryland avenue; Lucille Potter, 7459 State street; Rita Biel, 2110 West 51st street; Theresa Pavlik, 6346 Francisco avenue; Mary Rusev, 5317 Campbell avenue, and Florence Janicke, 4626 St. Louis avenue.

Judges of Contest.

Judges will be William Collins, area supervisor for the park district; John Sullivan, local attorney; Edward Drake, editor of Life magazine; Walter Wolf, president of the Brighton Park Chamber of Commerce; Otto Clyden, commander of McKinley post of the American Legion, and Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th].

The third division of the carnival will be given over to social dancing. The area between the pool buildings and the water will be waxed and Japanese lanterns will be strung around the colonnades. Music will be played from 8 o'clock until midnight.

M. R. McLean, park supervisor, is general chairman for the show.

Engaged

[Paul Stone-Raymor Studio.]

DICK TRACY
SCENE: LAYTON VALLEY JUNCTION FREIGHT YARDS.
WELL, BRIGHTON, WE'VE BEEN HERE TWO DAYS AND HAVEN'T SEEN JOJO NIDLE— NOR EVEN ANY OF HIS GANG.
YOU MUST REMEMBER—HAVE PATIENCE! LIVING UNDER THIS PLATFORM ISN'T SO BAD. WE STILL HAVE FOOD AND WATER— AND IT'S DRY HERE.
BUT WHAT WILL YOUR MOTHER THINK WHEN SHE REALIZES IT'S US WHO HAVE BEEN TAKING FOOD OUT OF HER PANTRY?
AND YOUR FATHER! BOY! HE'LL TAN YOUR HIDE WHEN HE FINDS OUT YOU TOOK HIS .22 RIFLE.
BUT WE'VE GOT TO HAVE A WEAPON, HAVEN'T WE? IF WE EXPECT TO CAPTURE JOJO.
NOW LET'S JUST CONCENTRATE OUR GAZE ON THAT FRESHLY LOADED CAR OF TIRES STANDING IN FRONT OF THE TIRE FACTORY.
GEE, IT'S SO DARK I CAN HARDLY SEE.
MEANWHILE, UP THE TRACK A SHORT WAY, A CATTLE TRAIN DRAWS NEAR THE TOWN OF LAYTON VALLEY JUNCTION.
WE'VE GOT TO STOP AT THE JUNCTION FOR ORDERS. —MAY HAVE TO SIDETRACK FOR THE FLYER.
OKAY.
HEY, BRIGHTON, HERE COMES A FREIGHT TRAIN!
YEAH— AND IT'S GOING TO CUT OFF OUR VIEW OF THE TIRE FACTORY.
IT'S A CATTLE TRAIN. LOOK! CARLOADS OF COWS OR STEERS.
HEY, DUCK BACK IN THE SHADOW, QUICK!
WH— WHAT DID YOU SEE?
LOOK—STICKING OUT OF THE DOOR OF THAT CATTLE CAR!
SLOWLY A HAND BREAKS THE CAR SEAL—THE DOOR IS PUSHED OPEN.
TWO FIGURES EMERGE. THE CAR DOOR IS CLOSED AND ANOTHER SEAL PUT IN PLACE.
HOLY NED! WHO CAN THEY BE AND—WHAT WERE THEY DOING THERE?
THAT'S JUST THEIR WAY OF GETTING INTO TOWN WITHOUT BEING SEEN—MUST BE NIDLE'S MEN. THEY HID AMONG THE COWS AND THE BRAKEMAN COULDN'T SEE THEM.
OH BOY??

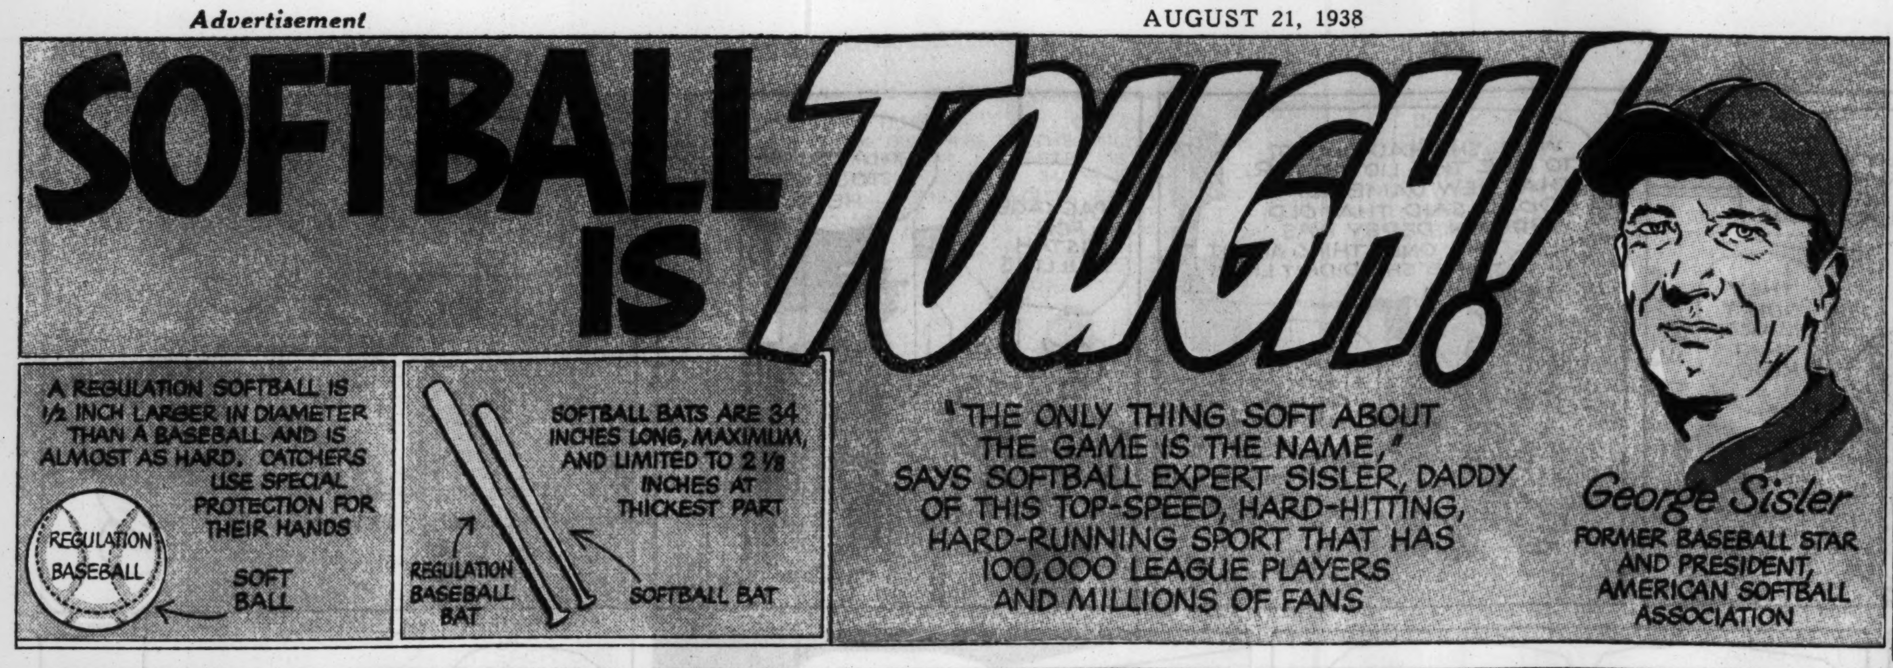
SOFTBALL IS TOUGH!



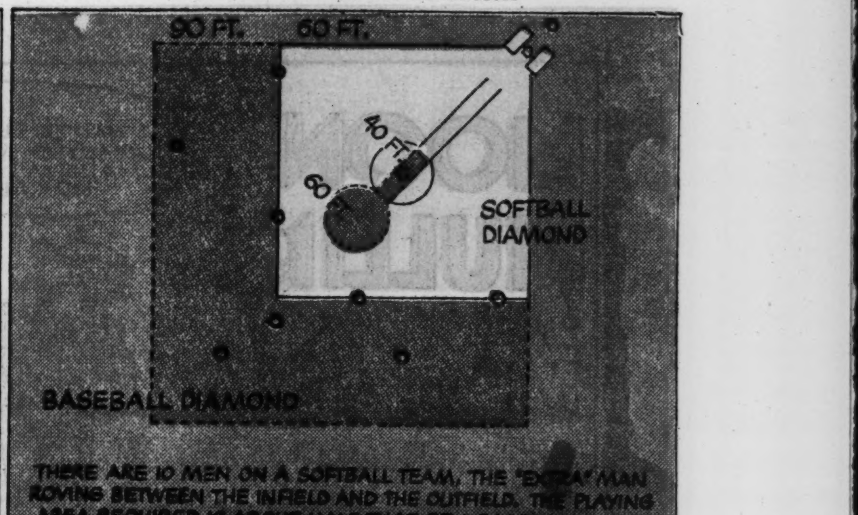
REGULATION BASEBALL
SOFT BALL
REGULATION BASEBALL BAT
SOFTBALL BAT
George Sisler

A REGULATION SOFTBALL IS ½ INCH LARGER IN DIAMETER THAN A BASEBALL AND IS ALMOST AS HARD. CATCHERS USE SPECIAL PROTECTION FOR THEIR HANDS

SOFTBALL BATS ARE 34 INCHES LONG, MAXIMUM, AND LIMITED TO 2 ⅛ INCHES AT THICKEST PART

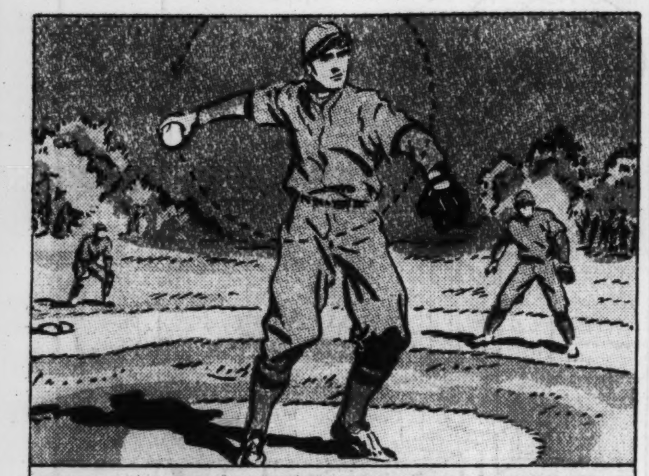
"THE ONLY THING SOFT ABOUT THE GAME IS THE NAME," SAYS SOFTBALL EXPERT SISLER, DADDY OF THIS TOP-SPEED, HARD-HITTING, HARD-RUNNING SPORT THAT HAS 100,000 LEAGUE PLAYERS AND MILLIONS OF FANS

George Sisler
FORMER BASEBALL STAR AND PRESIDENT, AMERICAN SOFTBALL ASSOCIATION

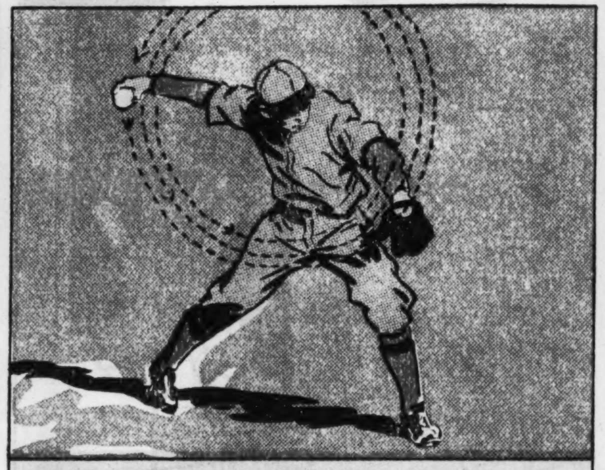


90 FT.
60 FT.
40 FT.
60 FT.
SOFTBALL DIAMOND
BASEBALL DIAMOND

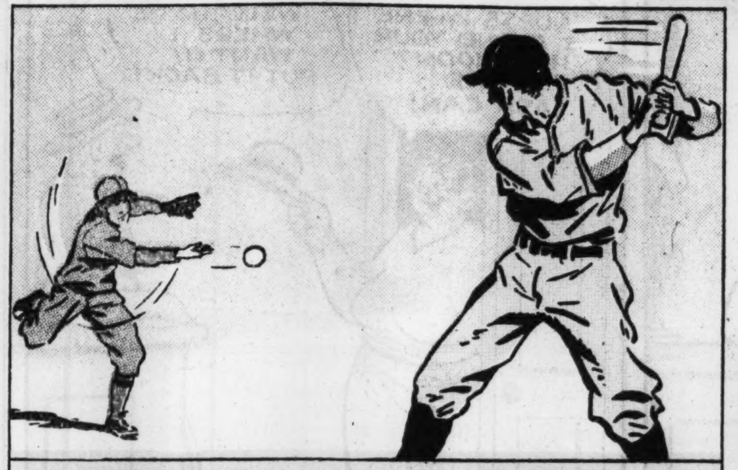
THERE ARE 10 MEN ON A SOFTBALL TEAM, THE "EXTRA" MAN ROVING BETWEEN THE INFIELD AND THE OUTFIELD. THE PLAYING AREA REQUIRED IS ABOUT HALF THAT OF A BASEBALL FIELD. ALL PLAYERS ARE NEARER TO EACH OTHER, AS SHOWN ABOVE. ALTHOUGH THE BALL IS PITCHED UNDERHAND, IT TRAVELS AT TERRIFIC SPEED AND IN BAFFLING CURVES. ONE SOFTBALL STAR HAS PITCHED OVER 100 NO-HIT GAMES IN 5 YEARS



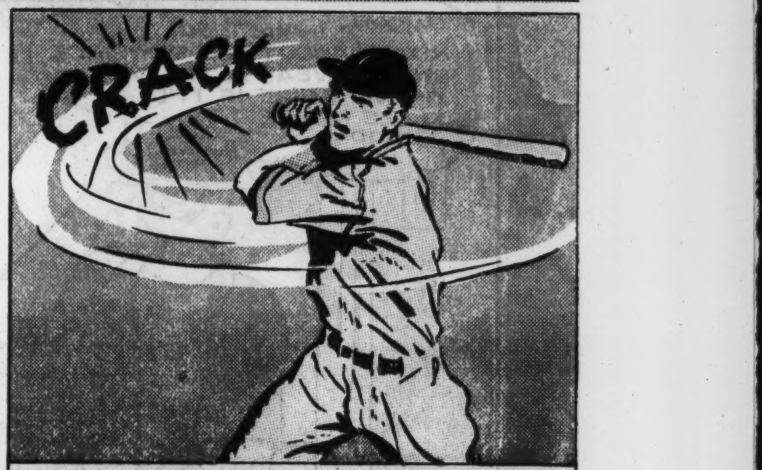
START OF THE SENSATIONAL "WINDMILL" WIND-UP. BECAUSE THE BALL MUST BE THROWN UNDERHAND, WIND-UPS HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED THAT PUT CANNON-BALL SPEED IN SOFTBALL PITCHING



SOME PITCHERS CAN DELIVER A SOFTBALL ON THE FIRST OR THIRD ARM-SPIN, AT WILL — FURTHER CONFUSING THE BATTER. PRACTICE AT TARGETS GIVES STAR PITCHERS AMAZING AIM

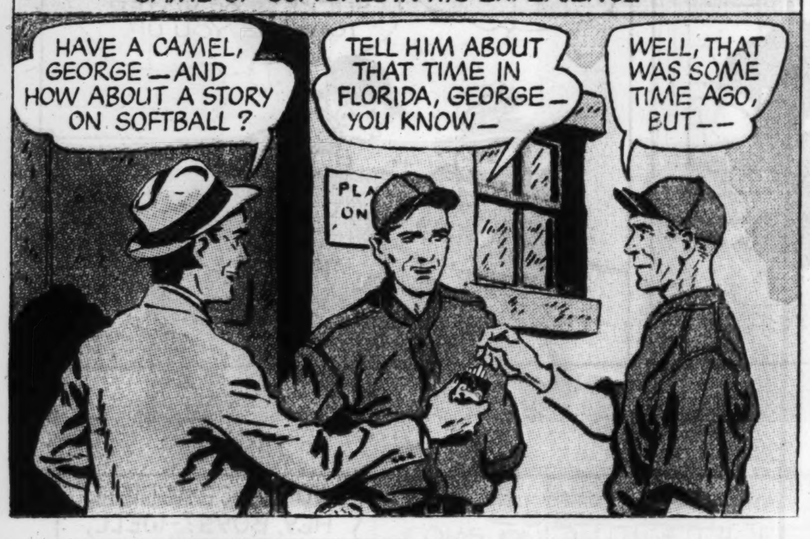


SOFTBALL BATTERS USUALLY START SWINGING BEFORE THE BALL ACTUALLY LEAVES THE PITCHER'S HAND. OTHERWISE, IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO HIT A LIGHTNING-FAST THROW



THIS EAGLE-EYED BATTER HAS CONNECTED! SIZZLING DRIVES, 300 FEET OUT, OFTEN REWARD GOOD SOFTBALL HITTERS. BUT GOOD HITTERS ARE FEW IN THIS NERVE-STRAINING, EXHAUSTING SPORT

GEORGE SISLER TELLS ABOUT THE MOST EXCITING GAME OF SOFTBALL IN HIS EXPERIENCE



HAVE A CAMEL, GEORGE — AND HOW ABOUT A STORY ON SOFTBALL?
TELL HIM ABOUT THAT TIME IN FLORIDA, GEORGE — YOU KNOW — WELL, THAT WAS SOME TIME AGO, BUT — — PLA ON

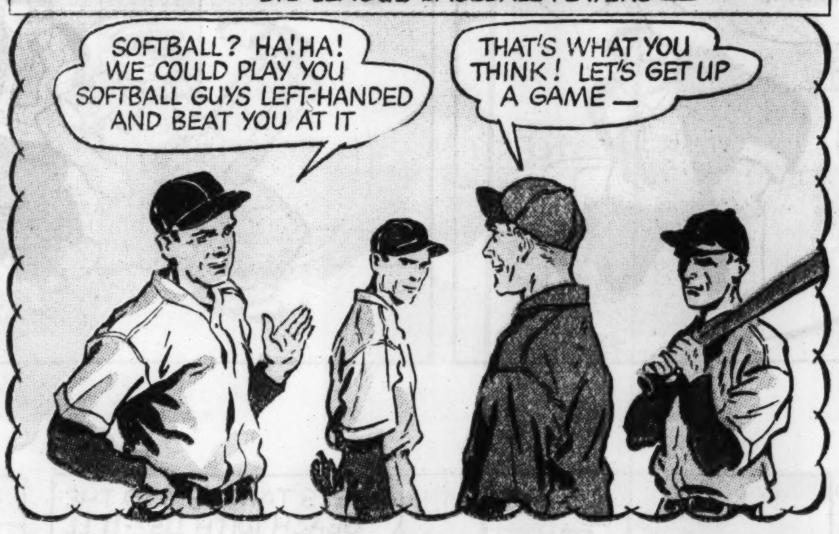
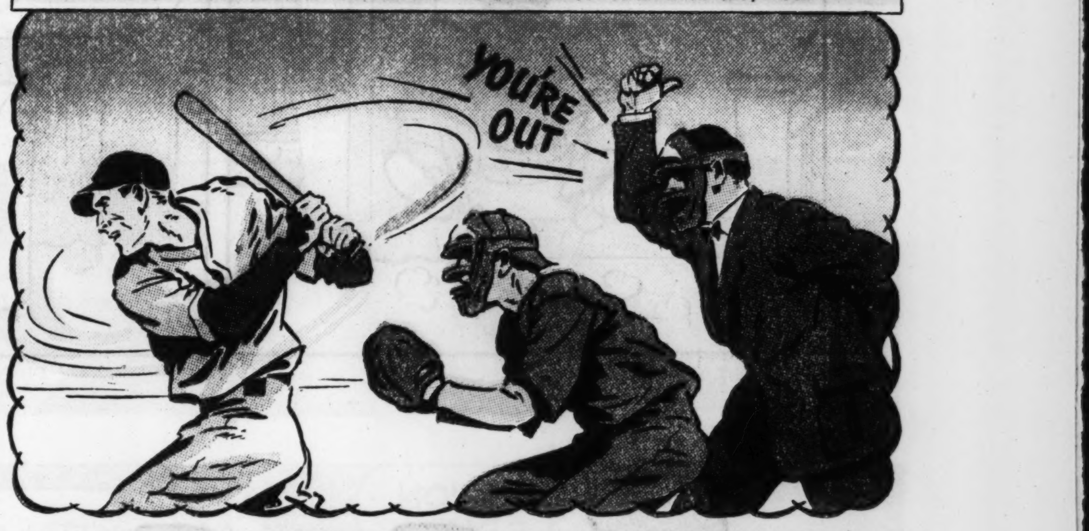
SISLER: "ONE WINTER WE RAN INTO SOME BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL PLAYERS —"

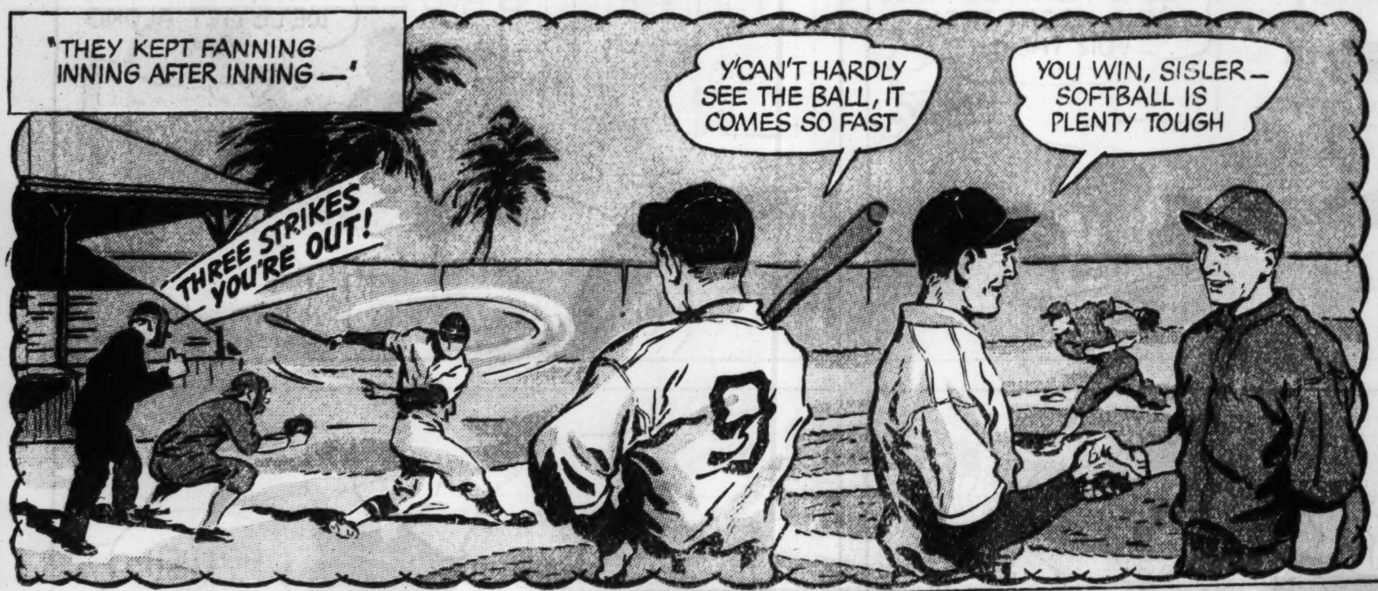


SOFTBALL? HA! HA! WE COULD PLAY YOU SOFTBALL GUYS LEFT-HANDED AND BEAT YOU AT IT
THAT'S WHAT YOU THINK! LET'S GET UP A GAME —

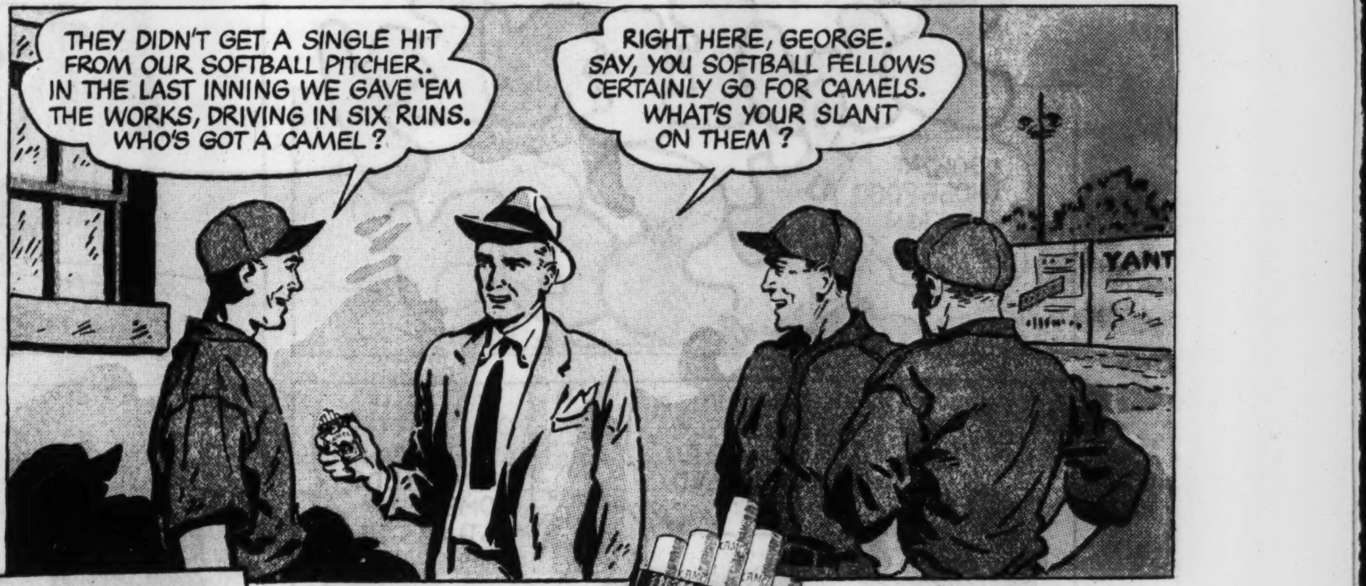
"WE PICKED UP A SOFTBALL TEAM AND THOSE BASEBALL FELLOWS GOT UP PRACTICALLY AN ALL-STAR LINE-UP. THEY WENT TO BAT FIRST, AND —"



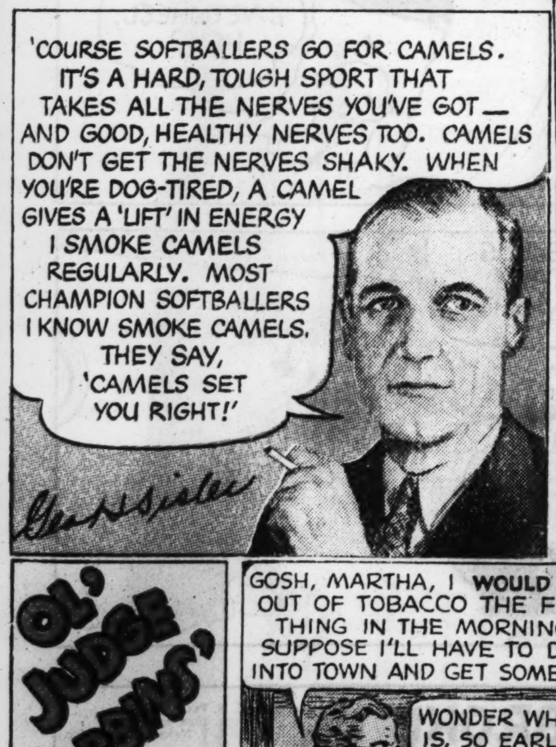
"THEY KEPT FANNING INNING AFTER INNING —"



THREE STRIKES YOU'RE OUT!
Y'CAN'T HARDLY SEE THE BALL, IT COMES SO FAST
YOU WIN, SISLER — SOFTBALL IS PLENTY TOUGH
9



THEY DIDN'T GET A SINGLE HIT FROM OUR SOFTBALL PITCHER. IN THE LAST INNING WE GAVE 'EM THE WORKS, DRIVING IN SIX RUNS. WHO'S GOT A CAMEL?
RIGHT HERE, GEORGE. SAY, YOU SOFTBALL FELLOWS CERTAINLY GO FOR CAMELS. WHAT'S YOUR SLANT ON THEM?
YANT



'COURSE SOFTBALLERS GO FOR CAMELS. IT'S A HARD, TOUGH SPORT THAT TAKES ALL THE NERVES YOU'VE GOT — AND GOOD, HEALTHY NERVES TOO. CAMELS DON'T GET THE NERVES SHAKY. WHEN YOU'RE DOG-TIRED, A CAMEL GIVES A 'LIFT' IN ENERGY. I SMOKE CAMELS REGULARLY. MOST CHAMPION SOFTBALLERS I KNOW SMOKE CAMELS. THEY SAY, 'CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT!'
Geo H Sisler

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT—WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO"—Tobacco Planters say

Sidney J. Bone, veteran tobacco grower, says: "A lot of folks don't realize just what their cigarette ought to give them. My point is, finer tobaccos make finer cigarettes. Sale after sale, I've seen my finest lots go to Camel. Because I know Camel buys better tobacco, I smoke Camels. So do most planters."

As an experienced grower of fine tobacco, Marvin Holloman has attended a lot of tobacco auctions. He observes: "At most of the auctions, I've seen Camel buyers take the real choice lots of tobacco. And they pay more to get them. Like most planters around here, I smoke Camels because I know they buy finer tobacco."

George B. Dew is well known for the choice tobacco he grows. "Out of all my crops," he says, "the real fine lots have gone to Camel every time. They bought the best of my last crop. I've found Camel buyers pay the price to get the best grades. I'm a steady Camel smoker. Camels sure are the favorite with planters."

Little Orphan Annie
A WEEK AGO ACE RECOUNTED AN INCIDENT IN HIS LIFE THAT, TO HIM, WAS ONLY A THIRTY-YEAR-OLD THRILL --- BUT TO SHANGHAI AND TO ANNIE, IT HAD THE SHOCKING POWER OF A CASE OF DYNAMITE- -- YOU KNOW THE STORY TO DATE (WE HOPE) SO LET'S GO ON--- PICTURE BOOKS? WE THINK OF ANNIE AS SO GROWN UP, SOME TIMES -- BUT, AFTER ALL, SHE'S ONLY A LITTLE GIRL- WHY NOT?
OF COURSE- THE ONLY PECULIAR PART IS, IT'S ALL MADE UP OF CUT-OUTS FROM NEWSPAPERS OF JUST PEOPLE'S FACES-
BUT YOU SAY SHE TOLD YOU IT WAS ALL SOME SORT OF A GAME- FUNNY SHANGHAI TAKES SUCH AN INTEREST IN IT-
OH, IN SPITE OF HIS ROUGH WAYS, SHANGHAI IS STILL JUST A BIG KID, I GUESS-
PICTURE BOOK? MADE IT YOURSELF, EH? PICTURES FROM NEWS PAPERS- WHAT WAS THE IDEA?
OH, IT'S SORT OF A GAME- YOU LOOK IT OVER AND SEE IF YOU CAN GUESS-
HA! HA! 'FRAID NOT, ANNIE- I'M NOT VERY GOOD AT GAMES-
OH, YOU'LL FIGGER IT OUT- LOOK AT TH' PITCHERS- LOOK AT EACH ONE, CAREFULLY-
SURE- ALL RIGHT- BUT WHO ARE THEY? ANYBODY SPECIAL? THEY'RE ALL STRANGERS TO ME-
YOU'VE ONLY LOOKED AT TH' FIRST COUPLE O' PAGES- GO ON- TRY TH' NEXT PAGE-
O. K.--- MORE PICTURES --- JUST PEOPLE'S FACES--- I--- WAIT A SECOND! THAT--- THAT--- THAT FACE!
YEAH? I SEE IT- WHAT ABOUT IT? KNOW HIM?
KNOW HIM! THAT'S ONE OF THE MEN I SAW THAT NIGHT IN 1908- THE ONE WHO WAS HIRED TO KILL A MAN-
YES- AND THE SAME MAN WHO WAS EXECUTED FOR HIS CRIME LATER- GO ON, ACE-
IT'S--- IT'S UNCANNY- YOU--- YOU KNOW ABOUT THAT? WAIT --- THIS PICTURE BOOK- WHERE DID YOU GET THESE PICTURES?
OUT OF OLD NEWSPAPERS! GO ON, ACE- LOOK THROUGH THE REST OF THAT BOOK-
NO--- NOBODY I KNOW THERE --- NOR THERE --- WAIT! THERE! THE MAN WHO GAVE THE ORDERS THAT NIGHT-
GUDGE? THE MAN WHO OWNS HALF THIS TOWN? WHY, THEN--- HE --- HOW --- IF ---?
STEADY, ACE- YOU HAVE GIVEN US ALL THE PROOF WE NEEDED- IT WAS GUDGE WHO PLOTTED THE DEATH OF CAP'N ALDEN-
BUT I--- YOU--- HE--- DON'T MIX ME UP IN THIS THING!
ACE! HE DOESN'T KNOW YOU- YOU'RE AS SAFE AS A BABE IN ARMS--- AS LONG AS YOU SIT TIGHT, AND KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT- UNDERSTAND?

JACK, YOU'LL BE ENTIRELY ON YOUR OWN WHEN YOU DELIVER THESE FAKE X-13 PLANE PLANS TO THE HEAD OF THE SPY RING!
INSPECTOR, I'LL TRY TO MANEUVER HIM INTO AMERICAN WATERS WHERE WE'LL HAVE AUTHORITY TO ARREST HIM!
DISGUISED AS POWDER, JACK WENT TO A DESOLATE POINT ON THE CALIFORNIA COAST, WHERE, ACCORDING TO PAPERS FOUND ON POWDER, HE WAS TO BE PICKED UP BY THE SPIES' SEAPLANE ON THIS DATE-
THE PLANE ARRIVES AND JACK NERVOUSLY EXHIBITS HIS HAND SHOWING THE SYMBOL HE HAD BRANDED THERE TO DUPLICATE THE ONE FOUND ON POWDER
---IF HE RECOGNIZES THAT I'M NOT POWDER MY GOOSE IS COOKED!
HELLO, POWDER-- CLIMB IN!
WELL, I'VE FOOLED THIS PILOT ALL RIGHT--BUT THE BIG TEST WILL BE WHEN I FACE "THE HEAD"---HE'S SUPPOSED TO BE DOUBLE EXTRA CLEVER--- LATER-
SAY, PILOT, LOOK AT THAT BEAUTIFUL YACHT --IT'S ALMOST AS BIG AS AN OCEAN LINER!
ARE YOU TRYIN' TO KID ME, POWDER? YOU KNOW THAT'S "THE HEAD'S" YACHT!
WHEW! I ALMOST GAVE MYSELF AWAY--I'D BETTER WATCH MY STEP --OR ELSE---
THE PLANE LANDS AND IS HOISTED UP TO THE AFTER-DECK OF THE HUGE YACHT WHERE IT IS KEPT--- ZACK MOSLEY
ABOARD SHIP WE SEE "THE HEAD" AND "THE CLAW".
MY INTUITION SEEMS TO TELL ME THAT ALL HASN'T GONE WELL---I HOPE POWDER HASN'T BEEN FOOL ENOUGH TO TRY TO DOUBLE-CROSS ME ON THE X-13 PLANE PLANS!
POWDER'S OKAY, "HEAD" ---BUT I'LL SHARPEN UP MY CLAW--JUST IN CASE!!

He Wanted a Hot Time.

This clothing merchant bought a large stock of summer goods and waited for hot weather But it was always "just around the corner" that year. And before he could move the bulk of it, time for fall goods had arrived and he had no money to make his purchases. His wife came to his rescue by pawning several pieces of jewelry, and got him out of the hole. Good winter business enabled him to redeem everything but this one striking diamond solitaire weighing 1.08 Ct. Blue White, American Cut, exceptionally brilliant, set in lady's platinum diamond ring with 20 diamonds. Will liquidate for........$125

A Case of Good Judgment.

This woman believed she had been cheated in a business deal—and she was so angry that she decided to sue even though it might take her last dollar. And it did take her last dollar so she pawned jewelry to see it through and fortunately won her case. She is starting in business again, and is willing to let us sell these two fine pieces:

.65 CT. DIAMOND, Blue White, American Cut, attractively set in a lady's tailored platinum ring with 6 diamonds. Will sell for only..........$70

True Story No. 5

Appleton, Wisconsin.

Chicago Security Pawners,
Chicago, Illinois.
Gentlemen:

I am taking this means to tell you that the diamond you sent to me for examination fulfilled my expectations. May I further state that Mr. ———, of Appleton, was called in by me to make the examination and appraisal and was very fair.

Very truly yours,
C. G. H———.

As BURNHAM'S Trained Others Now Making $50 a Week in Beauty Culture

—Burnham's Will Train You.

There's money — BIG MONEY — in Beauty Culture if you're trained right and are started right. For instance, within a hundred yards of Burnham's there's a graduate whom we trained in 1936, who now earns over $50.00 a week regularly. And we can name you many others doing as well.

To Make the Most Money Out of Beauty Culture.

—You should get into a smart shop where the established operators frequently make $50.00 a week and up. Burnham's is in a position to help you. For months we have been unable to supply demand for our graduates. With such a large number of shops to choose from we place our graduates in the choicer spots. That means more money from the start, greater prestige faster progress.

Investigate the Exclusive Advantages Causing More Students to Enroll AT BURNHAM'S Than Any Other.

You owe it to your future to learn about the Burnham methods of training—the result of 67 years of knowing how to teach. Of how you're trained under ACTUAL BEAUTY SHOP CONDITIONS on living models under supervision of experts. Of how you not only become a skilled all-around operator but also an artistic Hair Stylist. Of how you're drilled in the psychology of pleasing selling customers. The reputation of our graduates for always being superbly trained and always profitable for the shop is why Burnham trained operators are in such demand, why we can place our graduates to such splendid advantage.

Only $5 Enrolls You
Complete Beauty Outfit Given If You Act Now.

Every future student who mails coupon below or who phones or visits school is eligible for splendid beauty kit without extra cost. Don't let lack of money hold you back. If you are in earnest you can practically write our own terms. Mail coupon below; phone or visit the school any weekday or any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday evening Night and day classes.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs let me start you in a profitable business of your own backed up by our prosperous company.

I am in control of the territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition, for which there is an ever-increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable, and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study, and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on percentage basis in a single day. And after they become experienced handling our business, receive a sizeable monthly income, not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly taught at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all expense of your business such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and, in addition to giving your merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as it has increased every month for the last 6 years, with 1938 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in the territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Monday, 1:30 p. m. only—no other time. Suite 400 Maryland Bldg., 841 E. 63d-street.

THE LARGEST MANUFACTURER OF business machine equipment in the world will interview salesmen for Chicago and suburbs. We are interested in talking to men between the ages of 25 and 35 who are willing to devote their time and energy in developing a career with our organization. It is necessary that you have the education and background with which to contact executives and owners of various concerns. If you qualify you will be given an exclusive territory and paid on a commission basis to start. We can offer permanency and a large income to those who can produce. Write for an interview, giving in detail your age, education, business experience, and personal references. Address P F 496, Tribune.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

WE NEED 1 OR 2
topnotch salesmen who ask more of business than their present job gives them.

The men we want are probably between the ages of 25 and 35 and are now successfully handling a job which does not give them the future possibilities which they feel necessary. Experience in our line or in sales work is not necessary, although it would be helpful. The company is a large national manufacturer which dominates its type of product in the grocery field and which has a long record of success behind it. The compensation of the men we employ will be on a straight salary basis. Our salesmen are notified of the appearance of this advertisement. Please give full details of age and business record in your letter.

THINGS COME

at Edgewater's two leading apartment hotels:

The CORONADO
ROSEMONT AT WINTHROP.
[Two blocks from the lake at 6300 N.]

The BRYN MAWR
KENMORE AT BRYN MAWR.
[One block from the lake at 5600 N.]

In the next few weeks you will be hunting for a new apartment home. As you well know, there are 1,001 items to keep in mind when selecting a location, a building and an apartment.

Realizing that your problem is a difficult one we have prepared a list for you to use when comparing the Bryn Mawr and Coronado with other hotels. After you look the field over we should like to talk to you about Hidden Values in our 1, 2 and 3 room apartments—those intangible things that vitally affect one's happiness in any apartment hotel.

The Bakke Yardstick
FOR MEASURING APT. STANDARDS.

1. Cleanliness: Does the final result satisfy your idea of cleanliness?
2. Floor plan of apartment: Is there sufficient space for your family?
3. Color harmony: Does each room represent a perfect color symphony?
4. Type of tenancy: Is it exclusive, restricted or just "character-comes-first"?
5. Service: Is it rendered with genuine interest rather than from a sense of duty?
6. Closet space: Is it ample?
7. Quality of Furnishings: What kind of linen, china, silverware, drapes, shower curtains, and carpets are offered?
8. Location of building: Is it near transportation, stores and Lake Michigan?
9. Location of apartment in building: Is it outside on a court?
10. Interior decorating: Does it represent the modern trend or is it nondescript?

If you appreciate a combination of beauty and values, and if first things also come first with you, you will enjoy living at either the Bryn Mawr or the Coronado.

Take a 12 Mile
Speed Cruise on WONDER
LAKE

Life begins at Wonder Lake! Things to do that set your blood atingling. Sailing into a spanking breeze under a summer moon. Motors roaring—open wide—in a speed boat that takes you places in a breathless hurry. Twelve miles of sparkling crystal clear water—yes, twelve miles —and that's a lot of water to play in and on for all the summers of your life.

There's something big—something breathtaking going on out here just 47 miles northwest of Chicago. While you've been putting off that trip to Wonder Lake, hundreds of discriminating families have found a new play place—a new interest in life—a new thrill in every waking moment—and nights that are as romantic as in far away Hawaii. They've built homes—charming, livable lovely homes that cost less than a new automobile, and with five years to pay the monthly cost isn't much more than cigarette money.

47 Miles from Chicago

We show you Wonder Lake from the water—in a big luxurious speed cruiser—see numerous sand beaches spaced a few hundred feet apart—see wooded islands that breathe of old Erin—see stately homes with trim sailing craft moored to their graceful piers—and realize that you, too, can become part of this highly restricted play place at a monthly cost so modest you'll smile and say—"Why have I waited so long."

Beautiful New LAKE HOMES
Complete with Lake Lot in Heavily Wooded Section—5 years to pay.

ASK
THE MAN OR WOMAN WHO NOW LIVES AT BEAUTIFUL
Howell Point
ON DIAMOND LAKE
They will tell you that this picturesque body of water, with its heavily wooded shoreline has been a natural deep spring fed lake since the beginning of time; that it is crystal clear, cold, and wonderful for swimming; that fishing is good and abounds with game fish of many varieties; that the lake affords all popular water sports like sailing, motor boating, canoeing, and rowing, that the sandy beaches at HOWELL POINT are safe for children and grownups; that HOWELL POINT as originally planned has all the appearances of a beautiful park with many permanent homes; with all roads beautified and all improvements complete and paid for and with many wooded homesites now ripe for building.
WHEN YOU VISIT SENSIBLY RESTRICTED HOWELL POINT
you will also find attractive boat houses, concrete sea walls, piers, lovely gardens, fruit trees, tennis court, and last but not lease a private beach, park and playground, reserved exclusively for use of present and future owners of HOWELL POINT homesites.

Select your location now—50x150 feet in size, more than twice the area offered on most lake developments around Chicagoland and yet at prices for choicest homesites so low they will surprise you.
DRIVE OUT TODAY.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

A Battle of Wits.

Aug. 20, 1938.

THE pheasants on the Tribune's Du Page county farm are playing a game with the workers in the test plots. The pheasants are very fond of ripening tomatoes and they try to get to the tomato plants before the boys can pick the vegetables.

The second test plot [which was established east of the large one, where many different kinds of plants are growing] is the scene of this game of wits. Although the boys go over the tomato plants every day they find the pheasants are quite apt to do a little raiding before they get there. Apparently a diet of waste grain and grasshoppers gets kind of monotonous to the pheasants, so they boldly invade the test plot and help themselves to the tomatoes. Another temptation to the birds is the sweet corn, which grows in long rows next to the tomato plants.

Crafty Birds, Indeed.

One of the boys showed us how the ringnecks are enjoying the corn. We saw a number of ears [not quite ripe] which the crafty pheasants had opened up and partially eaten. The birds peck away at the green leaves around the corn until they can reach the soft, milky kernels.

The plants in the large test plot are safe from these raiding parties. When we visited it this week we noticed lots of color and an abundance of vegetables, showing this has been a good growing season. The boys were sorting green beans, big tomatoes [some weighed more than half a pound], early bright yellow squash, and other products. The deep yellow blossoms of the pumpkins were extremely colorful.

The tallest sunflower growing on the farm is exactly 13 feet high. Many are 10 to 12 feet tall. Frank Bruggman of Deerfield, Ill., writes us that he also has a 13 footer in his garden and submits a small picture of himself and the plant to prove it.

When it comes to growth records a stalk of Mexican corn is this week's winner on the farm. This plant is an even 14 feet above the ground.

Weeds Kill Sheep.

The death of four sheep in two days had the flockmaster worried this week. He suspected poisonous plants and immediately went into the wooded pasture to locate the source. The sheep had been in this particular pasture for seven days before trouble developed. Then the flockmaster discovered two sheep that had died the same day. The following morning two more were found dead in the same pasture.

After hiking over the field and through the scrub oaks where the sheep are grazing the flockmaster thinks a growth of whorled milkweed is to blame. He noticed some of these plants had been nibbled by the sheep. One of the dead lambs was discovered just a few yards away.

The white egrets which have been visiting on the farm this season are rapidly making themselves at home among the waterfowl which live on the ponds. During the last two weeks two of these pure white birds have been staying with the swans, geese, and ducks. When they first came to the farm [along with four other egrets] they flew away as soon as the flockmaster rode down to the ponds to feed the birds. Now they consider themselves regular members of the flock and don't even leave the water when the flockmaster rides toward them.

New York.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN A FRUIT and all purpose farm located close to some of the best markets in the country, here is a real opportunity for you. We have for sale such a farm of 185 acres on the main highway about halfway between Rochester and Niagara Falls, N. Y., or approximately 40 miles to either city. It is in the heart of one of the best fruit belts in the United States and has a good bearing-age orchard in excellent condition of about 40 acres, consisting of 20 acres apples, and balance of peaches, cherries, pears and prunes. Soil is sandy and gravelly loam and ideal for grain and truck crops of all kinds. Being on a main highway, it is ideally located for the profitable operation of a roadside stand. There is a 14 room main dwelling of stone and frame and a tenant house. All modern conveniences. A gambrel roof barn. All buildings are in excellent condition. This farm is listed at $18,000, which is about one-third its former selling price, and for a limited time only we will allow a 15% discount off this price. Terms can be arranged if desired. Here is truly an opportunity of a life time. New York Joint Stock Land Bank, 311 Alexander-st., Rochester, N. Y.

MIDSUMMER BARGAINS.

Piano buyers: Consider this important advantage when you invest in a USED piano. If at any time within one year you decide that you prefer a BRAND NEW instrument, at Cable's you have the privilege of returning the used one and being credited with all you have paid in toward a new one on any one of seven nationally known makes: Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Knabe, Cable, Fischer, Gulbransen, and Estey. We believe that nowhere else in the country can so liberal a proposition on so many famous makes be found.

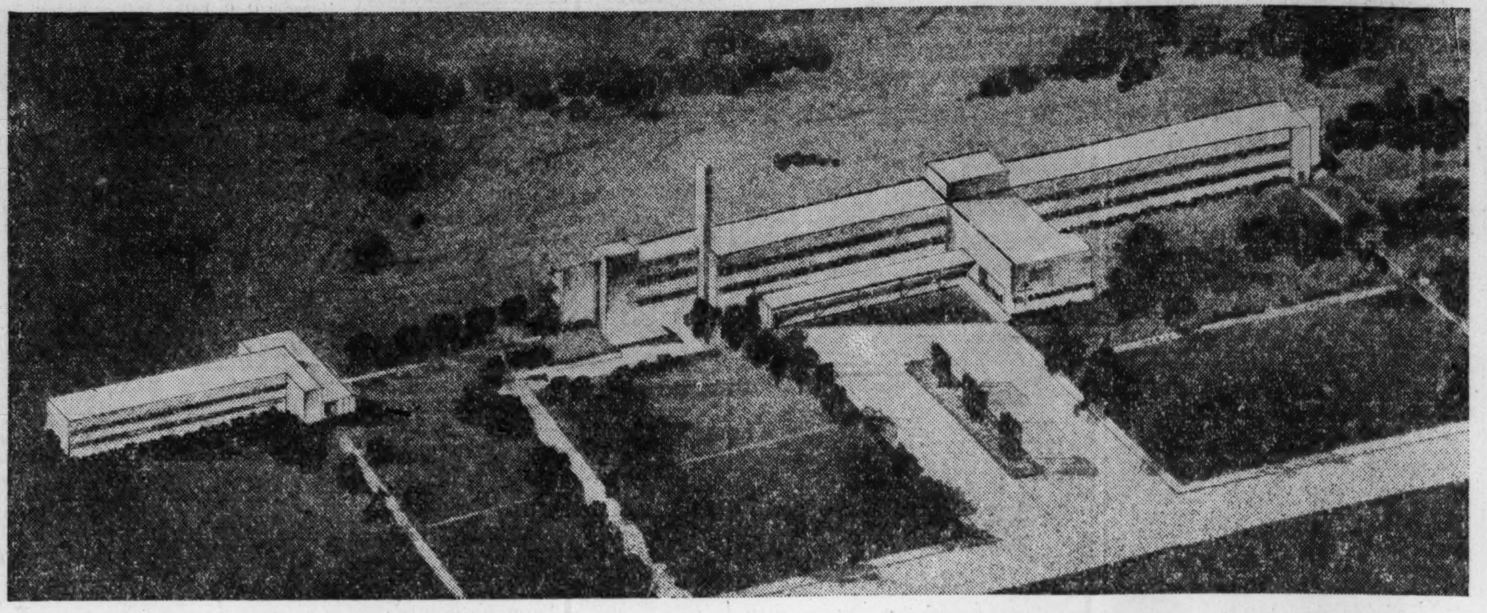
Lake County to Have $427,000 Tuberculosis Sanatorium on Twenty-two Acre Site

North Shore Public Health Center



The above $427,000 Lake county tuberculosis sanatorium will be erected on a twenty-two acre site on the north side of Belvidere road, one-quarter of a mile west of Lewis avenue. W. L. Pereira of Chicago is architect, with William A. Ganster of Waukegan as associate architect. Hal Pereira made the above sketch. Work is expected to begin within a month and completion is scheduled for eight months later.

FINANCING DONE AT RECORD LOW INTEREST RATE

Part of Cost Will Be Met by Federal Grant.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Lake county's new $427,000 tuberculosis sanatorium in Waukegan will be financed with a 1¾ per cent bond issue, said to be the cheapest money ever supplied for construction of any kind in that area. Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago have underwritten a $240,000 bond issue with $30,000 annual payments starting in September, 1940.

Dr. Theodore Proxmire.
[Moffett Photo.]

Construction of the sanitorium, nurses' homes and physicians' residence will be started within a month. The buildings will be on a twenty-two acre tract on the north side of Belvidere road, one-quarter of a mile west of Lewis avenue. The main unit occupies the highest point of land in Waukegan.

Beds for 92 Patients.

The new sanatorium will house ninety-two patients and will offer free occupancy, nursing, medicine, and medical attendance to tubercular cases of Lake county.

The project will be partly financed with a Public Works administration grant of $193,091. The remaining funds will be raised through the bond issue and a tax levy. Provision for floating such bonds was made several months ago by a special act of the state legislature.

The institution will be maintained through a tax levy not exceeding 15 cents on $100 property valuation approved by county voters in November, 1936. The levy will be made for ten years.

Wards All Face South.

The main sanatorium building, two stories high, will be 360 feet long and forty feet wide. All of the four bed wards will be on the south side of the building with a balcony opening off each. The south wall of each ward will be of glass.

Instead of the customary dumbwaiter system of individual meal servings, food will be distributed in heated tray carts capable of carrying forty to fifty meals at one time.

The buildings were designed by W. L. Pereira of Chicago, with William A. Ganster of Waukegan, as associate architect. They all will be of monolithic concrete. The main unit will be one of the longest poured concrete jobs in the country.

Pay $14,300 for Site.

The site for the institution was bought last March for $10,000 by the county, which assumed all unpaid general taxes and instalments on special assessments against the property. The delinquent levies to be paid amount to $4,300, bringing the total purchase price to $14,300.

The sanatorium is being planned and administered by a committee appointed by the Lake County board of supervisors, composed of Dr. Theodore Proxmire of Lake Forest, chairman; James F. Stiles Jr., vice president and treasurer of the Abbott Laboratories, and Victor O. Woertz of Waukegan. Dr. Charles K. Petter, fellow of the American College of Surgeons, is medical director. He formerly held that office in the Glen Lake Sanatorium of Minnesota.

Build 5 Homes in Lake Bluff; Two Are Sold

For the first time in ten years a group home building program is under way in Lake Bluff. E. T. Harlan, realtor and builder, has five residences under construction, all of which are expected to be completed by Oct. 1. Two of the homes already are sold. Three units are in Briar lane, one in Woodland road, and one in Witchwood lane. One has five rooms, three have six rooms each, and one has eight rooms.

A six room house at 360 Woodland road, of common brick painted white, on a 60 by 150 foot lot, was sold for a reported $9,500 complete to Al Martin of the Masonite corporation. Construction costs were $8,500, according to Harlan.

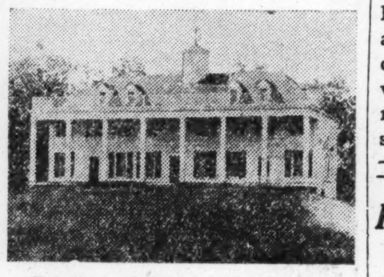
Another six room brick home, at 309 Briar lane, was sold to Edward Burkill of the real estate loan department, First National bank, Chicago. This also sold for $9,500. Both were financed with Federal Housing administration insured mortgages.

All five units are of colonial design. Harlan has been in the real estate and building business in Lake Bluff for fifteen years.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS 'MOUNT VERNON' TO BE MADE INTO A TEA ROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Rassett yesterday bought the replica of Mount Vernon, one of the units in the Colonial village at A Century of Progress and now at Beverly Shores. The new owners will remodel the interior into a colonial tea room and hotel with thirty guest rooms. Employés will wear colonial period livery and powdered wigs. The project is scheduled for early spring completion at a total estimated cost of $25,000.

The building and site of approximately one acre at the northwest corner of Derby and Warwick avenues were sold by the Robert Bartlett Realty company, owners and developers of Beverly Shores, for an undisclosed price.



Replica of Mount Vernon at Beverly Shores.

Mount Vernon is one of the ten World's Fair Colonial village buildings purchased by the Bartlett firm and moved to the south shore community after A Century of Progress closed its gates. Others include the Governor's mansion, Paul Revere's home, the Wayside inn, the Virginia tavern, the House of Seven Gables, the Benjamin Franklin house, Wakefield, and Old North church.

At the same time Bartlett bought six modern homes shown at the fair and brought them by barge to Beverly Shores, where they are now permanently located on landscaped sites.

Aurora Real Estate Firm Reports Two Farm Sales

The Northern Illinois Realty Service of Aurora closed two sales of farms recently. Harold L. Beamish, Aurora attorney, bought 137 acres near Sugar Grove, and Ralph H. Cole of Washington, D. C., purchased 176 acres west of Aurora. The firm reports more inquiries for farms in the last thirty days than for the last ten years, both from farmers and city investors.

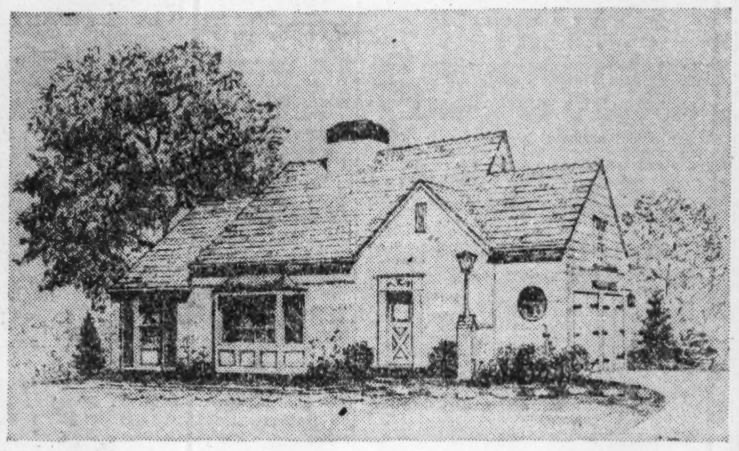
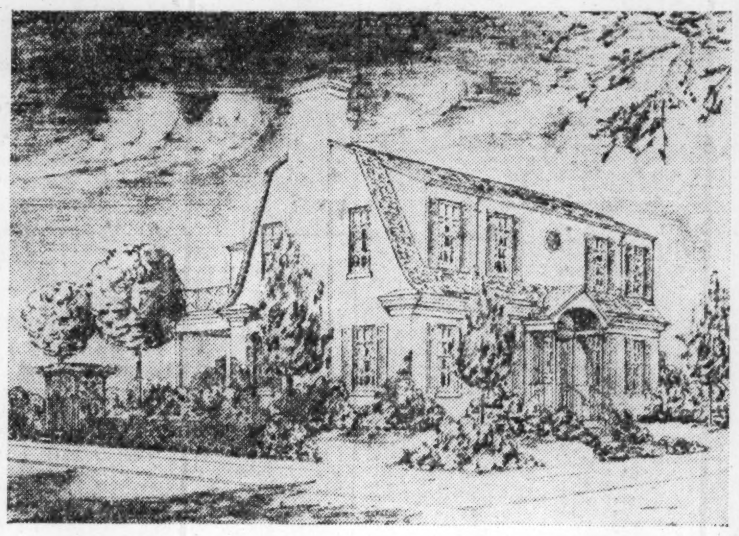
Completed at Northfield



This house, designed and recently built by J. H. Marling, 120 South La Salle street, is owned by Mrs. W. H. Johnson. It occupies a 76 by 165 foot lot at the southeast corner of 73d court and Glen Oak drive, in Glen Oak Acres, Northfield. It cost a reported $8,500 without the lot. Walls are of solid brick, painted white. There are five rooms and one bath on the first floor. On the second floor are two unfinished rooms and bath. A two car garage is attached. The living room is 23 by 16 feet, with a large wood burning fireplace.

Two Flats Camouflaged as House



A two flat building, which looks from the outside like a Dutch colonial single family residence, is being built at the southeast corner of Christiana and Thorndale avenues by Ervin F. Baur of 842 Waveland avenue, who is both owner and architect. Sederberg & Storgaard are the contractors. All exterior walls will be of deep buff colored cement brick, with shutters and trim in white. A two story high vestibule with an open staircase gives an impression of a spacious residential stair hall. The owner will occupy one of the five room suites. Completion is set for Nov. 1.

PLAN EXHIBIT OF NORTH SIDE LARGER FLATS

In an attempt to stimulate interest in the larger and more expensive apartments a group of real estate firms will sponsor an exhibit on the ground floor of 644 North Michigan avenue beginning next Saturday and continuing for one month. Illustrated displays of the various buildings operated by the different firms will be placed on the walls.

It is expected that all of the larger apartment buildings in the Lake View and near north side areas will be represented with floor plans and pictures. Baird & Warner, who originated the plan, said that practically all firms operating in the areas to be covered are coöperating in the exhibit. It will be kept open evenings and Sundays.

WEST MADISON STREET LEASE.

The estate of Adeline F. Sharpe has rented the store, second floor and basement at 361-63 West Madison to an undisclosed lessee for a tavern and restaurant. The Mark Levy Realty company was broker.

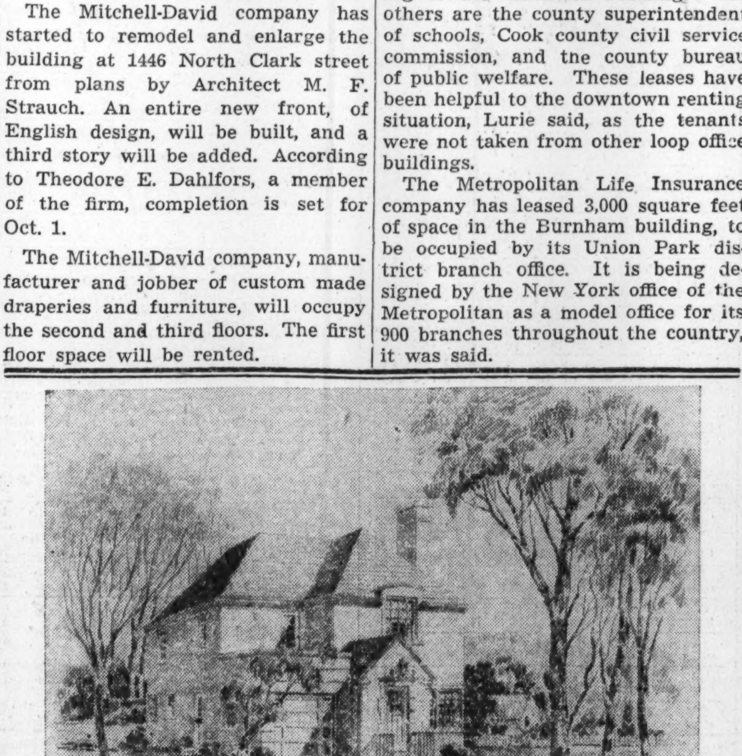
MITCHELL-DAVID REBUILDS NORTH SIDE BUILDING

The Mitchell-David company has started to remodel and enlarge the building at 1446 North Clark street from plans by Architect M. F. Strauch. An entire new front, of English design, will be built, and a third story will be added. According to Theodore E. Dahlfors, a member of the firm, completion is set for Oct. 1.

The Mitchell-David company, manufacturer and jobber of custom made draperies and furniture, will occupy the second and third floors. The first floor space will be rented.



LUXURY, COMFORT, SECURITY AT $84 A MONTH

At 511 Mayfair Road, Scarsdale, Arlington Heights, W. C. Tackett, Inc., 75 E. Wacker Drive, have just completed this lovely French Colonial house, which will be open for inspection today and every day until sold. This attractive house, of face brick, has six large rooms, attached heated garage, 1½ baths, paneled recreation room with tile floor, upholstered breakfast nook, Sunbeam Air Conditioning, screened porch, tile bath, two sun decks, Kohler of Kohler plumbing fixtures, bronze screens, shades, electric heater in bathroom, ventilating fan and electric clock in kitchen, and is built on a lot 50x152, completely landscaped. All street assessments and financing charges are paid. DIRECTIONS—Drive out Northwest Highway, Route 14, to Arlington Heights. Turn left at first stoplight entering town 5 blocks to Scarsdale.

Two-Thirds of Granville Suites Rented

Two-thirds of the 196 units in the Granville Garden apartments, now nearing completion at the northwest corner of Hoyne and Granville avenues, have been rented. According to Ferd Kramer, vice president of Draper & Kramer, managers of the property, 129 suites were leased for fall occupancy in less than two months.

"All the work in ninety-eight apartments in the seven buildings surrounding the south gardens," Kramer said, "will be completed during the coming week, with the exception of the actual connection of heating equipment.

One Month Ahead of Schedule.

"All decorating, including painting and enameling, has been finished in these ninety-eight units and on Wednesday a large crew of electricians commenced installing lighting fixtures. They have worked at the rate of one building per day and will finish the seventh building by the middle of this week.

"Work on this first privately financed development of its kind in nine years is actually being completed a full month in advance of the date originally scheduled. The laying of oak and tile floors throughout the entire 196 units has now been completed. Landscaping of the two large gardens has commenced.

Rented from Blueprints.

"One-third of the apartments were rented from blueprints during a single month. By that time work on the building had progressed to a point where visitors could get an idea of what the finished units would be like. In less than a month another third were rented."

Two apartments have been furnished and are open to the public as model suites. On the day these flats were opened more than 4,000 persons visited the building. The project was financed with a Federal Housing administration $750,000 insured mortgage underwritten by Dovenmuehle, Inc. Rissman & Hirschfeld are the architects.

FOURTH COUNTY OFFICE RENTS BURNHAM SPACE

With the leasing of 12,000 square feet to the county auditor, Lee Howard, the Burnham building is now 96 per cent occupied, according to the George S. Lurie company, building manager.

Because of the county's need for additional courtrooms and the shortage of space, this is the fourth office to be moved from the county building to the Burnham building. The others are the county superintendent of schools, Cook county civil service commission, and the county bureau of public welfare. These leases have been helpful to the downtown renting situation, Lurie said, as the tenants were not taken from other loop office buildings.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has leased 3,000 square feet of space in the Burnham building, to be occupied by its Union Park district branch office. It is being designed by the New York office of the Metropolitan as a model office for its 900 branches throughout the country, it was said.

7 CHICAGOANS ARE AWARDED TITLE 'C. P. M.'

Realty Management Body Gives Names.

Seven Chicagoans appear in a list of first property managers of the country to win the new title "C. P. M."—certified property manager, from the Institute of Real Estate Management. They are Fred M. Lorish of Swan, Lorish & Caspers, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board; Charles William Ehrat, executive vice president of Wirtz, Haynie & Ehrat, Inc., and James C. Downs Jr., president of Downs, Mohl & Co.; Arthur Bohnen, president of Arthur Bohnen, Inc.; Henry T. Holsman, president Parker-Holsman Co.; John H. Hagerty and Kendall Cady, secretary of Downs, Mohl & Co.

Fred M. Lorish.

Title Adopted Recently.

The title Certified Property Manager was adopted a few months ago to indicate persons who have met the requirements for individual membership in the Institute of Real Estate Management, created by the National Association of Real Estate Boards to improve conditions in the property management field.

It may be conferred only upon careful establishment of the candidate's experience and business standing, and his "knowledge of and ability methodically and analytically to create and execute management programs for typical properties." Candidates must subscribe to the institute's standards of practice and its official pledge.

Place Honesty First.

The professional pledge of the C. P. M. is as follows: "I pledge myself to place honesty and thorough work above all else in my administration of real property; to render complete, thorough, and honest service to landlord and tenant alike regardless of monetary consideration; to use my best talents at all times to preserve and maintain the value of properties under my charge and to give devoted attention to the safety and comfort of tenants of these properties."

Announcement of real estate managers over the country who are the first to win the new title "C. P. M." is made through publication of the first roster of certified property managers in the current issue of the Journal of Real Estate Management, technical quarterly publication of the institute.

CITY'S OLDEST GROCERS WILL MOVE; MAY BUILD

Instead of leasing a building and then making it public that they intended to move, the Durand-McNeil-Horner company, Chicago's oldest wholesale grocers, yesterday reversed the usual procedure. They announced that although a location has not yet been selected, the concern will move shortly.

Established in 1842 as Henry Horner & Co., the concern has occupied only three different locations in the last ninety-six years. It now is in a seven story building at 301 East Grand avenue, containing 200,000 square feet. According to a company executive, it is believed operations can be handled more efficiently and economically in a one, two or three story building.

The company has several locations in view and also is considering erection of a new building particularly designed to meet its requirements.

Railway Express Agency Rents Champlain Space

The Railway Express agency, whose city office has been on East Randolph street for many years, yesterday leased the store at 64 East Monroe street, in the Champlain building. The premises are to be reconstructed to meet their particular requirements, for Oct. 1 occupancy. Milman & Morphett are the architects. W. H. Ames of Aldis & Co. was broker.

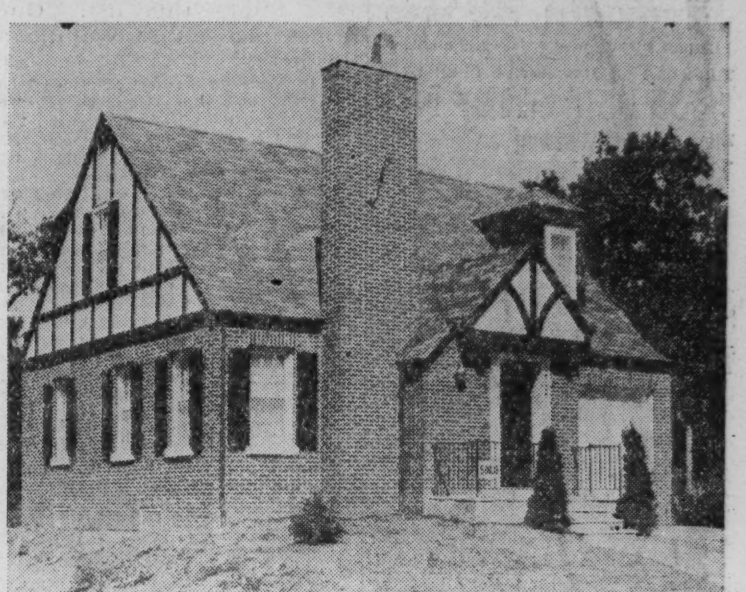
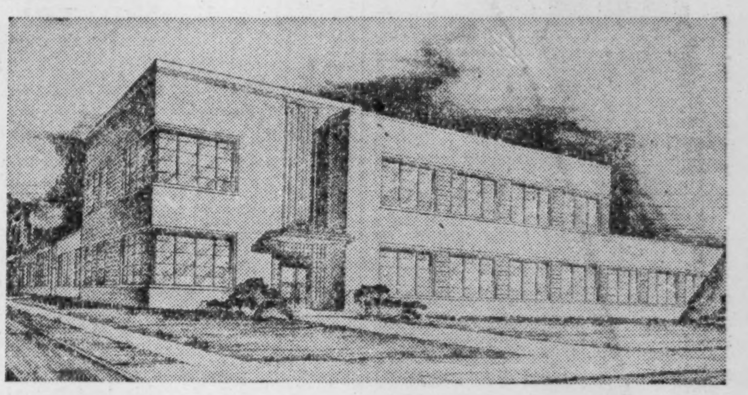
One of Elmwood Park Group



This is one of the first group of four houses erected by John S. Clark in his Green Oaks Forest development in Elmwood Park, adjoining the Oak Park Country club on the east. Seven more are under contract for immediate construction. Thirty-two more units will be built later, Clark said. George Gibson of the Cummins Diesel Sales and Service of Illinois bought the house at 2124 North 77th court for $6,800. The 40 foot lot cost $1,000. The house has five rooms and attached garage with a gas fired hot water heating system. The walls are of solid face brick on all sides. It was designed by the National Plan service.

New Northwest Side Factory



Skilsaw, Inc., maker of portable electric saws, drills and other tools, is building the above factory at the southeast corner of Elston and Winnemac avenues, at a reported cost of $120,000. The Austin company is architect, engineer and builder. Details are given in another column on this page.

LOOP SKYSCRAPER APARTMENTS ARE NOW 100% OCCUPIED

One hundred per cent occupancy for the Skyline apartments in the 188 West Randolph building was reported yesterday by Fred M. Lorish of Swan, Lorish & Caspers, Inc. This record was attained thirty days after completion of a modernization program of the suites which extend from the thirty-first to the forty-third floors of the former Steuben building at Randolph and Wells.

The Skyline apartments are a group of forty-one furnished apartments in combinations of one to three rooms with hotel service, built atop a twenty-one story office building. Many have kitchenette facilities. They are served by private express elevators.

As a means of assuring a stable clientele, the management has accepted tenants only on a term lease basis. In this way, Lorish said, irresponsible elements that might have been attracted by transient occupancy have been ruled out. Instead, many professional people have found the arrangement to their liking, he said. Swan, Lorish & Caspers are rental agents for Highview Apartments, Inc., operators of the project.

SKILSAW BUILDS A $120,000 PLANT IN ELSTON AVE.

Work is under way on a $120,000 one and two story plant at the southeast corner of Elston and Winnemac avenues by Skilsaw, Inc., manufacturers of portable electric tools. The concern, now at 3310 Elston avenue, will move into its new plant in October according to J. W. Sullivan, president.

The irregular shaped site of the new plant fronts 160 feet on Elston and 460 feet on Winnemac, and contains about 80,000 square feet. It was bought six months ago from the Barber Construction company for $20,000 cash according to Sullivan. The new building will contain 40,000 square feet of floor space. The office section will be air conditioned. The Austin company is architect and builder.

Skilsaw, Inc., was started in 1922 in two rooms at St. Clair street and Grand avenue by Sullivan and one employé. The company now employs 100 men. Bolton Sullivan, son of the president, is secretary and treasurer. E. W. Ristau is vice president.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

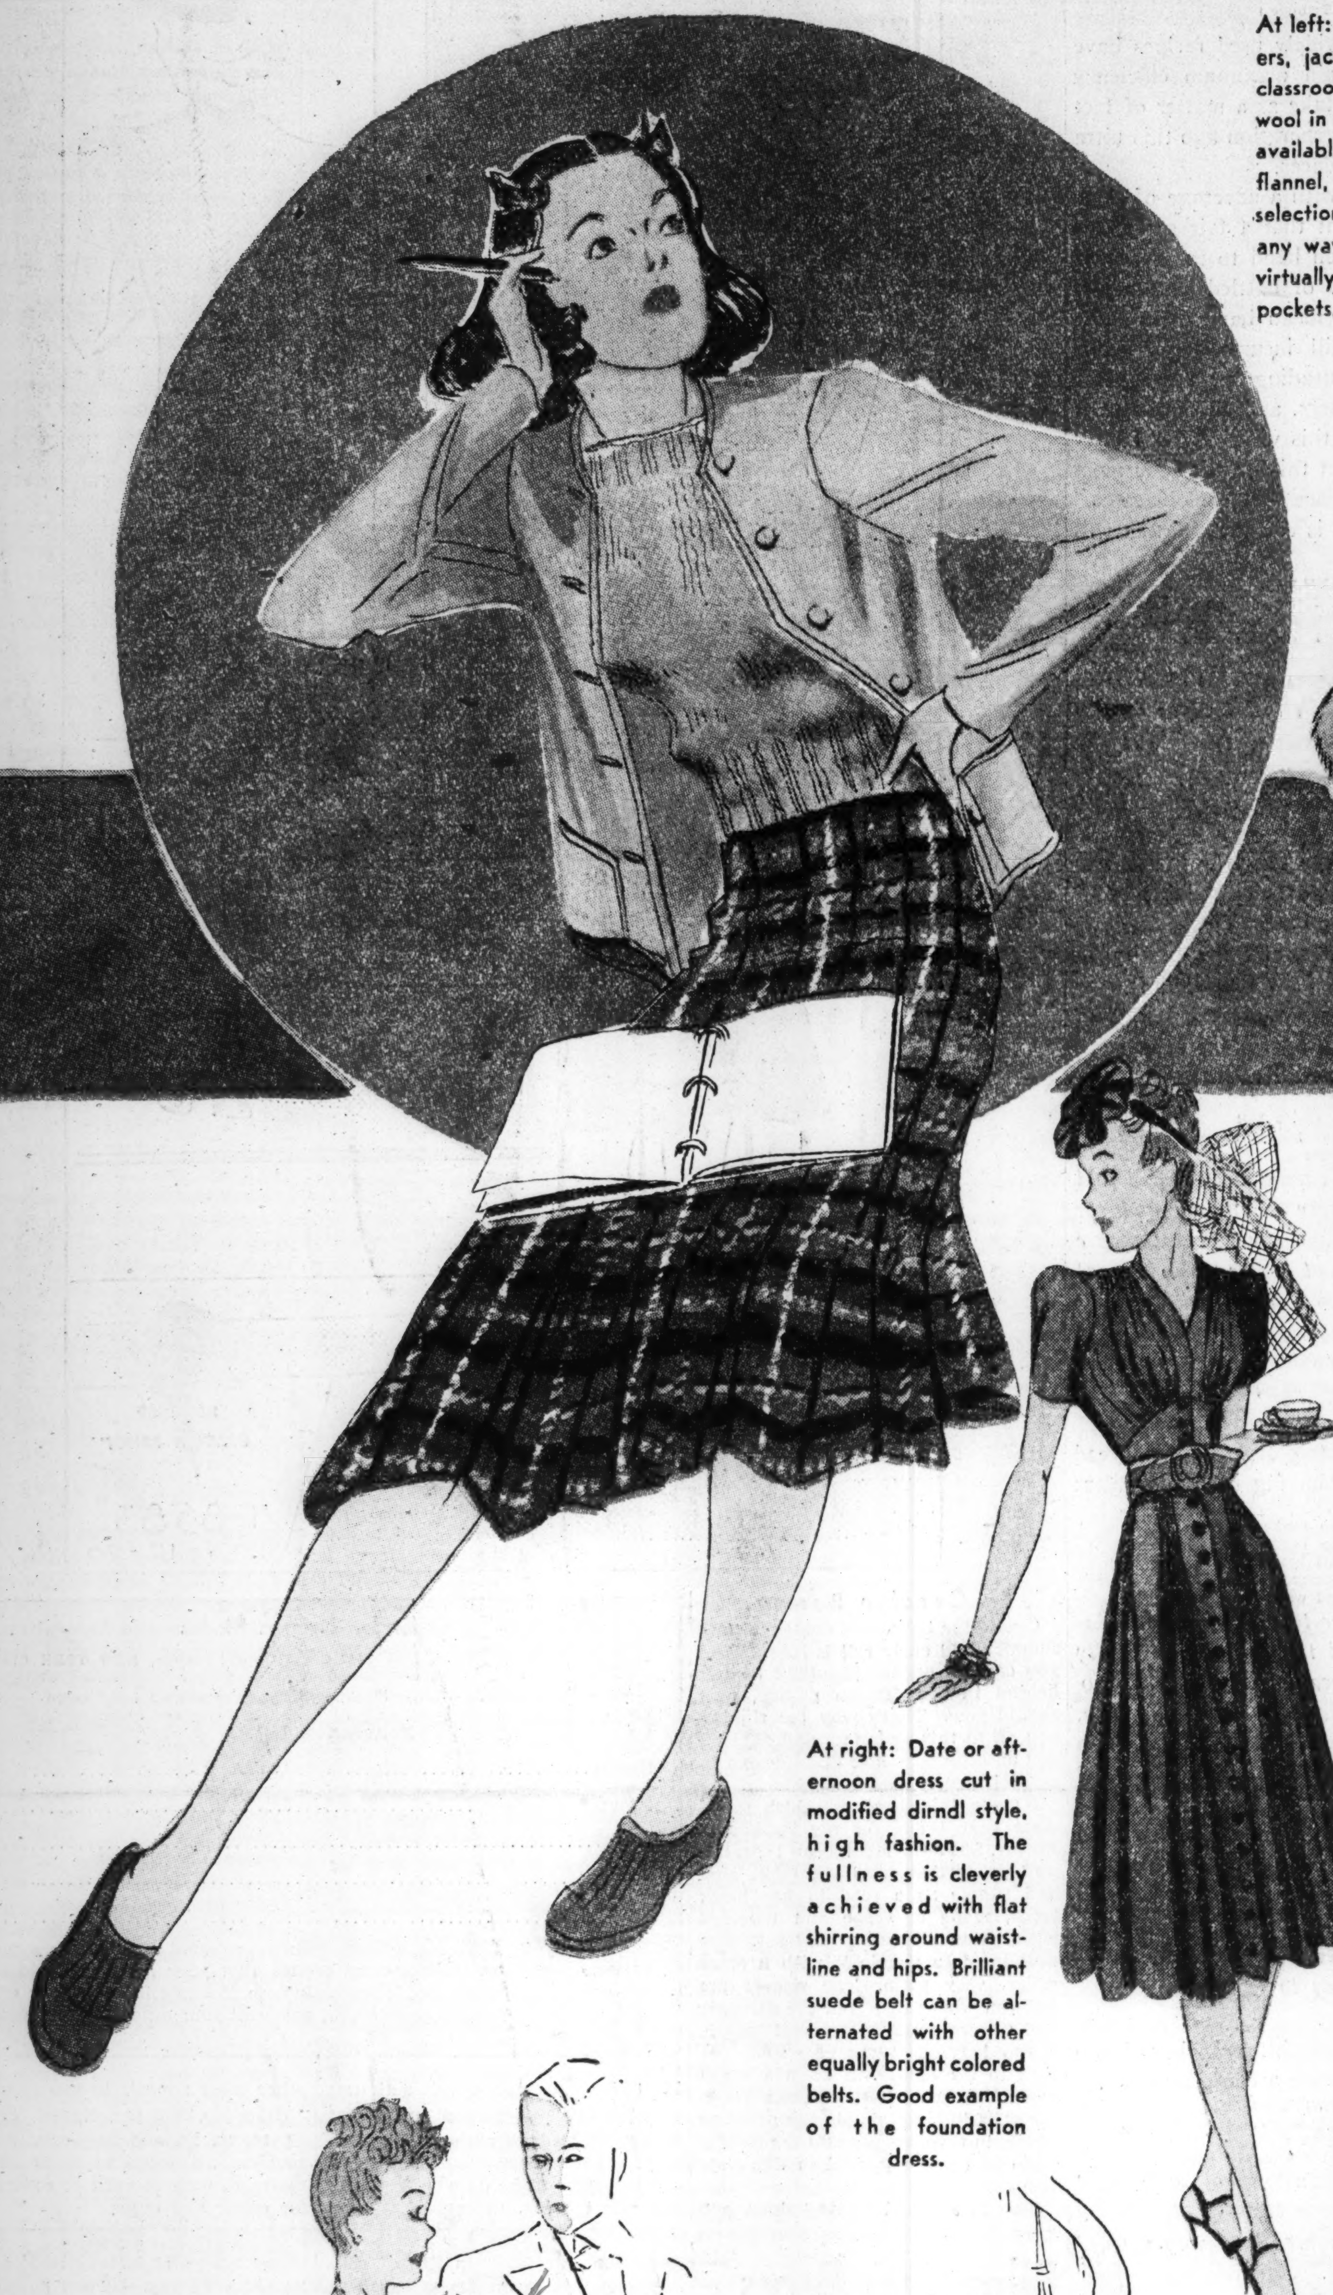
Part 6 Women's Features

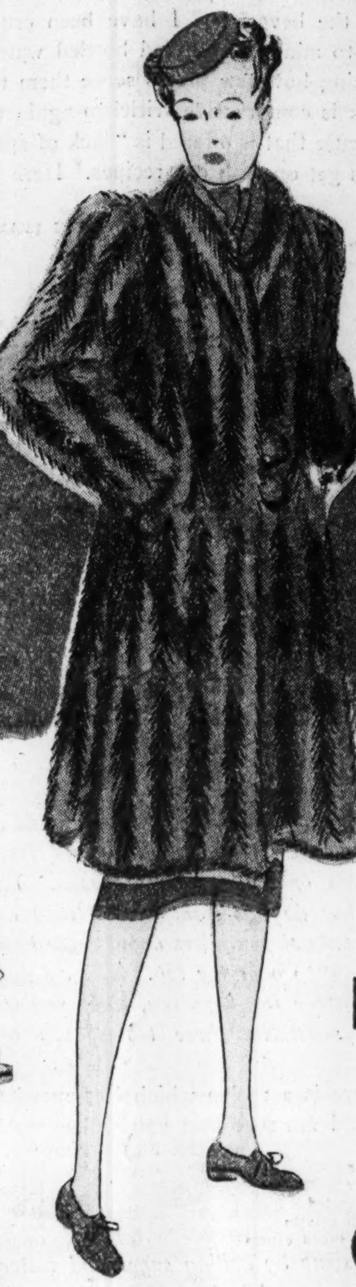
AUGUST 21, 1938

At left: College "must." The inseparables, sweaters, jackets, and skirts, comprise the campus and classroom classics. Here the skirt is of vivid plaid wool in a plaited-all-the-way-around model. Others available in gored and flared cuts and in smooth flannel, in pastels and bright colors. The sweater selections are legion, and you mix and match them any way you choose. The chamois jacket is soft, virtually a windbreaker, and has a fitted streamline, pockets, and a belt. Available in other fabrics.

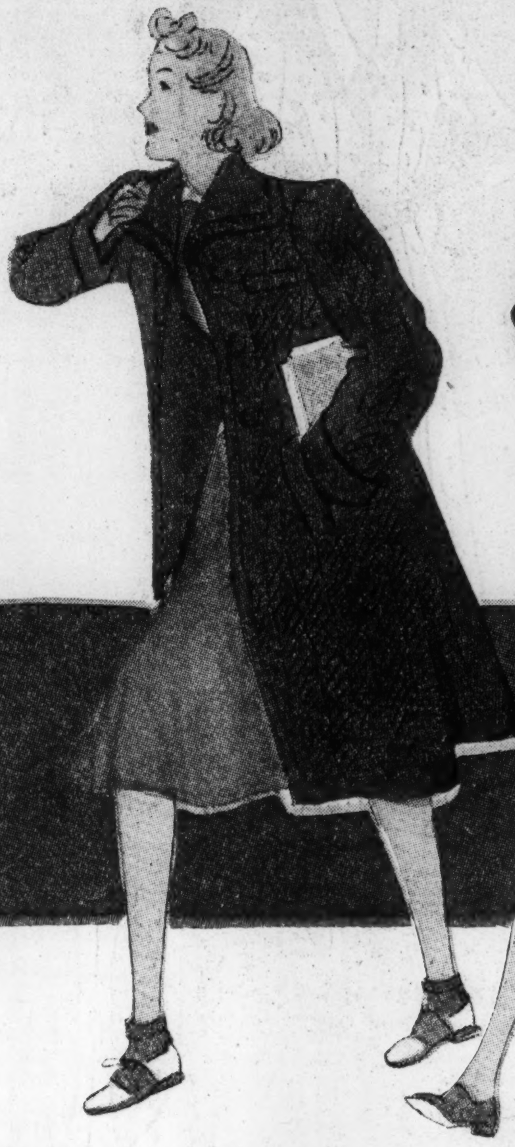
Below: A dark colored tweed topcoat, without which no wardrobe is complete. It may be worn with the suit or with sheer wools or sweater and skirt combines.

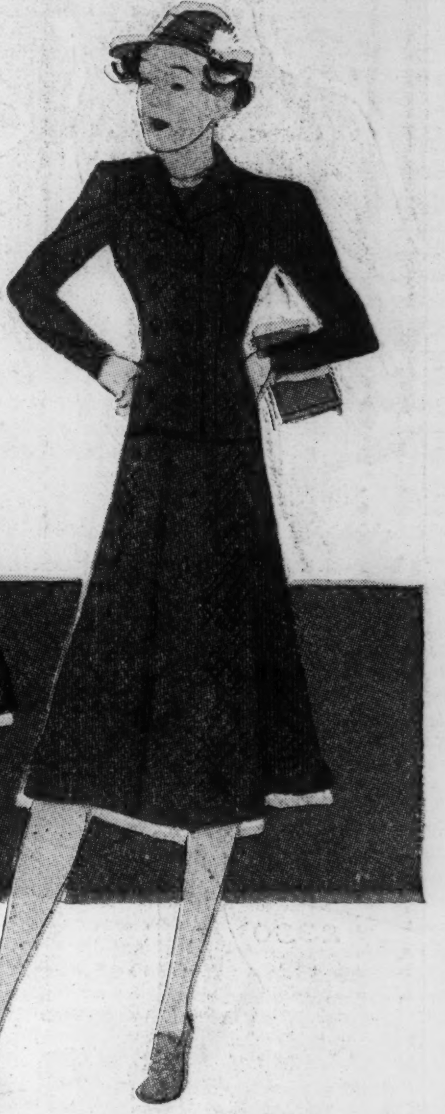
Below: The suit that looks like a smart two-piece dress because of the extremely high neckline of the rib-hugging jacket. Four-gored skirt is smartly flared.





At left: This is a buy. It's of mink-dyed muskrat, fashioned just like a fabulously expensive mink coat. The price mark will stun you, it's so modest. It's the kind of a fur coat you can wear daytime as well as evenings.





At right: Date or afternoon dress cut in modified dirndl style, high fashion. The fullness is cleverly achieved with flat shirring around waistline and hips. Brilliant suede belt can be alternated with other equally bright colored belts. Good example of the foundation dress.

Latest Clothes to Grace Campus Scene Are Dazzling, yet Suit Coed's Budget

By RHEA SEEGER

OPTIMISTIC buyers and the usual swarm of determined young shoppers with or without parents meet during the stickiest days of a fast-fading summer season to assemble college wardrobes, a shopping binge worthy of all the fanfare, all the dazzling adjectives known to a nonpartisan fashion sleuth. For college fashions are made in a twinkle of an eye. Reputations for the next few years are planned and made possible by the scrupulous diligence of the first-year coed out to make a good impression.

Clothes, suitable clothes, for the first year of the four-year campus life are hung about the various college shops in every store and shop.

Clothes for modest budgets, sky-is-the-limit allowances, and the moderately priced assortments all are assembled in one particular room or section for the convenience of the mob of critical college freshmen and their more than a little bewildered parents. Nothing is left to guesswork. For weeks scouts have invaded all the important large and small campuses all over the country. Whims, fancies, fads, and fashions for fun, together with the sturdy necessities, all have been appraised, rated, brought within the collections.

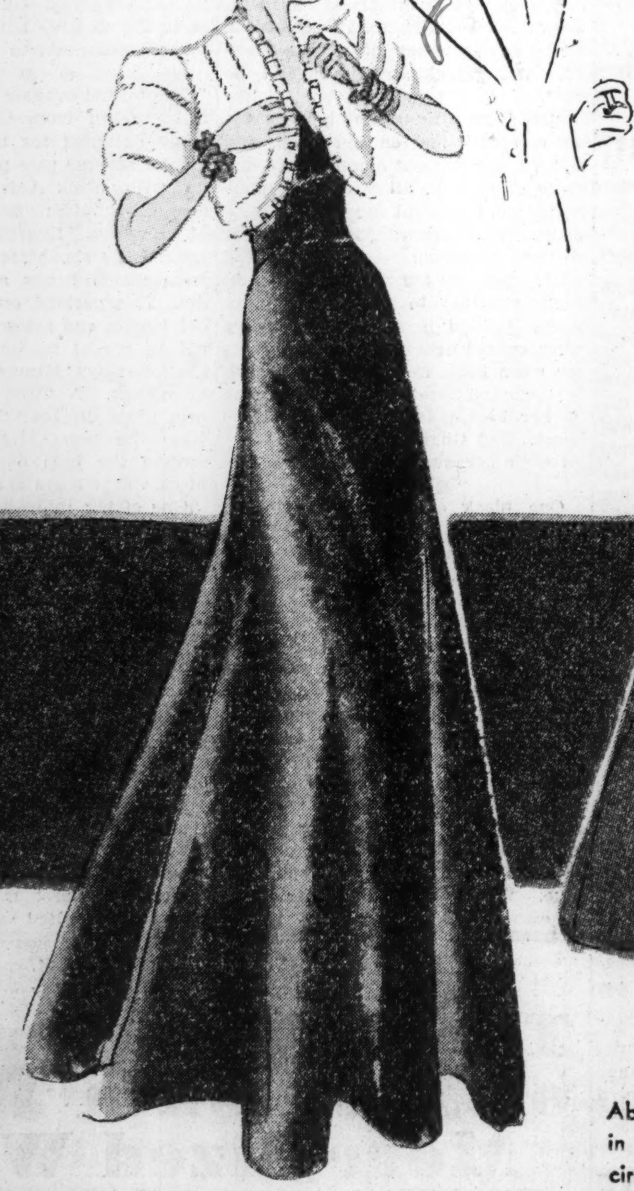
If you are planning on the next four years completely sunk with your own sex from Monday until Friday, or if you're going to a college with a masculine public to impress, expert counselers advise caution, then give final approval.

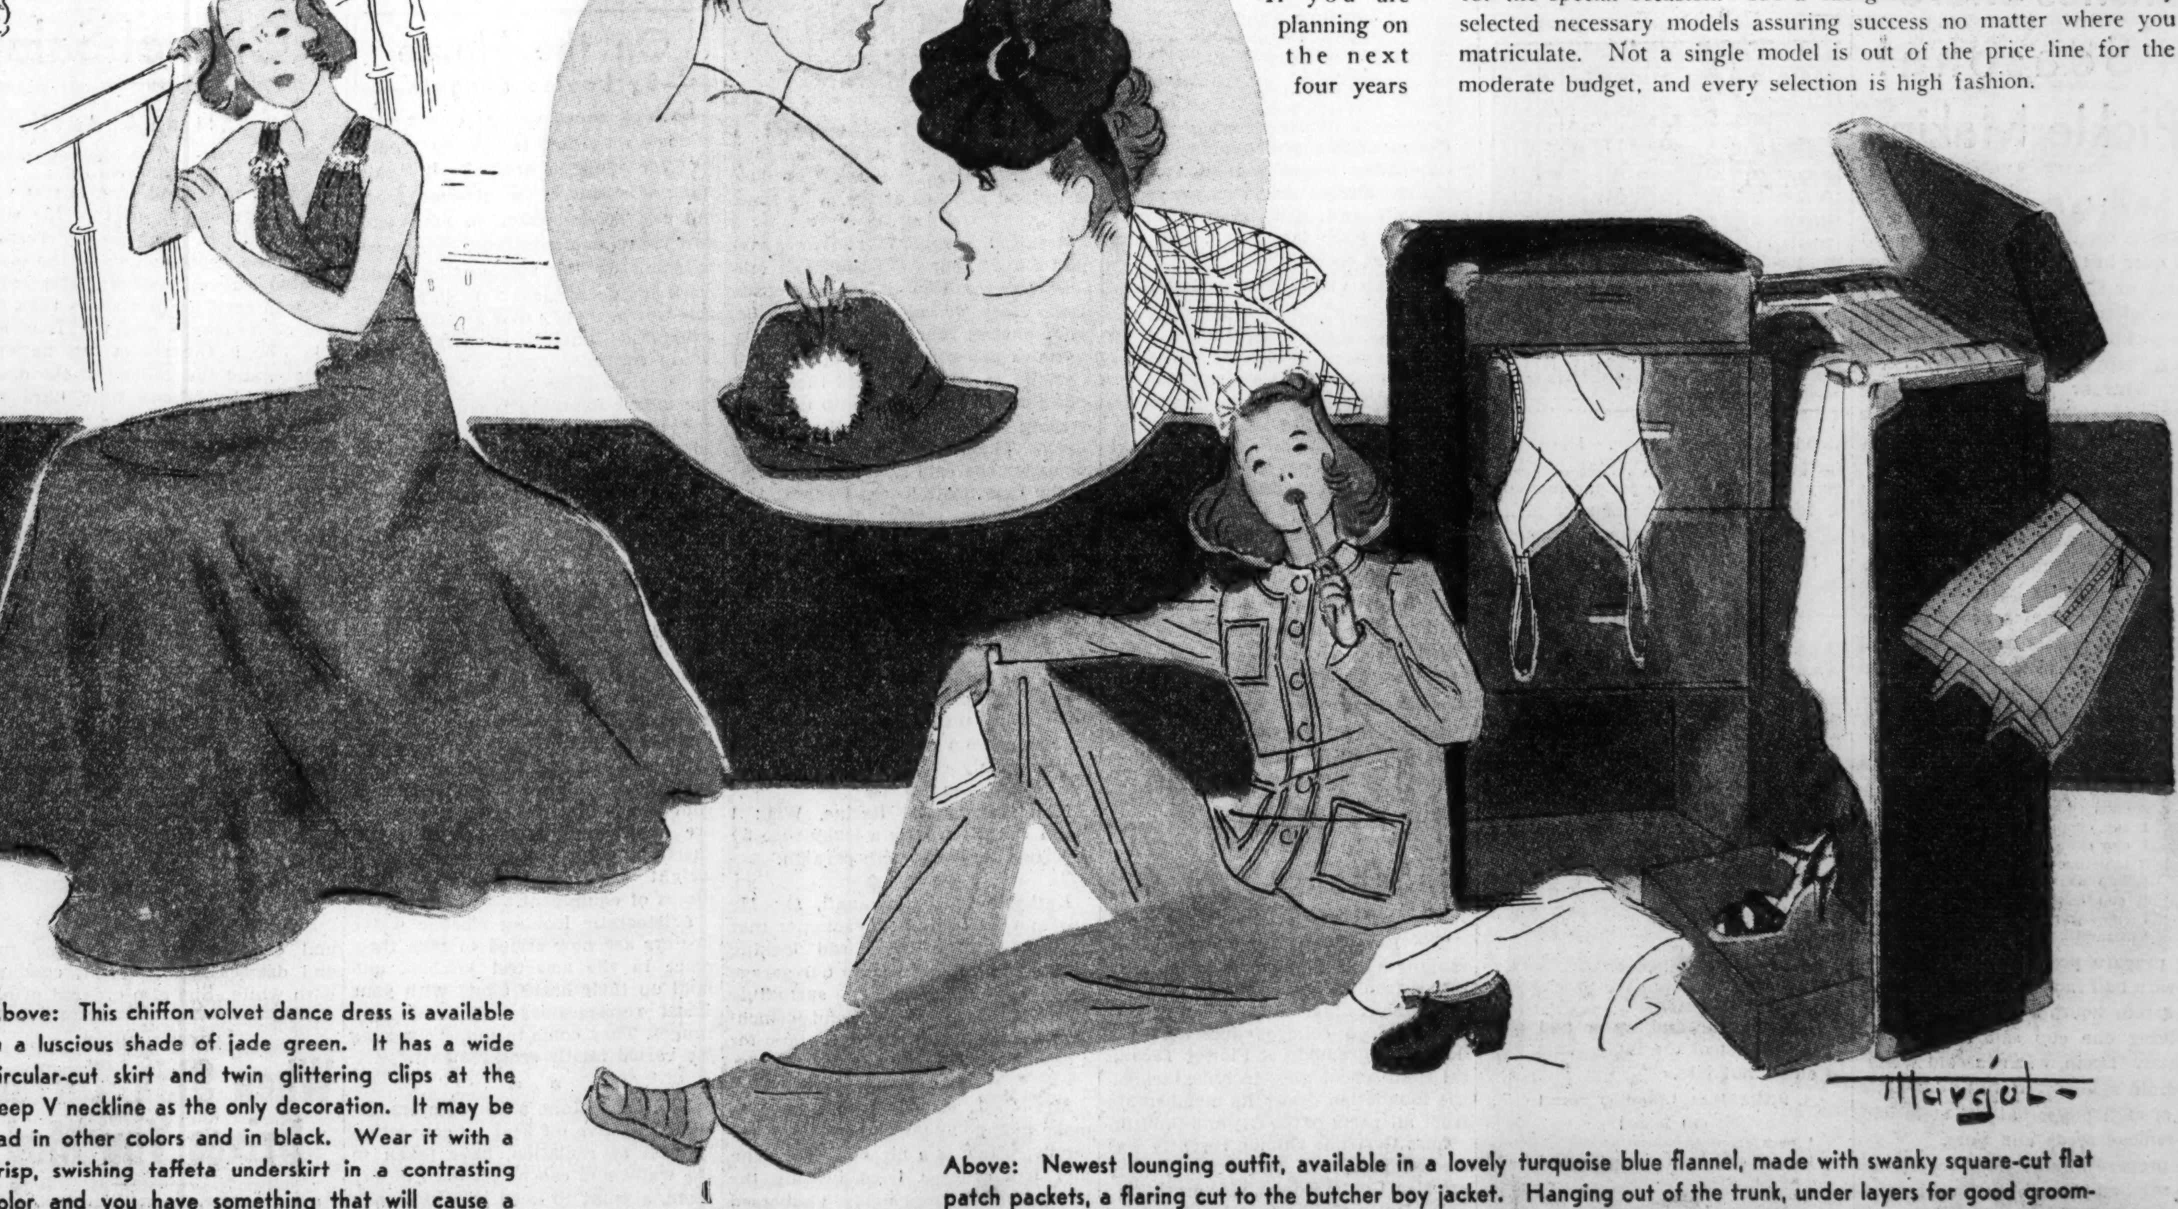
There's little if any enthusiasm for head handkerchiefs this fall. The rage was sizzling while it lasted, but it's history now. Likewise the sloppy manner of dressing and the terrifically flat footgear. Sweaters and skirts tie for popularity with the snappy fitted jackets and skirts. Some of both answer the important question of what to pack. Skirts and sweaters, skirts and jackets provide the almost universal uniform for campus and classroom wear, with simple but smart one-piece dresses in thinnish wool as alternatives. These dresses are brilliant examples of smart simplicity achieved with brightly colored fabrics, plaited skirts, clever tops trimmed with pockets and bands, flashing belts and amusing buttons. Plaids and vivid checks make them particularly good outfits to wear under plain topcoats and later in the season under fur coats.

• • •

No wardrobe is finished without a supersmart topcoat. The favorites are of contrasting colored tweeds that take any amount of daily punishment. Some are sold in a threesome arrangement with a two-piece suit; others are swagger numbers faultlessly tailored and interlined so that they can be worn all winter long.

Sketched is a 1938 college wardrobe, a general all-purpose outfit assembled for the shopper with a moderate amount to spend. Costume accessories add and subdue to dress each item up or down for the special occasion. It's a background outfit, with carefully selected necessary models assuring success no matter where you matriculate. Not a single model is out of the price line for the moderate budget, and every selection is high fashion.



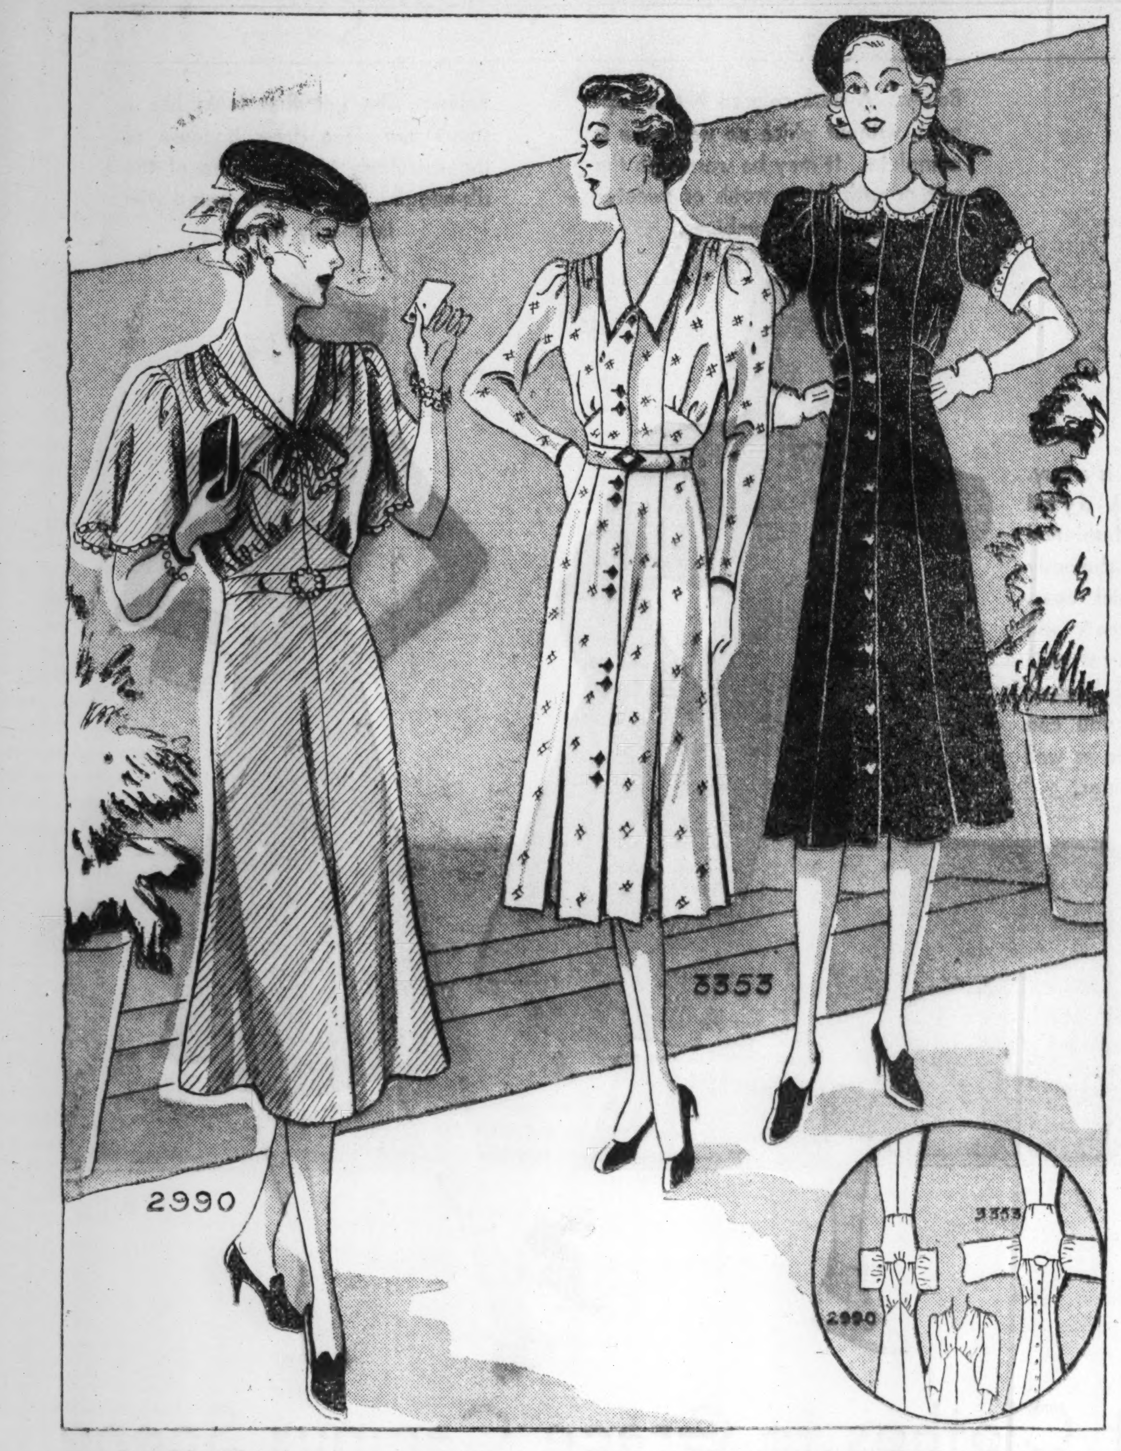


Above: Here is a lot for the money, a dinner dress of dark velvet with a snappy little short-sleeved bolero of light lapin, cut and worked like ermine. The dress and jacket may be divided and worn with other coats and dresses, as you already may have surmised. This is the type of dress that always is a good buy. You can wear it in a wide variety of ways all season.

Above: This chiffon volvet dance dress is available in a luscious shade of jade green. It has a wide circular-cut skirt and twin glittering clips at the deep V neckline as the only decoration. It may be had in other colors and in black. Wear it with a crisp, swishing taffeta underskirt in a contrasting color and you have something that will cause a trafic tie-up in the stag line at your best parties. If you are anticipating a masculine audience to impress, this dress is a sure-fire find.

Above: Newest lounging outfit, available in a lovely turquoise blue flannel, made with swanky square-cut flat patch packets, a flaring cut to the butcher boy jacket. Hanging out of the trunk, under layers for good grooming. A girdle of satin and lastex, boneless and easy to wear. Costume slip with fitted "bra" top. Footgear in two numbers, the smart campus oxfords or walking brogues made of suede combined with alligator, and dancing sandals that are high of heel, simple in outline. The three hats are only a hint of what you'll find.

Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

Our pattern offering today consists of a duet of frocks that will serve you well now, in the midseason, and also will do fashionable duty during the initial period of autumn.

The frock at the left, No. 2990, is one that will appeal to misses and matrons alike, but especially to the latter, since its slenderizing lines are flattering to those who have the overweight problem. There is a soft rolled collar ending in a feminine bow. Both are trimmed with edging, the same that finishes the flowing sleeves. The bodice is softened by shirring originating in shoulder seams and waistline. The latter is pointed up into the bodice, creating an especially long line for the skirt, which is paneled to fit well through the hips and to flare beautifully at the hemline. All types of silks and sheers will make up well in this pattern.

The other dress is decidedly youthful and suits slim and rather plump figures alike. There are at least two ways you can style it. The sketch in the center illustrates one treatment. The V neckline is given a pointed collar and the puffed sleeves gradually diminish in width until they fit snugly at the wrists. Buttons in groups of two are used down the front and a tailored belt encircles the waist. Plaits give tailored fullness to the skirt. All types of silks and cottons, especially prints, make up well.

The other version is daintier but just as serviceable. It makes a good "date" dress with its feminine and frilly Peter Pan collar and cuffs. Novelty buttons are used down the front and a belt is used from the side seams around to the back. Dark sheers are especially suitable and soft crêpes make up well.

Style No. 2990 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, and 54 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3353 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1½ yards of binding or ruffling.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

SIX DRESSES FROM TWO BASIC PATTERNS — Party frocks, travel clothes, house dresses and aprons, children's clothes, 'teen age togs, intimate apparel—all are included in the 28 page Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions for summer, 1938. Price, 15 cents, or 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Since mechanical refrigerators are so widely used recipes have to be rewritten for the housewife to obtain maximum efficiency from this modern of kitchen gadgets. We take as a matter of fact a bountiful supply of ice cubes today, but a generation ago this ultra bit of chic could only be had in the best places.

Hospitality in the home usually starts with a beverage of some kind, and the gracious hostess will see to it that a fair supply of carbonated water and other beverages are on hand to take care of any guest emergency. Handle your supply of bottled waters just as you would fine champagne. By that I mean have them thoroughly chilled before opening, as this will insure longer effervescence in the beverage. I have been crusading for more years than I care to admit for chilled bottled waters, and as simple as it is it is amazing how few places serve them this way. After I offer what I think is constructive criticism against this practice the most plausible excuse that is offered is "lack of space in the refrigerator." O, well, let's get on with our recipes. Here is one the children will enjoy:

REFRIGERATOR ICE CREAM [VANILLA].

1 pint milk
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, well beaten
½ pint heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve the Cornstarch in Cold Milk.

Dissolve the cornstarch with five tablespoons of cold milk. Put balance of milk in saucepan; stir in cornstarch and heat to boiling point, stirring constantly. Remove from fire; stir in sugar, salt, and well beaten egg yolks. Let mixture cool then pour in heavy cream and vanilla and stir until evenly mixed. Pour into refrigerator tray and let freeze in chilling unit for two hours. Remove tray, empty contents into large mixing bowl and beat with a rotary beater for about five minutes to break the ice crystals. Pour mixture back into tray and freeze for one hour. Return mixture to bowl and beat again for five minutes. Pour back into chilling tray and freeze for two hours. It is now ready to serve, but if you wish you can hold it in the chilling unit for several hours longer.

Here is another recipe that the kiddies will adore:

FROZEN EGGNOG.

3 eggs
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Few grains salt
½ pint heavy cream, whipped
Nutmeg

Beat eggs and gradually add sugar. Add vanilla and salt and fold in whipped cream. Pour into tray and freeze in chilling unit for about one hour or until partially frozen. Then stir mixture with a spoon (you can do this right in the tray) and freeze until time of service. This usually requires about three hours. Serve with a slight grating of nutmeg over the top. The old eggnog bowl as I recall it always had sherry for flavoring, so if you would like a variation in this dessert substitute three tablespoons of sherry wine for the vanilla.

Now here is a recipe which is somewhat glorified for a bread pudding, but I am sure that you will enjoy having it in your files:

FROZEN BREAD PUDDING.

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
4 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon gelatin
1 cup stale bread crums
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup candied fruit, chopped
½ pint heavy cream
Flavoring
Grated walnuts

Boil Sugar and Water to Make a Sirup.

Make a sirup by boiling sugar and water together for five minutes. In the meanwhile beat egg yolks until thick. Now gradually pour sirup onto egg yolks, beating constantly. Pour into top part of double boiler and cook until thick. Then add gelatin which has been softened in three tablespoons of cold water. Let mixture cool; add bread crums (all crusts removed) and fruit, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream which has been flavored to suit your taste. Vanilla, sherry, or rum can be used in this recipe. If it is vanilla flavoring you decide on add one teaspoonful. If sherry or rum add two tablespoons. Fill individual fancy paper cups with the mixture. Sprinkle top with finely grated walnuts and put the cups in the refrigerator tray to freeze for several hours.

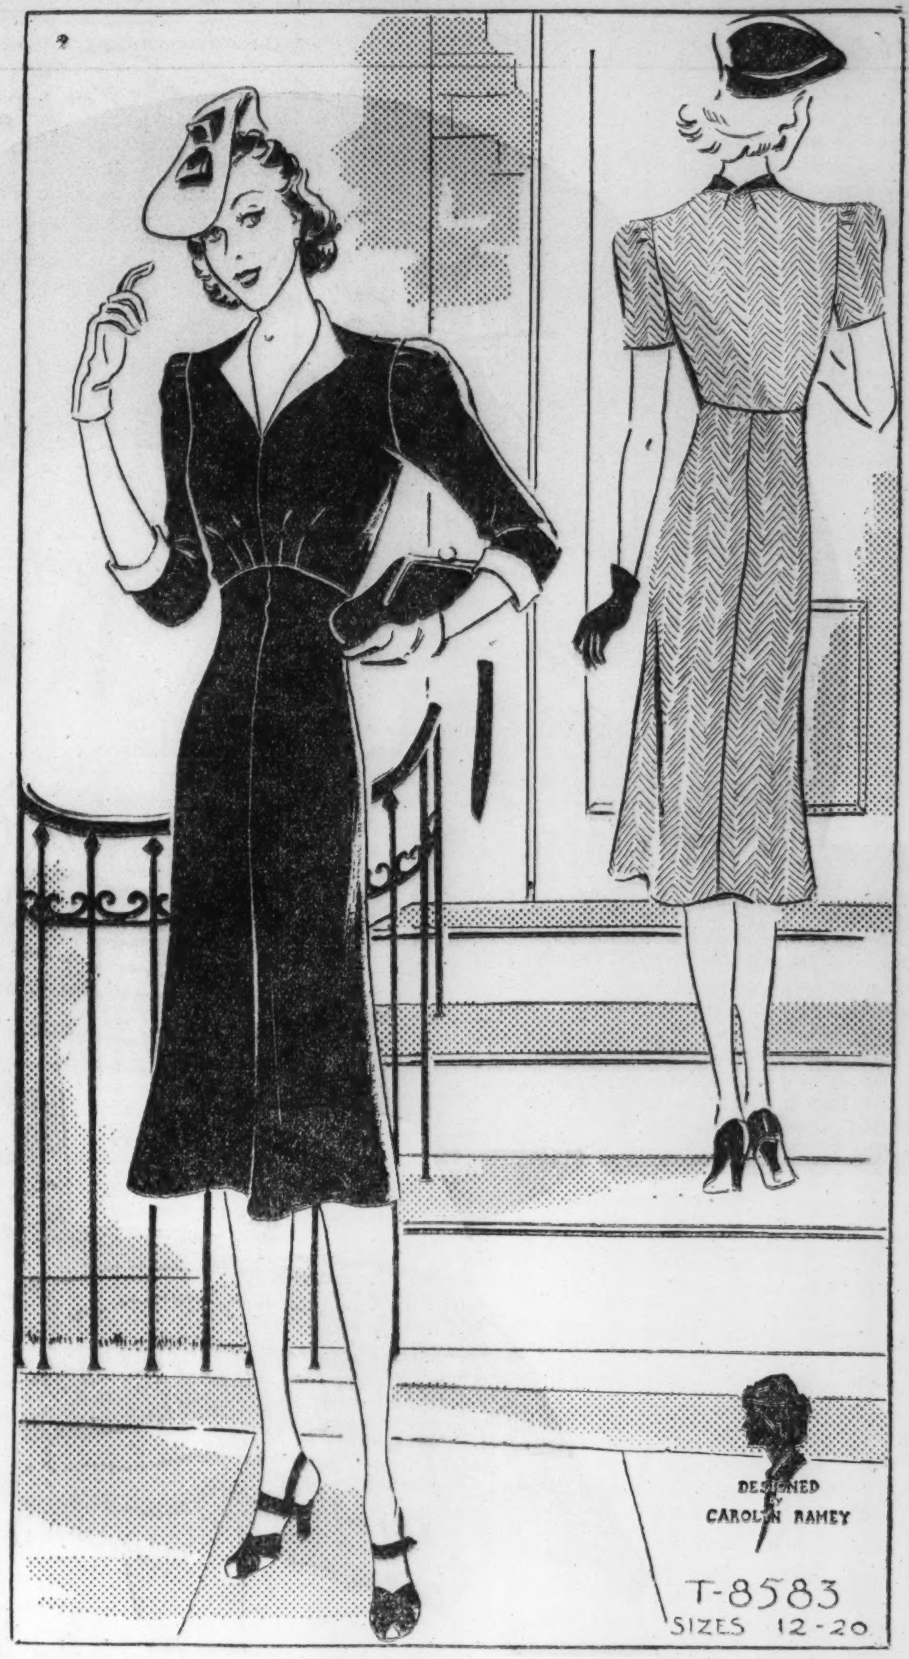
FROZEN CHEESE AND WATERCRESS SALAD.

½ pound cream cheese
½ cup milk
½ cup mayonnaise
1 pint heavy cream, whipped
1 bunch watercress
Slight grating of onion

Mash cream cheese with a fork. Gradually add milk until smooth and of creamy consistency. Then fold in the mayonnaise and whipped cream. Add watercress which has been carefully washed and picked over, discarding the coarse stems. Add onion and pour mixture into tray and freeze in chilling unit for several hours. Cut into squares or slices and serve on a bed of crisp lettuce.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed



By Carolyn Ramey.

One of the important modes for late summer and early fall is black. And you campus queens shouldn't be left behind in the fashion parade, now should you? That's why I'm tipping you off to this style fact and offering you an especially nice dress design to carry it out.

I made this dress, unselfish roommate that I am, for my bunkmate, Ruthie. She's the stringbean type, but well proportioned, so she looks slim and supple as a reed in her black frock, made of crêpe and trimmed with white crêpe for contrast. The neckline is a simple V with a rever collar, very plain. The sleeves are squared where they join the shoulder and they're made in bracelet length. A few ingenius tucks give some fulness to the bodice. A seam straight down the center front and another in the skirt in back, supply the paneling which, in turn, supplies all the fulness you could possibly want in this slimline dress.

This is a grand "date" dress and ideal for extracurricular activities, whether of a romantic nature or not. It may be made of sheer woolen, too, and some of the novelty crêpes, either silk or rayon, make up well. You need not select black, of course, if some other color appeals to you more.

Style No. 8583 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 35 or 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting for collar and cuffs.

Relishes Share in Seasonal Pickle Making

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

An odor in the house of overcooked cabbage or sizzling garlic may be extremely offensive to sensitive nostrils, but a pickling odor, although equally potent, brings complaint from nobody. Vinegar and spices, heating together in an open kettle, serve to stimulate an appetite, while those other odors may quench it.

My house has had a pickle scent about it by intermittent spells for several weeks now, and I know that there are thousands of other homes likewise affected. I have written several previous columns about pickles, but haven't yet this season presented recipes for the relish types. "Fan mail" indicates that many women are ready for them, so here are a few for a starter.

PEPPER MANGOES.

2 dozen large green peppers
8 cups chopped cabbage
1 cup chopped red peppers
1 cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons salt
⅓ cup white mustard seed
¼ cup celery seed
1 cup sugar
Vinegar

To prepare peppers: Choose peppers with half inch stems. Soak them twenty-four hours in a brine made by dissolving one cup salt in a gallon of water. Drain, wash in cold water, and drain again. Carefully cut off a slice of each pepper at the stem end and remove seeds and pulp.

To prepare filling: Mix vegetables and salt and let stand overnight. Drain and add seeds and sugar.

Stuff the peppers with this relish and tie the tops back in place, or fasten them securely with woodpins. Place filled peppers in jars, cover with hot vinegar, and seal.

Spiced vinegar may be used instead of plain vinegar. Here is a recipe for a spiced vinegar which may be used for the pepper mangoes or for any other type of sour pickle.

SPICED VINEGAR FOR PICKLES.

[Allow 1 quart for 2 quarts pickles.]

1 quart vinegar
½ cup sugar
½ tablespoon celery seed
½ tablespoon whole cloves
½ tablespoon mustard seed
½ tablespoon peppercorns

Mix vinegar and sugar. Add spices, tied in a bag, and heat to boiling. Boil for 5 minutes and let stand overnight with spices. Remove spice bag and use vinegar.

BEET RELISH.

[4 pints.]

1 quart cooked beets, chopped fine
1 quart raw cabbage, shredded and chopped
½ cup horseradish
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon white pepper
1/16 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 cup vinegar
1 cup water

Heat vinegar and water and pour over the rest of the ingredients. Seal in clean, hot jars.

PICCALILLI [Sweet or Sour.]

[10 pints.]

1 peck green tomatoes
1 large cabbage [about 4 pounds]
3 green peppers
¾ cup salt
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 quart vinegar
2 cups sugar [for sweet piccalilli]

Chop vegetables, or grind them coarsely. Add salt and let stand over night. Drain thoroughly, add spices and vinegar, and let simmer for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pack in clean, hot jars and seal.

PEPPER RELISH.

12 green peppers
12 red peppers
12 onions
2 cups vinegar
2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons salt

Chop peppers and onions. Cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain. Add vinegar, sugar, and salt, and boil mixture for 5 minutes. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal at once.

MIXED VEGETABLE PICKLE.

2 cups carrots, cut in strips
1 cup string beans, sliced
3 medium onions, sliced
1 green pepper, seeded and chopped
1 red pepper, seeded and chopped
1 cup vinegar
⅔ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon turmeric

Combine all ingredients and boil until vegetables are tender and clear. Pack into clean, hot jars and seal.

Wells Foundation Plans Event for Scholarship Fund

The Dora Wells foundation is arranging a series of events in the coming season to raise money for its scholarship fund. Established in 1930 to provide a college education to a deserving graduate of Flower Technical High school, girls' technical school, the foundation draws its membership from all parts of the city and suburbs.

Miss Gertrude Gilman recently was elected president, and other officers are Mrs. Goldia Howes, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Guillard, secretary, and Miss Dalna Brown, treasurer. Miss Mary Ausman, as social chairman, is in charge of the forthcoming benefits.

The foundation bears the name of Dr. Dora Wells, founder and first principal of the Flower Technical High school.

It's a Help to Me, Says—

Mrs. Lillian N. Hely, Chicago: I use a little kerosene on my floor mop and dusting rags, as it takes up dust easily and polishes at the same time.

• • •

Mrs. R. J. Forgue, 7124 Stewart avenue: I have found a speedy and reliable way to remove lime deposits from steel or aluminum utensils. [NOT enamel pans!] I heat the empty kettle or pan over a high flame until I smell the hot metal and then drop half a cup of cold water into the dish, keeping out of the way of resultant steam. Then, when I cool the dish off under the cold water faucet most of the lime floats loose. I repeat this several times, always dropping cold water directly on the lime spots. If any tiny spots are left I scour these with steel wool, or a similar cleanser.

• • •

J. Brown, Chicago. I have often wondered why they don't have white covers for automobile tops in summer. I gave our old car a coat of aluminum paint this summer just before we started on a trip south, and it kept it perceptibly cooler.

• • •

Mrs. Georgia B., Racine, Wis.: I find I can often cure a leaky vase by covering the crack with paraffin.

• • •

Katharine M., Cincinnati, O.: My husband discovered this summer that he can remove those sad looking grease and oil stains from our garage floor and driveway by sprinkling about an inch of Portland cement over the spots and letting it stand for a day or so. This did the work for us.

• • •

Mrs. G. T. H., Chicago: I have to make food go as far as possible in my family, which is a big one. For summer lemonades I tried heating the lemons in hot water before I squeezed them. I get quite a bit more juice from each lemon so treated.

On the House
By Louise Bargelt

Looking ahead toward colder days to come . . . does the proper humidity for your "health" in chill weather cause a troublesome frosting and condensation on your window panes, and sometimes even work hardship on the surrounding woodwork and decorations? Well, for just this worry, there's now available new automatic humidity control units. These controls, placed at your windows, will automatically "feel" when the indoor humidity is near the danger point, and relay the news to your humidifier that it is time to stop working. In other words, to cut off its supply of moisture to your rooms until further moisture can be safely added.

* *

Speaking of things to do for your bathroom this fall, there's a type of equipment manufactured for your consideration which has a host of nice points in its favor. It is a type which suggests that we have reached the peak of color for this room, since there is no limit, really, to the shade of fixture you can order [you might even have plaids or polka dots, if your yen is that way]. These fixtures are handsomely formed from metal sheets by giant presses and are lightweight and durable. Really fine pieces of equipment.

Aristocratic looking electric water heaters are now styled to take their place in the smartest kitchen, and hold up their heads along with your finest refrigerators and sinks and ranges. They come in numerous sizes for varied family requirements.

* *

New convectors, alias radiators, designed to give off heat by convection as well as radiation, have taken to the walls, and can be recessed in any room, a point to keep in mind when family discussions center around the heating plant—and modernization—this early fall. All radiators have reduced, of course—and their health has not suffered. The slimmer they grow, and the less room they take up, the faster they seem to heat—and the more heat they give out!

Film Star Buys Blue Frocks at Chanel Salon

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Madeleine Carroll, cinema star who has been spending part of the summer in Paris, immediately became one of the famous sights of the town, pointed out everywhere, and much more interesting to visitors than the Arc de Triomphe and the Tour Eiffel. She is the pet of international society, and the darling of the dressmakers. Everybody here likes her because she is charming and natural in her manner and, as a view, she is simply superb. She has everything, figure, complexion, hair, eyes, and voice, none of them synthetic. The dressmakers simply broke down and cried with joy over her ability to wear their clothes. There has been some expert competitoin for her trade, but she just naturally drifted to Chanel, whose dress simplicity and taste suit her best.

Miss Carroll, unlike most of the movie stars I have met on shopping sprees here, doesn't care for drama in her clothes. She shuns the knock-em-dead kind of thing for her private life, and the clothes she collected at Chanel's are quietly beautiful, but not shocking.

• • •

She likes dark blue for street wear, and ordered several daytime suits and dresses in this color, combined with white. She also ordered printed afternoon dresses in this color scheme. The technique is excellent. When you're a blonde, and beautiful, the heart interest of simple navy blue with sparkling white can't be beat.

Miss Carroll wears her hair in soft curls, rather low on her neck, and when I saw her out among the scionesses of society, all with their hair pulled up, I thought she was the most persuasive argument possible against the new coiffures.

She chose all her new hats, too, directly contrary to the new trend in styles toward saucer-size millinery worn cocked over the nose. Her hats are worn back, and show her beautiful rounded forehead, which is one of her best points. She likes halo berets, and Chanel made her two to go with her simple daytime clothes.

• • •

One black ottoman silk suit, ordered by Miss Carroll, is for cocktail wear. She chose a soft pink blouse to go with it, and a small black velvet hat with lots of lace veil partly concealing the famous countenance.

Miss Carroll's evening dresses are just what you might expect. She ordered three from Chanel, two in filmy organdy and one in pale pink net. The organdy dresses are informal, and she has been wearing them to dinners. There's a pastel blue organdy with a very full skirt and slim blouse having short sleeves. It is embroidered copiously with delicate spidery designs in a deep shade of blue. With her inside it the effect is everybody's dream girl. If the young blades of international society let her get away, it won't be for lack of trying to keep her here as a permanent ornament to Paris life.

• • •

The formal evening gown Miss Carroll ordered from Chanel was specially designed for her. It has for a color scheme pale pink net touched up with black velvet roses. The dropped shoulder décolletage, beloved of Empress Eugénie, is outlined around the shoulders by black roses, from which hangs a ruffle of pink net. This garland crosses the shoulder blades, and below it the bodice is cut to almost nothing in a deep U that displays Miss Carroll's admirable back. A fitted girdle of pink gros grain divides the trifling bodice from the super-skirt of pink tulle, around the hem of which oversize black velvet roses are scattered.

One of her informal dinner ensembles is made of white organdy, edged by narrow plaited ruffles around the bolero jacket and the skirt hem. The jacket is covered by openwork embroidery done in soft deep blue, and the same type of embroidery covers the bottom of the skirt, which is very flaring, and tucked to the knees. There is a wide girdle of navy grosgrain ribbon around the waistline, and a bow of the ribbon on the bosom.

Beauty Is at Mercy of the Camera Fiends

How to shadow eyelids is only one of many beauty hints which you will find in Antoinette Donnelly's booklet, "Makeup Magic." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It's the open season for camera fans!

Look pretty, girls, please!

Sometimes they warn you. Sometimes! Then you can hold up your head and lift your chest, and pose on the prow of a boat like some Viking maiden of old. You can tuck in your tummy and make your bathing suit look the price you paid for it. You can straighten your shoulders and pull your muscles in so that your new friend's comrades will ask, "Who is the girl with the nice figure?"

• • •

If only they will give you warning, they'll be proud of the picture you take. They'll remember you as a graceful, vibrant creature, a girl they'll want to meet again.

But there is nothing camera addicts love better than catching you unaware. Maybe you are exhausted after an active game of tennis. Just for a moment or two you slump and let your shoulders droop. Watch out! Some one will snap that ugly hump! It is just too hot to bother holding your head up. Click! Your double chin has gone down to posterity. Or, worse yet, it may be seen by the critical eyes of your new boy friend's relatives.

"Isn't she a little old for you?" his mother may ask. You won't be there to explain that your extra chin was due merely to faulty posture.

Worse yet! When separation has dimmed their memories, all your lovely vacation friends won't remember the way you usually looked. All they will have is your picture. After a while they'll begin to think of you as that girl with the extra chin or the middle aged slump. They'll wrack their brains and wonder why they thought you so attractive at the time.

• • •

There is something so permanent about a picture. It is such an uncompromising witness. You can't deny its evidence. Maybe pictures lie, but nobody will believe it. "Certainly she is a fat girl! See how she bulges at the waist!" "Maybe she is a beauty, but I wouldn't give you much for her figure!" There is no telling how many people will see that unfortunate photograph. After all, the film isn't yours to destroy.

We don't deny that a good clear picture of your stooping shoulders, sagging chin, protruding abdomen, and pigeon toed stance won't be a moral lesson. You probably will learn as much from it as a gymnasium course would teach you. But use your own camera, buy your own film, and get some trusted friend to snap your errors in posture. Save a print as a reminder, correct the faults in your bearing, and be sure and burn up the film!

You may go on a cruise this summer, or the mountains may be just the change you need. You may select the seashore or a lake for your vacation. Wherever you go, there are bound to be cameras and the inevitable snapshots. There may even be movie cameras to catch you in an ungainly or awkward walk. Some time or other this summer you will have your picture taken. Quite likely it will be when you are least expecting it. There's no escaping these candid camera fiends.

• • •

With summer breezes blowing, you can't always be sure every lock is in place. After golf or badminton your nose may not be powdered just so. But you can become sufficiently camera-conscious to get the habit of correct bearing and posture. Good carriage will give you a fine figure. It's your best defense against snapshots.

Here are the rules with which you can thwart those candid camera addicts and avoid having your beauty blackmailed by photographs:

Imagine the camera is focused upon you. Hold your shoulders straight without being stiff about it. Head erect. Lift up your chest. Automatically it will pull your abdomen in. Tuck in your hips behind you. If you flatten your back against the wall, with the small of your back touching, you will get the idea. It is just the opposite of the old posture rime with its false advice:

"Tuck in your chin
And out your chest,
Assume the form of the letter S.
Like a kangaroo your arms extend
And then you have the Grecian bend."

That's old fashioned. For modern posture let your bearing be easy and natural. Concentrate on holding up your chest and your other muscles will fall into place. Make good bearing a habit.

Through the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The clear complexion is an aid to poise and attractiveness that every schoolgirl should and could enjoy. A simple, intelligent program of exquisite cleanliness is sufficient for the normal youngster, but acne, the cause of so much unhappiness during adolescence, is a problem for the physician or dermatologist.

The tragedy of the bad complexion during adolesence is very real. Ask the psychologist. Or the beauty editor, whose daily mail reveals heartaches parents don't even dream their sons and daughters suffer.

The 'teens are a self-conscious period anyway. But the school days that should and could be very happy are ruined for some youngsters because they develop an "all wrong" complex. Maybe it's complexion, maybe it's just the gawkiness that all growing children have at one stage. Maybe it's just not being groomed properly and not knowing how to start.

In a great many girls' schools now there are classes in grooming and even in styling, hairdress, clothes, and makeup individually. We're all for it and hope that every school some day will offer such courses.

The bad complexion is the most common ailment. In a great many cases all the child needs is an intensive program of hygiene. He or she must learn how to keep clean—exquisitely, not casually, clean. It's amazing how many adolescents follow the "lick and promise" methods. The school teachers could tell you plenty about this.

The majority of pimples and blackheads that disfigure youthful complexions will vanish if the right cleansing program is followed. Good soaps, complexion brushes, daily baths, and frequent hand and face washings will often turn the trick. A little supervision of diet is essential. The diet should be a balanced one, and the youngster should drink plenty of water and get plenty of exercise.

BUT if the pimples and blackheads don't disappear once a simple program of hygiene is established, we urge parents not to go on the theory that the youngster will "grow out of it." That can be an erroneous assumption and usually is. Acne is not to be trifled with, and not to be treated by home hit-or-miss methods.

If your child has acne a physician is the person to prescribe for it. It is a medical, not a beauty, problem. One visit to your own doctor or to a dermatologist might avert or correct a skin condition that scars more than the skin. The bad complexion during adolescence is not a normal phase of growing up. Neglected, it leads to discomfort, expense, and unhappiness that both boys and girls find soul-searing.

"Most Identical Twins in America" Begin 95th Year

Mrs. Julia Finchpaugh and Mrs. Louise Weaver of Denver, Colo., once voted "the most identical twins in America," recently embarked on the 95th year of their lives satisfied there still is plenty of "kick" in living.

Parent with 'Nerves' Tells Her Problem

By Gladys Bevans.

I suppose every mother who is enjoying each hour of her little boy's day, every mother who is savoring those fleeting lovely times with her small girl, looks on with a certain wonder and even distress at the mother who finds her small child unmanageable and a nuisance.

Some weeks ago a number of miserably nervous mothers wrote in at about the same time giving me a glimpse of the troubled scenes that fill practically every day. To help others in the same boat I printed one of those letters and made suggestions based on actual, interesting, happy experience.

The subject must be an ever present one, because letters in the same vein continue to come in. Here are extracts from a recent plaint:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Not long ago I read a letter in your column about a mother whose 2 year old child irritated her. I can sympathize with this mother because, I'm sorry to say, I seem to have the same trouble.

"My daughter is almost 3, and she is getting to be a problem. One of her troubles is not eating. I've done everything I know, ignoring her at mealtimes, taking the food away after a certain time, letting her eat from her own table, getting her pretty dishes to eat from.

"I know she's getting enough exercise, rest, and sunshine, as we have a big yard, and she has her sand box and a tub for a swimming pool, and I keep her in shorts when weather permits. She has a two hour nap and sleeps all night.

• • •

"Her other trouble is her temperament. Since she was a baby I know I haven't spoiled her. But as she is the only grandchild on both sides, you know what that means. She screams at the top of her voice. Spankings, coaxing, comforting, putting her in her room don't help a bit. She just screams until she gets tired of it, which sometimes is a half hour or more. The neighbors have been coming in to see what is wrong.

"This conduct, combined with the eating problem, has worn my nerves to a frazzle, and I would appreciate any advice you could give me."

It was such a letter as this which stirred a responsive chord in a mother who read it and moved her to write the following:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I read your article concerning the mother who gets so nervous over her little son's behavior. And because the story seems to strike home so closely I just had to write and tell you how I have been helped myself, and do hope it may aid some one else.

"I once read an article written by some noted authority on the rearing of children which I never allow myself to forget. I do not remember the author's name, but he suggested that parents treat their children as equals, put the youngsters on a standard of equality with themselves, think of them as little human beings instead of as just little wild animals not expected to know much except to stay out of the way.

• • •

"I am sorry that I am not clever in expressing myself, but the above advice has helped me so many times in keeping my patience. I have two fine youngsters, a 6 year old boy and a 3 year old girl. The little girl is the spunky and tempestuous type, but her temper spells are growing less and she is becoming more reasonable and affectionate, and this makes me think I am winning her.

"But it is often hard to tell when I should spank her or when to ignore her, especially as I am the nervous, high strung type myself. And I am mostly busy, as we rent a big house and I take in roomers to aid my husband in these trying times. And often my youngsters' little troubles and countless questions nearly uproot my calm if I don't keep a good grip on myself.

"But by constantly reminding myself that their little problems are just as big to them as mine are to me I am able to handle them sanely. I find it doesn't take any more time to try to answer childish questions simply and constructively than it does to fling some angry, impatient answer and spoil their faith in me.

"I wish your mother of the 2 year old would take time, regardless of her work, for a certain daily play period with her son. Just drop everything, relax herself completely, and play with or watch him play. She can't help but see and enjoy his physical and mental unfolding. And he will gain confidence through her interest in him, and she will gain more understanding of him.

"This mother owes it to herself as well as her boy. The child is only young once to enjoy. And there will be work to do long after she is dead and gone. Really, no 2 year old is utterly bad, and I imagine her little boy is no exception if she would but give him more chance. This mother wouldn't want him to jump and dodge every time she spoke, and so she should be careful of his nervous system and not ruin his youthful spirits. Many times a child's willfulness and seemingly wild actions are just the result of the natural abundance of energy that a healthy, vigorous body always contains.

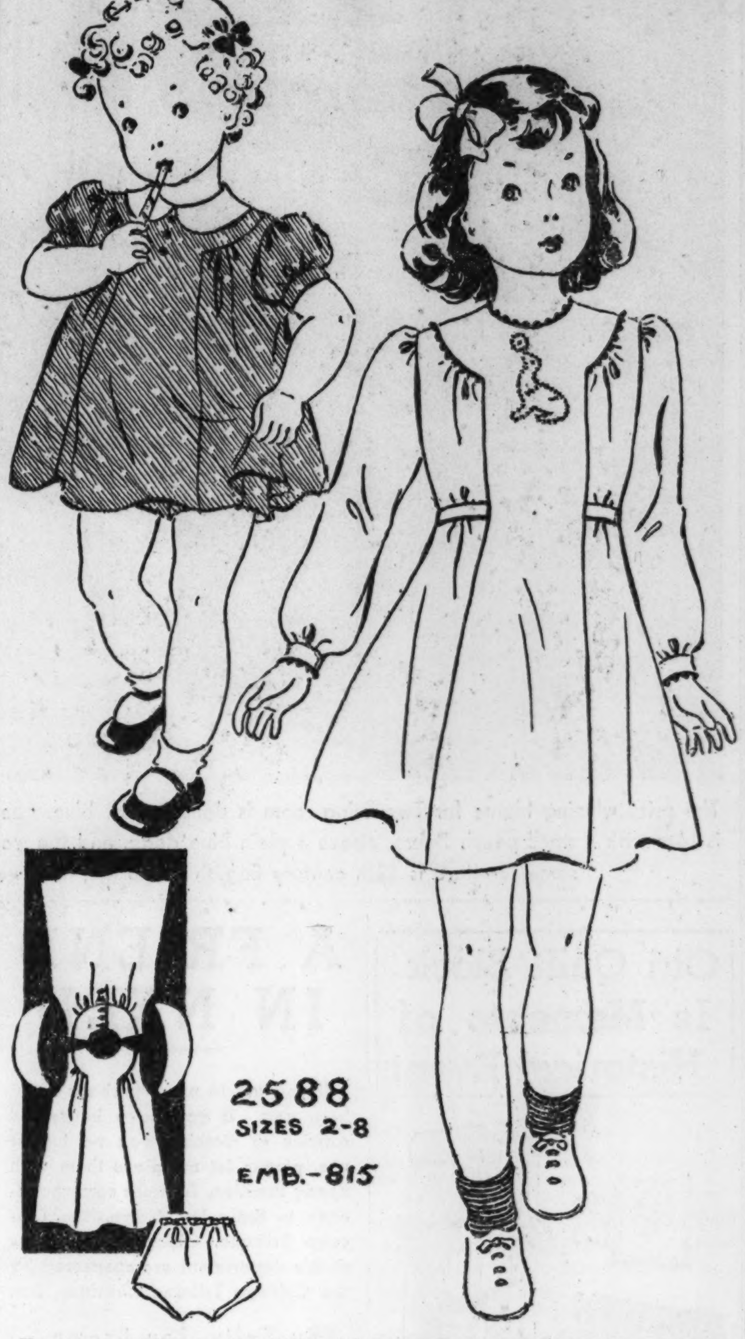
"Please pardon this lengthy letter, but I just could not help expressing myself, as I, too, have to fight myself every day to keep from being irritable and spoiling the home life of my husband and little children."

You see, it can be done even if you're naturally nervous, high strung, and not strong. It's largely a matter of sincerely wanting to enjoy and understand your small children and of "keeping your eye on the ball." A little self-discipline on the part of mothers and fathers bears wonderful fruit.

Still Strapless.

Evening gowns for fall will be strapless, but they have a new look in velvet, ornamented as they are with lace, gold kid, rhinestone bands, and ruches about the bodice.

Clotilde Children's Fashions



For your toddler or the little girl in the first years of school, we offer a delightful dress pattern, one with a yoke around the shoulder line and a panel the length of the frock. Mother probably can use the pattern for two dresses, and if she has two daughters the procedure is even more attractive, since she can dress her offspring more or less in the manner of twins. And if they ARE twins, well, they'll be the smartest set in the neighborhood, you can be sure of that.

One version gives the dress a Peter Pan collar and short puffed sleeves. The other frock, one more suitable to an older girl, omits a collar and gives the neckline, yoke, and cuffs on the long sleeves the rick-rack binding finish always practical, easy to use, and inexpensive. A belt may be used from the panel around to the back if you wish.

If your daughter is one who likes embroidery and you enjoy this simple and relaxing needlework, you might select pattern No. E-815, available for ten cents extra. The motif is a frisky seal balancing a ball, and it's a delightfully simple stitch to do.

Second Trip to Altar Imposes Special Rules

Do you know the correct method of conducting a bridal shower? You can learn the etiquet of bridal showers from the booklet, "The Bridal Shower," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

Divorcées and widows who are taking their second trip to the altar have only three rules to beware in making their wedding plans. Aside from these exceptions the procedure of the second wedding is the same as the first. One of these rules is that a bride at her second marriage is not permitted to wear white. Another is that the second marriage may not be formal. And still another is that the bride is unattended except for the person who gives her away. There is a best man who attends the bridegroom, but that is the extent of the wedding party. Simplicity being thus forced upon the bride, much less will be required of her in planning her wedding.

• • •

Still of interest to divorcées and widows is the question of the disposal of the wedding ring and engagement ring that were symbols of the first marriage.

A woman normally would continue to wear her rings after the death of her husband. And she should wear them at least a year thereafter. After that length of time she may remove them, if she prefers to do so, although, under normal circumstances, I should think that a widow would choose to continue to wear her rings after the death of her husband for purely sentimental reasons, continue to wear them at least until she made plans to marry a second time.

When she becomes reëngaged she removes her first engagement ring, of course, and may wear it on her right hand, should this be agreeable to her prospective husband. Or she may have the stone reset in order that her daughter might wear the ring. She usually removes her wedding ring at the same time, although she may continue to wear it up to the time of the second marriage, when she takes it off forever. The engagement ring of a first husband never is worn with the wedding ring of a second husband.

• • •

A divorcée, on the contrary, might feel a little differently about wearing the rings that were given her by her former husband. If a woman's marriage had been utterly unhappy, and had culminated in divorce, it is quite understandable that she might like to put away these reminders of her past unhappiness. On the other hand, if she and her husband had parted amicably she might wisely remember that wearing her ring has its advantages. Particularly if there are children should she wear a symbol of her married status.

Successful Hostess Gives Her Recipe for Hospitality

If any Washington group were asked who is the hostess par excellence in the capital there would be no debate; Mrs. Merriam Curtis would at once be named. Once, in conversation, she gave her secret away, and I pass it on to you.

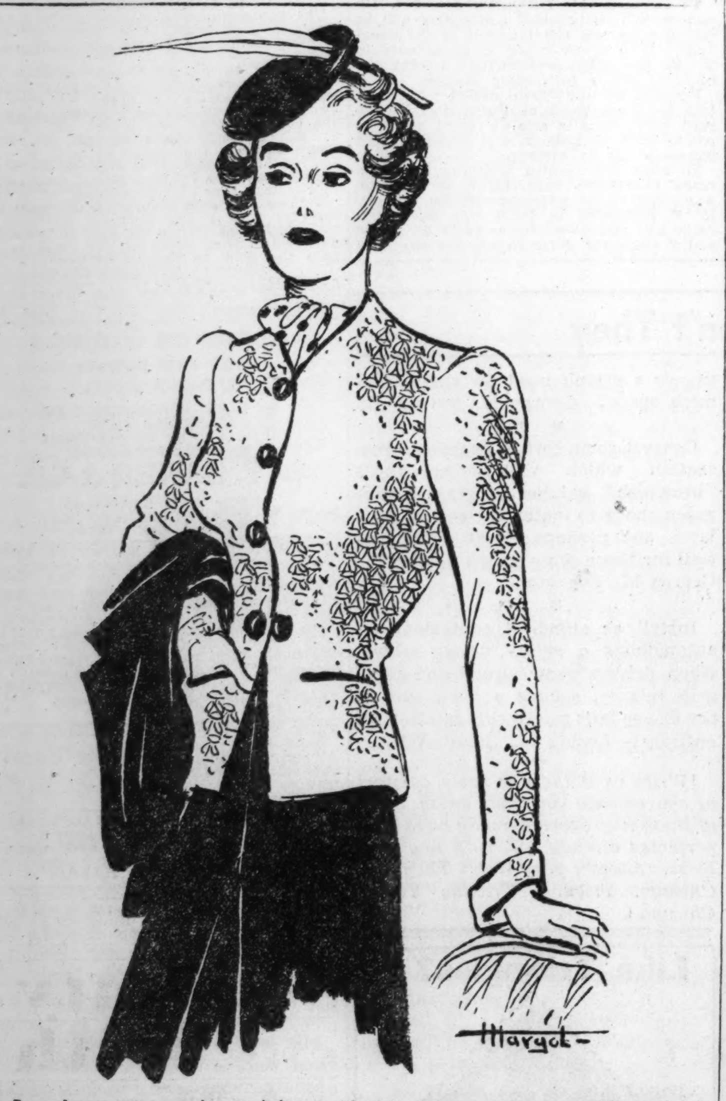
"I believe in being yourself, without pretense, or rather, just forgetting about yourself. Think only of seeing that your guests have a good time, and of making them perfectly happy. Never let any one down, and give always the best you have."

Anyhow, that's what she said. Certainly people are happy with her, but perhaps it's because being herself means being gay, generous, and vital.

Housekeeper's Tip.

Store salad oil in a dry, cold place. Keep coffee, tea, sugar, baking powder, spices, soda, cream of tartar, and cereals tightly covered in a dry, dark place.

Knitted Jacket Is Ideal for the Feminine Golfer



By Jean Macdonald.

"Handsome is as handsome does" is the motto for the feminine golfer who wears this good looking golf jacket on the cool, breezy days when wraps are essential on a golf course. Slightly fitted, with long sleeves, slightly puffed at the shoulder, collarless and having a V-neck, this jacket shows a perfect balance with the V opening from the hips to waist. Two buttons mark the waist fastening, or a clasp may be substituted, and single ones up the front serve their utilitarian purpose. The stitch is ideal for a jacket of this type. It is simple and easy to do on medium sized needles and in heather or tweed mixtures. Skirts worn with this jacket may match the lightweight angora worn underneath, or be in perfect harmony with the other jacket. An ascot combining the colors of the under sweater and the golf jacket complete a striking ensemble.

For instructions for knitting the woman's golf jacket, No. X43, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.]

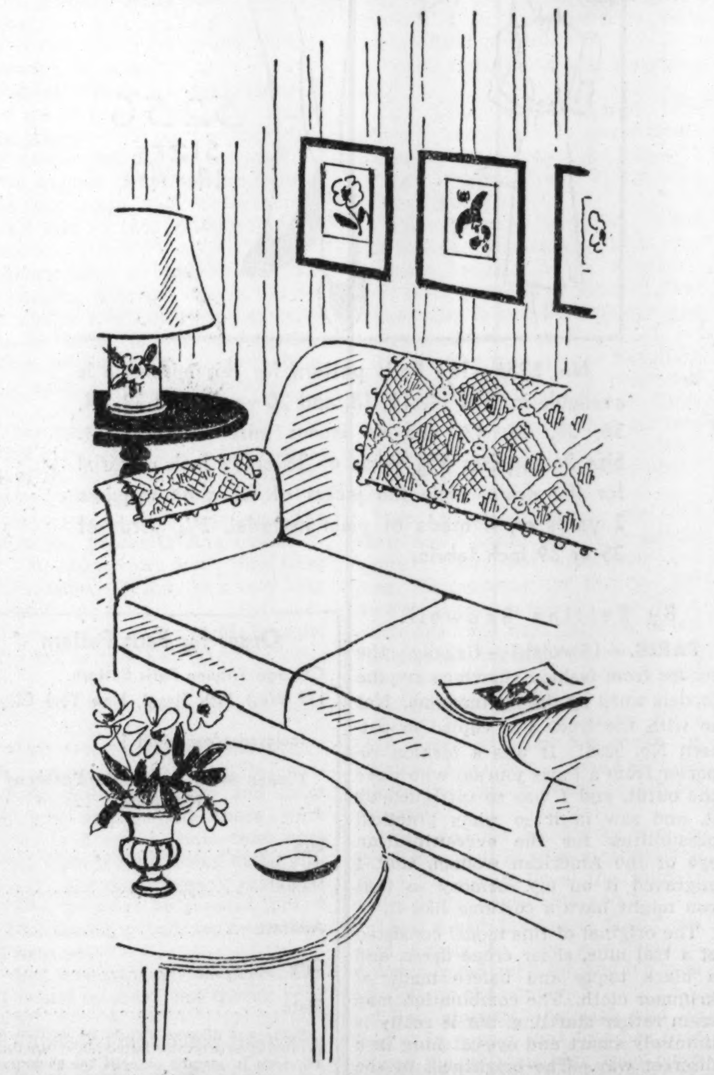
Foundation Plans Benefits to Help Deserving Girls

The Dora Wells Foundation is arranging a series of events for the coming season to raise money for its scholarship fund. The foundation was established in 1930 to provide a college education to a deserving graduate of Flower Technical High school, girls' technical school. Members come from all parts of the city and its suburbs.

Miss Gertrude Gilman recently was elected president. Other officers are Mrs. Goldia Howes, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Guillard, secretary, and Miss Dalna Brown, treasurer. Miss Mary Ausman, as social chairman, is in charge of the forthcoming benefits.

The foundation bears the name of Dr. Dora Wells, founder and first principal of the Flower Technical High school.

Crocheted Davenport Set Simple for Needleworker



By Ellen Bruce.

Chairback sets have been the rage for generations, and only recently have the davenport sets been affording any serious competition in the matter of interior decoration. The head rest for the davenport will measure about 12 by 32 inches when completed. It is a simple crochet job because the item is made in squares and twelve are required for one long piece. The arm rests require only three blocks and measure about 6 by 16 inches. Lustrous knitting and crochet cotton are ideal choices for this group in either white or ecru. Head chair rests to match the item for the davenport head rest may be made by using half the number of blocks required for the long head rest and the same number of blocks for the chair arm rest as the same number of blocks for the davenport arm rests.

For instructions in crocheting the davenport set, No. X44, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

18th Century Styles Given Prize of $500

"What's Wrong with Your Room?" a booklet by Edith Weigle, giving simple solutions to complicated problems of furniture arrangement is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. For 3 cents; by mail, 5 cents.

By Edith Weigle.

Charlotte H. Ling.

What do young people nowadays want in their first home? Do they have a hankering for ultra-modern furniture and fittings, or do they feel more comfortable surrounded by pieces of the golden age of furniture design, the 18th century?

What sort of color schemes do they choose? Do they go in for bold, clear colors, or for walls and draperies of delicate, airy tints? Do they like fussy window treatments or simple ones? What type of floor coverings do they select?

All these questions and more are answered in detail in the newly furnished Home for Two, now on view to the public here. In a recent contest conducted by Carson Pirie Scott, the first prize of $500 for the plans in best taste went to young Charlotte Hamilton Ling, who selected and arranged every single article in the four room apartment built for that purpose.

The contestants, over 300 of them, chose color schemes, floor coverings, draperies, wall papers, furniture and upholsteries, and decorative accessories, and they were not limited as to budget. They could choose any period they wished.

About three-fourths of them chose 18th century English styles, with only the remaining fourth going in for modern. The first prize went to Mrs. Ling's 18th century house plans.

● ● ●

And the colors she chose? Charming, light pastels. Walls in the living room, chalk blue with a tiny peach figure; in the bedroom, a scheme of white, light yellow and raspberry, and in the dining room, pale gray, light yellow, and rose-red. The kitchen is in Mexican blue and white. And the accessories there are Mexican. [Mrs. Ling went to Mexico on her honeymoon.]

The little bathroom has walls done in a delightful white paper with a gay pattern of rose and green.

The floor coverings? All modern, but making ideal backgrounds for the traditional furniture. In the living room, a stunning woolly beige rug in the bedroom, a huge oval, reversible and washable white rug; in the kitchen, blue linoleum, and in the dining room, rose-red, twist-weave broadloom.

The house gives you an immediate impression of lightness and airiness, and a feeling of great comfort and livableness. There are no strivings for bizarre or "ultra" effects.

The living room, a photograph of which is shown today, is a good example of this quiet good taste and comfort. The furniture is all mahogany in the dark finish, and each piece copies the 18th century English styles except for the tall secretary desk, which is a genuine antique of the period, and a love seat and arm-chair, which are comfortably upholstered and are of the Lawson type—a conservative style that fits into almost any scheme.

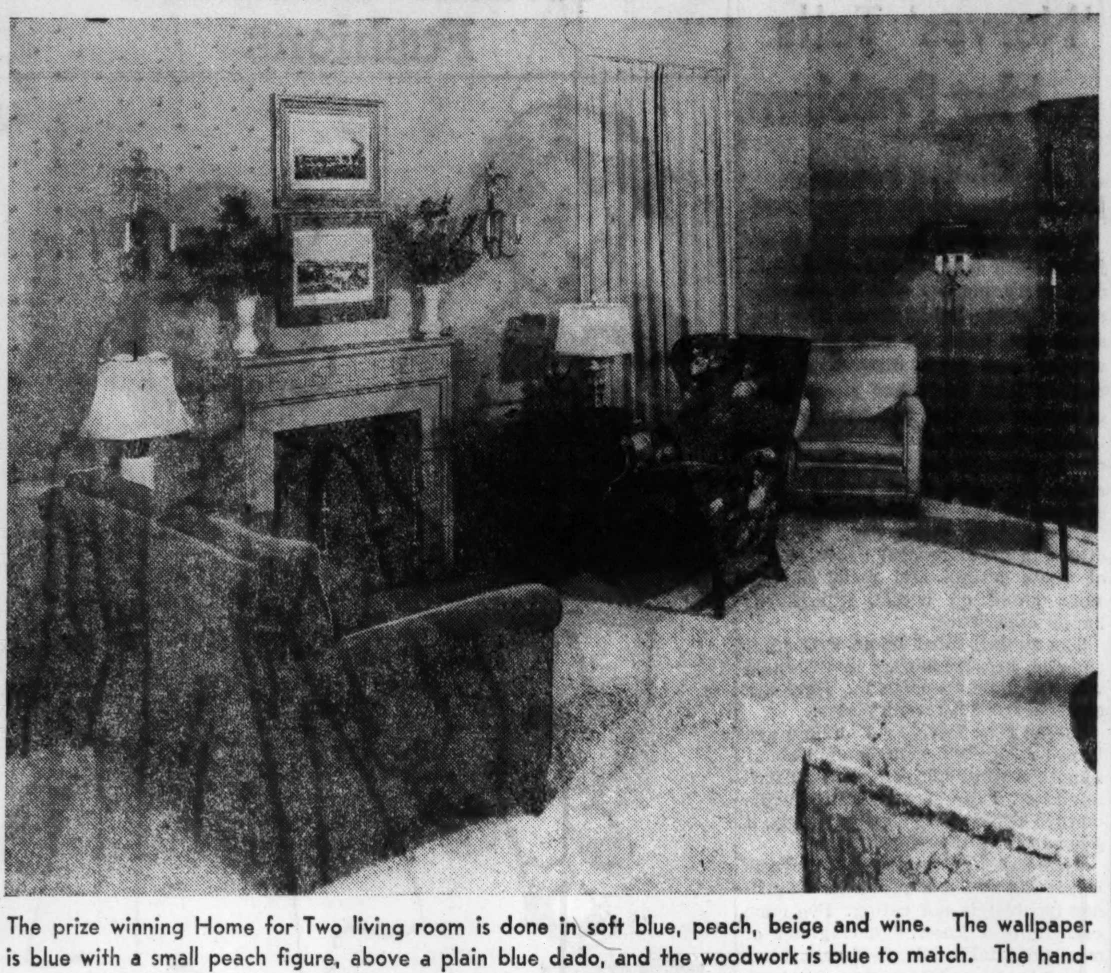
● ● ●

Lamps and accessories are partly old, partly copies of old originals. Over the couch, which is covered in a stunning wine tone, quilted floral chintz are hung six delicately colored stipple engravings from pencil drawings by Holbein owned by the royal house of England. They are beautifully framed and make a distinguished group.

Above the mantel is a pair of hand colored reproductions of old engravings of paintings of New Orleans and Baltimore, mounted on soft blue imported French mats and framed in gold. Flanking these are the sidelights, copies of old Russian ones in gilt, with hanging crystal balls.

The love seat, shown in the picture, is covered in soft blue chenille and the wing chair facing it has the same quilted chintz upholstery as the couch, not shown in this view. The arm-chair in the corner is in a beige strié silk damask, blending with the beige rug.

LIVING ROOM EMPHASIZES COMFORT



The prize winning Home for Two living room is done in soft blue, peach, beige and wine. The wallpaper is blue with a small peach figure, above a plain blue dado, and the woodwork is blue to match. The handsome furniture is 18th century English in design, the wood being mahogany.

American Woman Made Officer of World Press Group

Mrs. Winona E. Reeves.

Mrs. Winona Evans Reeves, editor of the P. E. O. Record, was elected vice president of the Women's International Press association at its recent conference at Budapest, Hungary. This was the highest office accorded to an American woman.

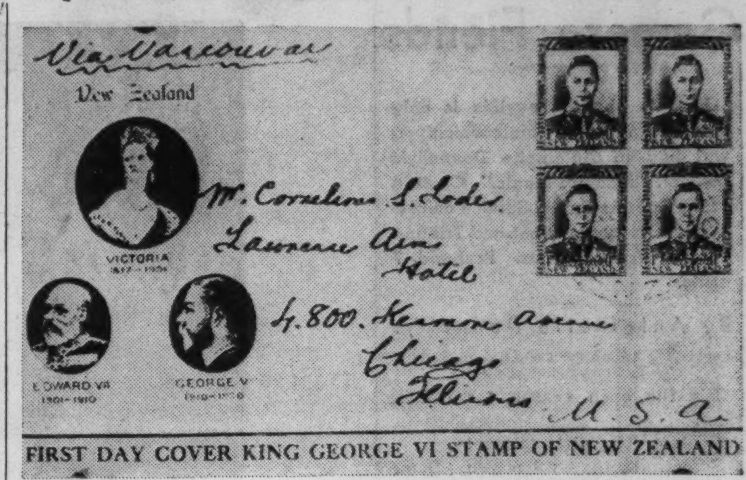
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen



FIRST DAY COVER KING GEORGE VI STAMP OF NEW ZEALAND

Cornelius Loder of Chicago has loaned this New Zealand first day cover for an illustration. This 1d stamp was issued on July 1 and arrived in Chicago on Aug. 1. The border of the stamp is embellished with Maori ornament.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Five values of the new regular series will be placed in use during the month of September. These are the 10 cent salmon, showing the portrait of John Tyler and scheduled to go on sale on Sept. 2; the 11 cent blue, with the portrait of James K. Polk will follow on Sept. 8; the 12 cent lavender, Zachary Taylor, on Sept. 14; the 13 cent green, Millard Fillmore, of Sept. 22, and the $2 black and light green, Warren G. Harding, on Sept. 29.

The first day sale for each of these values will be held at the Washington, D. C., postoffice, with general sale throughout the country as soon as circumstances will permit. Collectors who desire first day postmarks may send self-addressed envelopes to the postmaster, Washington, D. C., together with a postal money order remittance to cover exactly the cost of stamps to be affixed. Separate orders for each denomination are necessary and each cover should have a pencil notation stating the number of stamps to be affixed to that cover.

Collectors may request special service where these higher values are being used; that is, air mail, special delivery, registration, etc., where sufficient postage is prepaid. A special ruling permits dated townmarks on the face of registered first day covers. All orders for unused stamps for collections should be addressed to the Philatelic Agency, Postoffice department, Washington, D. C.

The complete program of the 44th convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans at Hotel La Salle includes events from the morning of Wednesday, Aug. 24, until 10 p. m., Sunday, Aug. 28 The first day will be given over to the Pioneer Philatelic Phalanx in the East room, and the arranging of the exhibition. Registration for the convention will start at 8:30 a. m., Thursday, Aug. 25, and at 9 a. m., the S. P. A. convention station branch of the United States postoffice will be formally placed in use. At the same hour the doors to the exhibition and bourse will be opened and an hour later the convention itself will begin its business sessions.

All sessions of the convention will adjourn at noon so that each afternoon and evening may be devoted to entertainment of various kinds. On Thursday there will be a luncheon for philatelic writers at 12.30 p. m., a visit to the N. B. C. studios at 2:30 p. m., and a moonlight cruise on the lake at 9 p. m. The exhibition and bourse closes each evening at 10 p. m.

On Friday, Aug. 26, the exhibition opens at 9 a. m., and the business session at 9:30 a. m. In the afternoon the Pioneer Philatelic Phalanx will meet at 2 p. m. to initiate 100 new members, while at 4 p. m. the Souvenir Issues association, branch No. 2, will have an open house for collectors of kindred spirit. At 7:30 p. m. Olaf Nagel and Henry Kuhlman of Stamp Auction service will hold the convention auction with Marvin A. Barlow as auctioneer. The regular meeting of the Chicago Precancel club will be called at 10 p. m., and at midnight there will be an inaugural meeting of the Secret Premale association, apparently a mysterious auxiliary of the S. P. A., while the men gather elsewhere as "Footloose Filatelists."

Saturday will see the final session of the bourse and exhibition, opening at 9 a. m., and that of the convention at 9:30. At 1 p. m. the P. P. P. will nominate a governing board and state commanders, and at 4 p. m. Joseph Whiteborough of the Garden City Stamp company will hold a Special Bureau Print auction sale. The banquet of the convention will be served at 7 p. m., and the final closing of the exhibition and bourse will take place at 10 p. m.

On Sunday morning the exhibition will be dismantled, and in the afternoon and evening the pioneers will get together at 2 p. m. and at 7 p. m. for a general meeting in which talks will be intermingled with a program of vocal and instrumental music.

The fee for registering at the convention is 50 cents. This includes a pass to the exhibition hall for the entire period. Admission to the exhibition to nonregistrants is 10 cents.

Stamp Notes.

Advance pages of the 1939 edition of Scott's Standard Postage Stamp catalog from Abyssinia to France are at hand. This edition is the first to appear since the publishing interests of the Scott Stamp and Coin company were taken over by Scott Publications, Inc., but the transfer was so recent that contemplated changes have not been put into effect.

The stamps of Abyssinia show a few changes in listing, the most important being the doubling of the prices of the final issue of that country. This 1935 issue was in use only a short time prior to the invasion by Italy.

Prices on the stamps of Andorra have been gone over rather thoroughly to bring quotations more nearly in line with actual values. Antigua contains some changes of interest, the 3 and 4 shilling values of 1921-'22, and all values of the Tercentenary issue except the three lowest have received substantial increases, the 2s6p going from $4 to $7, and the 5s from $10 to $13.50. Coronation issues, used, are given the same value as in unused condition.

Almost all of the changes made in the prices of Argentine Republic stamps are in 20th century stamps, and in a downward direction, exceptions being the Revolution commemoratives of 1930 and the miniature sheet of 1935, where the revisions were sharply downward. Zeppelin air mail stamps of this country also show a general reduction in list value. Ascension stamps show increases in four values of the first issue and duplicate pricing of used and unused coronations. Australian stamps show a few changes, generally upward and most pronounced in the 5s Sydney Harbor Bridge issue, which has increased from $4 and $6 in the unused list, and from $1.75 to $4 in the used column. The 1s Anzac stamp, however, has been lowered to 75c, used, while being raised to $1.50 for unused copies.

Austrian stamps of the 19th century show a few increases headed by a new price of $2.50 for No. 1. In 20th century issues the 10k of 1908, the 2, 5, and 10k values of 1910, and 10k of 1916 and 1918 have been marked up in generous fashion. Odd values in the pictorial issue of 1929 to 1932 and in the costume issue of 1934 have doubled in value with the greatest increase found in the 2s of the latter which jumped from a listing of $3 and $1.75 to $7.50 either used or unused. The more recent Austrian stamps have about doubled in listed prices due to the withdrawal of all current stamps following the pushover of last March, the increase being most noticeable in the case of the 10 schilling Dolfuss memorial issue of 1936, which was so thoroughly hated and destroyed by Nazi authorities that it has been boosted from $3 to $25, if unused, no listing used, and the cataloguers indicate that the pricing is only tentative and subject to change. The air mail and semi-postal issues of Austria show a marked increase which varies from 100 to 500 per cent in the items changed and reflects, no doubt, the interest taken in this country since its absorption into Magna Germanica.

Cachets and Covers.

Myron F. McCamley, USCS, 2135 N. Alberta street, Portland, Ore., announces cachets for four events.

To mark the placing of the old battle ship Oregon in Marine park, Portland, on Sept. 11, special postmarks from the U. S. S. Astoria and U. S. S. Portland, with printed cachets. Send 6¾ size envelopes, stamped and addressed, by Sept. 6, to Raymond Van Trees, 626 Southwest First avenue, Portland, Ore., with 1 cent forwarding fee for each cover.

To commemorate Columbus day, Oct. 12, cachets will be provided and covers will be mailed from two naval vessels in the Canal Zone. Send covers ready to go at once to M. F. McCamley, and include 1 cent per cover to defray forwarding expense.

For a Labor day Naval cachet with mailings on three ships at Puget Sound navy yard send covers in sets of threes, ready to go, to M. F. McCamley, and include 1 cent per cover for forwarding.

To mark the Spanish American War Veterans' convention, Sept. 11-17, at Portland, a printed cachet envelope will be sent by M. F. McCamley to those who send their name and address with stamps to be affixed and 2 cents per cover to pay for envelope, printing, etc. Envelopes which have been sent in on this event and others which may be sent in response to this call will not be used for the veterans' convention, but will be mailed on other events.

Mark C. Emsley, 2192 Brown road, Lakewood, O., who is director of cachets for the 1938 air races at Cleveland, O., Sept. 3, 4, and 5, announces free cachet service for each of the three days. Send air mail covers ready to go and remember the air mail postage. Old Quilt Block Is Memento of Historical Event

By Nancy Cabot.

"The Reel" is an ancient quilt pattern which originally was designed in Kinderhook, N. Y., in 1760 and the inspiration was the reel on which yarn was wound on the old spinning wheel. To some quilt makers this design is known as "Order No. 11." It is upon this title that a most interesting story hangs. During the civil war orders were given for the evacuation of a town in the path of the advancing army. One housewife having a reel quilt in her frame at the moment, hastily snatched the quilt from the frame and wrapped all the silver and heirlooms in it and buried it. Years later, when these treasures were unearthed, no one remembered the name of the pattern, so the coverlet was re-christened "Order No. 11," which was the military order for evacuation.

For a pattern of "The Reel" quilt block, No. X42, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

A nervous breakdown, coupled with several physical disabilities, left Mr. P. totally unable to earn his own living. His resources now are completely exhausted, and he is much in need of a suit of clothes, size 38, and a pair of shoes, 9 or 9½. Since he is not able to travel any distance, we hope that in the event that some reader can help him with discarded apparel it will be mailed to him. The name and address will be supplied upon request.

Mr. N., on the south side of the city, is in grave need of a pair of shoes, size 7½ or 8. He has been without work for some time and walks a good deal every day seeking a job. The only pair of shoes he possesses is entirely worn, and his feet have become swollen and blistered as a result of wearing them. Can some reader provide footwear for him?

Two men fighting tuberculosis have come to me with appeals for clothing.

Mr. O., who is in a sanitarium on the west side, writes:

"I am at present in the X—— sanitarium because of tuberculosis. My only real friend, my wife, has been a patient in another hospital for the past two years because of a mental disorder. I am very much in need of clothing, and have no one to whom I can turn, so I will be most grateful for your help."

It is not possible for Mr. O. to call for clothing. The sizes required are shoes, size 9; suit, size 40 [slim]; overcoat, 42; hat or cap, 7; shirts, 15. He is 6 feet tall.

● ● ●

Does any reader have springs and mattresses of twin bed size which could be given to Mr. K. on the south side? His wife has been ill for some time and is just recovering from her second major operation. It is necessary that she have complete rest in a bed of her own, and although friends have supplied twin beds, Mr. K. has been unable to obtain either springs or mattresses. He does WPA work and his salary is $55 per month. There are boys 9 and 13 in the family, and it is most difficult for the family to provide for food and shelter. The father will also be grateful for any discarded clothing for the youngsters, as he is unable to outfit them.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Usually the scoops from fashion showings are the models worn by the mannequins. Not so with the frock I've copied in pattern No. 5256! It was a fashion reporter from a Paris journal who wore the outfit, and I was so intrigued by it, and saw in it so many practical possibilities for the ever-utilitarian eye of the American woman, that I engraved it on my memory so that you might have a costume like it.

The original of this model consisted of a teal blue, sheer crêpe dress, and a black toque and bolero made of krimmer cloth. The combination may seem rather startling, but it really is infinitely smart and eye-catching in a discreet way. The brightness of the blue is toned down by the severity of the black, and the result is smart and distinguished.

The neckline of the dress is V, finished with a binding and a brief bow. The shoulders are squared and the sleeves may be either long or short. The neckline may be built up, if you like it that way. The snug waistline serves as point of origin for some necessary shirrings which lend softness to the bodice. The skirt, in the current tradition, hugs the hips in a pencil-slim line, and flares moderately at the hemline.

The BLACK MARK

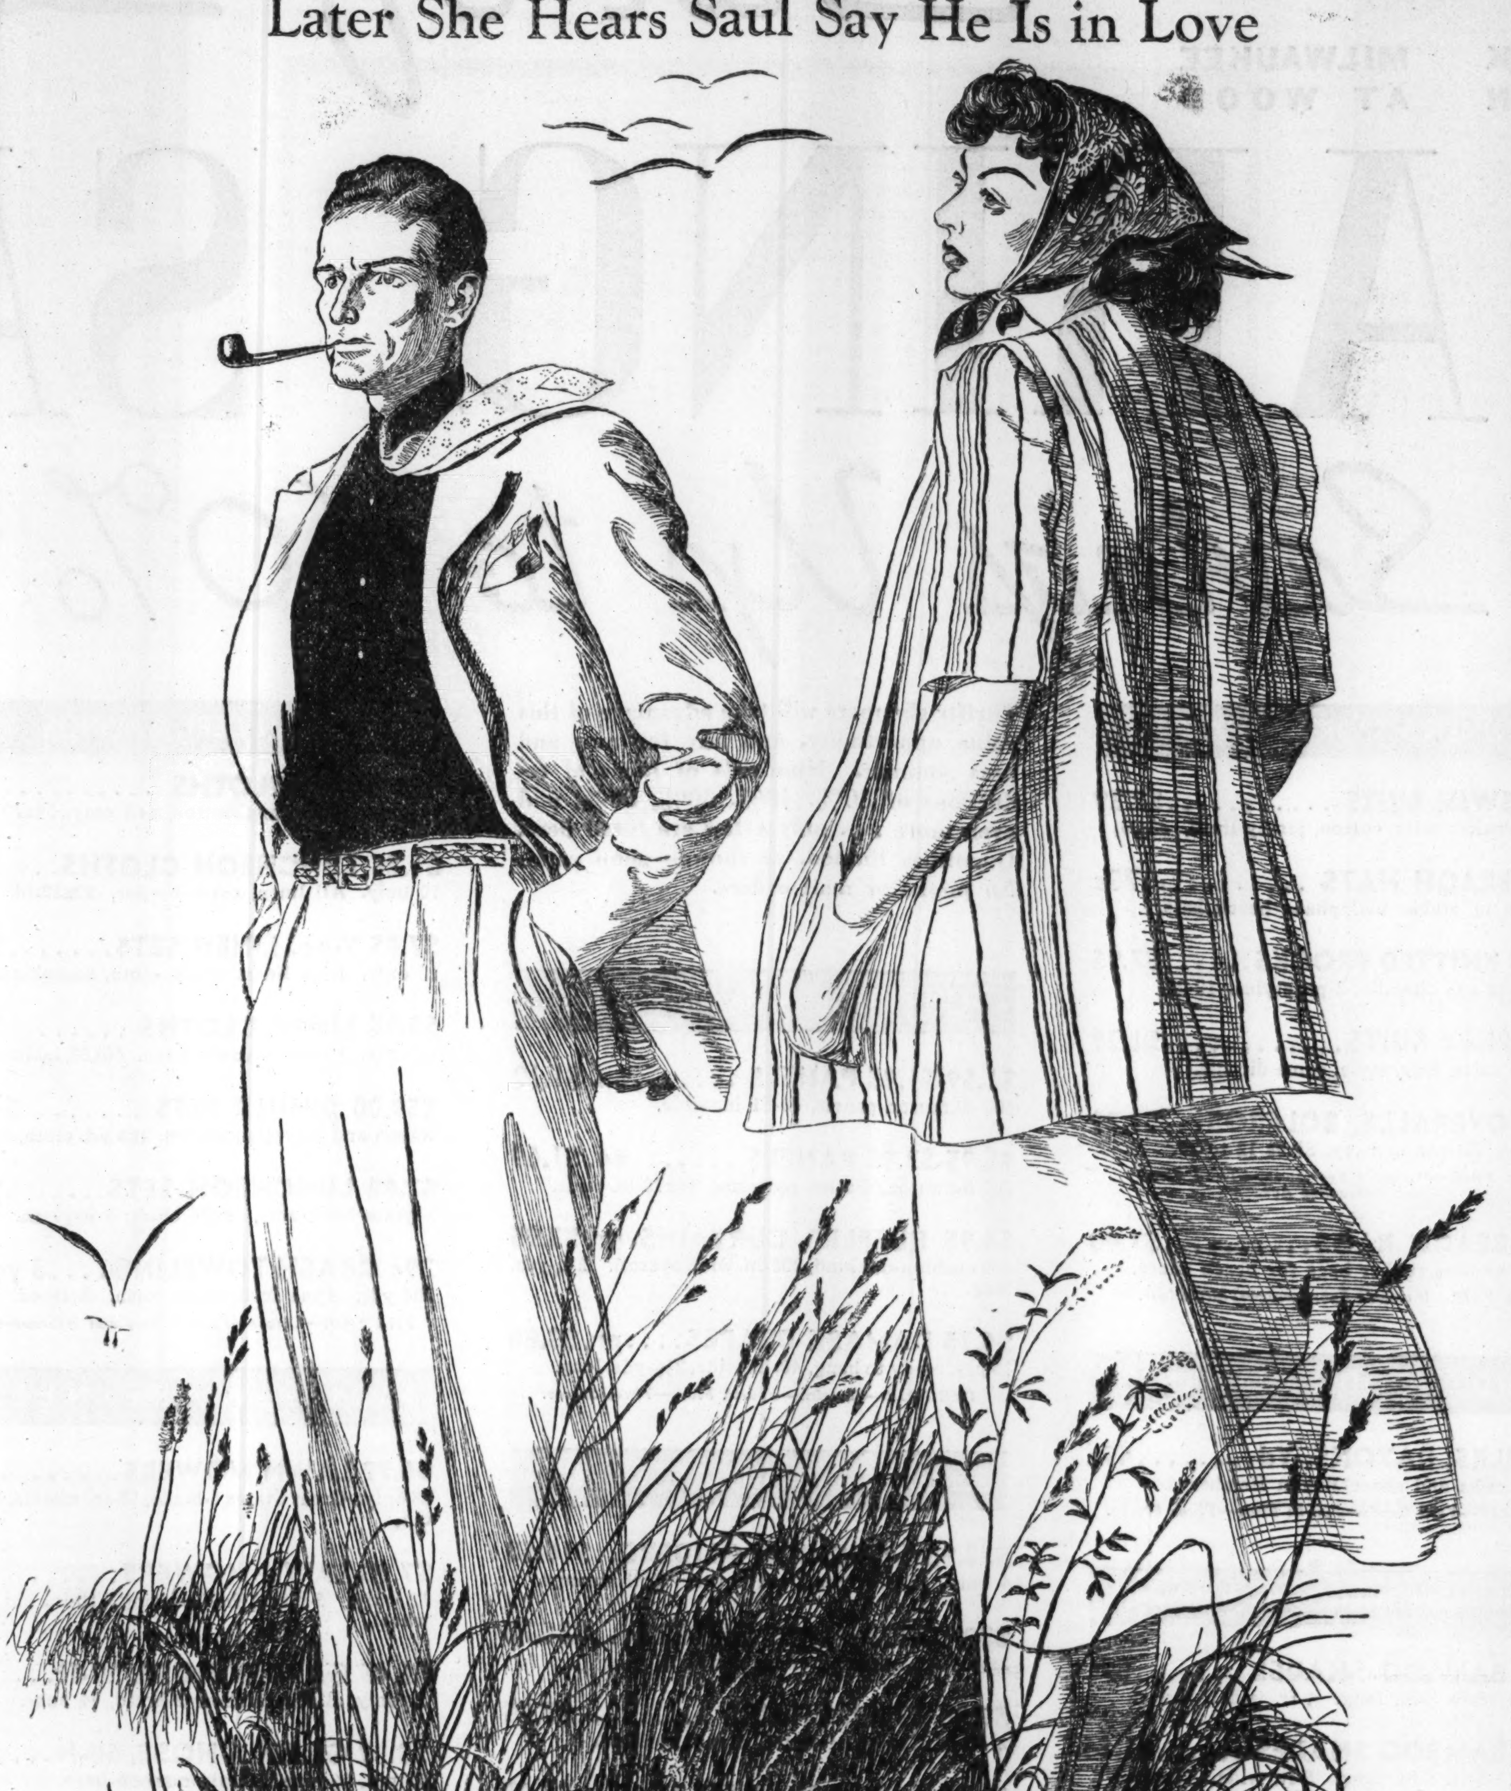
Anna Spends Delightful Day in the Country with Ronny; Later She Hears Saul Say He Is in Love

THE STORY TO DATE

● Anna Silver, returning to her lodgings in a London suburb, finds the house deserted and an unconscious man on the stairway. When she brings back the police the man is gone. Mrs. Weldegger, the landlady, Lot, her son, and Philly, the half-witted maid, even the new lodger, Ben Saul, Mrs. Weldegger's brother, insist they never saw the man. Bewildered, Anna goes off to work, forgetting about a photo she found beside the man. Returning that evening she sees the young man of the photo. She approaches him and tells him her story. He is Ronny Eltham. Her description of the unconscious man fits his friend, Philip Hartigan, from Africa. He arouses Anna's suspicions by refusing to appeal to the police. Ben Saul wins her confidence by his apparent honesty. He claims authorship of the highly successful play "The Black Mark." That Hartigan has returned from Africa to blackmail him, because of a crime committed in his youth. Saul says Hartigan was drunk and fell just as Anna was entering the house and they fled in panic, returning to hide him when she went for help. Saul intends to leave England soon and says he gave Hartigan enough to keep him quiet till then. Actually Hartigan wrote the play and sent it to Saul, who collected the profits. It was Hartigan who committed the crime and fled to Africa to escape punishment. Hartigan has been drugged and taken to a hiding place. Saul courts Anna. She defends him to Ronny, who believes him a crook, even though she knows she is being shadowed, and barely escapes from an attack by the half-witted maid. She consents to go to "The Black Mark" with Ronny. It is the drama of a man hounded by his past, the hero finally accepting his punishment. Unlike the hero, Anna notes, Saul plans to run away. Ronny follows Saul from the theater, hoping to find Hartigan.



It was a vast, brooding flat . . . on whose fringes sea birds nested and sent their cries to add to the melancholy of the scene.

INSTALMENT VI.

(Copyright: 1938: By Douglas Newton.)

ANNA rose that Sunday morning with her sense of disquiet increased. Mrs. Weldegger's abounding affability over the breakfast table seemed ghoulish.

Coming down again after getting her coat and hat, she passed Lot on the stars on his way to Philly, imprisoned in her attic. More pasty and unshaven than ever, the smile he gave her seemed a mocking leer. Even that lout, like the rest of them, had been playing with her all the time.

Her tension grew as she telephoned Ronny Eltham's lodgings. Ronny was not there. He had not been home all night.

Anna decided to go to Ronny's lodgings. She would be on the spot, anyhow, if any message came through.

She spent the journey full of dread. What could be the cause of Ronny's silence—except something direful?

Mrs. Collar had good news of Ronny.

"Rung up a bare three minutes after you, Miss. Apologized 'ansome, too. Buzyness kep' 'im out larst night. 'E sounded quite perky, too. Ses yor to meet 'im at Gravesend railway station, please. . . . I reckon 'e rang up from there, as a matter o' fac'. . . . Yers, 'e ses 'e'll be waiting for you from midday on. Yers, Gravesend, Miss, down the River Thames, you know. 'E ses catch a train from Charing Cross. . . ."

Anna caught a train almost at once. It crept at a gait worthy of the British Sunday through the despairing dullness of London's southeastern suburbs and out into the low Kentish hills

At Gravesend, Ronny, looking more eager than she had known him, and therefore more boyish, was waiting for her. He seemed so pleased to see her that she had to say: "You gave me a terrible scare."

"Did I?" his hand gripped hers with a warm firmness she found reassuring, "I'm terribly sorry, but this sleuthing business is so exciting that I forgot everything else."

"You had no trouble in following Mr. Saul?"

"None, well, not at first—but do you mind lunching now? I've been rushing round the country since seven and I'm horribly hungry."

After they had found a place to eat and sat at the table he told her what had happened. Mr. Saul had left the Isis theater and sauntered down towards Piccadilly circus.

From the circus he drifted eastward through the backstreets of Covent Garden until he reached a turning that was not so much a street as a little gem of an 18th century backwater, somewhere near Lincolns inn.

Mr. Saul entered a house in this street and remained there so long Ronny almost decided that he would not emerge again that night. Luckily just before he gave in a man came out. It was not Mr. Saul, but the man with the bat-ears who had been shadowing Anna. Also he was carrying a couple of heavy suitcases, which was significant.

The man did not see Ronny, who had found an excellent vantage point behind a lilac bush that overhung the front garden wall of a house at the corner of the street. From here he watched Bat-ears walk away to the far end of the street and turn out of it to the east. For a moment he wondered if he ought to follow this fellow, but the two suitcases decided him that Saul was bound to follow, as, in less than a half an hour he did.

He, too, went the way of Bat-ears, leading Ronny through Lincolns inn and down into Fleet street. He crosed this and going through a number of small alleys on the river side entered a bar. It was full of men who knew Sol and soon he was busy drinking and talking with a group of them. Unfortunately Ronny was unable to get close enough to hear what was said, though it seemed to him that they all treated Saul with a good natured contempt.

"No, that's probably just prejudice," Anna put in. "It's not going to help."

"Perhaps you're right," he agreed with unexpected readiness. "One thing I did pick up, though. A man coming in late hailed Saul over the heads of the crowds, and among the things he shouted was: "When does the world tour start?" and Saul bawled back: "Can't get away for weeks yet." Then someone called: "Not until he's plundered the Filmstines," and everybody laughed, including Saul. It struck me a useful point for us.

"You mean it confirms his statement that he won't be leaving the country at once?"

"Yes, it gives us time to work," Ronny nodded. "Also it means he won't do anything—er—drastic to Hartigan meanwhile. He's not the sort to run risks until he is sure he can escape."

"I've always felt that," Anna smiled," but that was mere feminine intuition."

There had been no more until Mr. Saul had left the public house, which he did soon after eight. He struck down the side streets leading towards the Thames, and when he reached the embankment he crossed it as though he meant to pick up a tram at one of the stopping places here. However, to Ronny's surprise he ignored these and went onto a floating pier beside the river. Crossing this he boarded a motorcruiser tied up alongside.

Bat-ears helped Mr. Saul aboard, and when he went out of sight into the after cabin, helped to cast off, the slighter man starting up the engines.

There were two men leaning against the embankment wall near Ronny. They had been talking greyhound racing when he arrived, but at the sound of the engines they looked at the motor boat and one, in a bowler hat, made some sort of remark. The other who was dressed like a seafaring man said: "Yeh, she's a beaut. Not a bad way o' taking a bus home, either."

"You mean the chap who's just gone aboard has a house on the river?" asked Bowler-hat.

"That's right. Bought it lately I should say, an' uses that launch like a bus or tram to get to it. Some coves 'ave all the luck."

• • •

THE motor cruiser was out in the stream by then, but instead of heading upstream, where all the summer residences are, it swung round and went down river toward the sea. Bowler-hat commented on this, wanting to know where Mr. Saul's house was—Southend or Canvey Island.

"Gravesend," the seafaring man said, and as the other snorted, declaring that was impossible because there were only cement works on the Gravesend shore, he went on. "Gravesend, or just beyond. I 'eard the chap who works her say as much today."

All the same Bowler-hat, who obviously knew the Thames like the back of his hand, as he said, was puzzled to know just where such a gentleman's house could be. He declared that beyond Gravesend most of the shore was marsh or mud as far as the mouth of the Medway. Did the fireman mean some place beyond the Medway, on the Isle of Sheppey, for instance.

The fireman didn't know anything exact, but he was sure it wasn't Sheppey from what he'd heard. It was somewhere beyond Gravesend but not as far as Sheppey. They argued over it like lawyers, Ronny said, but actually that was all he got from them, so he decided to try Gravesend.

"So that's why you dashed off in Alf's motor car last night," Anna said. "But why the hurry?"

"I know it sounds absurd now," he said apologetically. "But last night I felt I might be able to race ahead in the motor car and reach Gravesend in time to pick up the motor cruiser as she passed. I had an idea that once I had sighted her I might be able to keep abreast of her in the car until I saw where she anchored and so locate Saul's hiding place.

"It was absurd, of course, as I realized when I got down here and found large sections of landscape garnished with hills, trees, cement factories and their stacks between me and the Thames."

He looked so boyish and rueful that Anna had to say, "Poor Ronny, you hoped to serve success on my breakfast plate!"

"Well, it's a lovely day for motoring, too," he smiled. "And since you have a personal interest. . . ."

"All right," she laughed frankly. "I don't think I could have forgiven you if you'd left me out."

"We're heading," Ronny said as he started the car, "for the Hundred of Hoo."

"Where or what is a Hoo?" Anna laughed.

"A Hoo," he said gravely, "is something that exists just this side of Grain."

"I don't believe it. No dictionary could bear such sounds."

"Amazing! he cried in mock horror. "Here on your very London doorstep is the famous Kentish district known as the Hundred of Hoo, mentioned, probably with bated break, in doomsday book, A. D. 1085. Also it contains in almost voluptuous array, the world renowned parishes of Hoo St. Werburg, Hoo St. Mary, Hoo, All Hallows, High Halstow——"

"I didn't read the local guide book last night," she said.

"Nor your Dickens—ever?" he asked.

"That's blasphemy. I love Dickens."

"Impossible. You know nothing of Joe Gargery and his forge; Pip and Magwitch, who escaped from the convict hulks on this very river——"

"Great Expectations!" she almost shouted. "Of course, the Gravesend marshes. Is that where we're going? How wonderful!"

Steadily the ground near the river grew more swampy and isolated. It was a vast, brooding flat, broken by dykes and creeks and reedy, semi-stagnant "fleets," on whose fringes sea birds nested and sent their cries to add to the melancholy of the scene.

Ronny was sure that in so flat an expanse it ought to be easy to pick up such a craft as Mr. Saul's motor boat, either anchored off the sea wall in the Thames, or lying in one of the creeks. That, definitly, would tell them where Mr. Saul was; where, in fact he was hiding Hartigan.

"And if you find it?" Anna asked.

"Well, then we can study the place, and I can come down again tomorrow, find out if it's possible to get Hartigan away and, well, perhaps get him away."

"You mean you'll tackle them all single handed?" Anna was conscious of a touch of fear.

"I doubt whether Saul will be there," Ronny said. "If he returns to London in that motorboat the man who works it will go, too, possibly Bat-ears as well. That should not leave many to tackle."

The marshes were broken up, and the view obscured by rising ground and trees in many places. There were no real roads across them, either, merely foot paths that would not take a car. To get from point to point they had to make wide detours by lanes that seemed to wind endlessly between high hedges.

Even when they did reach the marshland again, they saw whole patches where clumps of trees hid farmsteads and creeks. Each of these would have to be approached by open field paths and explored on foot, a nasty business without disguise.

"And it'll take a week to examine them all thoroughly," Ronny said as they stood in the declining sun looking at one such distant farm that might, or might not, be hiding Mr. Saul's motorboat in its shadow.

"A month," Anna said. "It fact I don't see how you're going to discover the right place in time without knowing its name."

"Even though we don't know it, I've got to rescue Hartigan," Ronny said grimly. "I'll start in tomorrow. I'll borrow this car for a week."

"I wonder if I could manage to find out from the Weldeggers?" Anna said as they returned to the car.

Ronny shot a look at her, but recognizing that she herself did not yet realize how much she had come over to his side, merely said quietly: "That would be an immense help. Now we'd better find somewhere to eat."

They drove back to Rochester and found a restaurant under the shadow of St. John Risher's ancient cathedral. Sitting down to cold, Southdown mutton, they discussed the situation. Presently Ann asked:

"Can you give so much time from your studies? It may be a very long search."

"I've got to," he said fiercely. "I've got to free Hartigan."

• • •

SHE was warmed by the boyish generosity and his single-hearted devotion. More and more she was seeing that there were depths in Ronny Eltham that were better even for not being easily displayed. She found herself saying:

"Yes, he must be rescued, but it will be too big a task for one alone. I'll help you."

"But, how can you," he demanded. "It would be great, but there's your work."

"I'll having my holiday this week. I begin it on Friday night. I've been thinking it out. I was to go to Devon, but I've fixed nothing yet. I can just as well come here, helping you search. It will be a good hiking holiday, anyhow."

"But that's splendid," he cried. "Between us we ought to halve the search. Especially if you can get a hint from the Weldeggers where the hiding place is. And, I'll haunt that pub near Fleet street, too, to see if I can pick up anything there. And get better maps. We'll systematize the hunt."

As they left Rochester they became caught in the stream of trafic homing to London. Their progress up the steep hill that makes a bottleneck just outside the town was a crawl that became a full stop at a junction of roads further on. As they sat watching the outward stream creep into the side fork, Anna suddenly cried:

"By jinks," Ronny gasped, "the driver is the chap who works Saul's motor-cruiser, but how did you——"

"Lot Weldegger and Philly were sitting behind."

"Phew," Ronny whistled. "And Philly was being sent to Mrs. Weldegger's brother in the country—that must be Mr. Saul himself. That means they're even now on the way to the house we want."

He tried to turn his car to follow, but it was hopeless. The policeman held them while masses of trafic went by, so that when they got into the branch road and clear of other vehicles they found the road ahead of them empty for miles.

"No chance of coming up with them now," Ronny said as he slowed again. "But not altogether bad luck. It confirms our theory. Mr. Saul's house is in this district, more, since this road runs through to All Hallows on the edge of the creeks near the Isle of Grain, I think we'll find the place there."

"And Philly being taken there may help us when we make inquiries," Anna said. "She's such an oddity that she is bound to attract attention."

"Yes, and her being here is a relief," Ronny said with strange feeling. "I never liked the wildcat being in the house with you."

"Not a bad day's work then," she said lightly to hide her feelings. "We've found out a lot, and it's been glorious in the country."

"Yes, glorious," he said, and he said it in a way that told her that it had meant something even more personal to him.

Sharp with vindictiveness Mrs. Weldeggger's voice came from below: ". . . I'm asking you again, Ben Saul, what's between you and this girl? What's your game, now?"

Anna in her dressing gown, clutching the tooth-brush and towel that were to be her alibi, hovered near the stairs ready to dart for the bathroom if surprised. She heard Mr. Saul's voice say:

"Quiet, Emma, she may hear."

"Not she," Mrs. Weldegger snapped. "She's cowering behind her locked door as usual. Besides, what if she does, it's time things were cleared up. What are you up to?"

"Up to? I don't understand," Mr. Saul stammered. "You—you bewilder me so, Emma."

"Don't try that talk on me," the woman jeered. "That flustered helplessness cuts no ice—I know you too well. And I'm not the fool you think. Why are you making up to her? Yesterday evening and again this, fawning on her, talking sugar. . . . Why, when I came in just now you were all but holding her hand."

Anna listened with an odd tension that puzzled even herself. It was true that Mr. Saul's attitude had disturbed and stirred her during the past two days.

Since their outing on Sunday she had not seen Ronny Eltham. She knew he was spending his evenings as well as his days in trying to gather information, but lack of contact had let in Mr. Saul, and the doubts Mr. Saul's presence always raised.

Mr. Saul was more fumbling than ever, for he seemed harassed and tired, and whenever his sister spoke appeared to shrink within himself as if fearing attack. And when Mrs. Weldegger, who now had only a daily maid, was forced to leave them alone to do the kitchen work, he turned to Anna with such wistful relief that she was sure that something had gone wrong.

• • •

HE SEEMED worried and distrait and almost pathetically eager to lean upon one he considered sympathetic. Yet from his very condition, more vague and disconnected than ever, so that Anna at first thought it was because he was finding difficulties in settling his affairs that he was disturbed. Feeling a little deceitful, she tried to find out about that.

"Oh, no—no," he sighed. "No difficulties there — thanks to my youthful conradeship with the wicked, I can get away any minute if. . . . Sometimes I feel it would be better to go at once, whatever I lose. . . . It'd be an escape from so much ugliness, so much greed. . . ."

She winced as he moved close, put his hand over her's and sighed: "Money really is a curse. . . . It spoils so much. . . . People one trusts. . . ."

She went very still. Did he mean her? Had he found out about her expedition with Ronny?

"You don't know what it means, Anna, to have just one person to turn to," he said, his hand tightening. "When even those who should be closest and dearest. . . ." He checked and looked toward the door through which a sound had come up from the kitchen.

It was Mrs. Weldegger he did not trust then. There had been trouble between them. That, too, was the reason for his sister's sullenness, and he was practically telling her the reason was—money! Was even his sister trying to exploit his danger, demanding money for her share in protecting him?

She looked at him—poor man. Whatever he'd done he had entangled himself in a desperate web. He caught her eyes, smiled wanly: "I know. . . . It's folly. But I'm so helpless . . . and she's my own sister . . . what can I do? . . . And she has been so kind. . . ."

He seemed so pitiful, so miserable, so absurdly unlike a villian that her heart went out to him—to have that gang battering on his miseries. Surely that proved him a man far too weak to have accomplished the clever crookedness Ronny thought him cable of?

When, after she had got into bed, she heard Mrs. Weldegger's voice going on for an hour, obviously raised against Mr. Saul, obviously bullying him, her doubts increased.

If she had seen Ronny on Tuesday she might have gained firmness from him, but she did not, he did not even telephone to her. While at her return to Heath house the sense of strain was greater. Mr. Saul seemed crushed and silent, and not only did Mrs. Weldegger look like an angry fury, but it seemed from her glances that Anna also shared her animosity.

"She knows I feel you are the only one I trust," Mr. Saul had said when, somehow, they talked of the woman after she went downstairs. "And she's right. I've no one else . . . no one else can help me."

She was moved by the emotion in his voice, touched shamed by her treachery with Ronny Eltham. Uneasily she murmured something conventional, but he came across to where she sat on the sofa, caught her hands.

"Anna my dear, I'm getting desperate," he said in a choked voice. "It's getting too much for a man like me. . . . I'm not built for it. . . . It's horrible. . . . Blackmail from my own kin. . . . I'd rather lose everything — everything than have to wallow through such beastliness. You may think me a weak man, a weak old man. . . ."

Embarrassed, touched, she caught him up there: "That's being just silly, you're not at all old, and you need not be weak. . . ."

"No, I don't feel weak when I'm with you," he said. "If only you——"

It was then Mrs. Weldegger had come into the room. Full of suspicions the woman had crept stealthily up from the kitchen, and deliberately chosen her moment of entry. She said nothing, but to Anna, terribly shaken as she was by Mr. Saul's emotion, her coming was appalling. How she managed to carry through the dreadful few minutes before she made an excuse to go to her room, she did not know.

So she had hurried into her room, dragging off her dress and snatching up her dressing gown and other things—so she had reached the stair head in time to overhear Mrs. Weldegger's demands.

"Yes, all but kissing her," the woman said shrilly. "In another moment you'd ha' been proposing."

"Yes, Emma, I would," Mr. Saul's voice was suddenly clear and decisive. "I love her, you see."

"Love!" the woman was plainly taken aback. "In love! You—you old fool!"

"Perhaps an old fool, too," he said quietly. "But that can't be helped. —I'm in love with her."

On what day were you born? Whatever day it was, there are specific astrological influences about which you should know—influences which pertain to your birth date and to no other day in the year. Wynn has compiled, especially for readers of THE TRIBUNE, detailed analyses of the future to Dec. 31, 1938, giving counsel for all activities. Learn of your own astrological pattern for 1938 by filling out the blank below immediately.

AS ABOVE ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ SO BELOW

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then heed the counsel given.

This Week's Opportunities for All of Us

For ROMANCE: Tuesday evening, Wednesday, Saturday evening, and Sunday.

For FINANCE: None.

For OCCUPATION: None.

For LEGAL MATTERS: Wednesday.

For HEALTH: None.

DAY BY DAY

TODAY and TOMORROW: Be congenial with those who come your way; build friendship with strangers, and promote greater understanding with friends of long standing.

MONDAY, AUG. 22: Keep on the middle path—bylanes may lead to difficult spots to get out of. Best for those born July 3-19, Nov. 4-19, and March 3-18.

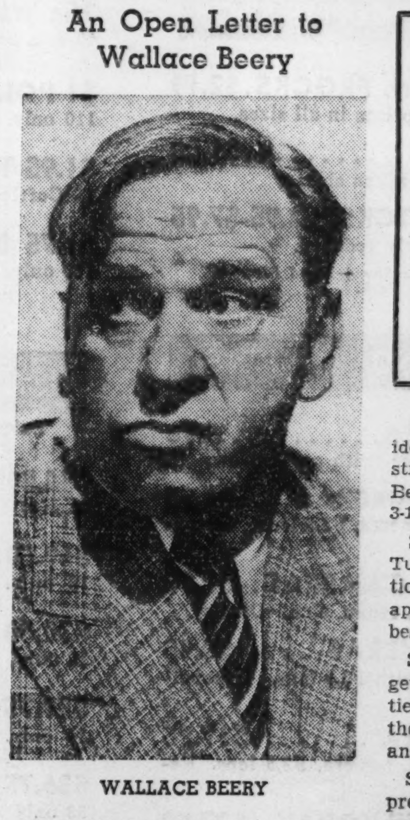
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY: A good time to get busy on projects that can best be completed in an atmosphere of privacy and seclusion.

TUESDAY, AUG. 23: Evening looks promising for headway on previously made plans. Experiments NG. Best for those born July 19-Aug. 4, Nov. 19-Dec. 4, and March 18-April 2.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 24: Go easy with statements and promises—you're likely to overshoot the mark. Best for those born Aug. 4-20, Dec. 4-19, and April 2-17.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY: Bring out your best in appearance, appeal, and skill, and strive for the advancement of interests that are personal in nature.

An Open Letter to Wallace Beery



WALLACE BEERY

Dear Wallace: Look back over your life so far and select any five years. Make a set of notes as to your thoughts and acts; than make another set that would bring generally better results. We are always being forced to choose, sometimes without knowing the true conditions in which we are operating. Now let's take your next five years. Generally, they tend to disintegrate your money and some of your other holdings, but 1939-'41 bring good opportunity to earn more. Results desired can be had by holding down extravagant leanings this year and in 1942, and to some extent in between.

With best wishes, WYNN.

THURSDAY, AUG. 25: Good for planning and deciding till midafternoon. Evening accents sentiment. Best for those born Aug. 20-Sept. 4, Dec. 19-Jan. 3, and April 17-May 2.

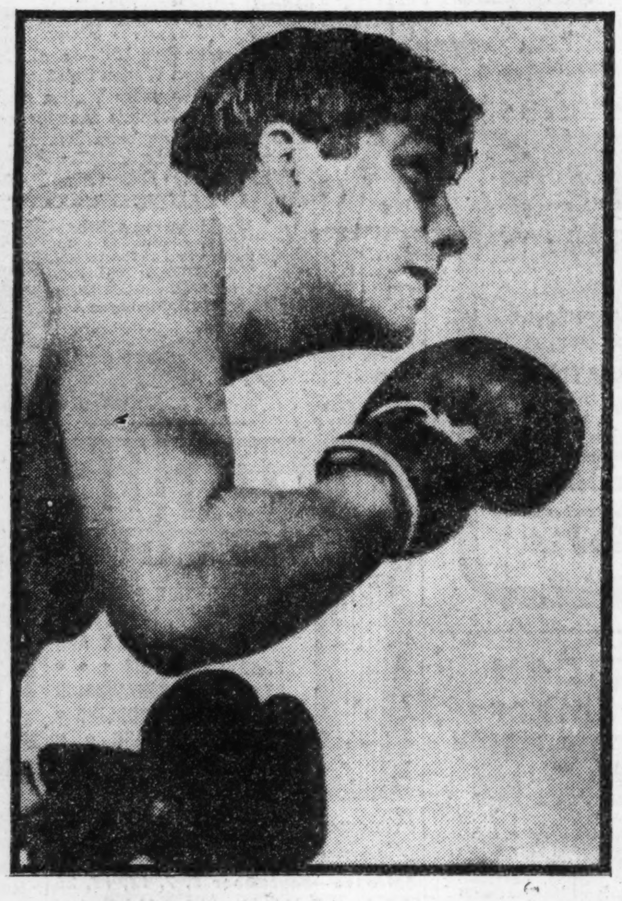
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Part 7 | Drama Music Education

AUGUST 21, 1938.

Above: Fernand Gravet, who returned to France after making a picture in Hollywood, plays the male lead in the French production, "The Lie of Nina Petrovna." His leading lady is Isa Miranda. (World-Playhouse.)



Right: Yes, sir, this tough looking fighter is none other than the handsome Robert Taylor. He and Maureen O'Sullivan are co-starred in "The Crowd Roars" at the United Artists.

Above: Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott are romantically inclined in "The Texans," which is being held over for a second week at the Roosevelt theater.

Left: Gladys Swarthout, once a decorative asset to the Chicago Civic Opera company, and now a mezzo-soprano of national fame, sings in Grant park tomorrow evening.

Left: It looks very much like Shirley Ross and Lloyd Nolan are about to break out of jail in this "still" from the film "Prison Farm." They play the leading roles in this production, and it's being shown at the State-Lake.

Right: Alice Faye as a songstress and Tyrone Power as a band leader are shown here as they appear in "Alexander's Ragtime Band." (Chicago.)

Katherine Cornell Announces Her Return to Stage

Will Star in Production by German Writer

After more than a year of retirement from the stage, occasioned partly by the abandonment of her proposed world tour because of unpromising political conditions in various corners of the globe, Katharine Cornell has finally announced her return to the Broadway stage next season.

For her reëntry upon the American dramatic scene she has selected "Herod and Mirianne," a minor monument of the German romantic period of the midnineteenth century by Christian Friedrich Hebbel. The scene of the play, which is written in prose, is laid in Judea a few years before the birth of Christ.

The career of Hebbel, as little known in America as his plays, is something of a Cinderella story. Born the son of a poor bricklayer in the province of Holstein in 1813, he pulled himself up partly by his own bootstraps and partly through the assistance of wealthy German women, until in the decade before his death at Vienna in 1863 he was acclaimed as one of the greatest living German dramatists. More at home in the field of tragedy than that of comedy, Hebbel reached the peak of his career in an imposing trilogy upon the subject of the Nibelungs. His work upon these dramas was exactly contemporaneous with that of Wagner.

◆

The adaptation of "Herod and Mirianne" to be employed by Miss Cornell has been prepared by Clemence Dane. Henry Horner, a young German follower of Max Reinhardt, will design the decores. Florence Reed has been secured for the rôle of the mother of Mirianne.

The last Chicago engagement of Katharine Cornell fell in the late spring of 1937, when she spent a short period here with two plays, Maxwell Anderson's "Wingless Victory" and Bernard Shaw's "Candida." Miss Cornell was one of the small band of valiant troupers who kept the road alive through the clammiest days of the depression, taking "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to seventy-seven cities.

The duration of her New York booking in "Herod and Mirianne" is as indefinite as the date of its production. Whenever business begins to slacken in New York a tour will be undertaken if the merit of the play fulfills her expectations.

◆

George Bernard Shaw's latest play, "Geneva," subtitled "A Fancied Page of History," opened the tenth annual festival at Malvern, England, recently. As the title hints, the play is a satire upon the convolutions of the league of nations. The salient inconsistencies of league politics are unrelentingly and brilliantly lampooned in a comedy which should, according to the London Times, "be received with relief by thick and thin followers of Shaw."

Shaw's English foreign secretary regards thinking as a procedure wholly outside the best British tradition and becomes the target of many of the author's shafts. The two opening acts, both reasonably short, are said to make many concessions to the theater and the amusement of its paying customers. The exceedingly long last act, however, turns into a flood of controversial political discussion.

◆

"Lightnin'," the unforgotten play in which Frank Bacon played 1,291 times on Broadway and over a year in Chicago two decades ago, is due for a revival next month. Fred Stone will head the cast. John Golden, the original producer of the play, decided mystically that twenty years and twenty days after the first presentation [Aug. 26, 1918] would be a good time to inaugurate the revival. Hence the choice of Sept. 15 as the date for "Lightnin's" rebirth.

◆

The Coach House Players of Oconomowoc, Wis., the middle west's white hope in the field of straw hat endeavors in the theater, has one more play on the griddle, to open tomorrow and run until Saturday. The title is "Marble Angel" and the author is Irving Ramsdell, dramatic critic of a Milwaukee paper. A dramatic study of Michelangelo and the model who is supposed to have inspired him, the new play will be staged with elaborate and picturesque Florentine costumes and background. An earlier plan to produce a script by Ashton Stevens had to be abandoned because of backstage difficulties.

◆

Now that Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart claim to have found an idea for the musical show they are supposed to write for Beatrice Lillie, the producer, Harry Kaufman, happily announces that the piece will enter rehersals in New York in December. Miss Lillie has just finished a successful London run of "Happy Returns" and is idling on the Riviera.

◆

Known to a few people, perhaps, but probably quite unsuspected by the world at large, is the existence of some half a dozen manuscripts of the late Rida Johnson, author of "Little Old New York" and the book of the operetta "Maytime." The best of these is said to be "Candidate," a comedy of the eastern shore of Maryland, politics, and the oyster business.

◆

"No for an Answer," Marc Blitzstein's new brain child, unlike "The Cradle Will Rock," is to be embellished with scenery and an orchestra. It will also do without a narrator, though it will employ a Greek chorus—composed of Greek waiters. Orson Welles is one of the producers currently evincing interest in this two act operetta, which should be ready for production in January.

◆

If the list of fall possibilities for Chicago ever included the Ed Wynn musical, "Hooray for What," it does not include it any longer. There will be no tour.

◆

Ethel Waters, famous colored singer and actress, will be starred in a Guthrie McClintic production of "Mamba's Daughters," a dramatization of the novel by Du Bose and Dorothy Heyward. In another McClintic production, "Legend," Lillian Gish and Mildred Matwick are being considered for the cast.

◆

After a summer's rest the cast of "You Never Know," Cole Porter musical seen here at the Grand Opera house last spring, is being reassembled for a New York engagement. Lupe Velez is coming east from Hollywood to rejoin the cast.

◆

The twentieth season of the St. Louis Municipal opera enters its final week today with the Ziegfeld-Ferber-Hammerstein-Kern "Show Boat" as the attraction. It has been seen in St. Louis in two previous summer seasons. The present cast includes Norma Terris, the Magnolia of the original Ziegfeld cast; Margaret Carlisle in the rôle associated with Helen Morgan; Ronald Graham as Ravenal, George Rasely of the Metropolitan opera as Capt. Andy, Helen Raymond, Vicki Cummings, Jack Sheehan, Kenneth Spencer, and Minto Cato.

◆

"Stage Door," Broadway success by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, is this week's bill at the Belfry theater, located one mile north of Williams Bay, Wis., on Elkhorn road. Performances will be given nightly from Wednesday through next Sunday. Vera Rony, organizer of the New theater at the University of Chicago and director of the Jane Addams memorial pageant in Grant park last summer, heads the cast. Michael St. Angel of Rockford plays the leading male rôle. The guest director for the production is Hez Diefenthaler, director of the Freeport Summer Players. The Belfry Players have been invited to take part in a drama festival in the Garden theater, Milwaukee, next week.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Eva Gordon Horadesky, Chicago contralto, will be assisting soloist at the penultimate outdoor concert by the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the Wilmette Amphitheater Wednesday evening. The starting time has been changed from 8:30 to 8:15. Albert Goldberg, state director of the federal Music project, will conduct both this concert and the closing program of the series Aug. 31. After weeks of concentration and just in time to announce it before the season closes, the sponsoring committee has found a name for the Wilmette concerts. "Starlight Symphonies" is the name. Wednesday's program follows:

Eva Gordon Horadesky.

Overture to "The Secret of Suzanne" .... Wolf-Ferrari
Suite, "Scheherezade" ...... Rimski-Korsakov
"Ah, Rendimi," from "Mitrane" .... Rossi
Eva Gordon Horadesky
"Mon cœur s'ouvre à ta voix," from "Samson and Delilah" ...... Saint-Saëns
Eva Gordon Horadesky
"Natchez on the Hill" .... John Powell
Danza Piemontese .... Sinigaglia
Overture to "Die Fledermaus" .... Johann Strauss

The annual meeting of the Yaddo Music group will be held this year from Aug. 26 to Sept. 12 at Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. A chamber orchestra and the Walden quartet of Cleveland will be in residence during the period, as will Ethel Luening, soprano; Benjamin De Loache, baritone, and Ralph Kirkpatrick, harpsichordist. The last named artist will play unfamiliar old works discovered by him in Europe last year while he profited from the leisure afforded by a Guggenheim fellowship. Yaddo is not a typical music festival, but rather a place where American composers may have new works informally performed by the resident musicians. At least eleven composers will share in the coöperative undertaking.

◆

More and more Benny Goodman, of recent Ravinia fame, seems to be crashing the gates of serious music. In addition to appearances with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, announced not long ago, he has further contracted to play the clarinet with the Budapest String quartet in two concerts in Town Hall, New York, next season. Works by Mozart, Brahms, and Prokofieff are promised.

◆

Social note: Hans Herman Rosenwald, well known musicologist of the Chicago Musical college faculty, was married July 21 to Miss Winifred Glass.

◆

The Boston Symphony orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, conductor, will again play in Ann Arbor next season as part of the 1938-'39 Choral union series of concerts and recitals. Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, opens the course on Oct. 27. Other events are the Cleveland orchestra, Artur Rodzinski, conductor; José Iturbi, pianist; Kirsten Flagstad, soprano; Josef Hofmann, pianist; the Budapest university chorus, Viktor Vaszy, conductor; Yehudi Menuhin, violinist; Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist, and the Roth quartet.

◆

The Paderewski fund prize competition remains open until March 1, 1939. Two prizes of $1,000 each are offered, one for a work for chamber orchestra requiring from fifteen to twenty minutes for performance, and one for a concerto or other work for solo instrument and symphony orchestra requiring not less than fifteen minutes. Judges of the competition are Hans Lange, Quincy Porter, and Sigismund Stojowski. The competition is open only to American born citizens or those born abroad of American parents. The works must not have been played anywhere or offered in any previous competition. Details of the contest may be obtained from Mrs. Elizabeth C. Allen, secretary of the Paderewski fund, 290 Huntington avenue, Boston, Mass. The principal of the fund was donated a number of years ago by Mr. Paderewski in order to encourage serious creative effort among American composers.

◆

Up at College camp on Lake Geneva music has figured largely in the pleasures of the summer. A number of Chicago artists have appeared in the recitals arranged by Clare John Thomas. Tonight's performers are Evelyn Ewert, soprano, and George Graham, baritone.

Czech System of Education Is Progressive

By the Rev. John Evans.

Czechoslovakia is very much to the fore in current news. Like America, it is a republic, but unlike this country, its democracy is threatened by absolutist governments and peculiar minority population problems demanding masterly statesmanship. "Training in Democracy," by Francis H. Stuerm, recently published under the auspices of the Progressive Education association is, consequently, a most timely book.

Dr. Stuerm's book gives an account of the efforts of the Czechoslovakian republic to establish and maintain a program of education expressly to meet the needs of a democracy. Since democratic ideals imply individual liberty combined with self-government through voluntary coöperation, it is obvious that citizens must be accustomed to weigh evidence and be self-reliant from their earliest years in order that they may have the habit of democracy when they mature.

Inspired by the teachings of Comenius and set in motion largely through the efforts of Masaryk, the education today in Czechoslovakia may be termed progressive and founded on this basic idea that "training in democracy should be the concern of every teacher, in every subject, in every grade of every school in the republic." The school system is strictly centralized and the curriculum for all schools of the same level is uniform.

The progressives in education have, naturally, experienced opposition from the conservatives, and the reforms in the secondary schools have mostly been accomplished by ministerial decree. Part of the opposition arose from man's inherent fear of anything new, part from the honest fear that innovations might lessen the quality of the excellent school system in the west section of the republic, where liberalized schools existed. Also, as in other European countries, Czechoslovak schools of university rank are strongholds of conservatism founded on history and tradition.

"It is their stiff requirement," says Dr. Stuerm, "of amassed knowledge which makes the position of secondary school reformers so difficult and lends the conservative defense this mighty weapon; secondary standards cannot be lowered as long as they aim to prepare for university study."

But the progressives are gaining all along the line and the fruit of their educational ideas is already making a national impression. For instance, pupils in the upper grades are mature enough to "take part on their own initiative in something more real and vital—actual public movements and organizations of their home cities—often along party lines, through chapters both inside and outside their schools, and they play important parts in many a national and cultural movement," says Dr. Stuerm, writing of "Self-Reliance and Ability," in the secondary schools.

A feature of the republic's educational scheme are the "Komenia"—experimental junior high schools—named after Comenius and authorized in 1929 by Dr. Derer, socialist minister of education, where the classes are divided according to intelligence and scholastic ability. They are organized on a semester basis, instead of by the year. Pupils who may be retarded in a single subject or two repeat only these studies and are promoted in all the rest.

Comenius, 1592-1671, was the last bishop of the old church of the Moravian and Bohemian brethren. He disliked pedantic methods of teaching and insisted that the teaching of words and things must go together. He taught languages by the conversation method and was the first man to use pictures in the instruction of children. These methods are followed in all the Komenia; thus in the Zlin school, for example, the history manual used is "Pictures from the History of Humanity." Briefly, the development of humanity is stressed, with progress as the criterion of judgment; dates as mere numbers are ignored but the spirit of the epoch is emphasized.

While Dr. Stuerm admits that, "at the moment, the innovations of the practical reformers have outrun the interpretations of the nation's philosopher," he concludes "that the essentials of technique of training in democracy have been established and that the schools of Czechoslovakia now teach in harmony with its spirit."

Wagnerian Music

A special New York world's fair season of Wagnerian opera has been announced by the Metropolitan Opera association. Seven performances will be given between May 3 and 17, 1939. "Die Meistersinger" has been chosen as the opening opera. The four operas of the "Nibelungen Ring"—"Das Rheingold," "Die Walküre," "Siegfried," and "Die Götterdämmerung"—will be given in order, followed by "Tristan and Isolde" and "Parsifal." Officially the operas will be presented by the fair management, for whom Olin Downes, New York music critic, is acting as musical advisor. The Metropolitan management, however, will place its full resources at the command of fair officials. Artur Bodanzky and Erich Leinsdorf will conduct, and the names of Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior will figure in some of the casts. The scenery and costumes of the Metropolitan will be employed.

Critic Examines Arguments For Opera in English

Finds They Fall Into Nothingness

By Edward Barry.

In the large cities of the English speaking world opera subscribers flock to their auditoriums season after season to listen to performances in Italian, French, and German. That cultivated Londoners, New Yorkers, and Chicagoans understand these tongues as perfectly as they do their own language is a fiction which nobody believes but which in some circles is allowed tacitly to persist.

The result is very funny. People who have supported opera for thirty years are still vague as to why Canio is so mad at Silvio. Zuniga's part in Don José's downfall is but dimly comprehended. Any one can see that Azucena is a little put out with the Count di Luna, but this fact is vaguely ascribed to the obvious difference between their social positions. Fricka's thirty minute remark to Wotan is passed off as one of the many philosophical episodes of the "Ring." "Wagner was such a great thinker, you know."

For a longer period of time than the memory of the oldest inhabitant can span, the advocates of opera in English have been putting forth arguments against the foolishness of giving these expensive entertainments in a tongue which the audience cannot understand. Their arguments seem sound and powerful—until you think to inquire as to the net results of their decades of effort!

• • •

The picture that greets one then is disturbing in the extreme. The most important opera companies of the English speaking world continue cheerfully to sing the vast majority of their performances in foreign tongues. The usual fate of the operas in English which some managers occasionally risk is a half empty house and a new set of disillusioned customers.

When apparently sound arguments result in almost nothing at all as far as practical consequences are concerned there is an excuse for re examining the foundation on which these arguments rest. Perhaps the opera in English missionaries have made a basic mistake—a mistake which invalidates all of the good reasoning by which they have tried so sincerely to advance their cause. It is the modest purpose of this article to point out exactly where the fallacy lies. First an outline of the arguments in favor of opera in English.

Opera is drama set to music. The purpose of the music is to intensify the emotional import of the words, to illumine mere speech with the lucid mood painting of which only music is capable. Obviously, a listener can understand the full import of the drama only by knowing what is being intensified and illumined. The value of the music lies as much in its suitability as in its inherent beauty—in first rate music drama the two qualities tend to become one—so the listener who does not understand the language is not only incapable of enjoying the piece to the full, but is also without the necessary criterion by which the music is to be judged.

• • •

An additional argument, less potent but more human, is that other nations do not customarily tolerate opera in languages other than their own. "Die Meistersinger" becomes "I Maestri Cantori" in Rome and "Les Maitres Chanteurs" in Paris.

Returning to the main arguments, I believe that the fallacy lies in the assumptions on which they rest. Stated baldly, these assumptions are: [1] The main purpose of attendance at opera is to enjoy to the full the power and subtlety of the highest form of drama. [2] The secondary purpose is to be able to judge intelligently the esthetic value of the production.

Both of these assumptions are unwaranted. Consequently the whole logical structure which is based on them falls into nothingness. In English speaking countries people go to opera for quite other reasons.

They go first of all to see and hear great personalities of the musical world. Secondly, they go to enjoy the general glamor that attaches to opera, to see or to display jewels, to converse with or at least to stare at the sleek patrons which this sort of entertainment draws, to revel in the air of lavishness which pervades house and audience and performance.

Thirdly, there is the matter of social prestige, for no one ever dropped a notch in the scale because he happened to be seen at too many Monday operas. In the fourth place, opera offers a large amount of conversational fodder—an opportunity, for example, to make a killing at the next day's tea by an account of a happy encounter in the lobby. Fifthly, there is a vague feeling that attendance at the opera has an automatic cultural effect and that any one who goes regularly is doing something or other not only for himself but for the community and for the cause of art.

• • •

If this catalog be accepted as valid, then most reason for opera in English disappears. The tongue in which the piece is sung has no bearing on any of these reasons for attendance at opera.

More important still as far as the fate of opera in English is concerned, a performance in the vernacular is quite apt to make a lower score, on the basis of the five major considerations just detailed, than a mounting of the same work in its original language.

There are likely to be fewer great personalities in the cast, for first rate celebrities whose English diction is intelligible and whose répertoire in that tongue is reasonably large, do not grow on every manager's bush. The glamor of opera is lessened by a poor translation—and good ones are few and far between. Certainly the gleam of a "Lohengrin" performance is clouded over when King Henry's retainers sing:

> "While the sad tale she is revealing,
> The tears adown my cheeks are stealing."

Better on the score of glamor that these ideas be kept in their original language. Better that the original titles, too, be retained. Can you imagine clutching your necklace excitedly as you push through a crowded, buzzing lobby on your way to hear "The Lost One," "The Favorite Girl," "The Troubadour," or "The African Woman"?

The social prestige which adheres to opera suffers a subtle diminution on English nights, for a person's mere presence on such an occasion indicates that he is one of those illiterate proletarians who find the vernacular more intelligible than Italian, French, or German. The conversational advantage which you hold next day is greatly lessened if there has been a falling off in the number of right people present at the performance. And culture, in the sense in which the word is colloquially used, loses in intensity when the tang of the exotic is lessened.

Arguing that we should have opera in the vernacular because the reasons for it are artistically sound is like claiming that the movies should set up reasonably high ideals for their patrons. The purposes of opera and of the movies are alike overlooked.

Johnson to Stay

Contrary to published rumor, Edward Johnson will not retire from his post as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera either this fall or in the near future. Paul D. Cravath, president of the Metropolitan Opera association, recently issued the following statement: "All printed rumors of the resignation of Edward Johnson as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association, Inc., are without any basis of truth. The board of directors hopes that Mr. Johnson will remain as general manager of the Metropolitan for many years to come, and it believes that this is also Mr. Johnson's hope." Mr. Johnson has already served as general manager for three seasons.

RADIO SONGSTRESS

The Friday night audience at Grant park will play host to Jane Froman, well known singer of popular music. She will appear with Leroy Shield and the NBC orchestra.

Three Famous Soloists on Park Programs

By Cecil Smith.

The names of popular celebrities once again crowd the schedule of this week's free open air concerts in Grant park. Tonight's concert is the fifty-first of the lavish array of sixty-seven.

Three soloists known throughout the nation are in this week's list of visitors: Gladys Swarthout, mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan opera, moving pictures, and radio; Alec Templeton, British pianist whose appearance at the Chicagoland Music festival was a peak point of that event last night, and Jane Froman, a singer right up at the top of the popular song field.

Miss Swarthout sings tomorrow evening with the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra. Two evenings later, on Wednesday, Mr. Templeton plays with Walter H. Steindel and his orchestra. Miss Froman is starred Friday with Leroy Shield and his National Broadcasting company orchestra.

It is a particular pleasure to welcome Miss Swarthout back to Chicago, for she was born and brought up in the middlee west, and first attracted wide attention by her performances with the Chicago Civic Opera company and the Ravinia opera. Most of her rôles were small ones, of the sort that do not often enable a singer to see her name in print. In such parts as Siebel in "Faust" and Musetta in "La Bohême" she did, to be sure, draw good arias with which to show her vocal mettle. Yet even in relatively obscure "bit" rôles, like that of Preziosilla in Verdi's "The Force of Destiny" she made more than the usual impression by virtue of her dusky yet youthful voice and her piquant, slender appearance.

• • •

When Miss Swarthout joined the Metropolitan Opera company in 1929 she was awarded better opportunities, and she has remained with the company ever since. In his book entitled "The Metropolitan Opera" Irving Kolodin writes that Miss Swarthout "is one of the few American singers added to the Metropolitan in the last decade to follow a reasonable progress in her development, rarely undertaking rôles for which she is not qualified. Her attractive presence and solid ability have been equally an enhancement to the Metropolitan stage."

When the captains of the motion picture industry turned their attention toward making musical pictures, their scouts combed the country for operatic divas who were slim, whose features would photograph well, whose movements before the camera would not have too much of a windmill character, and whose voices were sufficiently free from tremolo, forcing, wiggling, and other blemishes that become magnified in the recording process. Along with Lily Pons and Grace Moore Miss Swarthout seemed to be a "natural," combining all the attributes necessary for film success.

Since Mr. Templeton has been the subject of no inconsiderable dissertation in these pages for two weeks past, it is hardly necessary to dilate upon his attainments. Suffice it to say that he has demonstrated that a blind musician need not turn himself into a side show in order to win popular success.

Musicianship and a flair as an entertainer are equal components of his public personality. He can—and will—play serious music for you with good grasp of the canons of style applying to its performance, with facile technique and amazing accuracy, and with a floating, lyric tone. Then later on he will entertain you at the piano with imitations and parodies and sundry whimsies suggested to his imagination by a sense of hearing ten times as acute as yours and mine. Yet in the face of tempting opportunities to turn himself into a vaudevillian pure and simple, he has steadfastly kept hold of his musical ideals.

The special craft of Jane Froman lies well outside the daily routine observation of a musical columnist. For a number of years, however, she has maintained enormous popularity without the assistance of the bluenoses of the critical profession.

She was educated in central Missouri. Her voice teachers in school called her a lyric soprano and placed her light, silvery voice in a high register. But the young singer kept her ear glued to her radio. She observed that many of the most successful popular singers employed a light chest voice which, when electrically transmitted, was received better by the microphone than a high voice, and at the same time enabled the singer to appeal to her audience in a somewhat pathetic conversational manner.

So she became a blues singer. No doubt six months of study would be enough to turn her back into a Vivian Della Chiesa or a Helen Jepson, but she has long since won her public and learned how to exploit her chosen medium effectively.

Two of the week's other soloists are Anna Kreutgen, mezzo-soprano, who sings tonight, and Freda Draper, who appears Saturday. Miss Draper has faced the Grant park audience more frequently than any other singer in the last four years. This fall she plans to sail for England. Detailed programs for the week follow:

BUSINESS . . .
The Occupation of the Majority still offers the greatest number of opportunities to those prepared to accept them.
Business employs more men and women than all other specialized occupations. But as in every other field the real opportunities go only to the well prepared.
Regardless of the times, there are always positions in business for young people thoroughly qualified to perform stenographic or secretarial duties.
The opportunities and advancement business offers can be yours with Gregg training. For more than 42 years this College has been outstanding for the quality of its instruction and the achievement of its graduates.

Prize Competition

The California Composers and Writers' society announces a competition open to composers of England, Canada and the United States, to be held in conjunction with the Golden Gate exposition in San Francisco next summer. The prize-winning works will be performed during the week of Aug. 21, 1939.

In each of seven classifications awards will be made: [1] Vocal solos, both sacred and secular; [2] vocal duets, trios or quartets, both sacred and secular; [3] choruses: school club, cantata or oratorio, with orchestra or piano accompaniment, or a cappella; [4] chamber music, including string trios, quartets or quintets, works for strings with either woodwinds or piano, and solos for piano, violin or cello; [5] symphonies for large or small orchestra; [6] operas: libretto with sketch, or complete score with piano or orchestral accompaniment; [7] opera librettos.

The closing date is June 1, 1939. Manuscripts must be submitted under a nom de plume, and must be accompanied by a separate envelope with the name and address of the composer and the title of the composition. The envelope must also contain the nom de plume and a statement that the competitor has composed the work submitted himself, and that it is in his own handwriting. Any composer may enter in as many fields as he wishes. Further information may be obtained from the California Composers and Writers' society, 1176 Sunnyside road, Oakland, Cal.

By Anna Nangle.

"Mother Carey's Chickens" is a happy little movie which the whole family will enjoy. It's clean and simple, but sprightly enough so that it's pleasant entertainment for any one who's not too demanding.

Mrs. Carey and the four little Careys are in constant migration as Capt. Carey is changed from one naval station to another, and they all dream of the day when they will have an established permanent home.

Money is always scarce and after the death of the captain becomes much scarcer. A condescendingly sympathetic relative offers to take two of the children and educate them when the burden becomes too much for Mrs. Carey's health, but the youngsters staunchly refuse to be separated.

The solving of their problems will remind you of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "The Five Little Peppers" and all the other nice old books about big family life you read years ago. One of the girls thinks up a plan, every one coöperates, and before you know it a lovely home is established. Comes the villain, in person of a landlord who proposes to sell their newly found house to a hatchet faced woman from Boston. This scheme, too, is vanquished in regular storybook style and they all presumably live happily ever after.

Fay Bainter is sweet and calm as the mother of the brood, Ruby Keeler and Anne Shirley are primly attractive in their Gibson-girl dresses and coiffures, and James Ellison and Frank Albertson are nice juveniles as their respective heart interests. Jackie Moran is likable as the oldest boy, Gilbert, and little Donnie Dunagan is pretty cute as the mischievous baby brother of the family. You can't help but smile at the scene in which he decides to help the paper hanger and does some fancy work with a huge roll of wall paper, talking away and grunting to himself like a little old man. I also liked Virginia Weidler as a pigtailed little neighbor, one of those pesty kids who adopts poor Gilbert and simply refuses to be shaken.

Director Rowland Lee is to be complimented on the restraint and understanding with which he handled the film.

Teacher Promoted.

George A. Wedge, noted teacher of musical theory, has been appointed director of the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. His appointment fills a vacancy created when Oscar Wagner was moved from that post into the deanship of the Juilliard school. Courses in radio technique and harpsichord playing have been added to the curriculum of the school.

Speaking of Mr. Kipnis, the famous basso, stopped off in Chicago a few days ago en route from Australia and New Zealand to Quebec. When the German army moved into Austria he canceled his summer engagements at Vienna and substituted an Australian tour. From that remote land he returns with words of enthusiasm for their interest in music. "I know of no other country in which a singer may give anywhere from eight to fifteen concerts in a month's time and have at every one of them a capacity audience," he commented. "And this happens in spite of the fact that each concert is broadcast. It happens to all artists who go there. For instance, in Melbourne I gave eight concerts this summer, Richard Tauber sang nine, and Lawrence Tibbett sang eleven, all of them sold out. All of us had many, many requests from remote settlements in the interior, where radio listeners wanted to hear some particular song. And they asked for seldom heard classics in many cases."

Two outdoor concerts remain in the summer schedule of park music in Milwaukee. Appearing in both cases with the Wisconsin Symphony orchestra, Jessica Dragonette, soprano, will sing in Washington park Aug. 23, and Lotte Lehmann, soprano, in Humboldt park Aug. 30. Sigfrid Prager will be the conductor.

Josepha Chekova, remembered for her appearances here with the San Carlo Opera company a few seasons ago, sings Marguerite in Gounod's "Faust" at the Steel pier, Atlantic City, N. J., this coming week-end. Others in the cast are Virginia MacWatters, Harald Hansen, Harold Kravitt, and Edward Rhein. Henri Elkan conducts the Steel pier operas.

Mathilde Ernestine, director of the Beaux Arts salon of the Medinah club, has been in New York conferring with world's fair officials over the possibility of presenting Chicago artists at the fair next summer. The fall season of the Beaux Arts salon opens Oct. 2.

Reports from Tanglewood, Mass., after the first concert of the Berkshire festival are full of praise for the acoustics of the newly constructed music shed. The festival, consisting of six concerts by the Boston Symphony orchestra, under Serge Koussevitzky, ended last Sunday.

'Show Boat' May Be Floated Again—This Time at World's Fair

Plan Revival of Classic Among Musical Plays

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Theatrically speaking, the future of next spring's New York World's fair has by no means been settled, although such other important things as the hot dog concession and the placement of rest rooms are contracted for and in the bag. But enough projects are in the talking stage to warant pleasurable speculation.

One of these—and they all concern productions on the fair grounds and not in the city's theater district—is a revival of the Ferber-Kern-Hammerstein "Show Boat." Not just another revival, of which, even so, there have been too few, but a top flight production worthy of the score, the book, and the lyrics.

In the Fond Memories number of Stage last month "Show Boat" was saluted as the great American light opera—and as a work worthy of a place in the Metropolitan Opera repertory. Unforgettably melodious as it is, from "Only Make Believe" to "Ol' Man River," it is not and was not designed to be an opera, but a musical comedy. Yet its story, its tunes, and its lyrics are so perfectly right in their blend that they achieve a dignity not unworthy of a great opera company and certainly not unworthy of a world's fair.

Suppose the project comes to reality suppose either the fair or the Metropolitan puts on the perfect "Show Boat." Whom should one choose for the rôles? It is, I think, a more interesting speculation than who, if anybody, is going to be Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." In fond memory the original "Show Boat" was completely right. Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe, Edna May Oliver, Norma Terris. . . . None in the company could have been chosen better. But that was in 1927. People stay young only in memory. Who now would be the ideal basso for Joe, the obvious choice for Julie, the bouncingest and most lovable Cap'n Andy, the splendid Ravenal?

* * *

Another interesting fair project, aside from various hopes for Shakespearean or classical theaters, is the scheme of George White to return with a "Scandals" to outstrip—haw!—all "Scandals." Mr. White has been away from Broadway these many years, probably in Hollywood. At any rate, he came from Hollywood last week to discuss with Grover A. Whalen the leasing of a site for a cabaret restaurant seating 3,000 persons at tables, 2,000 more on benches, and housing a show five times bigger than any previous "Scandals."

Since Mr. White's departure there have been few of the girl shows that sprouted so lavishly in the late 1920's. Times and tastes have changed, money has dwindled, new impresarios have risen, and the "smart" show is in vogue. No doubt George is right, either in figuring on a swing back to goofier days or, possibly, on a "smart" "Scandals." And he certainly is up with current thought on the cabaret restaurant idea.

The history of New York's large look-eat-and-dance places is a curious one. They all become phenomenal successes — and then quite inexplicably their managements go broke and fold up. Billy Rose was a wonder boy when he started the Casino de Paree and a wonder boy again when he started the music hall in Hammerstein's theater; yet these places have long been closed and forgotten. Messrs. Shapiro and Blumenthal, trying to salvage their real estate interest in Earl Carroll's big, unfortunate theater, had a gold mine in their French Casino. But something happened, and instead of a French revue one finds there Billy Rose in charge of noisy vaudeville. A huge international casino opens, plays to unbelievable grosses — and changes hands and policy. The man who used to stage the French Casino shows will be in charge at the International next season.

And so it goes. The cabaret restaurant has had a confusing career of crisp fortunes and receiverships. But the idea is still a hot one, with oldline showmen and new ones planning more and more such places. Certainly George White should be able to make a go of one that doesn't have to last any longer than the fair itself.

* * *

The technical beginning of the new Broadway theater season is two weeks and one day away, if Labor day still may be taken as the right date for this event. But the gloomy boys in the ticket scalpers' offices say: "It looks like a slow start." Slow it may look to a ticket seller who naturally would like to see every playhouse occupied by mid-September, but to one who gets his fun hunting for good shows it looks dandy.

The season may not begin until the week after Labor day, but offerings which show reasonably good promise of appearing in September include a pair of musicals and three or four plays that should be of first class order. Due on the twelfth is the Cole Porter song show, "You Never Know," which had a long tryout tour last spring with Clifton Webb, Lupe Velez, and Libby Holman as the stars. Due on the following evening is a revue, "Sing Out the News," sponsored by Max Gordon. Nucleus of this show is a set of numbers by one Harold J. Rome, who sprang to fame with his songs of social significance in "Pins and Needles." Since Charles Friedman, Moss Hart, and George S. Kaufman have contributed sketches and Mr. Kaufman is directing, the thirteenth should be quite an evening at the Music Box.

Also set for arrival the same week is John Golden's revival of the Winchell Smith-Frank Bacon "Lightnin'," with Fred Stone in the rôle Bacon played for 1,291 performances. Mr. Golden, always the sentimentalist, long has wanted to revive this play. Mr. Golden, always the business man, has tried to keep sentiment from running ahead of his judgment by subjecting the play and Mr. Stone to a four week workout in various summer theaters.

* * *

Cautious Brock Pemberton finally thinks "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" is good enough to bring into town. This is a comedy by Clark Boothe, who wrote "The Women," and it is said to concern a Georgia girl who wants to play the lead in a screen version or a popular novel about the south. And of more than passing interest is a comedy, due at the Empire, by one E. B. Ginty. For some time after this play was announced it was thought that Ginty was a man, but word got out that the E. stands for Elizabeth, and Elizabeth Ginty was the mysterious, potent, and able secretary to David Belasco.

Contract According to Culbertson

Part Scores Add Much to Bridge Excitement

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Part-scores contribute in no small degree to the excitement and tension at the bridge table. Naturally the competition grows keener—and the danger greater—as one partnership attempts to "cash in" on its part-score, and the other just as determinedly tries to defend. Indeed, the fillip that part-scores contribute to contract is so great that duplicate bridge suffers considerably by its noninclusion.

Every player, however limited his experience, realizes that part-scores exercise a tremendous influence on the bidding possibilities of a hand. Unfortunately, however, the average player applies the wrong philosophy and, necessarily, the wrong tactics to his part-score bidding. Take the following situation, for example:

Both sides are vulnerable and North-South have a 60 part-score. North deals and picks up this hand:

♠ 2 ♥ K Q J 8 5 ♦ K 6 3 2 ♣ J 8 5

Now, North knows quite well that his hand is not worth an opening bid under normal circumstances, but, seduced by the thought that he needs only 40 points to go game and rubber, he throws the requirements to the four winds and boldly bids one heart. We must give him the benefit of the doubt and assume that he does not kick his partner on the shins under the table just to tip him off. But without such a kick North's bid is not only unwarranted but actually naïve. His "reasoning" that he can bid lightly because he needs only 40 points for game is reminiscent of the raving of a certain second rate pugilist trying to convince an interested gathering of what he would do to Jack Dempsey if he could ever get in the ring with him. While he was detailing the mayhem that he would commit, a skeptic interrupted to ask: "Yeah, and what would Dempsey be doing all that time?"

One might ask precisely the same question about the opponents when a player attempts to "steal" the rubber with a highly shaded bid. Surely they cannot be expected to turn suddenly meek, smile benignly, and stay out of the bidding. Indeed, if anything can spur them to determined bidding, if only for defense, it is the part-score of the other team. Thus, since the possessor of a part-score can definitly count on being pushed, it follows as the most elementary logic that he must be prepared for just such "pushing."

There is another factor entering the picture which is almost equally important. The player who gets overly aggressive because of a part-score has his own partner with whom to reckon! Said partner is not apt to be any less greedy than the original bidder; he, too, will strain and "shade" to cash in on that siren score. The result is not apt to be a happy one; with both partners shading their bids, the end is apt to be a contract that would make any declarer in the land shake with fright.

Another common situation, often manhandled, presents itself to mind. Again with a 60 part-score, we open the bidding with a more than sound one heart bid on something like:

♠ Q 4 3 ♥ A K J 7 5 ♦ A K ♣ J 10 3

Our left hand opponent passes and, to our delight, partner responds with a resounding "two spades." Wondering whether we will be able to go to a grand slam or will stop conservatively at six-odd, we keep the ball rolling, only to discover at not too distant a time that partner was "bidding to the score" and that his magnificent holding was:

♠ A K 10 6 5 2 ♥ 8 3 ♦ 7 6 ♣ 8 7 5

We had regretfully stopped at six spades [and privately thought ourselves a sissy], but the defenders unkindly open clubs and grab three tricks before our blankety-blank partner can even take the lead. We have all had this experience, I think, and consequently know what we would like to do to a partner who makes this kind of a jump takeout. His feeble alibi that he was "bidding to the score" serves only to heap fuel on our fire, and we inquire as bitingly as possible just how we were supposed to divine his intention?

I hope I have established beyond reasonable doubt that taking all sorts of liberties in order to cash in on a part-score is the poorest possible tactics. What, then, is the proper philosophy in respect to part-scores? It is just this: In the largest sense, ignore the score in so far as the opening bid and first response are concerned. Naturally, it is foolish to bid up to four spades when two spades will put you out. But the preliminary bidding must be at least as sound as though there were no score at all. This advice applies particularly to free bids and free raises.

One of the most common and gruesome of all errors is in the following situation:

With both sides vulnerable, East-West have a part-score of 60. North opens the bidding with one spade, and East overcalls with two diamonds. South holds the following mess of tripe:

♠ A 6 2 ♥ 6 4 3 ♦ J 7 5 ♣ 7 5 4 2

Now, if South is the type of partner with which you and I are cursed in critical situations he may become panicked by the thought that the opponents are about to go game at their miserable two diamond contract. All of a sudden he develops an "Horatio-at-the-bridge" complex; he, and he alone, must save the cause, and with that assinine theory he rushes in with a loud "two spades." From that time on we, as North, are as trapped as any beaver could be. The next opponent raises diamonds, and we jump to four spades, perhaps actually going to five when the opponents persist to five diamonds. We get doubled, and our horror when the dummy appears and partner's free raise bursts upon us is past description.

The absurdity of partner's thinking that he must jump to the rescue in such a situation is obvious. Yet the fact remains that such bidding is encountered all too frequently. It seems incredible that South should overlook the fact that North, who opened the bidding, presumably with due regard to the opponents' part-score, will have a chance to defend against the two diamond bid if South passes. If South were the last one to speak for his side, it would be a vastly different matter. Then he would be entitled to slash the usual requirements for a raise. But in the sequence given, South's raise is a free raise, just as though the opponents had no part-score whatever. Never lose sight of the fact that it is partner's understanding which must be considered first and foremost. If at certain times a raise means one thing and at other times quite a different thing, the result can only be chaos, not coöperation.

A part-score situation is often a "trapper's" paradise. Let us suppose that South, vulnerable, and with a 40 part-score, opens the bidding with one diamond. West sits over him with something like ♠ A Q 10 ♥ K J 5 ♦ Q J 9 4 ♣ K 10 8.

This is virtually a heaven-sent opportunity for West. His hand is so strong that if the opponents had no part-score he would have to fear the next hand's passing to the one diamond bid. But the score being what it is, he knows that the opening bidder's partner will strain mightily to respond. This knowledge gives West a marvelous opportunity to pass and "trap" any game-going bid by the opponents. Nor is this trapping opportunity confined to the defenders. If North, for example, with a 40 part-score opens with one of a suit, South, holding a very good hand, can respond with a noncommittal no trump on the assurance that the opening bidder will not pass just 20 points short of game. In this case the opponents, possibly taking the no trump at its usual poor value, may rush in to defend, with disastrous results.

There is no doubt about it—part-scores demand the utmost in psychology and strategy!

The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opens the five of hearts. Can you fulfill the three no trump contract against the best defense?

Answer: To make nine tricks, at least two diamond tricks must be established. If declarer wins opening lead with any low card and leads the diamond jack, West, of course, will not cover. The dummy now has only one entry, so whether or not East accepts his diamond ace, declarer can never establish and reach another diamond trick.

Two separate entry making plays are required on this hand. South must win the first trick with the ace or king, then must lead the diamond jack and overtake it with dummy's king. Now, whether or not East accepts the ace, declarer can establish and reach four diamond tricks. The club king is one sure entry, and the heart jack remains as the second, necessary entry.

If South wins the first trick properly, but fails to overtake his diamond jack, East will duck and dummy's two entries will be wasted on the establishment of the diamond suit—declarer will be unable to reach dummy to cash the established tricks.

Vaudeville

Bill Robinson, colored tap dancer with as perfect a feeling for rhythm as any one in the entire dance world, leads this week's variety bill at the Palace theater. Other acts are Texas Jim Lewis and his singing cowboys; the Great Gretonas, aerialists; the Robbins family, acrobatic trio, and Lorraine and Rogan, dancers.

Along with the holdover of the cinema "Alexander's Ragtime Band" the Chicago theater also holds over its stage show for a second week. Featured performers are Don Cummings, who manipulates a lariat and carries on a monolog, à la Will Rogers; the Twelve Aristocrats, precision dancers; the Condos Brothers, tap dancers, and Señor Wences, ventriloquist. Benny Goodman and his swing band come to the Chicago theater Sept. 2. Ed Sullivan, Tribune Hollywood correspondent, is booked for personal appearances the week of Sept. 16.

◆

A bathing beauty revue presenting "the flower of femininity" is the headline attraction at the State-Lake theater. Jack Pepper, comedian, and Edith Griffith, singer, are starred. Other acts include the "Hazel Mangean Four, European acrobats; Bob King, ventriloquist; Mary Stone, known as "the Duchess of Swing"; Ming and Toy in an oriental novelty, and Verne Buck and his orchestra.

Veloz-Yolanda Finish 100th Week in City

Veloz and Yolanda, polished ballroom dancers, completed 100 weeks of dancing before Chicago night club and theater audiences at the Empire room in the Palmer house last Wednesday. In 1933 they appeared for twenty-six weeks in the opening bill of the Empire room. Their present engagement at the Palmer house is their fourth; they have also been seen at the Chez Paree, the Chicago theater, and the Palace theater. The luster of their infinitely smooth dancing is undimmed by familiarity, and they need acknowledge few rivals in grace and aristocracy of movement.

Continuing with Veloz and Yolanda at the Empire room are Grace Dittman, specialty dancer; Don Hooton, tap dancer; the ballet of twelve Abbott girls. Two new acts replace the Four Kraddocks, who have departed for London. They are Terri La Franconi, Latin tenor, and the Novello brothers, comedy whistlers.

◆

Ennio Bolognini, gifted cellist and former principal of the cello section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, continues to play solos and conduct the International Gypsies orchestra at L'Aiglon restaurant. Mr. Bolognini's music alternates with that of George Bay's swing orchestra. Mary Kilpatrick, Welsh soprano, is vocal soloist.

◆

Dwight Fiske, unblushing purveyor of songs with a double meaning, will make his first Chicago appearance in five years when the new Colony club reopens for the fall season in September. Most people probably do not know that Mr. Fiske is a graduate of the Paris Conservatory of Music. He is also an author, and his newest book, "Why Should Penguins Fly?" is now to be found on book counters. Two bands will surround Mr. Fiske—José Manzanares and his South Americans, and Hugo De Paul and his orchestra.

◆

Santoro and Lorraine, "dance team of contrasts," headline the new floor show opening Friday evening in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. The contrasts referred to are a matter of the complexions of the dancers, Santoro being described as dark and swarthy and Lorraine as a light ash blonde. Tangos are a special feature of their répertoire. Others billed in the new show are Maxine Marfield, dancer; Betty Gray, exponent of the electric organ; Darlene O'Day, singer; Grace McCarthy, who sings to her own piano accompaniment, and Jules Duke and his orchestra.

◆

The College Inn at the Hotel Sherman continues to offer its cool "St. Moritz Express" ice revue. The Brandt sisters, Helga and Inge, are among the chief personalities of the skating show, which also introduces Jenna, Robin Scott, and Bud Lewis, American skaters; Uksila and Vida from Mexico; Genevieve and Russell, and the comedians Duke and Noble, and Carl Marx. A favorite number is the "snowflake" ballet, suggested by the court of Louis XIV. Frankie Masters' orchestra provides the music, with Marian Francis as assisting singer. Others in the entertainment are Prince Omar, crystal reader, and John Ralph Evans, crayon artist.

◆

Many Chicagoans attending the Grant park concerts have been stopping at Old Heidelberg either for dinner before the program or for relaxation and refreshment afterward. The Heidelberg octet, Mitzi Bauer, and George Hessberger fill the air with German music.

◆

Future prospects: The Bon-Air Country club announces that a new show will open Friday night, without offering specific details. The Blackhawk restaurant has signed Jan Garber and his orchestra to take over the dance music on Nov. 10, when Bob Crosby's immensely successful swing sessions terminate.

◆

Dick Jurgens and his Pacific coast band have returned to the Aragon ballroom on the north side. The headline orchestra at the south side Trianon is that of Shep Fields, whose "rippling rhythm" will be heard every night except Monday, now that the Trianon has resumed a full time schedule. Beginning today both the Trianon and the Aragon will offer Sunday afternoon dancing. Free dancing classes are given at both ballrooms every Tuesday evening.

◆

In the new show which opened last Friday at the Bon Air Country club, north of Wheeling, the main attraction is Jimmy Dorsey and his high ranking swing band. The Dorsey engagement has been extended to Sept. 15. New in the show is Paul Gerritts, roller skating master of ceremonies and comedian, and Emily von Losen, danseuse, who in previous Chicago engagements was billed as "Countess." Holdovers are Moore and Revel, who burlesque ballroom dance teams; and Clark Dennis, tenor from the radio studios. New ensemble numbers for the ballet of sixteen girls include two scenes based on the songs, "It's the Dreamer in Me," and "I love you in Technicolor," both composed by Jimmy Dorsey. The new finale features a musical "jam" session with the entire company, and the "Flight of the Bumble Bee" played by Dorsey on his saxophone.

◆

Next Tuesday night the Hi-Hat club will open a new show starring Joe E. Lewis, who was one of the foremost café comedians of the prohibition period. Recently he has been active in Hollywood and New York. Others in the show will be Terry Lawlor, the singer; Jean Walker, tap dancer; and a ballet, the Pol-Mar Girls. Sidney Lang's orchestra will provide the music. With this show, the new enlarged dining room will be opened seating 350.

◆

New entertainers at the Villa Moderne, suburban café on the Skokie highway, included Rosemary Deering, ballet dancer, and Joan Ryan, baritone, who was once with the "Ziegfeld Follies." Carlos Molina and his Latin American orchestra and the "Royal Ambassadors" provide music for dancing. Tuesday is South American Fiesta Night, with instruction in the tango and rhumba.

◆

On view at the Chez Paree is the second summer revue with three headliners: Abe Lyman and his orchestra, Paul Draper, expert tap dancer, and Ethel Shutta, singing commedienne. Supporting stars are Paul and Eva Reyes, Latin American ballroom dancers; Rose Blane, swing singer; Winnie Seeley, a dancer, and the Chez Paree ballet of sixteen. Much semi-classical and classical music is employed. In the ensemble numbers "In a Village" from "Caucasian Sketches"; "Festival of Bagdad" from "Scheherazade," and some of Franz Lehar's music is played. Paul Draper dances to a Handel minuet, the gavotte from "Mignon," and Debussy's "Golliwogg's Cake Walk." At the other extreme is music from "Porgy and Bess," Abe Lyman's "12th Street Rag," and Ethel Shutta's interpretation of the newest popular songs. The swing quintet from Abe Lyman's band provides the music for some of Paul Draper's dancing.

◆

Moross in Hollywood.

Jerome Moross, composer of Ruth Page's ballet "Frankie and Johnny," spent the summer completing a commissioned score for the Columbia Broadcasting system, entitled "A Tall Story for Orchestra." At present he is in Hollywood, planning to collaborate in preparing a moving picture with Lynn Riggs, author of "Green Grow the Lilacs."

SUMMER SUPPER STAR

Women's Music Group to Meet in Milwaukee

The twelve thousand active and alumnæ members of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, will gather for their twenty-third national convention at the Hotel Pfister in Milwaukee from Aug. 27 to 31. In addition to the active and alumnæ members the fraternity boasts a list of a thousand patroness members and three hundred honorary members drawn from the musical profession.

The musical program of the convention includes four concerts and several additional programs. A vesper hour, Aug. 28 will present Ruth Harsha Ledford, New York organist; Betty Freeman Haines, violinist, of Wittenberg college, Springfield, O.; Helen Pritchard, harpist, of Ithaca, N. Y., and a vocal trio from Detroit composed of Caroline Benson, soprano, Henrietta Ringelberg, contralto and Mabel Mickel, mezzo-soprano. On the evening of the same day Anne Mundy, Minneapolis, pianist, will play a recital.

Other programs include a song recital by Josephine Antoine, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera association, Aug. 29; an ensemble program Aug. 30 presenting the Sigma Alpha Iota sinfonietta of Indianapolis, conducted by Roberta Trent; the Sigma Alpha Iota national convention chorus and orchestra, directed by Marion Flagg, on the same day, and a recital Aug. 31 by Miss Pritchard and Miss Haines, to be given in conjunction with the installation of newly elected officers.

The prize winning work in the national choral award for American women composers will be announced during the convention. One hundred and twelve composers entered pieces in the contest, which has been judged by Howard Hanson, Earl Moore, Albelt Stoessel, Hugh Ross and Max Krone.

Six living founders of the sorority are expected to attend. They are Elizabeth Campbell of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mrs. Edwin S. Sherrill of Detroit; Nora Crane Hunt of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Arthur Olaf Anderson of Tucson, Ariz.; Georgina Potts of Toledo, O., and Frances Caspari of Ann Arbor. Gertrude Evans is national president of the sorority.

Among the Chicagoans planning to be at the convention are Mrs. Mae S. Saunders, registrar and dean of women at the American conservatory, and Mrs. John Charles Carroll. Mrs. Saunders is national second vice president, and Mrs. Carroll, national chairman of patronesses and honorary members. Astrid Mattson, Jane Jelliffe, and Dorothy Neill will be among other delegates from the Chicago area.

Carmel Fete

In four years of coöperative endeavor the annual Carmel Bach festival, held each July at Carmel Mission, Cal., has developed into a significant occasion, which Alfred Frankenstein, San Francisco music critic, describes as "an inspired community effort on behalf of music, involving participants of the most miscellaneous proficiency, age, and condition of servitude, all directed toward a common end."

This summer the festival occupied seven days, devoted wholly to works by Johann Sebastian Bach, and coming to a conclusion with a moving and heartfelt performance of portions of the Mass in B Minor. With only three or four exceptions, all those taking part in the festival were residents of California, and by far the largest part of these belonged to the area in and immediately around Carmel.

The orchestra was at best semiprofessional, and the chorus found itself stumped by some of the more difficult choral movements. The soloists were not world celebrities. Yet the true spirit was to be found in the devoted enthusiasm of all the performances.

The schedule was not limited to choral works. Several orchestral suites, Brandenburg concertos and solo concertos were included. The "Goldberg" variations and many organ works were heard in instrumental recitals. All in all, with increasingly hearty public support, the Carmel festival would seem to be within sight of a bright future.

Cousin Eve Leaves Paris for Mer

By Cousin Eve

MER, France.—The captains and the kings having left Paris, we folded our tents and departed, too. My last sortie was to a brilliant soirée for the king and queen of England at the Quai d'Orsay, of which a member of the French diplomatic world wrote me an unforgettably sentimental phrase: "I was very happy that you did not miss that soirée. It was something for some one like you to see—the contrast between the smiling, so frail Yvonne Printemps, singing with no voice at all, and the strong, ardent cries of the people outside who longed to see the pretty queen." It was true. The queen of England stole the show: she has a charming personality and is lovely to behold.

The fast train set me down in front of Marguerite and John Storrs of Chicago at Mer, where is their place, Chantecaille. We bustled immediately out in the country, where across fields rose two ancient stone gatehouses and the thick woods of the old gentilhommerie, which is the technical name for this sort of medieval homestead.

In front of their gate runs a road where Jeanne d'Arc walked on her way to Orleans. There was no other. And right here stands a tall, spare iron crucifix of the eleventh century where she must have prayed, for no good Catholic misses it. We entered by the old farm court on the original twelfth-century side of the house, which was restored in the days of Louis XIV. After the hot train nothing could have been lovelier than to come out upon the great sanded front terrace with its rows of young orange trees. In the left-hand corner, just over the formal gardens, stood the dinner table waiting, as it was 8 o'clock. Before us lay not only flower beds, with scent of apple orchards, but wide meadows where cattle grazed. 'Way beyond the Loire wends its way, most poetic and historic river of France. And on either side thick woods of tall, billowy trees. Over all a rich silence. Not a sound from anywhere; just perfect peace.

After dinner we strolled along the graveled terraces of the garden, where are quaint stone statues and clipped hedges of the olden time. At 10 night had come, a pale night with a million stars parading across the sky, around one great planet blazing its way like a gorgeous general leading his army.

They gave me the blue room of Chantecaille, which has often sheltered William Bullitt, now ambassador to France. John Storrs, eminent sculptor and artist, bought Chantecaille fifteen years ago, after it had been uninhabited for fifty years. Down the centuries for 500 years it had come by inheritance until the heirs died out. Like a true artist, he has done little to it, even keeping the ancient name, which means Singing Quail. The floors throughout are smooth red tile bricks. My walls are paneled in gray wood, and many an antiquary would like to be turned loose among its furnishings, its beautiful chests, chairs, mirrors, and fauteuils.

The gentilhommerie is unique in that its rooms all face south, the north side being a thick blank wall giving on a beautiful wood.

It is a large house with many rooms. On the first floor is a gray-paneled salle a manger, a beautiful salon with ancient cheminee and tapisseries, a small foyer where after-dinner coffee is served, and John Storrs' indoor studio, which is a nice place full of marvelous fragments, a real workshop. Then there is a huge salon never restored, a library that is a museum, and at the very end an outdoor studio.

Traveler in France Visits Many Castles

France has forty thousand chateaux, and as Touraine and Loiret-Cher have more than their quota, we have to get busy. Some in our vicinity are owned by friends of the Starrs, but mostly the great royal ones are national monuments.

We skimmed through royal Orleans one day and got out to see its cathedral. It is pure Gothic, high and severely plain, and here Jeanne d'Arc after raising the siege, prayed before the high altar.

There was also underneath a peep show at some excavations of last year where they found three different sets of churches dating from the 4th century. Also the tombs of several bishops rolled up in lead, whose mitres and burial robes were in good preservation.

These ecclesiastical graves had been undisturbed for eight or nine hundred years. I was sorry they had been now, and feel that little had been gained by the discovery of mosaic floors and churchly fashions dating back of the dark ages. Fortunately for my state of mind, which was to the effect that all is vanity, the old organ struck up a merry tune and I remembered that its peals must have rung in the ears of many a good old scout, like Henri of Navarre, for example.

Orleans streets are cobbled and narrow, and rang of old with the clank of men and horses in armor. Today there are pretty shops, gay cafés, smart motors, and sedate walled parks, and houses.

• • •

We were driving south along the Loire, to lunch with M. and Mme. René Benjamin in their old priory, twenty kilometers the other side of Tours. René Benjamin is a famous author, playwright, and war veteran, who wrote "Gaspard" and has done the best of all lives of Honoré de Balzac. Indeed, his wife's birthplace, the old Château de Sache, is where Balzac wrote half of "Pere Goriot" and all of "Lily of the Valley," and their Paris house is full of his relics. We left a little after 10 to make the priory at one, and it was the charming drive of a lifetime.

The Loire bay like bright strips of mirror reflecting its banks under a pale azure sky. Around us was the hum of summer in the fields, and in our hearts the joy of a day of adventuring among new scenes, for we were to see Balzac country, and a famous château or two. First came Blois with its air of the middle ages, and the liveliest bridge in France of gothic arches and a marvelous lifted line from shore to shore. It was built by Gabriel who made the Place de la Concorde in Paris. Then on the other bank the towers of Chaumont, a high hill fortress, where Catharine de Medici lived, where Conde was imprisoned and Voltaire wrote "La Pucelle," his account of Jeanne d'Arc. Latterly the home of the eccentric Princesse de Broglie, who unknown to her family sold many historic heirlooms. It has recently been taken over by France.

In the round tower Ruggieri figured horoscopes for Catherine de Medici and they show you her tidy little poison cabinet. At least, I saw it some years ago. Amboise was shining in the sun, and Tours finally appeared, such a lively large town, with charming flowering plants on its electric light poles. The two smart hotels were seething with travelers, for all of France is vacationing this year under the new law of vacation with two weeks' pay. And tourists from abroad forever go to Tours.

We had a wonderful lunch en famille with M. Benjamin and his attractive wife. They had restored their old house in an interesting way, simple and with the neatness and comfort of only a few choice pieces suited to this former monkish abode.

Benjamin is a brilliant man, highly imaginative and alive, and after lunch sent two of his children to guide us across country to Balzacland. On this ride we were in the heart of rural France, taking cross cuts down shaded lanes, right and left, until we came by sunny meadows, wheat fields, and old farmsteads, to the avenue of ancient oaks leading to la Chevriere [goathouse], being the playful name for a venerable château whose owner had lately died. The reason for seeing this place was that Balzac had chosen it as the home of Mme. de Mortsauf, heroine of his "Lily of the Valley." It had a marvelous park of noble trees and a dreamy view across the valley of the Indre.

• • •

From la Chevriere we had not far to drive to find the most beautiful building of its kind in France, de Vonne, a former hunting lodge of Henri IV. Fallen for many years, even centuries, into being a farmhouse for the tenants of the château, it bears its disgrace with a mocking air, like some great dashing nobleman upon whom the blight of poverty has descended. De Vonne tops a rise above the valley of the Indre, and what once were terraced gardens in the rear. I stood out in front with the youngsters and John Storrs, who was quite speechless, and overcome by the remarkable beauty of the lodge.

To describe this stone treasure, where Henri of Navarre came after the hunt with his favorites, its slanting slate roof higher than its base, its surprising irregular windows, its immense architectural chic, is beyond me. Some of the windows are blocked up by masonry. Poor farmers of other days could not afford the state tax on windows. The farmer wife, burned mahogany by endless days in the fields, invited us in. As it is a monument nationale we bought our tickets and strolled about in the three vast rooms which were a welter of wash tubs, cats and kittens, growling dogs, children, food, and articles de toilette. In each room was a magnificent chimney-piece in carved stone of varying designs, one of which had been sold in New York for $20,000, when François Carvallo heard of the sacrilege and at once named de Vonne a property of France.

To enjoy it thoroughly, one had to stand apart and people this plateau with horses and hunters tired from the chase. Inside the lodge enormous fires are roaring up the tall chimneys and the king's chefs have prepared a royal repast spread in the left room overlooking the Indre valley. In comes trooping the gay crowd in the elaborate hunting costumes of that time, with the ladies. Among them is Mme. Gabrielle d'Estrees, the piquante red haired beauty whom Henri's queen, Marguerite de Valois, called "a disreputable hussy." Queen Marguerite invented face powder, so we can see them climbing the stone stair in the entry, curly as a feather, to powder their noses in the lofty chambers above. The farmer's wife showed us the deep stone cellar redolent of wine, and with high glee uncovered "an oubliette" adjoining. French peasants still have their fond memories of the great old days of 1789.

It is at De Vonne that Balzac lodges the hero of "Lys dans la Vallée." Gentry of the neighborhood are tearing their hair at the cruel fate and tragedy of De Vonne, and wishing for an American, rich and foolish, to restore this historic jewel to its pristine grandeur.

• • •

From here we sought by ways devious and lovely, Sache, the tall gray house with slate roof where M. de Margonne had pity on poor Balzac, slaving to pay his debts, and tucked him away in a small, high room under the eaves. The room has one window looking out over a forest, a small carved bed, a murky mirror, a writing table and two chairs.

Mme. Benjamin told me she had taken Balzac's night table and cotton bedspread for her own, when her grandfather's things were divided. There was quite an argument later at tea with Mon. Benjamin about Balzac's room. The great author was a huge man, and I thought should have had the large, sunny, airy room on the same stage, while my host felt that it was sublime to have put him in the tiny place among the tree tops. But Benjamin, himself a popular modern French author, has a most lovely, spacious writing room, and I reminded him of it.

He had just come from making a visit of two months to Gen. Franco in Spain. Last year he spent three months in Italy making an intensive study of Mussolini, whom he finds charming.

Sache is a triste spot. There is a stone table in a shady garden nook where Balzac did his writing in hot weather, and the same furniture, tables, porcelain stoves and pictures remain as in his day. From a certain window is a view of La Chevriere, and Balzac has his heroine signal at night to her lover at De Vonne.

Its divine roof is also visible among tree tops from the upper story of Sache. "Pére Goriot" was finished here. Our homeward road with the sun sinking behind gave us a new Loire with the stones of its old cities and castles blazing in the sunset as though they were of white gold. From the garden and parks that lined our way came the fragrance of roses, lavender, and box, and one passed on our right, near home, the magnificent Château Menars given by Louis XV. to Mme. de Pompadour.

• • •

It is a wonderful house and the duke of Windsor tried to buy it early this year, being attracted by the two thousand walled acres across the road, of deep forest and hunting preserve.

The price of Menars, however, is worthy of its royal builder and Edward did not buy. Mrs. Storrs has Fridays at home in summer, and tennis parties on the tree shaded courts of Chantecaille. There is a large and charming social circle among the noblesse of Orleans and Mer, and on Sunday we drove over to a tennis party at the Masclary's.

The Marquis de Masclary is a great-grandson of Mme. Vigée Brun, and the most delightful looking blond Frenchman, who in his younger days was colonel of the smartest regiment in Paris and the spender of a huge fortune. Their house is full of family portraits by Mme. Vigée le Brun, and a cherished possession is a gold tea set given her by Louis XVI.

Courage

The new moon rocks in the summer sky,
Like a gold thread loosed from a fairy's gown;
Long as the summer winds may blow,
Not a breath of their blowing can blow it down.

The new moon rides in the summer sky
Like a golden ship on uncharted seas;
It stays serenely on its course
Though threatened by cloud and summer breeze.

The new moon floats in the summer sky,
A lantern clear, without flaw or stain;
It shines through wind and menacing cloud—
But veils its light at the patter of rain.

Youngsters in Promenade at Little Harbor

PETOSKEY, MICH.

Debutantes and members of the stag line of 1955 made their first bow to society Wednesday afternoon at the Little Harbor club when the Tiny Tots' promenade was given for children up to the age of 3. Since Wednesday is the nurses' day off some one conceived the brilliant idea of having the promenade on that day when the very young set would be in the care of their mothers. This is the first year such a party has been given and because of its success it will become an annual event.

Mrs. Lincoln Harris was chairman of the party. It was really grandmothers' day, too, because all the fond grandmothers on the Point were in the gallery. Master Robert McIntyre, now famous as the Wee Willie Winkie of the children's party, made the promenade around the swimming pool holding tight to the hand of his grandmother, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler. Mrs. Frank E. Gordon carefully combed the brown locks of little Denise Sullivan, her granddaughter, before the promenade began. Denise made part of the circuit in her pram and walked the rest of the distance with her mother, Mrs. Edward Sullivan.

The youngest belle was 3 months' old Toni, daughter of the Frederick Hamiltons, who held court in her pram and had her picture taken innumerable times by the candid camera fans who were in attendance. Dorothy and Elisabeth Dewes were in the gallery watching their nephew, George Oram Jr., with his mother, Mrs. George Oram.

• • •

Richard Lamport Jr., better known as "Skipper," the son of the Richard Lamports, André Jr., son of the André Perrys, Mary Whittemore Case, daughter of the Calvin Cases, the F. E. Pierce Jr.'s son, Frank III., and Betsy Walbridge, daughter of the Barnes Walbridges, were among the little guests who reached eargerly for the favors on the large trays held by Mrs. Louis C. Sudler and Mrs. L. Edward Hart Jr.

Mrs. Howard O'Brien caused much merriment among the spectators and much wonder among the children by appearing as an old fashioned grandmother in the dress of the gay '90s and a shawl. Mrs. James Fitzmorris, Mrs. John Brittingham, Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Evelyn Gordon, Mrs. Robert Hyman, Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen, and Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes were in the gallery and stayed for tea, which was served around the pool.

In honor of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson T. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Edmunds of St. Louis entertained twelve guests at dinner at the Little Harbor club on Friday evening.

Mrs. Louis C. Sudler will return Monday from Bangor, Mich., where she spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins. Mrs. Frank E. Pierce Sr., who is chairman of hostesses at the Thursday night buffet supper dances at the Harbor Point clubhouse, will entertain thirty guests on that evening.

• • •

Mrs. William Fitzmorris was hostess to nine guests at the Little Harbor club on Monday.

Newton Perry is at the Dunewood for a brief stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert C. Adams of Winnetka have arrived at the Wequetonsing hotel to remain until Labor day.

Among the Chicagoans who were hostesses at luncheon at the fashion show given at the Romona club on Tuesday afternoon and evening were Mrs. William W. Renshaw, Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Mrs. L. Edward Hart Jr., and Miss Joanna Fortune.

A number of the garden enthusiasts in the colony accepted the invitation of the Traverse City Garden club to make their garden pilgrimage this week. Among the gardens visited was that of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour.

On Thursday evening resorters motored to Bay View to hear the Gladys Swarthout concert, returning later to dance at the Little Harbor club and the Harbor Point clubhouse.

Miss Nancy Hanford of New York arrived Wednesday to be the guest of the Frederick H. Scotts at the Chicago club. Frederick H. Scott Jr., motored from Chicago on Sunday and is with his parents.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewes are guests at the Chicago clubhouse and will later visit Mrs. C. Morse Ely, who returned Tuesday from a visit in New York.

Mrs. George Poole Jr. and Mrs. John Howland of Washington, D. C., are occupying the Harold Smith cottage on the club grounds.

Mrs. Howard Linn will return from Chicago next week to remain at the club until Labor day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Jenckes of Providence, R. I., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keep.

Mason Phelps has returned to Chicago from the club, as has Mrs. A. H. Whiting, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hartmann arrived this week and are occupying cottage 18 at Harbor Point for the remainder of the season.

When Chicago Was Young:

Author of "Dear Julia" Letters Spends Week on Farm

By Herma Clark

Tiskilwa, Ill., Aug. 17, 1938.

Dear "When Chicago Was Young" friends:

Leaving the Esmond family and "Dear Julia, back in the Elegant Eighties for a moment, let me write you from downstate Illinois, where I am spending a week.

This summer THE TRIBUNE travel page flaunted pictures of Europe, New England, and the Rockies. Vacation plans floating through my head were unsatisfactory. What could one do that would be different and not too expensive? Like an answer to this question came some lines of Riley's:

> Back where they's nothin' aggervatin' any more.

Other phrases from that same homely verse knocked at memory's door: "I want to see the piece-quilts the Jones girl is makin'", "the freckled hired-hand," "the latch-string hangin' from the door."

Yes. Here was the vacation I wanted—a week on an Illinois farm, near my birthplace, peace and quiet such as Riley wrote of, "pinks and holly-hawks a-bloomin' at the door." Best of all, I knew where to turn for such a week. Irving and Gladys Thompson, living in a house a hundred years old, not far from Tiskilwa, would take me in. So it was arranged

As we drove the four miles from railway station to farm I thought of old farm kitchens I had known in childhood. There was the iron pump in the sink, the black stove with its "reservoy" for hot water, the wooden icebox filled from the ice house, the kerosene lamp, with reflector back of it. A surprise, then, was the Thompson kitchen, with electric lights, electric refrigerator, white electric stove and in the basement an electric hot water heater.

Old fashioned hollyhocks and pinks stand out by the back fence, but farm life has changed. Electricity does the backbreaking work of yesterday and there is even an electric fence, or, more accurately, a charged line on the barbed wire fence which keeps animals from straying out of the pasture. It is amazing to see how the hogs, having once touched the wire with the weak electric current flowing through it, refuse to venture near it again.

Another great change from the farm life of yesterday is the interest of boys and girls in their work. This is largely due to the 4-H club, which stimulates ambition in various lines. Fifteen year old Kenneth Thompson, son of Irving and Gladys, is raising Hampshire pigs and is now grooming them for exhibition at the county fair to be held soon in Princeton. As a result of the interest kindled by the 4-H club, Kenneth has decided he wants to be a farmer. Farm life appeals to the budding man of ambition, for there are prizes to be won. The boy reads in farm magazines about Lester Pfister, Woodford county man who has reaped a million dollars in three years' time by developing seed corn which sells for ten dollars a bushel. Pfister's miracle will not be repeated, boys know, but his success is stimulating. Opportunity there is, on the farm, even if there is still much hard work.

•

Girls, too, look forward to winning prizes in the 4-H club. Virginia Thompson, aged 10, will soon be old enough to join the canning and sewing class. Already she knows how to sterilize milk bottles and to keep records.

Many city parents would be glad if their children could receive the training possible only in the country. "Chores" are still helpful in building character.

Historical interest is not lacking in Tiskilwa. One day, lunching at the home of Mrs. Leslie Wilkins in town, Mrs. Clem Kitterman and I leave the rest of the company playing bridge and, climbing the hill, back of the village, we look out across the Illinois river valley and talk of the Indians our grandfathers knew in these parts. Old Shaubena, called by Pioneer Gurdon Hubbard of Chicago "the finest man, white or red" he ever knew, spent much time in this valley. Mrs. Kitterman's father had been held in the lap of the old chief, she tells us.

On Sunday we attend service at the old Mennonite church, in the country five miles south of Tiskilwa. As we enter the church is full and we must sit in the very last pew by the door. As is Mennonite custom, men sit on one side of the center aile, women on the other.

Gone are the black suits, wide black hats, and luxuriant whiskers which we remember as appertaining to the Mennonite brethren of our childhood days. The men are clean shaven and undistinguishable from the most worldly of their sex. But praise be! The women still wear caps at church. If they are wise they will never give them up, for they are universally becoming. Paris designers some time will copy them. Great for snaring a man's heart!

Most of these caps are white, but some of the older women wear black. Among the latter we recognize the gentle countenance of Mrs. Christian Albrecht [pronounced All-bright] a mother in Israel in this Mennonite community. As was her husband, Mrs. Albrecht is of German parentage, though born in this country.

They are an interesting people, the Mennonites of Bureau county. Though adhering to the tenets of the church, which involves abstaining from drink, tobacco, and profanity, they are progressive and have always enjoyed the friendship of their neighbors. Now there are many marriages with these neighbors. Albrechts, Ioders, Zierleins, Orendorfs, and Burkeys, a large group connected by marriage, they came to Illinois from Bavaria in 1836. The descendants of these early emigrants are now like the sands of the sea.

Our state may well be proud of the Mennonites, loyal Americans, firm in their religious convictions, hard working, thrifty, honest. The last day brings a buggy ride, behind a fast horse on the Levi Ioder's farm, near Bradford. Francis Clark, instructor in agriculture in the Bradford High school, drives furiously down a lane, while I cling to him, thinking every moment will be my last. If you want a thrill, try this mode of transportation. Your rural friend,

HERMA CLARK.

College Light Opera Singers at Nantucket

NANTUCKET, MASS.

The splendid work of the University Gilbert and Sullivan company which presented "The Mikado," "The Gondoliers," "H. M. S. Pinafore," and "Trial by Jury" at the Yacht club last week made a great impression on island music lovers. Originally scheduled to give performances on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the talented group of young collegians was held over by popular demand and presented "The Gondoliers" to a capacity audience on Wednesday. The cast included two Chicago girls, Sally Korrady of Smith college and Margaret Bell of Bryn Mawr.

Many Nantucketers will journey over to the 'Sconset casino tonight to see the final performance of the Playhouse production, "Susan and God," starring Beth Merrill. On Thursday and Friday the Playhouse will present Ruth Marsh and Morgan Farley in "The Enchanted Cottage."

Miss Emily Larned of the Ambassador hotel is a guest at the Ship's Inn. This popular inn is famous as the birthplace of Lucretia Coffin Mott, fiery leader of the 19th century feminist movement.

Cecilia Loftus will be presented by the Yacht club theater tomorrow and Tuesday evenings in a program of scenes from famous plays, and impersonations.

Cyrus G. Hill has rejoined his family at their cottage on Point road after an extended business trip to Chicago.

• • •

August's premier social event, the Annual Fancy Dress ball, will attract members of the dancing set to the Yacht club on Thursday evening.

Nantucket's Cottage hospital will benefit from the admission proceeds when seven beautiful island homes are opened to the public Friday afternoon. The Evans Johnson, Bonbright, and Chambliss colonial mansions, which will be on exhibition, are all over a hundred years old and represent the acme of early nineteenth century building refinement. Visitors will also see the Fraker, Taylor, and Minshall homes, which have been constructed recently and embody ultramodern treatment of the Nantucket architectural theme.

Two centuries ago Sailor Nathan Wilbur built an ingenious windmill, which is now known as the "Old Mill" and is one of the Nantucket Historical association's most popular exhibits. The only windmill on the island, it still grinds corn and turns out an excellent brand of meal much sought after by particular housewives.

Mrs. A. Wilder Brown of New York and Chicago and Mrs. John White of New York have been visiting Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers at her home on India street.

Miss Alyce L'Heritier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques C. L'Heritier of Haverford, Pa., will arrive on the island today to visit Mrs. Roger's daughter, Miss Dorothy Counselman.

• • •

Late August is always tournament time for island tennis and badminton enthusiasts, and interest is running high as Yacht club and Casino players point toward the championship matches. Cyrus Hill and his daughter, Molly, who was runner-up in the junior singles tournament, are expected to be leading contenders in the mixed doubles play, which will start at the local Yacht club on Friday.

Mrs. Robert Atkins and her daughter, Margaret, are motoring to Chicago after an extended stay on the island.

Miss Rose Taylor, daughter of the Wayne Chatfield Taylors, is visiting Nancy Orr, daughter of the Robert C. Orrs, at Hamilton, Bermuda. Rose's sister, Adelaide, who is a student at Bryn Mawr, has returned to the island after being entertained by the Orrs at their Bermuda cottage. Nancy and Adelaide will make their debuts this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman Jr. and their infant daughter are visiting Mr. Freeman's parents, the Charles Y. Freemans, at their home on the cliff.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Margaret Brittingham, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Brittingham of South Orange, N. J., have announced her engagement to Manning O'Connor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manning O'Connor of Short Hills, N. J. Miss Brittingham attended the Sacred Heart convent in New York, and Mr. O'Connor attended New York university. Mr. O'Connor is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Digory W. Baker of Chicago.

Salute of Hay Fever Victims Fills the Air

By Judith Cass.

Ker-choo replaces how-do-you-do and hello as a greeting these hay feverish days, but in spite of the prevalence of this annoying but never fatal disease, life moves merrily on towards cooler weather. Every one who suffers from hay fever and can leave home, has gone to a distant spot where the air is not laden with pollen, while those who must stay at home are using every device and panacea known to ward off the sneezing and sniffling that hay feverites experience.

At dinner time the other night in the Buttery an attractively gowned young woman occasionally buried her nose in what looked like a gas mask. At first glance we thought she was preparing for an air raid, but at a second glance it was evident that she just was trying out some new hay fever cure. The Buttery, which has been a popular place for luncheon and dinner ever since it was opened early last spring, is to have a neighboring rival after Oct. 1 for on that date the new Pump room in the Ambassador East will be opened.

The opening will be a benefit for the North Avenue Day nursery. Miss Honor Merrell is chairman of the committee in charge of the party. Another interesting fall benefit is to be a lecture by Abbé Ernest Dimnet for the benefit of Orphans of the Storm. The date has not been set nor has the subject which the popular Frenchman will discuss, been chosen. The committee in charge, headed by Miss Mildred FitzHugh, has decided to make it a luncheon-lecture, similar to those successful ones given by the Council on Foreign Relations.

The Grant park concerts continue to attract enormous audiences and scattered in them are many who are seen regularly on Thursdays, Fridays and Tuesdays in Orchestra hall during the Chicago Symphony orchestra's winter season. Probably the most fashionable audience of the summer in Grant park will be the one that will assemble next Sunday night to hear Fray and Braggiotti play, for the latter is the husband of the former Mary Melville Clow of Lake Forest.

Her relatives and friends will be anxious to hear the brilliant pianists, of course, although it is doubtful if any of her immediate family will be at home on the evening of the concert. It is possible that her father, William E. Clow Jr., will have returned from a trip by next Sunday, but it is certain that her mother and her sister, Mrs. Clow Laflin, will not be here for they are summering in Santa Monica, Cal.

Mrs. Braggiotti, who is residing in Beverly Hills, will not accompany her husband to the concert.

The manners of some in the audiences at Grant park never were learned in any concert hall; it is annoying to those who go to hear the music to have near them persons who palpably are there just to visit. At the concert last week, in which Zimbalist was the soloist, there was so much talking and chattering in the section in which we sat that it was impossible to hear Beethoven's Pastoral symphony.

• • •

Another interesting event on the calendar for next Sunday is a grand barbecue and corn roast for the benefit of the Chicago City Opera company. It will be held at Allendale farms, the home of John Denby Allen, formerly the home of the late Samuel Insull, near Libertyville. There will be a horse show under the management of Irving J. Florsheim; a cattle show personally directed by Thomas E. Wilson; a streamlined opera directed by Jason F. Whitney; a carnival arranged by John F. Cuneo and Simms McGuire; and games under the surveillance of Ralph Mills.

Plan Outing for Medical Women's Club

By Betty Browning.

The Medical Women's Club of Chicago, said to be the oldest existing organization of its kind, will punctuate the interval between seasons with its annual summer outing Wednesday. Members will play cards at the Café Brauer in Lincoln park in the afternoon, and will dine in the outdoor restaurant overlooking the lagoon. Dr. Mabel M. Matthies, treasurer, is receiving reservations until tomorrow.

When Dr. Anna M. Braunwarth and the late Dr. Eliza R. Morse called a number of their colleagues together at the Venetian building in September, 1902, they organized what was then the only known association of women physicians. The late Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson, whose name is perpetuated in the home for destitute women and children on Prairie avenue, was the club's second president. Other early members, who still are active, were Dr. Mary Jeannette Kearsley, Dr. Julia Strawn, Dr. Sadie Adair, and Dr. Lena K. Sadler.

The Medical Women's club always has been primarily a social organization. In 1929 a number of physicians, who wanted scientific programs, founded the Chicago Council of Medical Women. The council presents programs by the members themselves. A valuable byproduct is the practice which members obtain in writing and delivering papers preparatory to appearing before larger medical societies. Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen, Dr. Sadler, and Dr. Anna Blount are among the leaders in this organization.

• • •

A third group of medical women is the Chicago branch of the American Medical Women's association, formed about 10 years ago. Dr. Mary G. Schroeder recently was reëlected president. This group gave a beach party Wednesday on the Wilmette beach.

All three organizations began holding joint meetings late last season, and are planning to continue the practice in the coming year. Each society has approximately 60 members, a number of whom also belong to the other two clubs. The next joint meeting will be held the second Wednesday in October at the Chicago Woman's club. A tea for medical students and internes under the auspices of the branch, a dinner sponsored by the Medical Woman's club, and a scientific program by the council are planned.

Dr. Florence M. Rees recently was elected president of the Medical Women's club. She is in general practice, specializing in pediatrics, and is a clinical instructor at Rush Medical college. She has served the club in a variety of capacities during her seventeen years' membership, and also is on the board of the Zonta Club of Chicago.

Dr. Florence M. Rees.

A native born Canadian, Dr. Rees came to Chicago 18 years ago, at the time of her marriage. She has two sons and a daughter.

Other officers are Susan Slakis, president elect; Carroll Birch, first vice president; Dora Hendrickson, second vice president; Ione F. Beem, secretary; Dr. Matthies, treasurer; Dr. Adelaide D. Hoeffel, former president; chairman, house committee; Marie Motis, chairman, courtesy committee; Edith B. Lowry, chairman, publicity; Dr. Sally Howell, chairman, history committee; Lucille Snow, chairman, public health; Marian Bougher, chairman, ethical relations; Sadie B. Adair, chairman, bulletin.

• • •

Dr. Eloise Parsons recently was elected president of the Chicago Council of Medical Women. Other officers are Augusta Webster, first vice president; Dr. Birch, second vice president; Helen Holt, secretary; Mary M. S. Johnstone, treasurer; Dr. Van Hoosen, editor; Dr. Schroeder, Alice K. Hall, Maude Hall Winnett, former president, counsellors.

"The Hospital in Its Community Relationships" will be the topic of Miss Veronica Miller, member of the Zonta club of Chicago, at its informal luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Palmer House. Miss Miller is superintendent of Henrotin hospital, and was one of a committee of six experts who made the recent analysis and recommendations on the services of the Cook County hospital.

"Chicago Drama League Night" is the designation that is being given the gala closing performance of the Children's Civic theater Monday evening, Aug. 29, at the Navy Pier auditorium. The high school group will present the operetta, "Bon Voyage." Mayor Kelly and members of the city council are being invited. More than 400 children were registered this summer at the theater. The league sponsors the project, with Mrs. William E. Vogelback as chairman.

• • •

For those members of the Chicago Woman's club who are in town a musicale will be given Wednesday morning. Elsa Mayer, contralto, and Edgar Borup, violinst, will give the program. A luncheon and card party will follow. Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck, chairman of music, is coöperating with Mrs. Arline R. Arnold, summer activities chairman, in arranging the morning. Mrs. Charles E. Shearman will be hostess.

ON MOTOR HONEYMOON

Mrs. Walter W. Lampert is the former Hester Alyce Olds, daughter of Mrs. Clay Thayer Olds. She and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Laird were married July 30 in Thorndike Hilton chapel. After a motor trip east Mr. Lampert and his bride will be at home at 6930 South Shore drive.

Salvation Army Offers Films and Lectures to Clubs

The Salvation Army has sent out to organizations a schedule of motion pictures and lectures to be made available without charge during the coming season. Any organization in Chicago or its suburbs may obtain a program by applying to the army headquarters at 719 North State street.

The half dozen motion pictures range from the 18 minute "It's Being Done—Today," illustrating army activities, news reel fashion, to the 44 minute "Behind the Tambourine," a fuller picture of army work for the unfortunate.

"Adventures in Wonderland," is a technicolor film of life at the army's camp in the Wisconsin lake country. "Hope, Inc.," pictures the industrial homes' efforts to help derelict men. "He Profits Most," coördinates Salvation Army work with that of service clubs.

A dozen lectures deal with various phases of the army's activities. "Soap, Soup and Salvation," "Salvaging Men and Machines," "Mothers Without a Wedding Ring," and "Soldiers of Disaster" are among the titles.

Frankie Bowman Engaged to Joseph R. Rosborough

At a small dinner party last night Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Bowman of Oak Park announced the engagement of their daughter Frankie Jean, to Joseph Robert Rosborough of Moline, Ill. Miss Bowman was graduated from Bradford Junior college and the School of the Art Institute. Mr. Rosborough was graduated from the University of Illinois college of law.

Patriotic Group Heads to Discuss U. S. Constitution

Leaders of three patriotic organizations are participating in a round table discussion of the constitution on Tuesdays at 6:30 o'clock over station WCBD.

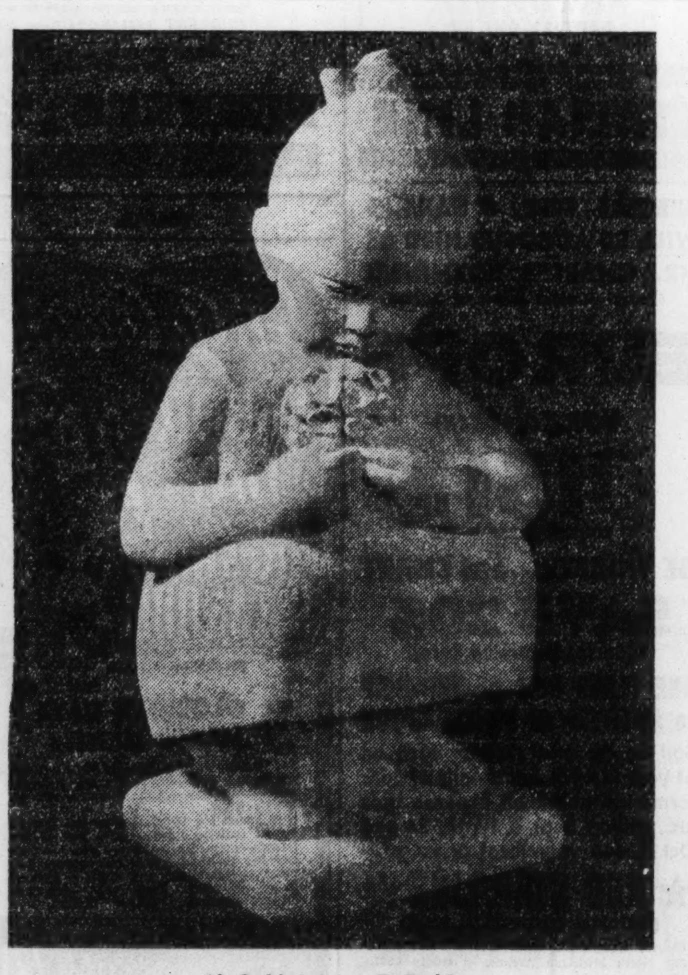
Mrs. Marie Tylee McHugh, state president of the Colonial Dames of the 17th century; Mrs. Frances Letcher Smith, secretary of the Fourth division of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Louis A. Bowman, state secretary of the Sons of the American Revolution, are taking part in the discussion. Jerome Greenberg, assistant to the superintendent of Cook county schools, is a fourth participant.

Mrs. Marie Tylee McHugh.

The discussions, planned to culminate in a Constitution day program Sept. 17, deal with the origin and history of the constitution.

Soft Woolens.

Soft woolens are more popular than the heavy ones for fall. Chiffon has become an adjective for lightweight jerseys. "Petit point" is a new weave in woolens for winter coats. Ribbed fabrics will be popular, too.



"SUMMER"

Sylvia Shaw Judson has never created a more exquisite or more natural group of figures than in her "Corn Belt Seasons," four small children, each perfect. The one shown here is entitled "Summer." Mrs. Judson's sculpture is on view at the Art institute to October.

Art Institute Announces an Etching Exhibit

By Eleanor Jewett.

The first hint of autumn and the start of a new season may be read into the announcement sent out by the Chicago Art institute of the fifth international exhibition of etching and engraving to be held at the museum from Nov. 4, 1938, to Jan. 9, 1939. The jury will meet Wednesday, Oct. 12, and will be chosen by the committee on prints and drawings of the institute. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan art institute prize of $75 for purchase or as an award will be awarded by the trustees' print committee of the museum.

From Palm Beach, Fla., Mary E. Aleshire, director, Society of the Four Arts, wires that the works of art chosen to go east to represent Florida at the third annual national exhibition of American art in New York, included the brilliant painting, "Heart of the Lotus," by Florence Wilkins Furst [a member of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts and the Arts Club of Chicago], and one piece of sculpture, "Bust of C. E. W.," by Harry Robinson Furst, Mrs. Furst's son. This bust had received the sculpture award at the Palm Beach Art league annual show.

Shepard Vogelgesang, noted as a designer in architectural color and industrial art, and well known in Chicago art circles, is assistant director of the decorative arts exhibit at the 1939 Golden Gate International exposition in San Francisco. He has just sent word that America's most beautiful examples of the ceramist's and potter's arts will be displayed at the exposition.

The ceramics and pottery will be selected from the national exhibition, known as the Robineau Memorial, which will be held for the seventh time this fall [Oct. 27 to Nov. 21] at the Syracuse, N. Y., Museum of Fine Arts. One hundred pieces will be sent west.

At the Chicago Art institute the WPA art exhibit will continue to hold forth until Oct. 9. On Tuesday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock various project artists have been engaged to talk on different subjects. This week Edouard Chassaing will discuss "Sculpture Processes"; on Aug. 23 Douglas Wilson will talk on "Print Making," and on Aug. 30 "The Making of Ceramics" will be explained by Gerard Lambert.

Lester O. Schwartz, whose painting is represented in the WPA art exhibit, is the Art institute of Chicago winner of the Edward L. Ryerson Traveling fellowship of $2,500 of 1937. A letter from him from Bali says: "I will soon leave Bali and go back to Souralya, Java, to do a group of water colors of Javanese women and landscapes. From there I shall go to Borneo, Singapore, Benang, Ceylon, Bombay, Alexandria, and Italy. I plan to stay at the academy in Rome.

"The natives here are having theatricals tonight and have been busy the entire day constructing a stage made of bamboo. They begin their show at 10 in the evening and finish about 4 in the morning. I have traded my bicycle for a small horse [even trade] and have been using it in the mountains on sketching trips. Never having been on a horse before, I was lame for a few days, but am getting the hang of the thing now.

"I have completed two large canvases, one of "Bathers" and the other of "Legongs," and am working on another of a Malay boy holding a rooster. Getting along well and find each country so very different and interesting I would like to stay a much longer time than is possible."

The club woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, has a most interesting exhibition during August. Hans J. Stoltenberg of Milwaukee in the winter and Wauwatosa in the summer has lent the gallery forty-eight of his paintings, some very tiny, others large, each lovely. The paintings are all landscapes and reveal the beauties of Wisconsin at various seasons and in various moods. They remind one of the gallery in the Louvre at Paris filled with Monet's dreamy portrayals of the Rouen cathedral at every hour of the day.

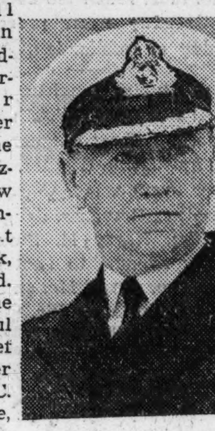
GOING SOMEWHERE?



William C. Sutcliffe.

Information gathered on the recent record breaking voyage of the Queen Mary will be used in the building of turbines for her sister ship, the Queen Elizabeth, now under construction at Clydebank, Scotland. Under the watchful eye of Chief Engineer William C. Sutcliffe, the Queen Mary's turbines were let out to their full power. Thereby a new trans-Atlantic westbound speed record of 3 days 21 hours 48 minutes was accomplished, along with a new mark of 790 miles in one day. The giant ship then proceeded to take the eastbound record in 3 days 20 hours 42 minutes. Following her arrival on the other side early last week, Cunard-White Star officials related that she had "amply demonstrated possession of sufficient reserve speed to overcome any handicaps of weather or late sailing hours due to tidal conditions, thus enabling her to maintain a regularity of schedule seldom possible before."

The motorliner Gripsholm has been scheduled to cruise again around South America. She will sail from New York Jan. 31, 1939. This was announced last week by the Swedish American Line. The High Andes, the ancient Inca lands, the Chilean lake region, the Straits of Magellan, and the principal cities of the Argentine, Chile, and Brazil will provide the highlights of the trip, but added to these will be a visit to Para, port of the Amazon; a cruise along the lower reaches of that jungle-lined river, and the skirting of Devil's Island. The Gripsholm will dock at almost every port visited, in that way eliminating tenders and allowing passengers to step from ship to shore.

The Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd has arranged to place its new motorship, the Helgoland, in service this winter between Key West and Havana. Beginning Dec. 15, the vessel will make three sailings weekly. A motor coach is to be run between Miami and Key West in connection with the service. The company also has scheduled a sailing of the motorship Fulda from New Orleans Oct. 30, with Bremen as the destination and with a possible call at Philadelphia.

Americans who have visited Europe in the autumn relate that September and October are usually the most pleasant of the year over there. This year the early fall season on the British Isles and the continent will be taken up with numerous exhibitions, fêtes, fairs, festivals, and sports events, and the patronage from this side of the ocean promises to be large.

A four day, all-expense tour of Niagara Falls over the Labor day weekend is to leave Chicago Saturday, Sept. 3, on the New York Central. The itinerary calls for two days at the falls, a night on Lake Erie, and a sightseeing trip at Detroit.

Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the introduction of golf into the United States, a golden jubilee tournament will be held at French Lick, Ind., Sept. 2 and 3. The event will bring together at the spa a hundred or so old timers from all parts of the country.

Several thousand midwesterners found relief from hay fever last year on Michigan's upper peninsula. This year, say reports from that area, the number may be even greater. Lake Superior, more than 400 miles long and 160 miles wide, is the air conditioner for the entire district. The pollen count is almost nil.

James O'Donnell Bennett's booklet, "Michigan's Flaming Forests," has been prepared for free distribution by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association at Grand Rapids. The announcement is made in connection with the annual "color tours" through the woods in general and the Manistee National forest in particular. The tours are to start from Petoskey, Manistee, and Traverse City in October.

Under the leadership of Deane Dickason, the American Express Travel service is to send a group of Americans on a six months' world tour next winter. The party will sail from San Francisco Jan. 19 and visit Hawaii, Fiji, New Zealand, Australia, Bali, Java, and India. At Bombay it will be split up, with some of the travelers going to Europe by way of the Suez canal, and the others going around South Africa. The same company last week announced a two weeks' vacation tour from Chicago, leaving Sept. 11 and calling at New York, Washington, and Bermuda.

The "Lady" liners of the Canadian National steamship system have been almost solidly booked this summer, but this fall, says the passenger trafic manager, they will have room for vacationists. The vessels sail from Montreal and Boston to the West Indies. The Clarke Steamship company's liners, plying between Montreal and Labrador, also have had capacity loads. Following the final sailing on Aug. 29, the New Northland will make a cruise to Gaspe, the maritime provinces, the Saguenay river, and Murray Bay, with departure set for Sept. 12.

Michigan delicacies are to be introduced to resorters and visitors at the South Haven peach festival Sept. 1 to 4. Arrangements have been made to serve peach cobbler free to all comers throughout the celebration.

Some 2,000 Indians of Oregon, Washington and Idaho are getting ready to take part in the Pendleton roundup, to be held this year Sept. 15, 16 and 17. They belong to the Umatilla, Nez Perce, Yakima and other tribes.

Concert Marks Peak of Season in Door County

EPHRAIM, WIS. To hundreds of summer residents in Door county the Peninsula Arts association concert this evening in the high school auditorium at Fish Creek will represent the finest entertainment of their northern vaction season. Five artists are combining their talents to provide a varied program designed to appeal to many types of people.

Helen Abbott Byfield, Chicago soprano and past president of the Women's Symphony orchestra, will sing a group of requested songs. Her accompanist, Leo Podolsky, is also well known in Chicago music circles. The baritone voice of George Michalson, St. Louis teacher and concert soloist, which has been heard in Ephraim on several former occasions when he has sung with the Christiansen Choral school here, will be heard again in two groups of songs.

Mr. Podolsky and Gaylord H. Browne, young violinist and conductor of the Evansville, Ind., Symphony orchestra, who play one number, will be joined by Joseph Zoellner Jr., Chicago cellist and leader of the Zoellner string quartet for a Rachmaninoff trio, which will conclude the program.

During the last week Mrs. Byfield has been entertaining Mrs. Donald MacMurray, Mrs. Edward Kohlsaat, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mme. Jeanne Sorson of Chicago, Mrs. Gorton Fauntleroy of Geneva, and Mrs. Leslie Cooke of Winnetka at the Ephraim cottage she has taken for August. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wampler of Highland Park will be her house guests this week-end.

• • •

Many Chicagoans summering in the county entered their dogs in the dog show held in Ephraim last week-end. The granting of blue, red, and white ribbons for first, second, and third places in twenty novelty classes provided many amusing incidents throughout the afternoon devoted to judging. Eric, the Great Dane owned by the W. J. Wilsons of Western Springs, won three blue ribbons Centa of Robbinswood, the German police dog owned by Mrs. Chester D. Tripp of Evanston, was also a plural ribbon holder at the close of the show.

The grand prize winner, Ronnie, an Irish setter, is owned by Blanche and Jesse Vail, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Vail of Evanston. Miss Ann Meissel and William Carpenter of Kenilworth are guests at the Vail home this week. The latter's mother, Mrs. J. C. Carpenter, and Jean Freeman of Winnetka are joining the Vails this week-end.

A Scotch collie from the John Demuth kennels in Ephraim, Queenie, owned by Mrs. J. Arthur Friedlund of Chicago, and Sister Bay carried away the second grand prize at the show and the Friedlund German police, Schnapps, won several ribbons.

Mrs. Friedlund has had Vivian Della Chiesa, Lorna Doone Jackson, and Rhea Shelters as her house guests at Shadow Lawn during the last week. Her Sister bay neighbors, the Russell Chandlers, have been entertaining Dr. and Mrs. Reinardy, Miss Jane Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Cooley of Evanston, and Miss Jocelyn Brando at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bostrom of Chicago, members of the Sister bay colony for many years, gave a buffet supper, a typical Swedish smorgasbord, recently in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Mrs. Robert Landstrom. The party was one of the largest and gayest of the summer season.

• • •

Chicagoans figured prominently among the winners of Ephraim Yacht club regatta events last week-end, even though the H. S. Vale cup for the class A sailing race went to a Menominee yachtsman. Mrs. Charles Butland of Evanston won the class B race with her sloop Lotus in competition with sixteen other boats. John Ball of Winnetka and his Uncle Emery Wilder of Barrington placed first in the yacht club group. The former's brothers, Charles and Dan, each won the swimming races in their class.

DETOUR

By FREDERIC BABCOCK

A dispatch to THE TRIBUNE the other day told of the discovery of a series of rooms and tunnels under the centuries old dirt floor of the Colosseum in Rome. . . . Now comes word of the progress being made on another important piece of excavation in Italy. . . . Ostia, the ancient seaport conceived by Augustus, started by Claudius, and completed by Trajan, is being restored to its former glory. . . . Five hundred men have tackled the job of uncovering the once bustling city on whose quays cargoes from foreign ports were reshipped up the Tiber to Rome. . . . An area comprising about one-fifth of the original has been unearthed.

Two thousand years ago Ostia had a population of 100,000, but it began losing ground soon afterwards and in the last few centuries it hasn't been much more than a souvenir. . . . Its rediscovery, started thirty years ago under the direction of Prof. Guido Calzi, proceeded slowly until the excavators began to realize they had something there. . . . Now the work is being pushed with something approaching frenzy in order that the imperial seaport of other days can be presented to visitors of the Rome World's fair in 1942 as an exhibit of eight centuries of Roman life and history.

● A boulevard 312 feet wide is under way from the Colosseum to the fair grounds, three miles out, and thence to Ostia, ten miles further. . . . The double track electric line from Rome will be quadrupled to accommodate the tourists. . . . Elevated walks are to provide vantage points for the sightseers. . . . Everything will be done to entice visitors to the ruins. . . . Houses which might well serve as models for present day homes, and a department store which is the first of record in Roman history, are among the attractions.

● "The houses of Ostia seem more alive and closer to us than those of Pompeii," Prof. Calzi relates, "because they provide so many resemblances to modern buildings. . . . They are three or four stories high, and divided into apartments, with façades overlooking courtyards, with wide and regularly placed windows and staircases, and with the brickwork formed into graceful decorations."

The department store was housed in a warehouse owned by two brothers with oriental names. . . . Today its first and second stories are intact, but the third is missing. . . . The handsome building incloses an open court, faced on both floors by small booths where a large variety of goods — including imports from Asia and Africa—were sold. . . . It boasts of tiled drains, broad stairways, and numerous sales counters.

● When an American goes there at any time in the future he can imagine himself a Roman wandering through the streets of busy Ostia . . . In Diana street or, more correctly, the Street of the Home of Dianal, for instance, is a place likely to detain him for an hour or so. . . . It is a thermopolium, or refreshment bar, situated a block or so from the Forum. . . . Much like a twentieth century bar, it is built in the form of an L. . . . On either side of the entrance is a stone seat where tired business men could sit and watch the crowds go by. . . . Sunk beneath the floors are four huge jars where wine was stored, and in the rear is a yard resembling a beer garden. . . . On the pillars behind the stone seats are lettered announcements designed to attract customers.

Taken as a whole, says Prof. Calzi, Ostia is outstanding among old-time Roman cities for the imposing character and excellent preservation of its ruins.

Bermuda Puts Ban on Use of Ships as Hotels

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Although the Bermuda legislature's ban on the use of cruise ships as hotels while in Bermuda harbors will not become effective until Dec. 1, the Furness Bermuda Line has notified its agents that "ship-hotel" bookings on the Queen of Bermuda and Monarch of Bermuda will be dropped immediately.

American shipping interests have construed the legislation, passed last Monday, as being aimed at the Eastern Steamship Line, operator of the Acadia in the Bermuda service, although the Bermuda trade developments board and other island interests have denied this intent.

Officials of the line said the Acadia would continue on her cruises, spending three days each voyage at anchor in St. George's harbor. The present schedule lists sailings until Sept. 21.

It was pointed out that the prohibition applies only to ships in Hamilton or St. George's harbors, and that occasional cruise liners will continue to drop anchor in other harbors and employ tender service for passengers on the ship-hotel basis.

Last year 83,000 tourists visited Bermuda, and more than 30 per cent of them were Americans.

Bridal Pair Plan Return to Pasadena

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL. Trans-Atlantic news of interest in Pasadena and Chicago alike was telephoned from Mayfair court, London, to the D. Herbert Hostetters Jr. here in Flintridge, recently, confirming the fact that their daughter and new son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Irvine "Pat" Roark [Patsy Hostetter], were sailing home from their European honeymoon. They are to visit in Chicago with Mrs. Roark's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis Pierce, and with Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pierce [Mary Jean Curtis] en route. They are at present in Westburg, Long Island, for six weeks. The marriage of the Roarks last May stirred society in several centers and Pasadena friends of the polo star and his bride are planning for their homecoming.

The mail brings word direct from Dr. Glenn Allan Millikan and his bride, the former Miss Clare Leigh-Mallory, giving details of their wedding Aug. 3 in Godalming Parish church. They are now honeymooning in the Alps, appropriately, for it was when they were climbing in Wales that the two first met. Climbing friends of the couple were a guard of honor at the wedding and held up an arch of crossed ice axes under which the bride and bridegroom walked as they left the church.

In the letter was enclosed a description of the setting as written by Anne Bridge, novelist and close friend of the bride's family, who has been a guest at their Westbrook home. As a girl Miss Bridge climbed in the Alps with the late George Leigh-Mallory, father of the bride, who lost his life in 1924 in an attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries on where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune.

Kindly give us a brief description of Starved Rock state park.—W. E.

The park, covering an area of 900 acres, stretches for four miles along the Illinois river, 90 mles southwest of Chicago. It contains many picturesque canyons, along with hiking trails, a modern swimming pool, and boating facilities. Its crowning feature, however, is Starved Rock, rising 140 feet out of the river.

What should it cost my husband and me to take a two weeks' trip from Chicago to Boston, New York, Washington, Philadelphia, and the points of interest along the way?—F. S. G.

All expense round trips by rail are available at around $142 each. This includes everything except meals in New York City and tips en route.

Contemporary with the war chariot of the ancients was the war elephant, as shown in this reproduction of a painting by Otto Van Veen (1558-1629). Entitled "The Rising of the Batavians Against the Romans," it pictures a battle of the revolt of the Netherlandic tribesmen that was led by Civilis against the Romans in A. D. 69.

Bigger Guns Will Win a War!

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

MORE THAN 5,000 years ago horses were domesticated and put to hauling chariots, thus becoming man's mainstay in war.

● And to this day the horse-and-chariot influence has prevailed in war, despite the wealth of mechanical opportunities afforded to break away entirely from it.

● In the ancient past, 2,800 to 3,000 years before the Christian era, the people of the city of Kish, in what is now Iraq, employed horses to drag their chariots. In the seventeenth century B. C. the Hyksos or shepherd kings from north and east of Syria swept down into Lower Egypt and conquered the land, chiefly as the result of the mobility provided by their horse-drawn chariots. The horse, either as a charger or yoked to a chariot, was an important factor in war hundreds of years before it was employed to any extent for the workaday purposes of transport and tillage.

● By the time the armies of Alexander the Great and those of ancient Rome appeared upon the world scene, mounted soldiers and charioteers were a vital part of every formidable fighting force. Because of their greater speed of movement and their ability to cover greater distances in any given time than foot soldiers, they were employed to an ever-increasing extent as the years went by. Especially valuable in sweeping around the flanks of an enemy and destroying his morale by awesome charges (Continued on page three)

Frederic Remington, celebrated American painter, knew his artillerymen and his horses, as is disclosed in this work by him, which shows a fieldpiece being dragged through the sticky mud of a road.

Looking at Hollywood with Ed Sullivan

A New "Academy" – The Reporters – Picks the Hits and Stars

Cary Grant gets star rating for his work in "Holiday" but Katharine Hepburn misses out.

By ED SULLIVAN

Hollywood, Cal.

THERE are 170 accredited newspaper correspondents in Hollywood, ranging from Eugenio de Zarraga, of the Tokyo Movie Times, to Silvio Masanta, of L'Osservatore Romano, or from Pierre Lamure, of the Paris Le Jour to G. Lon Jones, of the Melbourne Sporting Globe. Through their newspaper columns and radio broadcasts, it is entirely probably that these 170 movie correspondents do more to mold public opinion about the movie stars than any other group of writers. It is entirely probable, also, that through their mail contacts with the fans of their localities, this huge body of writers serves as a fairly accurate mirror of public opinion.

Fay Bainter, selected for starring role in "White Banners" and supporting role in "Jezebel."

No one had tapped this field of information until the Hollywood Reporter, important trade paper, decided to conduct a monthly poll of these movie correspondents to determine what they thought about the pictures of the preceding month and what they thought about the performances of individual players.

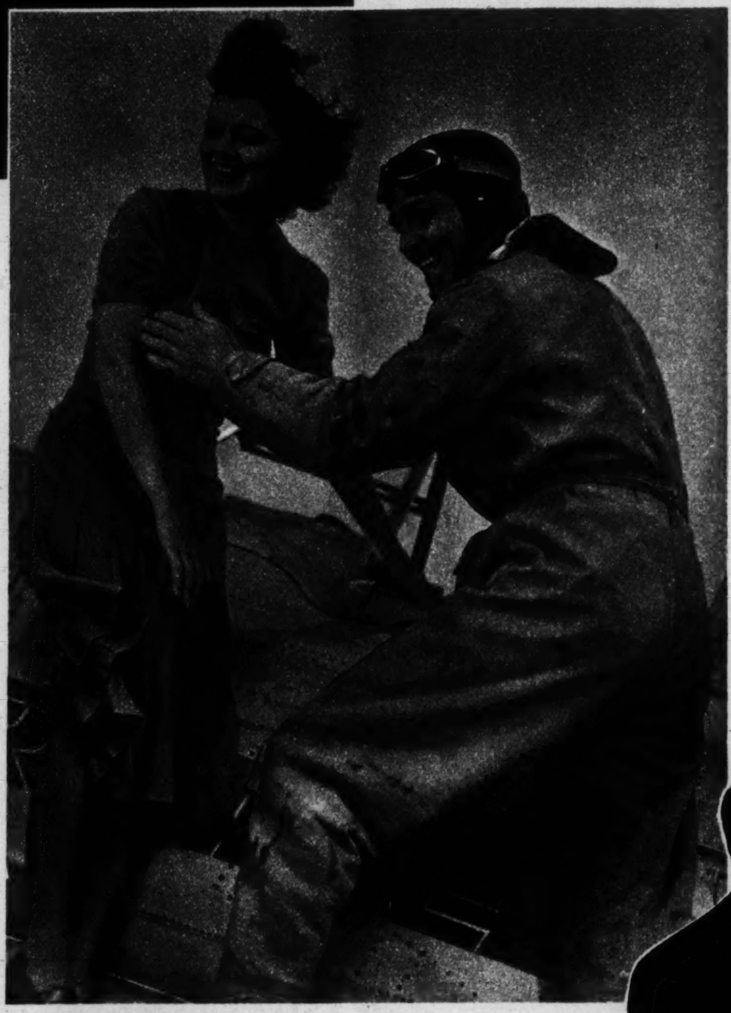
In March, the first month of balloting, th critics selected "Jezebel" as the outstanding picture of the month. In April they picked "Robin Hood." In May they gave the palm to "Alexander's Ragtime Band." In June they selected "Algiers." The July balloting is now in progress and it would not be surprising if the critics thumped the tubs for "Love Finds Andy Hardy," in preference to "Marie Antoinette" or "The Crowd Roars."

• • •

The important consequence of this monthly polling of critics representing every city and town in the country and in the world is that it should aid the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in determining the academy awards. This monthly summation is an index that can't be neglected, because the critics are polled when the memory of performances are fresh in mind. That is very important.

This blue ribbon jury of the films to date has selected, as outstanding actresses, Bette Davis, in "Jezebel"; Myrna Loy, for her work in "Test Pilot"; Fay Bainter, for her "White Banners," and Danielle Darrieux, for "Rage of Paris." They have picked, as outstanding actors of the year, Gary Cooper, for "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife"; Clark Gable, for "Test Pilot"; Cary Grant, for "Holiday," and Charles Boyer, for his Pape le Moko characterization in "Algiers."

For supporting performances, the critics have selected Fay Bainter ("Jezebel"); Beulah Bondi ("Vivacious Lady"); Barbara O'Neil ("Toy Wife"), and Claire Trevor ("Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse"). For supporting performances, male, they have selected Frank Morgan ("Port of Seven Seas"); Basil Rathbone ("Robin Hood"); Lew Ayres ("Holiday"), and Gene Lockhart ("Algiers").



Both Myrna Loy and Clark Gable rate tops for "Test Pilot" —a scene from which they are enacting in this picture.

You may argue that Katharine Hepburn's grand performance in "Holiday" was far superior, as a dramatic document, to Fay Bainter's performance in "White Banners," but the fact remains that 170 critics in the May balloting preferred Miss Bainter. Pointed to was the critics' snub of Luise Rainer, two-time academy winner. They didn't like her in "Toy Wife." Personally, I'd pick La Hepburn, as it always has seemed to me that there was a certain artificiality to Fay Bainter. The only performance she ever has given which appealed to this reporter was in "Dodsworth." In all the other plays or pictures in which I've seen her, she was always acting a part, rather than experiencing it deeply.

• • •

It will be interesting to see what disposition the critics will make of "Marie Antoinette." This lavish production, representing several million dollars in production values, failed to ring the bell as clearly as it should have, despite its colossal, terrific, and stupendous première. Once upon a time, the critics and audiences would have been so overwhelmed by the production values of such a picture that they would have tossed their hats in the air. It is a measure of the advancement in discrimination that this month a serious rival to the pretentious "Marie Antoinette" is "Love Finds Andy Hardy," a simple and homely little picture from the same studio.

As yet, Luise Rainer and Spencer Tracy, academy award winners of last year, have failed to catch the eyes of the critics. Tracy may do it in "Boys' Town," the picture he is now preparing. Paul Muni, ever the dark horse of the field, may do it in "Beethoven," his study of the great composer.

One of the finest male performances I've seen this past month was contributed by Pat O'Brien in "Garden of the Moon." It ranked right up with Jimmy Stewart's grand make-believing in "Shopworn Angel," and Bob Taylor's excellent characterization of the fighter in "The Crowd Roars." The finest performance, of course, was that by Robert Morley, in "Marie Antoinette." However, because of the technicalities of billing, Morley does not qualify as a star, so the best he can achieve is distinction as a supporting actor.

Hollywood, however, in its own way, has cheapened the monthly poll. Immediately an actor or a producer or a writer has been selected as the No. 1 in his field, for that particular month, the advertising solicitors rush to the winner and persuade him to take a half page ad or a quarter page ad. In fact, the poll was originated with that practical idea in mind. But just as "Mother's day" was the product of a fertile sales mind, this 30 day checkup poll of pictures is important and significant and helpful to the industry.

Gary Cooper, in a scene from "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife."

Frank Morgan, a hit in "Port of Seven Seas."

Danielle Darrieux as she appeared in prize role as "The Rage of Paris."

Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: I recently saw Shirley emple in person and I think she is the sweetest, most unspoiled youngster I've ever seen. What struck me most was her beauty. Her coloring is perfectly lovely and she is so tiny one would take her to be a four year old. Why in the world aren't her pictures in technicolor? Certainly a little girl as lovely as Shirley deserves to have her beauty shown to its fullest extent. Seeing her has made me feel that the motion pictures aren't doing her justice. I'm sure all of the people who saw her on her recent eastern trip as I did will agree with me.

K. E. B.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE
Makes personal appearance, wins fan's praise.

P. S. Could you manage to save a space for Shirley's picture?

Editor's note: Undoubtedly we'll be seeing her in technicolor some day. We "saved the space"—and here's the picture.

Dear Mae Tinée: I saw "Son of the Sheik" again. And after twelve years Rudolph Valentino's acting is still the tops. Believe you me, he had finesse. And I do mean finesse. Addressing my letter to you is for a reason. Don't you think that the gentlemen in charge of such things will take notice of this letter and revive a few of the Valentino pictures? The ones I would especially like to see again are "The Sheik," "Monsieur Beaucaire" (one of his best), "The Sainted Devil," "The Four Horsemen," and "Blood and Sand." I'll wager that there are plenty of others who would be interested in such revivals.

And now there are a few other matters which I would like to take up at this session.

I'd like to see Don Ameche more often and hear him sing even oftener. He has one of the nicest voices, both for speaking and singing, and one of the most infectious laughs I have ever heard, and he always turns in a grand performance.

Spencer Tracy is my idea of what a real hero should be like. I wish they would give him more rôles like the one which he had in "Mannequin" or "Captains Courageous." I certainly can't imagine any girl in real life passing Spencer up for anybody else, and that includes Clark Gable. (I suppose I've started something now.) However, regardless of which character he portrays, he is consistently good.

Why don't they give Nelson Eddy parts similar to the one which he had in "Naughty Marietta"? His part in "Girl of the Golden West" wasn't bad, but the others have been terrible. I'd love to see him in "The Desert Song" as the Red Shadow. In fact, I'd like to see and hear him in lots and lots of pictures.

Last, but not least, here's a cheer for Bing Crosby. One always enjoys his pictures—not to mention how much one enjoys hearing him sing. Sincerely,

ROUMELLE WESTBROOK.

Editor's note: "Gentlemen in charge" please note. And I'm sure the lads accorded such warm appreciation will be fired with new enthusiasm by your letter.

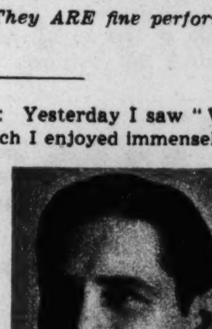
Dear Mae: I wonder how those Hollywood producers permitted such a movie as "The Joy of Living"? Here two excellent performers, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Irene Dunne, appear in one of the most vapid and wearying, storyless stallingarounds I have ever seen, with Irene posing as drunk and Doug cutting up as Donald Duck. Why, Mae, I was regusted. I blame the producers of this one, 'cause Irene and Junior are always adroit and proficient provided they are given the proper rôles and story.

JIM.

Editor's note: They ARE fine performers, aren't they?

Dear Miss Tinee: Yesterday I saw "Vivacious Lady," which I enjoyed immensely. Ginger Rogers and James Stewart in the leading rôles did splendid work, in fact the whole cast was entirely satisfactory. An outstanding contribution was given by James Ellison. I would like to see more of this young actor in the future. Will you please publish a short biography of Mr. Ellison for me? Thank you. I read your column daily and although I don't always agree with you I respect your opinion. Sincerely,

M. J. F.



JAMES ELLISON
Praised for work in "Vivacious Lady."

Editor's note: Glad to print the biography of Mr. Ellison. Why should you always agree with me? I can be wrong. Thanks for that last phrase! . . . James Ellison was born in Guthrie Center, Ia. He played in Moscow Art theater until he reached stardom. Went to Hollywood for a screen career. Played at Beverly Hills Little theater and was discovered by a talent scout.

Dear Mae Tinée: Will you please tell me if Charles Ruggles played in "Topper." If he did, what part did he take. If he did not play in it, who did? Also I would like to know the name of the man who took the part of Billie Burke's husband. Yours truly,

DOROTHY DEHN.

Editor's note: Charles Ruggles did not appear in the film "Topper." You're probably thinking of Roland Young, who played the rôle of Mr. Topper, the husband of Billie Burke.

Dear Miss Tinée: I wrote you just a short time ago asking a favor and now I am about to ask another one. I do wish I could show my gratitude in some way besides with words, but just the same, thank you.

Miss Tinée, I have seen "Robin Hood" three times and even now cannot place all the characters. Would you please print a list of the cast. Sincerely,

PAT WELCH.

Editor's note: Glad to oblige. Here's the cast of "Robin Hood." Three times you've seen the picture? My! That's something in the way of a record, isn't it?

Plain Mrs. Campbell—Headache to Victoria

A Princess, But a Rebel Against Conventions

DEATH has concluded the highly publicized career of one of royalty's gayest tradition breakers — Marie, dowager queen of Rumania. But in the backgammon rooms of Kensington palace, London, or on the lawns of a villa at Cap Ferrat, in southern France, can be seen today a gentle lady of 90 years who was the giddiest royal rebel of them all.

She is Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll and the great-aunt of King George VI. Princess Louise today is eldest of the three living children of Queen Victoria. Her sister, Princess Beatrice, is her favorite backgammon partner. H. R. H. the duke of Connaught, two years her junior, is her brother. He owns the villa in France to which Princess Louise retreats to ward off bronchitis, her one physical weakness.

It was Princess Louise who made it possible for England today to have a commoner queen. She defied her prim little mother, who wanted to continue the infiltration of German princelings into the British royal line, and married a mere marquess, John Campbell of Lorne, heir to the eighth duke of Argyll. She was the first British princess in 350 years to marry outside the royal pale, and thereby set a precedent that enabled the young duke of York, her great nephew, to marry the daughter of an earl and later make her the present Queen Elizabeth of England. The marriage of the duke of Gloucester, another great-nephew, to Lady Alice Douglas-Scott, a commoner, followed this same precedent.

But that was not the end of her flaunting of precedent. As plain "Mrs. Campbell" she shocked her family by touring the continent alone, a fugitive from a stuffy court life she could not endure. In those days traveling "incognito" really meant traveling without benefit of special attention, not merely making an unofficial but widely heralded trip. She spurned also the conventional training of royal children, turning her talents toward painting and sculpture. Her statue of Queen Victoria stands today in Kensington gardens, London, and in St. Paul's cathedral is a memorial to the men of the Boer war, carved by this same unconventional princess. Of all the trials Queen Vic faced during her long reign, this little lady was unquestionably her most persistent headache.

(Internat'l photo.)
Queen Victoria.

(U. & U. photo.)
Queen Marie.

When the late Queen Marie was born in 1875 as Marie Alexandra Victoria, daughter of Grand Duchess Marie of Russia and Prince Alfred of England, second son of Victoria, the British court, hardly recovered from the shock induced by the marriage of her Aunt Louise to the Scotch commoner, was upset anew by the incognito trip to the continent. Whether there was any conscious following of her aunt's iconoclastic lead is not known, but Marie had ample grounds for her own attacks on precedent, and for the democratic spirit that won her the affectionate title of "mother-in-law of the Balkans."

Princess Louise's solitary travels on the continent put her in contact with the rank and file and her affection for the people is still demonstrated frequently. Only recently she arranged permission for a world war widow to erect her fruit stand on palace grounds in order to escape the $1.25 hawker's license.

Perhaps Princess Louise can best point to the reason for her revolt against convention. She was born in 1848 during the height of England's revolutionary scare. Louis Philippe of France had been overthrown and the English royal children were placed under the strictest supervision in a villa on the Isle of Wight. That strict supervision outlasted the revolution scare — until, at least, Louise took matters into her own hands.

Upon that ancient wheeled vehicle of war as companions of the driver customarily rode two or more warriors armed with spears, swords, or bows and arrows. Frequently among some of the armies the chariot was provided with strong cutting blades attached to the spindles around which the hubs of the wheels turned. These blades performed in the manner of scythes. As the chariot was driven at breakneck speed through a group of the enemy they cut down all those who were not spry enough to elude them. The chariot might be said to have been the war tank of the ancients, valuable for its shocking force and its ability to make holes in the enemy's line.

A wealth of tradition throughout the ages was built up around the mounted soldier and the chariot. When artillery as it is understood in the modern sense finally came into use the chariot already had passed into oblivion, but the cavalryman and his horse remained — in fact, mounted troops still are with us today, although in greatly reduced numbers.

• • •

Since from earliest times the technique of war has been limited by what a horse or a man could carry and by what a team could draw, the unimaginative men who still in the main conduct the wars of the world are inclined to think of armed conflict by land in terms of men and horses. The failure to recognize fully the limitations of the horse has proved a definite obstacle to proper development of modern artillery. Ordnance officers too frequently still think of mobile guns as only those that can be drawn by horses, even though they may be drawn by trucks or tractors that can exert many times the power possible from a team of as many as eight horses. Teams of a greater number of animals than eight never have been considered practicable in the field of war.

In recent years, and in consequence of this tendency to cling to the horse tradition, the caliber of artillery pieces has been kept down to a point of inefficiency. Relatively small weapons such as the standard field piece, and the ammunition that it uses, which is comparatively light and thus can be transported handily and in great quantities, are in perfect accord with the aforementioned horse tradition. Therefore the field piece, improved in accuracy and range but nevertheless still a field piece, remains the artillery weapon found in greatest numbers in modern armies. Field pieces have a bore of approximately three inches, this bore varying with the standards of different armies. The French 75 (75-millimeter bore), which America adopted during the World war, and the German 77 are of this type.

Bigger Guns Will Win a War

Decreased Weight, Greater Mobility Are Goals

Sixteen inch coast defense gun.

Not only before and during the recent great war were military tactics limited by the speed at which men and horses moved, but even today are these limitations apparent when we ignore for the moment those instances in which troops are transported by motor lorries and guns are hauled by motor-driven vehicles. The whole point, however, is that designers of mobile guns still are thinking about horses when they draw their plans.

It was a dire emergency that led to the employment of motor trucks in the World war. The railroad lines into Verdun were interdicted. It was not possible to ship men, munitions, and supplies into this vital sector by means of trains, so the French turned to trucks. Practice taught them how to use the trucks to close the holes that the Germans broke in their lines in 1918. The British and the French also developed war tanks. Thus came the beginnings of motorization and mechanization as applied to war.

A former American artillery officer who saw active service in France is authority for the statement that the American soldiers held the German 77s in contempt. He believes that the efficiency of the 75s used by the French and the Americans was vastly overrated. What struck fear into the hearts of the soldiers of all the armies, in his opinion, were the large-caliber shells. When the bigger guns could be brought up in sufficient numbers everything literally fell before them. But in most cases it was impossible to bring the large-caliber guns forward in pursuit, so in consequence defense invariably prevailed toward the end of every battle.

The reason why the big-caliber guns could not be moved up rapidly enough to take part in the late as well as the early phases of a battle lay entirely in their great weight and consequent restricted mobility. They were not built for speedy movement over irregular terrain. Back somewhere in the minds of their designers was the belief that only standard field pieces of approximately three-inch bore were expected to be transported at any rate resembling speed—the ancient horse tradition still effective on the battlefield.

The answer to the problem is apparent. Big guns must be designed and built so they can be transported over rough fields at a speed comparable with that of the standard field piece. In order to do this it will be necessary to lighten the big guns and construct them in such manner as to prevent their miring in soft ground. Much more will be gained if at the same time the big guns are lightened their ammunition is lightened in a similar manner.

The present-day 155-millimeter gun (approximately 6-inch bore) is held to be of the smallest caliber for really effective work on the battlefield. This weapon with its carriage weighs approximately five tons. (It formerly weighed seven tons.) If the weight of the gun and carriage could be reduced materially by the employment of some of the newer metals and alloys that science has developed it is obvious that the weapon could be moved with greater ease and greater speed. Certain parts, such as the inside lining of the barrel and the portions of the recoil mechanism that get the greatest strain, still could be made of tough steel, while other parts of the gun and carriage could be constructed of the newer and lighter metals.

• • •

By reducing the weight of the shells used in this gun a greater portability would be obtained. Each type of shell is designed for use in a particular type of gun. Redesigning a gun in order to reduce its weight would necessitate redesigning the shell to be used in it. Or—the other way around—redesigning a shell in order to reduce its weight would necessitate redesigning the gun in which it was to be used.

Present-day artillery practice calls for a shell weighing in pounds about one-half of the cube of the bore of the gun in inches. By this rule any one can figure out that a 6-inch gun calls for a shell weighing about 108 pounds.. The shell, according to the artillerists' specifications, should be at least two calibers in length (12 inches) and not much more than four and a half calibers in length (27 inches.)

Let us assume that this shell, of dimensions stated above, has been cut in weight from 108 pounds to 50 or 60 pounds by the employment of lighter metals and in order to provide greater portability. The first thing that the artilleryman would discover after this reduction in weight would be the fact that the shell would not travel as far as the heavier shell, assuming that the initial velocity were the same in both cases. In order to obtain the same range with the lighter shell it would be necessary to use a more powerful charge. The lighter shell would have to be constructed, therefore, with strength enough to withstand this greater pressure within the gun's barrel.

• • •

A more powerful explosion within the breech of the gun would necessarily call for a stronger barrel and a stronger mechanism to take up the recoil. The whole idea of lighter guns and lighter shells, with the object of improved mobility and portability, therefore revolves about the question of redesigning both weapon and ammunition. This, it seems probable, sooner or later will be done. The fact that a more powerful explosion would be needed to send the lighter shell to a range equal to that of the heavier shell does not mean that a charge heavier in weight would be necessary. It might be imperative, however, to perfect some new type of concentrated explosive, light in weight, if this already has not been done.

The new lighter metals will not only simplify the design of the right type of gun but will open a new world of ballistics in the shell. Range of the shell, as discussed, will be only one of the factors involved. Another will concern the range of fragments as compared with the violence of the burst or the quantity of gas generated in the explosion. In 1918 the 155s were provided with two types of shells, one a cast shell giving more fragments and one a forged shell containing more powder. The last-named was preferred by artillery officers. Shrapnel uses lead bullets to maintain velocity. An aluminum shell would carry more bullets than a steel one.

Lighter guns, lighter shells, lighter trucks, and lighter vehicles of all sorts would mean a faster war, and, with other factors equal or nearly equal, victory for the side provided with these lighter vehicles, guns, and ammunition. Airplanes present a striking example of what has been done toward reducing weight. And modern automobiles are stronger than those of old types, although weighing in some cases little more than half as much.

As the development of the artillery weapon has been retarded by the horse and chariot influence, so the arm of the infantryman has been held to a point of ineffectiveness by ideas born generations ago.

• • •

The Springfield rifle of the army to all practical purposes on the battlefield is no more deadly than the Krag-Jorgensen rifle, the arm used by the regulars in the Spanish-American war forty years ago, and by European countries long before that. It has a somewhat greater range than the Krag and in other ways represents improvements, but in the hands of the average soldier the older weapon would be just about as good as the modern one.

In the World war it was demonstrated that rifle fire was virtually ineffective. The soldiers showed little or no fear of it.

It required machine gun bullets and the noise of machine gun bullets to stop them. How much more effective, then, against advancing infantrymen would be a larger-caliber machine gun, the firing of which and the flying bullets of which would sound much more terrifying in the ears of the enemy than the noises of the machine guns firing standard rifle cartridges? The army has perfected a .50-caliber machine gun for use against tanks and airplanes. This weapon could be adapted for use against infantry, and it is easy to understand how difficult it would be to make men advance through a barrage of .50-caliber machine gun bullets. The noise would be fearful and the effects on the men who were hit would be terrifying.

For the last four decades the standard rifle of the American army has been of .30 caliber. Prior to that time bullets of larger diameter were used. The effect of reducing the caliber and increasing the charge was to increase the range of the rifles. But in the World war, where the trenches of the opposing armies more often than not were no great distance apart, long-range rifle fire was rarely called for. When it was called for it was left to expert snipers to perform. In future wars there still will be a job for the sharpshooting rifle for long-range work, but in the main, as was the case in the World war, the most effective work of the riflemen will be done at relatively close quarters.

• • •

This brings up the idea that it would be advisable to increase the caliber of the common soldier's gun rather than decrease it to .276, which is the caliber of the new semi-automatic Garland rifle, recently adopted as an infantry arm. With increased bores for artillery weapons, it might not be amiss to perfect a suitable accompanying weapon for the infantry. Shall it be a stainless steel rifle firing a large-caliber aluminum alloy projectile?

It places no great strain upon the faculties to imagine the war of the future unrestricted in its combinations of mechanical apparatus; with tractors not limited in capacity by artillery of the horse-drawn era; with really terrifying barrages of 6, 8, or 9 inch shells instead of 3 or 4 inch shells; with .50-caliber machine guns instead of those of .30 caliber, spraying death at charging infantry, and with troops provided with rifles that actually are effective.

This all will depend, as pointed out before, upon the breaking away from ancient traditions.

Astronomers' 200 Inch "Eye"

UNQUESTIONABLY the largest precision instrument in the world will be the new 200 inch reflecting or mirror telescope now well on its way toward completion at the Mount Palomar Observatory in San Diego county, Cal. This telescope when completed in 1940 will allow astronomers to see objects 1,000,000,000 light years away, a light year being the distance traversed in one year by a beam of light whose speed is 186,000 miles per second.

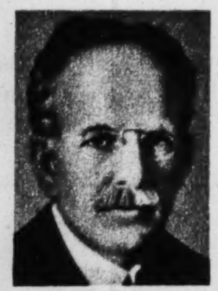
This project of building a 200 inch telescope was conceived in 1918 by the late Dr. George Ellery Hale, honorary director of the Mount Wilson Observatory, and the first director of the famous Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago.

The life story of Dr. Hale is the story of the rapid development of astro-physical observatories in this country, for under his intellectual guidance and through his gifted organizing ability America now possesses the finest astronomical observatories in the world.

In 1892 Dr. Hale heard of the existence of a pair of unusually good glass lenses designed for a 40 inch telescope. He went to Charles T. Yerkes, Chicago traction magnate, with news of this opportunity. Mr. Yerkes promised to purchase the lenses, a mounting for them, and finally an ornate building on Lake Geneva — the Yerkes Observatory. In 1906 Dr. Hale obtained $45,000 from John Hooker, a Los Angeles business man, for the now famous 100 inch Hooker reflector—the largest of its kind in the world. This instrument formed the nucleus around which Dr. Hale organized the Mount Wilson Observatory of international repute.

An article published by Dr. Hale in 1928 on "The Possibilities of Large Telescopes,'' brought fruitful results, for in this review he pointed out the urgent need for a 200 or 300 inch telescope. The International Education board of the Rockefeller Foundation appropriated $6,000,000 for the construction of a 200 inch reflecting telescope.

Palomar mountain was selected as an ideal location for this giant reflector because of good weather conditions and isolation. There is very little sky glare from light of surrounding cities and the temperature range is comparatively small. Mount Palomar is 6,000 feet high and is located 15 miles inland from the west coast, 90 miles from Los Angeles and 60 miles from San Diego.



Dr. G. E. Hale

A new community is being established on the 600 acre tract on Mount Palomar for the staf that is to operate and maintain the observatory. In addition to the main dome and several smaller ones, a power plant, radio station, million gallon water reservoir, houses for the staf, and an airplane landing field are under construction.

The construction of the 200 inch telescope has given rise to many vexing engineering problems, for the telescope together with the mounting weighs approximately 1,000,000 pounds. The tube that contains the mirror is 22 feet one inch in diameter and approximately 60 feet long. It is formed as a welded box structure consisting of two main rings tied together by struts. At the center of the tube is a square structure to which a yoke is connected that floats in oils. The great size and stiffness of the tube will permit an observer to be carried in a cartridge-shaped chamber, mounted at the end of the tube.

The new reflector contains a mirror instead of a lens. (The largest telescope with a lens is the 40 inch refractor of the Yerkes Observatory.) Light which strikes the mirror is reflected to a focus at the top of the tube, exactly 666 inches from the bottom. (Figure 1.) An auxiliary optical system will permit the light to be reflected to four main focal points, as desired, including an underground air-conditioned chamber.

The disk for this mirror, a large blank of specially prepared pyrex glass, has already been cast, annealed and shipped from Corning, New York, to California. The first job is to grind the back of the disk flat. Next the front of the disk must be ground to the shape of a special surface technically known as a "paraboloid of revolution."

A paraboloid of revolution of this size is very closely approximated by a section of a spherical cap. That is to say, if one pictures a thin spherical shell 2,664 inches in diameter, then this 200 inch mirror can be well approximated by a small section cut off the pole. This is illustrated in Figure 2. The center of the disk will be cut in about four inches, polished and touched up to within one-millionth of an inch. After receiving a uniform coating of aluminum, the disk becomes a concave mirror, ready for use.

How the mirror will function as a telescope is illustrated in Figure 1. Light from far distant stars will fall on the mirror surface and be reflected to the point B where images of the stars will be formed. This point is known as the principal focus. The chamber containing the observer is at A. Such a house will obstruct only a small percentage of the light. Electrical controls within easy reach will permit the observer to move the giant telescope to any part of the heavens and to observe celestial objects at A, visually, photographically, or with photo-electric devices.

• • •

In many kinds of work it is imperative to produce an image of the stars below the telescope mirror at C. For such experiments, provision is made to insert, electrically, a convex mirror in the position D as shown in Figure 1. The presence of this mirror will form an image of the sky at C. The dotted line indicates the direction taken by the light from D to C. Such an arrangement of mirrors is called the "Cassagrain mounting" after its discoverer.

The reasons for wanting a 200 inch telescope are manifold. Astronomers will be able to go twice as far into space as heretofore possible. The volume of space opened up for investigation will be 50 times as great as that partially explored in 1928. In view of the telescope's great light-gathering power, one of the most important tasks will be the study of the structure of the super-galaxies, for, according to astronomers, our solar system is part of an aggregation of stars known as the Milky Way galaxy and our galaxy is part of another super-galaxy.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Warm Days Bring New Problems

THE WARM weather that extends through August and into September is quite apt to bring with it problems of considerable importance to the average dog owner. As a rule most of these dog problems are due to carelessness. Probably the most serious of all is what one veterinarian calls "summer skin disease" or eczema.

Here are a few tips on dog care which may make it easier to avoid some of these troubles:

BATHING — Don't overbathe the dog with soap and water. . . . It removes the natural fat or oil from the skin, and causes it to get dry. This is apt to make the dog scratch himself a great deal. In some cases pets that are believed to have fleas actually are suffering from dry skin. When the dog's skin gets too dry small cracks may develop in it, opening the way for bacteria. Once this happens there may be irritation, inflamed places and complications.

SWIMMING — If your dog likes the water in hot weather let him go in occasionally or whenever he wants to. But don't turn the hose on your dog immediately after he has exercised on a hot day. The shock of cold water on a hot day may cause the animal to become ill. An occasional swim or romp in the water does not take the oil out of skin like a scrubbing with warm water and soap.

AUTOMOBILE RIDING — If you take your dog on an automobile trip and let him hang his head out of the window don't be surprised if he develops inflamed eyes or has a serious eye injury. It looks like a simple, harmless, habit, but some very serious eye injuries have resulted from it.

FLY BITES—Dogs in outdoor kennels usually are the ones that have the most trouble with fly bites. We have seen insects cause ugly sores on the dog's ears and above the eyes. To avoid this apply a liquid mosquito repellent such as a fisherman uses (containing tar, citronella, and other repellents) to the dog's coat, wherever needed. Or better yet use one of those repellents that is thick like an ointment and lasts longer.

MOSQUITO BITES—We never worried much about mosquito bites affecting a dog until we began to learn more about heartworm, the deadly disease that every dog owner fears. Dr. Edwin Reginald Blamey of the American Kennel Gazette recently pointed out that in recent years there has been an extraordinary spread of heartworm in this country. The developed larvae of the heartworm may be carried from one dog to another by several species of mosquitos. Repellents, either in liquid or thick form, may be used to keep mosquitoes away from a dog.

SUMMER ECZEMA—Two of the commonest causes of skin trouble (not including mange, which is caused by a parasite burrowing into the skin) are improper diet and worms. Improper diet includes many an error on the part of the dog owner. For example, the term means overfeeding so that the dog is much too fat during the summer, unbalanced diet, too much food for the amount of exercise a dog gets, giving a dog rich pastries or too many sweets, feeding a poorly made, cheap prepared food which causes intestinal disturbances, a diet that does not include vitamins, and similar factors. We notice that one of the first things a veterinarian may do in attacking a case of eczema is to put the dog on a complete change of diet. In some instances you can cure it by feeding nothing but a little chopped beef and raw chopped vegetables. If the dog is fat, cut down his weight. We have found a small dose of prepared yeast, added to the daily meals, very helpful in treating a dog. But the dog owner should see that his pet gets a thorough checkup for worms by a veterinarian and then follow the treatment prescribed.

During the summer your dog should have some vegetables in addition to whatever prepared foods, meat from the table, and other foods you give him. They are used as an auxiliary diet. It is important for dog owners to remember that vegetables are merely an auxiliary. (They provide bulk and roughage.) String beans, carrots, lettuce, cabbage, and tomatoes may be cooked, should be mashed and then added to the meat, the prepared dog food, the biscuits, the cooked beef from the table or whatever the owner is feeding.

How to Ride a Horse—Lesson No. 6

By CAPT. M. M. CORPENING
Formerly Riding Instructor, U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

GENERAL relaxation is simply a byproduct of practice and correct training. Mentioned emphatically in earlier articles, it is essential in jumping. In the adjoining photograph the correct position for ordinary jumping or hunting is demonstrated.

This form can only be obtained by flexibility and relaxation. Note particularly the seat, close to saddle, no weight on back part or cantle; body inclined far forward from hips only; hands, elbows, shoulders softly relaxed, heels down, calves tight against horse's sides. Absolutely no pull or jerk should be inflicted on horse's mouth, yet a gentle "feel" should be maintained cautiously at all times.

• • •

In practicing the jumps it is wise to begin with very low hurdles, preferably brush, for the purpose of gaining confidence. It is advisable in the beginning to overemphasize leaning forward. Some students find it helpful to lean far forward and place the hands on each side of the horse's neck, keeping them there from the time the jump is approached until after horse has landed. Do anything to prevent jerking horse's mouth.

A good way to gain confidence and suppleness is to take several jumps fifty or sixty feet apart without holding the reins at all. Put some kind of fence or barrier on each side of jumps to form a chute to prevent animal from running around hurdles. As confidence is gained try blindfolding and exercising while going through chute. For instance, hold arms straight out and rotate body from right to left and back, twisting at waistline as much as possible. Work all the time on keeping lower legs in place, with heels down and back together, with constant effort to flex the back.

The belt line must absorb the shock and not a pull on the reins. As practice progresses it will be found that a horse takes the high jumps with more ease for rider than the low ones. He finds it easier to judge his stride. Remember, a rider never takes a horse over a jump—the horse always takes the rider over; so make it easy for him.

The Focke helicopter at rest after one of its experimental flights. No attempt has been made as yet to cover the outriggers or to streamline the plane in order to increase the efficiency of its performance.

CERTAINLY the most remarkable airplane in the world today — the plane that gives the most promise for safety, ultimate economy, and general all-around usefulness for the vast majority of persons who never could fly high-speed craft with their proportionally high landing speeds — is the Focke helicopter.

From all accounts it is the perfect airplane—in embryo. It takes off in a vertical ascent. It hovers stock still at the height chosen by its pilot. It flies backward—actually tail first—or it can fly sidewise.

In case of motor failure it becomes an autogiro and glides to earth at a steep or shallow angle of descent under control of its pilot. In landing with motor on, the machine sinks vertically at any speed desired.

This remarkable airplane is sustained and flown by means of airfoils or wings that move through the air. This advancement of the theory of the autogiro was achieved by Prof. Heinrich Focke, chief engineer at the Focke-Wolfe airplane plant in Germany.

Five general requirements were set up by Focke and his assistants. They were: (1) The possibility of making emergency landings in case of motor failure; (2) good controlability and stability; (3) general reliability; (4) simplicity of essential controls; (5) performance rivaling that of fixed-wing airplanes.

The first problem was that of determining just what lifting air screw would be used. The decision to use two rotors side by side, with separate hubs and separate carrying structures, was made in the interests of controlability and stability. The rotors turn in opposite directions, canceling out torque effects destructive in earlier helicopter designs.

Control itself was a difficult problem. Professor Focke attempted to utilize ailerons, rudder, and elevators, but found that they were entirely inadequate. Ultimately the solution was found in changing the angle incidence of the rotor blades at the hubs. Motion in any direction is achieved in this way, eliminating necessity for a tractor propeller such as used in a fixed-wing plane or autogiro.

The methods of applying the control forces for the Focke helicopter are exactly the same as those used by airplane pilots in flying the normal fixed-wing machine—by throttle, stick, and rudder bar. Tests show that the same control is perfectly adequate for flight as a helicopter or autogiro.

A word of explanation here. As a helicopter all the engine power save that used for turning a cooling fan is applied to the air screws or rotor blades to produce motion either vertically or in any horizontal direction. As an autogiro the machine has no power applied to the blades. They continue to turn and to generate lift because of "self-turning" forces, as in the conventional autogiro. The Focke machine utilizes the autogiro principle only for landing without motor—a distinct safety improvement over earlier helicopters.

The helicopter was evolved from a flying model powered by a 7/10-horsepower two-cylinder motor. Later full-sized motors, rotors, and gears were attached to a stock light plane fuselage and the machine "flown" many times while held captive by short cables. The first free flight was made on June 26, 1936.

To prove the craft's ability to perform without benefit of wind Professor Focke had the machine demonstrated in a closed arena. It rose vertically, flew the length of the hall, turned in its own length, flew backward, hovered near the rafters and then just a foot above ground.

Although the present plane has excessive weight and no streamlining, it has a faster rate of climb than the average fixed-wing plane or autogiro of similar power. "Cleaned up," it should have a top speed comparable to modern ships.

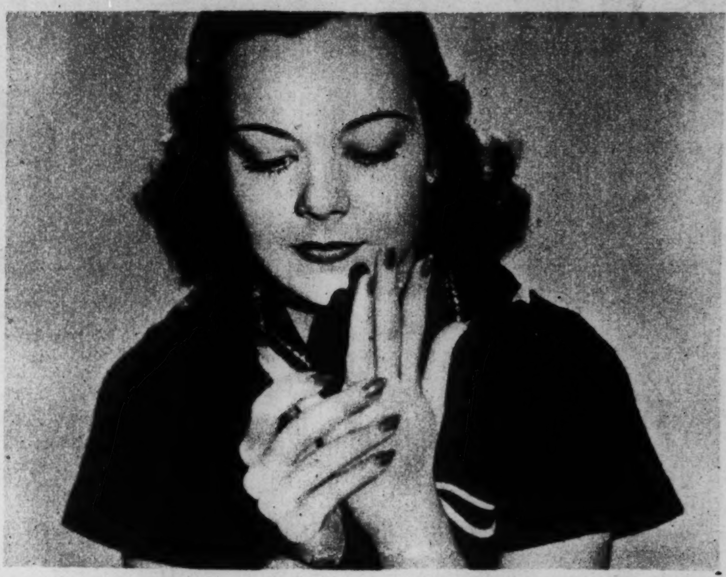
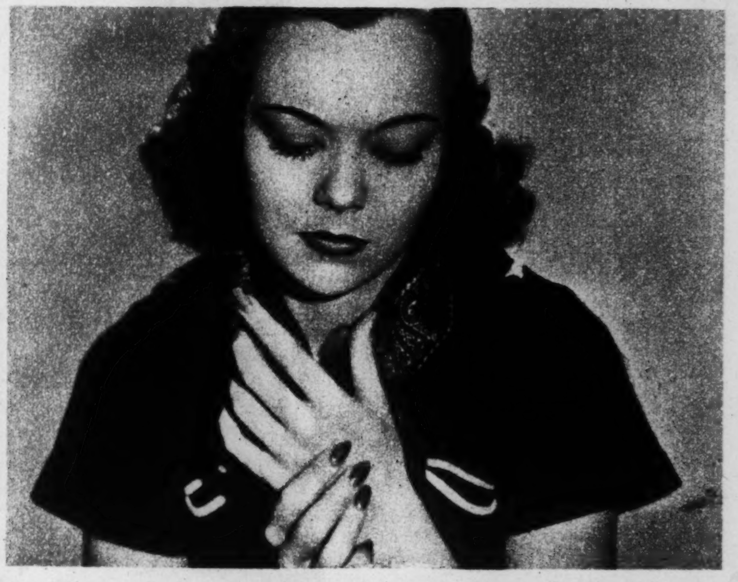
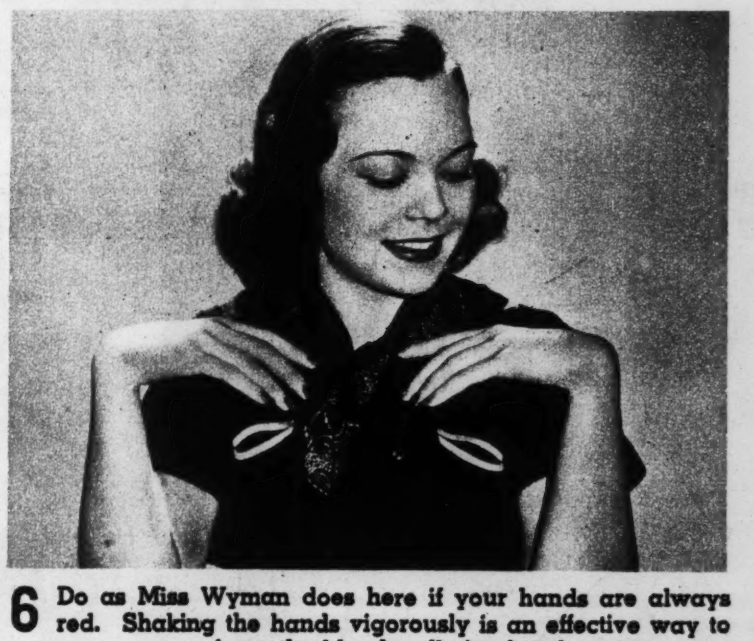
Smooth and shapely are the hands of Jane Wyman of the movies. Miss Wyman follows a hand-beauty program to keep them lovely. (Scotty Welbourne photos.)



4 This is a simple but sure-fire exercise to keep hands youthful. Each finger is massaged carefully at its base with an easy, but firm rotary motion.



5 The same rotary motion, thumb on the palm and fingers over the back of the hand, is used to improve circulation and encourage shapeliness.



6 Do as Miss Wyman does here if your hands are always red. Shaking the hands vigorously is an effective way to keep the blood well circulated.

It Doesn't Take a Palmist to Read Their Story if They're Neglected

By ELEANOR NANGLE

DON'T THINK you are doing right by your hands if you merely keep them well manicured. That, as the old saying goes, isn't the half of it, dearie. Hand grooming is one thing. The preservation of what we can only call the youth of your hands is something else again.

Hands express character, as every one knows. No matter what you think about palmistry you can't fail, if you're mature, to have noted that the hands of people you know are expressive of their tastes and personality. Hands tell other tales too. Tales of neglect, of slovenliness, of age. Hand exercise and hand massage are the two most important secrets of hand youth. Fingers are kept flexible if the circulation of the blood is kept normal. Hands are red—or redden easily in cold weather—if the circulation is below par.

Massage of the fingers at the base is excellent. So, especially if the joints are thickening, is vigorous massage of the joints at the tip and middle of the finger. Shaking is simple as can be and wonderfully efficient.

The shape of your hands does not matter nowadays. When grandma was a girl it was the thing to have small, shell pink and obviously helpless hands. The hand that captures admiration today is the characterful hand, not necessarily small. It is more often large, and strong looking, with flexible fingers, beautifully groomed. Fingers can be short or long, slim or sturdy. So long as they are vital looking nothing else matters. Vital looking hands are well-exercised hands that are used with infinite grace.

If you want beautiful hands, shake hands with yourself—and we mean that literally. Then all the rest of the world will want to shake hands with you.

A Hit Menu for Pinch-Hit Cook

By MARY MEADE

When a husband or a bachelor cooks, he's smart if he chooses an all-in-one dish menu such as this one. It includes lamb chops, potatoes, carrots, and pineapple slices.

LUCKY is the woman whose husband or youngster likes to cook an occasional dinner to surprise her when she's late returning from shopping, from the office, or from a bridge party. Turn about's fair play, and she's going to be as pleased to loll in the living room with the paper as the other person is to monkey around in the kitchen for a change.

I don't think it's a lack of originality which makes man so sure to cook steak and potatoes, and little else, for supper. I think it's just that steak and potatoes are the simplest route he knows to a satisfying meal. A lamb chop grill is just as easy to prepare, and with a vegetable salad and simple fruit dessert, it makes a complete dinner.

• • •

Thick lamb loin chops, previously cooked carrots, boiled potatoes, and slices of pineapple go into the grill. The food is arranged on the broiling rack, and chops and pineapple are brushed lightly with French dressing. Into the broiling oven goes the lot, to cook for seven minutes or so. Then the food must be turned over, the other sides of chops and pineapple treated with dressing, and another seven minutes allowed for cooking. Now the dinner should be ready to serve. This all-in-one-dish meal is a man cook's delight, but it's also an idea for the woman cook when she's looking for suggestions for a hurry-up dinner.

When little daughter gets dinner, she often wants to bake cup cakes or cookies for dessert. The kind of supper she likes best to prepare may consist of scalloped ham and potatoes, buttered carrots, tomato and cucumber salad, cookies she's made herself, and fruit. The little girl in the picture is making chocolate chip cookies.

A little girl who gets supper when her mother is busy with something else, likes to bake cookies for dessert. Chocolate chip cookies like these aren't hard to mix and bake.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

2 eggs
⅔ cup sugar
½ cup shaved unsweetened chocolate
1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat the eggs and add sugar and grated chocolate. Mix flour, salt and baking powder. Combine with first mixture and add vanilla. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet, two inches apart. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes.

Another very good kind of cookies which a little girl can make is a chewy brownie type, called caramel squares.

CARAMEL SQUARES

1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup chopped nuts
½ teaspoon vanilla

Heat sugar and butter together in a saucepan until the sugar is melted and the mixture has taken on a fudgy appearance. Do not boil. Remove from heat and cool. Beat in the egg, creaming well. Stir in flour which has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Fold in nuts and vanilla. Spread the mixture in a greased 9 inch pan and bake at 300 degrees, slow oven, for 20 minutes. Cut in squares and let cool in the pan.
